ROLE PLAYING IN TOLKIEN'S WORLD

INTRODUCTION

The Middle-earth Role Playing system (MERP) is designed to introduce people to fantasy role playing (FRP) in J.R.R. Tolkien's Middle-earth. It is suitable for those who have never before played a fantasy role playing game, as well as more experienced gamers who are looking for a realistic, easy to play fantasy role playing (FRP) system designed for relatively low level adventures (1st-10th levels). It contains complete rules for handling most of the common situations that arise in FRP games, and a variety of tables that add a great deal of flavor and detail to a game without decreasing playability.

J.R.R. Tolkien's Middle-earth provides an ideal setting for a fantasy role playing game. It is a reflection of our world as we perceive it, as well as a construction of mythology by a great and learned man. Middle-earth is itself undying, living in the minds of all who tread its paths. Each reader adds to it his or her own vision. It is only natural, then, to use this incredible foundation in a fantasy role playing context. In this way those close to Middle-earth can experience it in a new way, filling the gaps and discovering the mysteries that have always concerned them.

The Middle-earth Role Playing system (MERP) is supported by a variety of play aids. Such products can decrease the time and effort required for the creation of an exciting game, and increase the amount of realism and detail obtained during play. These play aids include I.C.E.'s Middle-earth Campaign Modules, which provide a wealth of material concerning specific sections of Middle-earth. I.C.E.'s Middle-earth Adventure Modules provide specific areas and sites for adventures that are complete and ready to run.

In addition, I.C.E.'s Rolemaster Systems provide an expanded combat system, an expanded spell system, a more flexible character development system, and guidelines for a campaign game or larger scale game. These systems allow MERP to be expanded to handle higher level characters and to increase the variations and options available to the Gamemaster and the players.

WHAT IS A FANTASY ROLE PLAYING GAME?

The easiest way to understand a role playing game is to think of it as a work of fiction such as a novel (or a play, or a movie, etc.). In a novel the author determines the setting of the novel along with the actions of all of the characters and thus the plot; however, in a role playing game, the author (called the Gamemaster) only determines the setting and some of the basic elements of the plot. The actions of the characters (and thus the plot) are determined during the game by the game "players" and the Gamemaster. Each of the "players" controls the actions of his "player character", while the Gamemaster controls the actions of all of the other characters (called non-player characters). Thus each player assumes the role of (role plays) his character and the Gamemaster role plays the non-player characters. In other words a fantasy role playing game is a "living" novel where interaction between the actors (characters) creates a constantly evolving plot.

The Gamemaster also makes sure all of the characters perform actions which are possible only within the framework of the setting that he has developed (his "fantasy" world). This is where the "fantasy" part and the "game" part come into the definition of a fantasy role playing game. A Gamemaster creates a setting which is not limited by the realities of our world, and thus the setting falls into the genre of fiction known as "fantasy". However, the Gamemaster usually uses a set of "rules" which define and control the physical realities of his fantasy world. The use of these rules turns the process of creating the role playing "novel" into a game.

Thus, a fantasy role playing (FRP) game is set in a fantasy world whose reality is not defined by our world, but instead is defined by a set of game rules. The creation of the plot of a FRP game is an ongoing process which both the Gamemaster and players may affect, but which neither controls. The plot is determined through the interaction of the characters with one another and the FRP game's setting.

Since fantasy role playing is a game it should be interesting, exciting, and challenging. Thus one of the main objectives of a FRP game is for each player to take on the persona of his (or her) player character, reacting to situations as the character would. This is the biggest difference between FRP games and other games such as chess or bridge. A player's character is not just a piece or a card; in a good FRP game a player places himself in his character's position. The Gamemaster uses detailed descriptions, drawings and maps to help the players visualize the physical settings and other characters. In addition each player character should speak and react to the other players as his character would. All of this creates an air of involvement, excitement, and realism (in a fantasy setting of course).

The Gamemaster has been described as the limited "author" of the FRP game; actually, he functions as more than this. The Gamemaster not only describes everything which occurs in the game as if it were really happening to the player characters, but he also acts as a referee or judge for situations in which the actions attempted by characters must be resolved. The Gamemaster has to do a lot of preparation before the game is actually played. He must develop the setting and scenarios for the play of the game, using the game rules, and either material of his own design or commercially available play aids. Until the players actually encounter certain situations during play, much material concerning the setting and the scenario is known only to the Gamemaster. In addition, the Gamemaster plays the roles of all of the characters and creatures who are not player characters, but nonetheless move and act within the game setting.

The players each develop and create a character using the rules of the game and the help of the Gamemaster (for the character's background and history). Each player character has certain numerical ratings for his attributes, capabilities and skills. These ratings depend upon how the player develops his character using the rules of the game. Ratings determine how much of a chance the character has of accomplishing certain actions. Many of the actions that characters attempt during play have a chance of success and a chance of failure. Therefore, even though actions are initiated by the Gamemaster and the players during the game, the success or failure of these actions is determined by the rules, the characters' ratings, and the random factor of a roll of the dice.

Finally, a fantasy role playing game deals with adventure, magic, action, danger, combat, treasure, heroes, villains, life and death. In short, in a FRP game the players leave the real world behind for a while, and enter a world where the fantastic is real and reality is limited only by the imagination of the Gamemaster and the players themselves.

ADVENTURING IN MIDDLE-EARTH

You can be an Elf, or a Hobbit, or a Man, or even an Orc with Middle-earth Role Playing (MERP). You can eat cakes in the Shire, peruse books in Rivendell, or fight Dragons in the Withered Heath. Rather than simply reading about the servants of the Evil One, you can do something to stop them. Battle the Black Riders or spy on the men of Mordor — whatever you think it takes to accomplish your mission. But remember, dangers abound!

MERP stirs your imagination and transforms your dreams into action. By letting you take part in the ongoing drama, this game lets you step out of this world and stride boldly into Middle-earth.

THE PLACE CALLED MIDDLE-EARTH

Middle-earth (or “Endor”) is the Middle Land, a continent in the world called “Arda” (“The Realm”). Created by Eru — the One — as a land for his Children, Middle-earth is a magical place populated by all sorts of special folk and strange beasts.

In Middle-earth, immortal Elves, stalwart Dwarves, and simple Hobbits live amidst a varied lot of mortal Men, struggling to survive and prosper in the face of myriad threats: Orcs and Wargs, Trolls and Giants, Wights and Wraiths, Dragons and Fell Beasts, and of course the Lord of the Rings. Awesome incantations mold the landscape and affect the weather, while Rings of Power guard magical realms — or torture souls and drive Free Folk into Darkness.

However, Middle-earth also resembles our Old World, for the land of Endor shares most of the woes and wonders associated with the younger “world of men.” Greed, avarice, prejudice, hate, and fear all stand in the way of happiness. The ongoing struggle of Good versus Evil and the tests of Fate dictate the fortunes of the enslaved and free alike.

This is a setting ideally suited to heroic drama. It beckons brave, inquisitive, adventurous souls to undertake quests of fame or fortune, or to endeavor to rescue unfortunate souls from the heinous grip of the omnipresent Shadow.

So, by Eru, go forth and try your hand at the pleasures and pitfalls of MERP! And may Eru be with you.

A SAMPLE FRP ADVENTURE

This section is an example of a fantasy role playing adventure. The adventure is presented in the form of the dialogue between the players and the Gamemaster, with other actions and information in italics. This example does not detail some of the game mechanics and rules used to resolve actions. Examples of these mechanisms and rules are presented in later sections.

The player characters are traveling on foot from Rivendell to Bree along the Great East Road carrying a shipment of fine Dorwinion wine and some Gort (an herb). The characters are:

- 1) Boah Agonar, a male Elven Mage who dresses strangely.
- 2) Ayitula Chinta Kari, a female Umli Animist with certain fanatic tendencies.
- 3) Naug Zigildûn, a Dwarven Warrior of unrevealed gender (to many, female Dwarves appear to be male).
- 4) Drogo Nimblefingers Bracegriddle, a male Hobbit Scout; rude people might call him a thief.

Any similarity between these characters and any persons (real or FRP), living or dead, may be pure coincidence.

Near nightfall about 30 miles out of Rivendell in the Trollshaws, the players decide to camp for the night. As the group leaves the road and enters the rough terrain to the north, a light rain begins to fall. After about 100 yards, they come upon a small ruined tower as evening approaches. The Group does not know it but 3 Orcs are in the cellar of the tower and are just becoming active as night falls. The following dialogue is an example of how part of a fantasy role playing game might proceed.

Gamemaster(GM): "You come to the top of a rise and see below you the ruins of a small tower in a shallow valley. The tower still has part of its roof standing. A small stream runs through the valley and there are the usual shrubs and trees — pines, oaks, and the like." the GM sketches out the valley and its contents on a sheet of paper.

While the GM sketches the physical situation, the players discuss among themselves what to do. They decide that their general course of action will be to check out the tower as a shelter for the night and possibly a little adventure. However, each player must take separate action with his character to accomplish this objective, with coordination and cooperation handled by limited communication between the characters.

GM: "What's your plan, and how do you each prepare?"

Drogo: "We are planning to scout out the tower for possible shelter. I will draw my short sword and move ahead of the others and scout out our route of approach, using available cover and moving as quietly as I can."

Naug: "I take out my crossbow and load it. I will cover Drogo and move up when he signals."

Chinta Kari: "I draw my mace and shield and will move forward when Naug does."

Agonar: "I prepare and cast a Shield spell." He rolls two special dice which together give a result between 01 and 100. "My casting roll is a 28." He succeeds.

GM: "Drogo, make a maneuver roll to see how well you sneak up on the tower." He rolls a 47 (on the 01-00 dice), the GM rolls a 24 orientation roll for the Orcs, indicating to the GM that nothing is noticed by either side. "You succeed and notice nothing unusual. You are now 10 feet from the tower and have a good idea of the layout. The rest of the group may move up if you signal."

Drogo: "I back up slightly so that there is a tree between me and the tower, and wave the rest of the group forward."

Rest of Group: "We carefully move up."

GM: "Each of you make a maneuver roll." They roll 86, 35, and 46; the GM rolls a 62 for the Orcs; neither side notices anything but the Orcs are becoming more active and may move up the stairs and outside soon. "You all move up and notice nothing unusual."

GM: "Here is a sketch of the tower and the immediate vicinity. The tower is two storied and square. The side facing you has collapsed along with the second floor, but the other three walls and the roof are still relatively intact. The roof does have holes in it. The wall opposite you has a hole where the main door used to be. You can see a lot of rubble but nothing else inside."

The players (or GM) then mark their positions on the sketch.

GM: "Everyone decide your action for this round."

Drogo: "I very slowly move up to the wall on the right hand side of the tower and look in, using the wall for cover."

Naug: "I move up behind Drogo with my crossbow held ready."

Chinta Kari: "I move up with Naug."

Agonar: "I move up with Chinta."

GM: "Everyone make a maneuver roll." They roll 24, 89, 93, and 62; the Orcs roll a 65, and are still preparing to come up the stairs. "You all move to the end of the right hand wall and look around it. You see a 15' by 15' interior with lots of rubble consisting of rocks, timbers, ruined furniture and other junk. There is what looks to be a large chest (about 4'x2'x2') under the rubble directly across from you, near the end of the left hand wall. You also see what looks like stairs leading down from the far left corner. What do you do this round?"

Droggo: "I move very slowly into the tower along the inside of the right hand wall watching the stairs."

Chinta Kari: "I cross to the left hand wall and begin removing the rubble from the chest, searching for any magic items or loot".

Naug: "I aim between the stairs and the main door, so that I can fire at either if something happens."

Agonar: "I prepare my Levitate spell."

GM: "Chinta Kari and Droggo, make maneuver rolls." Rolling well they roll 78 and 94; the Orcs roll a 73 and have finished getting ready and are starting up the stairs. "Droggo, you notice nothing but you have quietly moved around to the main door. Chinta Kari, you moved over to the pile of rubble containing the chest and have removed the rubble and found nothing. What do you do this round?"

Agonar: "I cast my Levitate spell and start to move up towards the roof." He rolls a 54, and succeeds in levitating.

Naug: "I remain ready to fire."

Droggo: "I peek out the main door and listen for any noises."

Chinta Kari: "I try to open the chest."

GM: "It is really starting to get dark. Agonar, you rise about 4' this round, presenting a tempting target to any missile fire. Chinta Kari you realize that the chest is rusted but not locked; it may make noise if you open it. Droggo, you see this when you peek out the door." The GM hands Droggo a note saying, you see nothing unusual outside, but you hear a slight clank down the stairs. "What do you do this round?" He rolls and determines that the Orcs are coming up the stairs.

Chinta Kari: "I open the chest very, very quietly and look inside."

Droggo: "I duck behind the pile of rubble next to the door and hide."

Agonar: "I continue levitating to the roof, watching out for Shards (a mythical monster that terrifies Agonar)".

Naug: "I continue to cover the stairs and door."

GM: "Chinta Kari, make a roll." She rolls a 12. "You open the chest but it makes a creaking noise, you see a rusty dagger and a small box inside. Agonar, you are 14' up and see no Shards. However, you, Naug, and Droggo all see three Orcs dressed in rigid leather and carrying short swords and equipment come up the stairs and turn to face Chinta Kari, who does not notice them. Naug you may fire."

Naug: "I fire at the largest one." He rolls a 92 and refers to the Missile attack table, giving the Orc 21 hits and a "D" Puncture critical. He rolls a 70 and the Orc is shot through the neck and dies (a really great shot).

GM: "What do you plan to do this round?"

Agonar: "I prepare a spell, and yell: watch out Chinta, Orcs!!!!."

Naug: "I drop my crossbow, and draw my battle-axe as I move towards Chinta. I scream, 'Come on and die you Orcish pig dogs!!!!'"

Droggo: "I continue to hide, with my short sword ready."

Chinta Kari: "Since I don't notice the Orcs, I try to take the small box from the chest and put it into my cloak without anyone seeing me do it."

The GM rolls to help determine a reaction for the two remaining Orcs. He rolls a 06 and a 91. One Orc decides to run. One decides to kill the puny human who has her back to him. The Gamemaster makes perception rolls for Agonar, Naug, and Droggo; they do not notice Chinta Kari taking the small box.

GM: "One Orc turns and begins to run out the main door. The other drops his equipment and charges towards Chinta Kari, yelling and brandishing his short sword. Chinta Kari, you succeed in your action this round, but you hear running behind you and shouts from your friends. Droggo, you may take a swing at the Orc as he exits."

Droggo: "I swing at him as he runs past."

He rolls a 02 and fumbles his short sword, he rolls a 49 and drops his weapon.

GM: "Amazing move Droggo, the Orc doesn't even notice you and keeps going. Naug, you and the Orc have reached Chinta Kari, and may attack next round. Chinta Kari, you are fully aware of what is happening. What do you all do now?"

Droggo: "I pick up my short sword."

Agonar: "I cast my Sleep spell at the Orc to try and save Chinta. I have only prepared for one round so I have a -15 modification to my attack."

Chinta Kari: "Since I am not very good in combat, I drop and pull the chest over me." The chest is big enough for her to fit inside.

Naug: "I swing at the Orc and try to cut him in half."

GM: "Agonar's spell is cast first, then Chinta Kari will maneuver to pull the chest over her in time, then the Orc, who is quicker than Naug, will attack Chinta Kari, and finally Naug will attack the Orc. Droggo is out of action while recovering his weapon."

Agonar rolls a 68 attack, the Orc rolls a 17 Resistance Roll and goes to sleep. Chinta Kari drops but would not have avoided the Orc's attack if Agonar had not put him to sleep. Naug follows through on his attack on the now sleeping Orc and gives him 40 hits, an "E" Slash critical and a "C" Crush critical, resulting in an unconscious Orc with a broken leg. The Orc and the chest fall on Chinta Kari giving her 5 hits and an "A" Unbalance critical, which gives her 4 more hits and stuns her for 1 round.

The adventure would continue with the group having the options of exploring the rest of the now deserted tower, chasing the Orc (who may be going for help), leaving the area, or some other action or combination of actions. Naug and Agonar will receive lots of experience points for their spells and kills, and Droggo eventually manages to recover his short sword but not his self-esteem. Chinta Kari may get a big surprise when she opens the small box she got without the rest of the group noticing (it has a poison needle trap on its latch which will strike her unless she is able to detect the trap and avoid setting it off).

HOW TO PLAY: THE RULES AND GUIDELINES

1.0 INTRODUCTION

Most fantasy role playing games need “rules” (or guidelines) to define and control the physical realities of the world in which adventures may take place. Ideally, such rules are able to handle most of the common situations that arise in a FRP game without detracting from the flavor and detail of the plot or setting of the game.

This specific set of rules handles the physical realities of people, places and things in J.R.R. Tolkien’s Middle-earth. Sections 2 and 3 handle character creation, development, and capabilities. Section 4 details most of the rules that affect the Gamemaster’s task of setting up and managing a world system (The Setting). Sections 5 and 6 outline how to resolve commonly occurring actions and activity during the players’ adventures. Finally, Section 7 provides a variety of lists, tables, and record sheets that provide mechanisms for adding flavor and detail to a game without decreasing playability.

The Gamemaster and players should keep in mind that these “rules” are really only guidelines to aid in the creation and running of a fantasy role playing game. The Gamemaster should feel free to modify these rules to fit his (or her) view or style of role playing, and the players should realize that the Gamemaster is the final authority when it comes to rules interpretations or changes.

On the other hand, these rules and the Gamemaster’s decisions concerning them are the only guide that the players have to their characters’ capabilities and the reality of Middle-earth. So the Gamemaster must be consistent and even-handed in his decisions or the players will lose the trust and confidence in him that is necessary for a truly enjoyable and satisfying role playing game.

1.1 LEARNING TO USE MERP

The Gamemaster should first skim the rules to get an overall view of the system, then he should read all of the rules thoroughly. If a section is not understood immediately, it should be marked and referred to again after all of the rules have been read. Frequent examples are included to aid in absorbing the rules. The Gamemaster need not memorize or fully analyze the significance of all of the rules at first. The rules are organized in such a fashion that many situations can be handled by referring to specific rules sections when they first arise.

The players should first read Section 1 and 2. Then they should generate a character by following the procedure and examples outlined in detail in Section 3, referring to parts of Section 2 for explanation of the various aspects of a character. Finally they should read Section 6 so that they will understand what their options are in a tactical (usually combat) situation. It is not necessary for the players to read Sections 4 or 5, since they are concerned with how the Gamemaster can handle the setting of the game, the plot elements, and other factors.

1.2 DEFINITIONS AND CONVENTIONS

The majority of unique terms found in the Middle-earth Role Playing system and Tolkien’s works are not described below; rather they are usually described when they are used in the text. The terms defined below are frequently used or they are very important for using and understanding MERP.

DICE ROLLING CONVENTIONS —

As mentioned under the “Roll” definition, each die used in MERP is a 20-sided die which gives a result between 0 and 9. If two of these dice are used, a variety of results can be obtained:

1-100 Roll — Most rolls in MERP are “1-100” rolls (also called “D100” rolls). When both dice are rolled together and one die is treated as the “ten’s” die and the other as the “one’s” die, a random result between 01 and 00 is achieved (“00” is used as 100 not 0).

Open-ended Roll — Many 1-100 rolls are “open-ended”. Most of the time open-ended rolls yield a result between 01 and 100, but sometimes they yield results that are less than 01 or greater than 100. Some common rolls which are open-ended are all attack rolls, all maneuver rolls, orientation rolls, perception rolls, and encounter rolls. Rolls that are not open-ended include critical strikes rolls, stat rolls, rolls to learn spell lists, and rolls for background options. If a roll is open-ended:

An initial 1-100 roll over 95 calls for a second 1-100 roll to be made and added to the first roll. If the second roll is also over 95, a third roll is made and added to the sum of the first two results. This process is continued until a roll under 96 occurs. The total obtained by this process is the result of the “open-ended” roll (high). Theoretically there is no limit as to how big the total of such a roll could get.

An initial 1-100 roll under 06 calls for a second 1-100 roll to be made and subtracted from the first roll. If the second roll is over 95, a third roll is made and subtracted from the total of the first two results. This process is continued until a roll under 96 occurs. The total obtained by this process is the result of the “open-ended” roll (low). Theoretically there is no limit as to how small the total of such a roll could get.

1-10 Roll — In instances when a result (roll) between 1 and 10 is required, only one die is rolled. This gives a result between 0 and 9, but the 0 is treated as a 10. Such a roll is referred to as “1-10” or “D10”.

1-5 Roll — Roll one die, divide by 2, and round up.

5-50 Roll — Roll 1-10 five times and sum the results.

Other rolls — Any other rolls are variants of the above.

Aman: The continent west of Middle-earth across the Great Sea. It contains Valinor (the home of the Valar and the many Elves) and Halls of Awakening (the place of the dead).

Arda: (The Place) The entire world created by Eru through his servants the Valar, including Middle-earth and Aman.

Campaign: An ongoing fantasy role playing game which takes place as a series of connected adventures, with respect to both time and circumstance.

Chance: Often in MERP an action or activity has a "chance" of succeeding or occurring, and this chance is usually given in the form of # %. This means that if a roll (1–100) is made and the result is less than #, then the action or activity succeeds (or occurs); otherwise it fails.

Channeling: One of the realms of magic; a complete description is given in Section 4.52.

Critical Strike: Damage other than just hits which results from an attack.

Eru: (Ilúvatar) The God and creator of Middle-earth through his servants, the Valar.

Essence: One of the realms of magic; a complete description is given in Section 4.51.

Fourth Age: The fourth recorded age of Middle-earth, beginning when the Three Rings passed over the sea (after the destruction of the One Ring and Sauron).

Fumble: An especially ineffective attack which yields a result that is disadvantageous to the attacker.

Gamemaster: The Gamesmaster, judge, referee, dungeonmaster, etc. The person responsible for giving life to a FRP game by creating the setting, world events and other key ingredients. He/she interprets situations and rules, controls non-player characters, and resolves conflicts.

Group: A collection of player characters.

Hits: Accumulated pain and bleeding, that can lead to shock and unconsciousness (also called Concussion Hits). Each character can take a certain number of hits before he passes out (determined by his Body Development).

Level: A Character's level is a measure of his current stage of skill development, and usually is representative of his capabilities and power.

Maia: Lesser gods who tended Arda under the direction of the Valar. They included Sauron and probably the Istari (Gandalf, Saruman, Radagast, and two other "wizards").

Maneuver: An action performed by a character that requires unusual concentration, concentration under pressure, or a risk (e.g., climbing a rope, balancing on a ledge, picking a lock, etc.). Maneuvers requiring movement are "Moving Maneuvers", and other maneuvers are called "Static Maneuvers".

Morgoth: (Melkor) The renegade Vala (see Valar below) who coveted lordship over the world. He dominated Northern Middle-earth during the First Age, until he was overthrown and cast into the void by the other Valar and their host. Morgoth was the embodiment and focus of darkness — evil incarnate.

Melee: Hand-to-hand combat (i.e., combat not using projectiles, spells, or missile weapons).

Middle-earth: (Endor or Endorë) One of the continents of Arda. The action and events found in The Hobbit and The Lord of the Rings are focused in Western Middle-earth during the Third Age.

Non-Player Character: A being in a fantasy role playing game whose actions are not controlled by a player, but instead are controlled by the Gamemaster.

Open-ended Roll: See the Roll definition and the "Dice Rolling Conventions" at the end of this section.

Parry: The use of part of a character's offensive capability to affect one opponent's attack.

Player: A participant in a fantasy role playing game who controls one character, his player character.

Player Character: A character whose actions and activities are controlled by a player (as opposed to the Gamemaster).

Power Points: A number which indicates how many spells a character may intrinsically cast each day (i.e., between periods of rest).

Profession: (Character Class) A character's profession is a reflection of his training and thought patterns; in game terms, it affects how much effort is required to develop skill in various areas of expertise.

Resistance Roll: A dice roll which determines whether or not a character successfully resists the effect of a spell, poison, disease, or some other form of adversity.

Roll: In MERP two different colored 20-sided dice are used to resolve any activity requiring a "Roll" (such dice are available in most hobby and toy stores). Each of these dice has two sets of the numbers 0, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, and 9. These dice can be used to obtain a variety of results. These results are described after the definitions under "Dice Rolling Conventions".

Round: The time (10 seconds) required to perform one MERP action.

Sauron: The Dark Lord, the Shadow, the Lord of the Rings, a Maia (lesser god) who served Morgoth early in the First Age. In the Second and Third Ages he forged the One Ring and cast a shadow of evil, corruption, and destruction over much of Middle-earth. The Third Age ended after the destruction of his Ring and he was "banished" from Middle-earth.

Session: A single sitting of game adventure. A number of sessions form a campaign.

Second Age: The second recorded age of Middle-earth, beginning after the overthrow of Morgoth with the founding of the Grey Havens and Lindon. It ended when Elendil and Gil-gilad overthrew Sauron and Isildur took the One Ring.

Song, The: The Ainulindalë, Eru's Great Music sung by the Valar and Maia which created and shaped the World and its inhabitants.

Spell List: A collection of related spells which are organized according to level. A character who has "learned" a spell list is able to cast a spell from that list if its level is less than or equal to his own experience level.

Stat: One of the six physical and mental characteristics which influence how effectively a character is able to perform most actions and activities.

Skill: Training in an area which influences how effectively a character is able to perform a particular action or activity. "Skill Rank" is a measure of the effectiveness of a specific skill.

Third Age: The Third recorded age of Middle-earth, beginning with Sauron's defeat as a result of the Last Alliance of Men and Elves. It ended after the destruction of the One Ring when the last of the Keepers of the Ring passed over the Sea.

Valar: The fifteen (initially including Morgoth) "Guardians of the World" and servants of Eru. They are lesser "gods" and many of the peoples/beings of Middle-earth worship them and hold them sacred.

Wild beasts: Traditional animal species lacking enchanted form or abilities. They are capable of social organization, but lack culture.

2.0 THE BASIC FACTORS DEFINING A CHARACTER

In a fantasy role playing (FRP) game each participant except for the Gamemaster (GM) is a “player” and assumes the persona of one of the individual characters; these characters are the player characters (PC’s). All of the other characters are controlled by the Gamemaster and are called non-player characters (NPC). There are a variety of factors that control what each player is capable of in a fantasy role playing environment (e.g., mental attributes, physical attributes, background, physical appearance, skills, bonuses, etc.). How each of these factors is handled in the Middle-earth Role Playing system is described and discussed in this section.

MERP is a role playing system designed to handle (simulate) characters between 1st level and 10th level. It makes certain restrictions and simplifications that are intended to make learning fantasy role playing quicker and easier. People who master the entire system and want more detail, realism and higher level characters should consider I.C.E.’s modularized Rolemaster systems. Arms Law & Claw Law details non-spell combat, with expanded critical table, expanded armor types, martial arts, and individual weapon attack tables. Spell Law details and expands spell lists and spell casting; it contains 112 spell lists, over 2000 spells, spells up to 50th level, 15 types of spell-users, and evil spell lists. Character Law & Campaign Law presents an expanded character development system; with 19 professions and a more detailed treatment of stats and other factors affecting a character.

2.1 MENTAL AND PHYSICAL STATISTICS

The base mental and physical attributes of a character are represented by 6 statistics called stats: Strength (ST), Agility (AG), Constitution (CO), Intelligence (IG), Intuition (IT) and Presence (PR). Each character has a numerical value on a scale of 1 to 100 for each of his stats. The value of a stat indicates how it rates relative to the same stat of other characters. The lower the value of a stat, the weaker it is relative to the same stat of other characters. Relatively high stats give bonuses (see Section 2.12) which apply to attempts to accomplish certain activities and actions.

2.11 DESCRIPTION OF STATS

STRENGTH (ST): Not brute musculature, but the ability to use your muscles to your greatest advantage. This stat affects a character’s capabilities in melee combat, carrying loads, and other activities requiring strength. This is the prime stat for a Warrior.

AGILITY (AG): Manual dexterity, liveness, quickness, reaction time, and speed are all reflected by this stat. This stat affects a character’s capabilities in defense, missile combat, movement and other maneuvers. This is the prime stat for a Scout.

CONSTITUTION (CO): The general health and well-being of the character. This stat affects a character’s capabilities to resist disease, poison and other hardships, as well as his ability to resist the effects of pain, shock, and bleeding (concussion hits). This is the prime stat for a Ranger.

INTELLIGENCE (IG): The reasoning, memory, and common sense of the character. This stat affects a character’s capabilities in activities that require thought or insight; for example, learning spell lists (see Section 4.51), learning languages, reading runes, etc. This is the prime stat for a Mage.

PRESENCE (PR): A character’s courage, bearing, self esteem, charisma, and self-discipline. This stat affects the character’s appearance, his ability to affect and control other characters, his self-control in critical situations, and his ability to draw upon his inner reserves. This is the prime stat for a Bard.

INTUITION (IT): The relationship of the character to the all-pervading force in nature (the Ainulindä, the Song which created and shaped Arda) and things supernatural, including such phenomenon as wisdom, luck, genius, and the favor of the Valar. This stat affects the character’s capacity to cast spells, use magic items, perceive things (e.g., traps), and to perform a variety of other activities. This is the prime stat for an Animist.

2.12 STAT BONUSES

Certain bonuses and penalties may apply to a character’s skills and activities if his stats are high enough or low enough. These stat bonuses are given in Table BT-1, and may be altered by modifications due to the character’s race given in Table BT-3. Only one stat bonus applies to each skill or ability. The correspondence between stats and related skills are given in Table BT-2.

EXAMPLE: One of our sample characters, Shen-Tyga, has a great constitution, is very agile, and is very strong; however while his Presence is good, his Intelligence and Intuition are below average. His stats and bonus (from Table BT-1) for MERP are:

Strength — — — —	100 normal bonus is +25
Agility — — — —	95 normal bonus is +15
Constitution — — — —	91 normal bonus is +10
Presence — — — —	84 normal bonus is +5
Intelligence — — — —	42 normal bonus is +0
Intuition — — — —	23 normal bonus is -5

Shen-Tyga will be good at fighting and skills involving physical matters (e.g., Movement, Body Development, Climbing, etc.), but he will be less competent with skills involving mental prowess (e.g., Reading Runes, Tracking, Spell Casting, etc.).

2.2 RACE AND CULTURE

There are a variety of races that a player may choose for a character in Middle-earth. These races are listed in Section 2.21 and include certain general classifications that in fact cover many races (e.g., Men include such races and cultures as Haradrim, Dunlendings, Beornings, etc). The race chosen affects a character’s bonuses for skills (see Table BT-3), his development during his adolescence, his special abilities, his appearance, and certain other factors.

2.21 MIDDLE-EARTH RACES AND CULTURES

This is a list of Middle-earth races and cultures that may be used by Gamemasters and players within the MERP rules. Other races/cultures may be invented or used, but the Gamemaster must decide their traits and capabilities. Appendix 1 (Section 8.0) provides detailed descriptions of each of these races.

Non-Mannish Races	Mannish Cultures/Races
Dwarves	Beornings
Umli	Black Numenoreans
	Corsairs
Half-elves	Dorwinrim
Noldor Elves	Dúnedain
Sindar Elves	Dunlendings
Silvan Elves	Easterlings
	Haradrim
Hobbits	Lossoth
	Rohirrim
Common Orcs	Rural Men
Uruk-hai	Urban Men
Half-orcs	Variags
	Woodmen
Normal Trolls	Woses
Olog-hai

2.22 SPECIAL RACIAL CAPABILITIES

Certain characters receive special racial modifications to their stat bonuses and Resistance Rolls. These modifications are given in Table BT-3.

2.23 PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

In addition to each character's stats (which affect his capabilities during play) it is desirable to have some measure of the character's appearance. In this section suggestions for determining factors affecting a character's appearance are given (i.e., demeanor, hair color, eye color, height, weight, etc.). Limitations and guidelines for these factors are given for each race in Section 2.21. The Gamemaster should keep in mind that these factors are not essential to a game and may be bypassed in the interest of quicker play.

General Appearance — Appearance (AP) is a value (01–00) which gives a general idea of the character's exterior look (e.g., an 01 or 02 appearance indicates a really ugly person, while a 99 or 00 appearance would indicate a very handsome character). This is a very subjective rating and the Gamemaster should treat it as a general guideline during play.

Demeanor — This is an indicator of the general attitude that the character seems to present to the world. This is up to the character and Gamemaster, but typical demeanors might include: calm, neutral, angry, sly, greedy, silly, stubborn, stupid, rude, etc.

Physical Appearance Factors — Factors such as height, weight, hair color, eye color, gender, age, and so on should be determined by the Gamemaster and the players. They should still be limited by the ranges given in the racial descriptions in Section 2.21.

2.24 LANGUAGES

A variety of languages are spoken in Middle-earth. Table ST-1 lists some of these. Some languages are automatically known by all members of a given race. Other languages may be learned through skill development (see Section 2.32). Each is known at one of 5 different ranks (see Table CGT-1).

2.25 RACIAL / CULTURAL INTERACTION

Certain races or cultures have certain inherent bias (hostility or friendliness) towards other races or cultures. The racial descriptions given in Section 2.21, summarize these attitudes.

EXAMPLE: Shen-Tyga is a Dúnadan. He is 6'7" tall and weighs 240 lb. He has brown hair and blue eyes, and a haughty demeanor. His stat bonuses for race are:

Strength	100	normal bonus is +25, race bonus is +5, total is +30
Agility	95	normal bonus is +15, race bonus is +0, total is +15
Constitution	91	normal bonus is +10, race bonus is +10, total is +20
Presence	84	normal bonus is +5, race bonus is +5, total is +10
Intelligence	42	normal bonus is +0, race bonus is +0, total is +0
Intuition	23	normal bonus is -5, race bonus is +0, total is -5

He also gets a +5 bonus on poison and disease Resistance Rolls. He rolls a 34 for Appearance and adds his +10 Presence bonus to obtain an Appearance of 44 (he is not good looking, but he is impressive). He is fluent in Westron, Adûnaic, and Sindarin. He despises Corsairs and Black Numenoreans; and Dunlendings, Haradrim, Wargs, and Orcs are the traditional enemies of his people.

2.3 SKILL RANKS

As a character advances in levels he develops and trains in certain abilities called skills. His capability in each skill affects his chances of accomplishing certain actions and activities (e.g., fighting, maneuvering, spell casting, etc.). As he develops and improves a skill his "skill rank" with that skill will increase, indicating a corresponding increase in his abilities and bonuses with that skill.

2.31 SKILL RANK BONUSES

Most skills have a skill rank bonus, which is generally included as part of a total skill bonus. Different skills use this bonus in different ways as described in the skill description Section 2.32. The skill rank bonus is given in Table BT-4. Basically the table follows a standard progression. The bonus is -25 if the rank is 0 and +5 if the rank is 1. The bonus increases by 5 for each of ranks 2 to 10, 2 for each of ranks 11-20, and 1 for each rank above 20.

2.32 PRIMARY SKILLS

These are the skills which are most commonly used in adventuring. There is one row on the character record for calculating and recording the skill bonus for each of the skills. Each skill is classified as being applicable to a moving maneuver (MM), to a static maneuver (SM), to an offensive bonus (OB), or to a special purpose (SP). Section 6.0 describes how each of these bonuses is used to resolve actions. A description of what each skill entails follows.

MOVING AND MANEUVERING (MM) — These skills determine how far a character may move in a given round; up to 50 feet plus the skill bonus OR up to double that if a running maneuver is successfully completed (see Section 6.4). Moving/Maneuvering skills must be developed separately for each of the 5 types of armor (no armor, soft leather, rigid leather, chain and plate). The number of skill ranks which may be developed is limited by the armor type: no armor — 2, soft leather — 3, rigid leather — 5, chain — 7, and plate — 9. Each armor type also has a penalty associated with it. These factors are summarized on the Character Record Sheet (see Section 2.71). Armor does not include helmet, arm greaves or leg greaves; items which protect parts of the body from certain criticals. Wearing leg greaves modifies the Movement and Maneuver bonus by -5.

This skill also applies to any activity involving movement which is unusual or performed under stress. When used for these purposes the bonus is added to a "moving maneuver roll" (see Section 6.51). This bonus is NOT used if another skill specifically applies to the activity.

WEAPON SKILLS (OB) — These skills determine how effective a character is when using weapons in combat (as opposed to spells). These skills must be developed separately for each of the 6 types of weapons: 1-Handed Edged, 1-Handed Concussion, 2-Handed, Thrown, Missile, and Pole-arms. The skill bonus for each type of weapon is the Offensive Bonus and is usually added to any “attack rolls” (see Section 6.6) made with that weapon. In certain circumstances all or part of this Offensive Bonus may be used to “parry” an opponent (see Section 6.62). Wearing arm greaves modifies the Offensive Bonus by -5. Each specific weapon has special properties summarized in Table CST-1.

1-Handed Edged — These weapons include the broadsword, dagger, handaxe, scimitar, and short sword. They may be used with a shield.

1-Handed Concussion — These weapons include the club, hammer, mace, morning star, net, and whip. They may be used with a shield.

2-Handed — These weapons include the battle-axe, flail, quarterstaff, and 2-Handed sword. They may not be used with a shield.

Pole-arms — These weapons include the javelin, spear, mounted lance, and halbard. The javelin and spear may be used with a shield, or they may be used 2-Handed. When riding on a trained mount, a mounted lance may be used with a shield.

Thrown — In addition to being used in melee, certain weapons may be used to attack from a distance. These weapons include the dagger, handaxe, short sword, club, hammer, mace, net, javelin, and spear. They may be used with a shield.

Missile — These weapons may not be used in melee, but they may be used to attack from a distance (the range is given in Table CST-1). Missile weapons include the bola, sling, composite bow, crossbow, long bow, and short bow. Only the sling may be used with a shield.

GENERAL SKILLS — These skills affect how a character climbs, rides, swims and tracks. The skill bonus for the appropriate skill is added to a “maneuver roll” when these activities are attempted (see Section 6.5).

Climb (MM) — This skill is used when usual climbing is attempted (i.e., for climbing a rope, tree, wall, etc., but not stairs or a ladder). The normal climbing rate for walls with adequate hand holds is 10’/round as a “medium” maneuver (see Section 6.51).

Ride (MM) — This skill is used when an animal is ridden (e.g., horse, mule, camel, or giant eagle). A maneuver roll must be made using this skill whenever an unusual riding maneuver is attempted OR each round an attack is made while riding (see Section 6.42).

Swim (MM) — This skill is used when a character is swimming. The Gamemaster should assign high difficulty to swimming in armor. We suggest: plate—absurd, chain—extremely hard, rigid leather—very hard, soft leather—hard, and heavy clothes—medium. Other factors such as treacherous water might increase the difficulty.

Track (SM) — This skill is used when attempting to follow or interpret tracks.

EXAMPLE: Shen-Tyga likes to use a Battle-Axe when he fights with a two-handed weapon. His OB with a Battle-Axe is modified by +5 when attacking opponents wearing chain or plate, while it is modified by -5 when attacking opponents in rigid leather, soft leather, and no armor (see Table CST-1). When using a Battle-Axe, attack rolls are resolved on the 2-Handed Weapons attack table, with fumbles occurring when an unmodified roll of 01, 02, 03, 04, or 05 occurs. If a critical strike is obtained with the Battle-Axe, it is called the primary critical and is resolved on the Slash Critical Table CT-2. If the primary critical is a “C”, “D”, or “E”, a secondary critical two steps lower (an “A”, “B”, or “C” respectively) is resolved on the Crush Critical Table CT-1.

MAGICAL SKILLS — These skills affect a character’s ability to cast spells from runes, to cast spells from items, and to attack with an elemental spell.

Read Runes (SM) — This skill represents a character’s ability to determine what spell is on a piece of rune paper (or a scroll) and his ability to cast that spell from it. A static maneuver roll (modified by the Read Runes skill bonus) must be made in order to learn what spell is on a piece of rune paper. This same maneuver determines if the character can cast the spell from the item (see Section 4.56).

Use Items (SM) — This skill represents a character’s ability to determine what spells and abilities are imbedded in an item (other than in rune paper or certain special items, see Section 4.56). It also affects his ability to cast spells from the item. The process used is the same as for reading runes, except that the Use Items skill bonus is used.

Directed Spells (OB) — These skills determine how effective a character is when using elemental spells in combat (as opposed to normal spells or weapons). The skill bonus for directed spells is added to any “attack rolls” made with those spells (see Section 6.6). Directed spells include all of the “bolt” spells but not the “ball” spells (the Base Spells bonus is added to “ball” attacks). No resistance roll is allowed against directed spells, but a character attacked by a directed spell (or ball spell) may make a moving maneuver roll (as his action for that round is to take cover) to modify the attack roll by -10 to -60 depending upon the cover that is available.

SUBTERFUGE SKILLS — These skills affect how a character ambushes, stalks, hides, picks locks, and disarms traps. The skill bonus for the appropriate skill is added to a “maneuver roll” when these activities are attempted (see Section 6.5).

Ambush (SP) — If a character manages to move directly behind an opponent, he may make a maneuver roll to “ambush” him with a melee attack. If the maneuver roll is not successful, a normal melee attack may be made. If it is successful, a normal melee attack may be made and any critical that results may have the skill RANK for ambush added to it if the ambusher wishes (he may decide after the critical roll).

Stalk/Hide (MM/SM) — This skill affects how effectively a character stalks (moves without being seen or heard, a moving maneuver) and hides without moving (a static maneuver). Characters in the vicinity may modify any stalking or hiding maneuver rolls by their perception skill bonus (see below) to attempt to detect the stalking/hiding character.

Pick Locks (SM) — This skill affects attempts to pick locks.

Disarm Traps (SM) — This skill affects attempts to disarm traps.

MISCELLANEOUS SKILLS AND CAPABILITIES — These skills differ in various ways from the normal skill rank and bonus system. Each skill is detailed as to what its differences are.

Perception (SM) — This skill affects how much information and clues a character gets through observation. It may be used to detect traps, to observe characters attempting to stalk or hide, to find hidden doors, etc. If a character states that he is watching or examining an area or place, the Gamemaster should make a static maneuver roll modified by the perception skill bonus of the character to determine if the character notices or detects anything. The Gamemaster may keep this roll secret, revealing only what the character has observed. Wearing a helmet modifies the Perception bonus by -5 (see Sections 6.52 and 6.82). This bonus may be used to modify an opponent's maneuver roll for stalking or hiding (see above).

Body Development (SP) — This skill represents a character's ability to withstand pain, shock and bleeding. Each time that a character's rank in this skill increases by one, the character rolls 1 – 10 and increases his skill rank bonus by this amount (the normal skill rank bonuses do NOT apply). Each character starts the game with a special bonus for this skill of 5 (already included on the Character Record Sheet). The total skill bonus for this skill is called the "character's hit total": the number of concussion hits that the character can absorb (due to damage he takes from attacks and other occurrences) without becoming unconscious. If the character takes more concussion hits than the sum of his hit total and his constitution, he dies due to massive shock and internal bleeding.

Spell Lists (SP) — This skill determines when a spell list is learned (i.e., when spells on that list may be cast). Each spell list rank gives a 20% chance of "learning" a chosen spell list (see Section 3.6); thus when a rank of 5 is obtained there is a 100% chance of learning the list (automatic). Spell list skill rank may only be developed for one spell list at a time. If at the end of a development period (adolescence, apprenticeship, or when a new level is reached) a character has a spell list rank between 1 and 5, a roll should be made to see if the spell list is learned. If the roll is less than or equal to the the spell list skill rank multiplied by 20, the spell list is learned. If the spell list is not learned the skill rank remains the same. When a list is learned, the spell list skill rank is reduced to 0. If a skill rank of 5 is obtained during a development period, the spell list is immediately learned (with the spell list skill rank being reduced to 0) AND the character may develop the spell list skill rank for another spell list in order to take a chance of learning a second list (20% chance per rank).

Languages (SP) — This skill must be developed separately for each language. The skill rank in this area determines how well a character speaks and reads a language (see Table CGT-1). Languages are described in Section 2.24.

2.33 SECONDARY SKILLS

These are skills that are not used as often as primary skills during adventuring. They are often tied to, or indicative of, a character's background or family trade, thus any background options used for these skills are more effective than those used for primary skills (see Section 2.32). Players may use development points from any related skill category to develop these skills (see Section 3.6). The character record does not provide for these skills, but the players can keep track of the skill ranks on the back of their character records or on a separate piece of paper. The Gamemaster should decide which secondary skills are appropriate for his game and inform the players. A short description of some suggested secondary skills and what their bonuses are used for follows (the bonus for the stat in parenthesis is used as part of the total skill bonus):

ACROBATICS (AG) This bonus is used for in-air maneuvers or swinging on objects. Helps reduce the effects of falls.

ACTING (PR) This bonus is used for impersonating others, devising new identities, etc.

CAVING (IG) This bonus is used for determining the natural course and lay of a cave or cavern (pass or chamber) and for attempting restricted movement in a cave.

CONTORTIONS (AG) This bonus is used for manipulating one's body in order to move through small openings or absorb sudden crushing impact (other than falls). Helps escapes from bonds, etc.

COOKERY (IT) This bonus is used when detecting bad food, or preparing and neutralizing dangerous herbs and food ingredients. Includes poison preparations as well as normal cooking.

DANCE (IG) This bonus is used for attempting to recreate a dance one witnesses, including magical rituals, etc.

DIVING (AG) This bonus is used for controlled falling maneuvers.

FLETCHING (AG) This bonus is used for making an arrow out of available wood, metal, paper, and/or feathers.

FORAGING (IT) This bonus is used for finding any local source of potable water, herbs, or edible plants and animals.

GAMBLING (IT) This bonus is used for playing any game with a significant element of luck.

HERDING (PR) This bonus is used for gathering, befriending, or manipulating herd animals (e.g., sheep, cattle, etc.).

LEATHER-WORKING (AG) This bonus is used for working with hides and creating leather goods (e.g., leather armor, bolas, etc.).

MEDITATION (PR) This bonus is used for entering, leaving, and exploiting meditational trances.

MUSIC (AG) This bonus is used for using any one instrument, and any one written musical language.

PUBLIC-SPEAKING (PR) This bonus is used for impressing, entertaining, or manipulating other individuals or groups.

ROPE-MASTERY (IG) This bonus is used for knot recognition, knot-tying, braiding, and splicing or when making a maneuver while suspended from a rope or analogous flexible line, or when throwing a line.

ROWING (ST) This bonus is used for self-powered boat maneuvers, including rowing, poling, etc.

SAILING (IT) This bonus is used for sailing maneuvers and waterlore (e.g., knowledge about bays).

SIGNALING (IG) This bonus is used for any form of signal communication.

SKIING (AG) This bonus is used for skiing or sliding maneuvers.

SMITHING (ST) This bonus is used for working with normal metals to create or repair desired objects (e.g., metal armor and weapons).

STAR-GAZING (IT) This bonus is used for determining dates, directions, and locations when the stars are visible. Especially useful for navigation.

TRAP-BUILDING (IG) This bonus is used for building traps out of available resources. This bonus subtracts from any perception rolls (see Section 2.32) made for a trap constructed using this skill.

TRICKERY (PR) This bonus is used for any maneuvers involving slight of hand: picking pockets, confusing sight tricks, and slight-of-hand diversions.

TUMBLING (AG) This bonus is used for horizontal dives, rolling, or vaulting maneuvers, or swinging on stationary objects.

WEATHER-WATCHING (IT) This bonus is used for determining the local weather pattern for the next 24 hours.

WOOD-CARVING (AG) This bonus is used for fashioning an object out of wood, bone, or similar material.

2.4 PROFESSIONS

Each character must have a profession, sometimes called a character class. A character's profession reflects the fact that his early training and apprenticeship have moulded his thought patterns, thereby affecting his ability to develop certain skills and capabilities. A profession does not prohibit the development of skills, it merely makes some skills harder and others easier to develop. Any character can develop any skill under this system. Descriptions of the six professions follow:

SCOUT (Thief):

- Prime Stat — Agility
- Profession Bonuses — +1 per level on all weapon skills
+1 per level on all general skills
+2 per level on subterfuge skills
+3 per level on perception
- Spell Restrictions — May learn open spell lists from one realm (his choice). He may only cast 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th level spells.

A Scout is a character trained in maneuvering, observation, ambush, and to a limited extent, combat. His primary areas of development are subterfuge and general skills, and he can also develop skills with weapons and armor. However, it is very difficult for him to learn to use spells or magic items. In certain societies and circumstances a Scout makes an excellent thief or assassin.

WARRIOR (Fighter):

- Prime Stat — Strength
- Profession Bonuses — +3 per level on weapon skills
+1 per level on general skills
+2 per level on body development
- Spell Restrictions — May learn open spell lists from one realm (his choice). He may only cast 1st, 2nd and 3rd level spells.

A Warrior is a character trained in the arts of combat and fighting. His primary areas of development are weapon skills, maneuvering in armor, and body development. It is difficult for a Warrior to learn to use subterfuge, spells, magic items, and languages; he has little interest in or aptitude for such pursuits.

RANGER (Tracker):

- Prime Stat — Constitution
- Profession Bonuses — +2 per level on weapon skills
+3 per level on all general skills
+2 per level on perception
+2 per level on stalking/hiding
- Spell Restrictions — May learn open Channeling spell lists and Ranger spell lists, however he may only cast 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th level spells from the open Channeling lists (no restrictions on his Ranger lists).

A Ranger is a character trained in outdoor skills and combat. His primary area of development is general skills, but he can develop respectable fighting skills and can learn his own Ranger spells and open Channeling spells.

BARD (jack-of-all-trades):

- Prime Stat — Presence
- Profession Bonuses — +1 per level on weapon skills
+1 per level on general skills
+1 per level on subterfuge skills
+1 per level on magical skills
+1 per level on base spell attacks
+1 per level on perception
- Spell Restrictions — May learn open Essence spell lists and Bard spell lists, however he may only cast 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th level spells from the open Essence lists (no restrictions on his Bard lists).

A Bard is a character with some training in almost all of the categories of skills. His only primary area of development is languages, but he can learn his own Bard spell lists and open Essence spell lists and he can develop to a limited degree, weapon skills and maneuvering skills.

MAGE (Magician):

- Prime Stat — Intelligence
- Profession Bonuses — +2 per level on reading runes
+2 per level on using items
+3 per level on directed spell attacks
+2 per level on base spell attacks
- Spell Restrictions — May learn open Essence spell lists and Mage spell lists.

A Mage is a character trained in the casting of spells which draw their power from the Essence, the power that exists in everyone and everything. His primary areas of development are magical skills and learning spell lists. It is very difficult for a Mage to learn to use weapons and armor; the Mage relies on his spells rather than arms or normal maneuvers. A Mage may not wear any armor, helm, or greaves when casting spells. This applies to all characters casting spells of the Essence (see Section 4.5).

ANIMIST (Cleric):

- Prime Stat — Intuition
- Profession Bonuses — +1 per level on reading runes
+1 per level on using items
+1 per level on all general skills
+2 per level on directed spell attacks
+2 per level on base spell attacks
+1 per level on perception
- Spell Restrictions — May learn open Channeling spell lists and Animist spell lists.

An Animist is a character trained in the casting of spells which draw their power from the Valar through Channeling. His primary areas of development are learning spells, but he is capable of development in any of the categories of skills. He may not wear any metal armor, metal helm, or metal greaves while casting spells. This applies to all characters casting spells of Channeling (see Section 4.5).

2.5 BACKGROUND

Each race has a certain number of “background points” which each character may apply to the 6 background options: special abilities, special items, money, hobby skill ranks, stats, and languages. Certain races may be restricted as to how many points may be applied to each option (see Section 2.21). The Gamemaster may choose to assign options in his own manner. Alternatively, he may choose to allow the players to choose from or roll on the Background Options Table CGT-2.

2.51 BACKGROUND OPTIONS

SPECIAL ABILITIES — These are certain extraordinary capabilities that the character possesses. In many cases these capabilities distinguish the player character from the general populace and are part of the reason that he has chosen to adventure rather than stay home on the farm. The Gamemaster may make up special abilities designed for a character. Alternatively, the player may choose from or roll on Table CGT-2. For each background point placed into this background option, the character receives one special ability.

SPECIAL ITEMS — These are magic or unusual items that the character has had handed down to him or which fate has placed in his possession. The Gamemaster may create special items designed for a character or allow him to roll on Table CGT-2. For each background point placed into this background option, the character receives one special item. These items are keyed to the specific player character, or alternatively are keyed to the character's profession and race. Each time any character attempts to use an item not specifically keyed to them, they must make a maneuver roll modified by his Use Items skill bonus (see Section 2.32). This makes such items much harder to sell. Spells from these items are always cast with no modifications for preparation time (i.e., they have instantaneous effect, see Section 4.55).

MONEY — This is the extra amount of money that the character can start with. Each player character starts with 2 gold pieces (see Section 3.71). For each background point placed into this background option, the character rolls once on Table CGT-2 and receives the money indicated in addition to his normal 2 gold pieces.

HOBBY SKILL RANKS — These are developed skill ranks that are not necessarily related to the character's race or profession. For each background point placed into this background option, the rank of one primary skill (see Section 2.32) may be increased by 2 OR the rank of one secondary skill (see Section 2.33) may be increased by 5.

STAT INCREASES — This option indicates enhanced stats. For each background point placed into this background option, the value of one stat may be increased by two OR the values of three stats may be increased by one each. No stat may be increased to more than 101 through this method.

LANGUAGES — This option allows a character to learn extra languages. The Gamemaster may wish to restrict the character in which languages may be chosen. For each background point placed into this background option, the character learns one extra language to skill rank 5.

2.52 DETERMINATION OF BACKGROUND DETAILS

After the character has allocated his points to his background options, the Gamemaster should define his background (see Section 3.5). For example, if the character assigns 3 points to money and one to an item and one to a language, the Gamemaster might tell him that he is a merchant's son. If he assigned 2 points to special capabilities, 1 to money, and 2 to stats, he might be a farmer's son who has left the farm for adventure. This is up to the Gamemaster, although the player character concerned may have some input. The amount of detail that goes into this depends upon the amount of effort that the Gamemaster is able and willing to put into it.

2.6 EXPERIENCE AND ADVANCING LEVELS

Each character in a fantasy role-playing game has a "level" that represents how capable he is. Characters become more powerful and skilled by advancing levels as they gain experience. Experience is represented in play by experience points which the Gamemaster awards to characters for certain activities and achievements. Normally, a character starts play as a 1st level character and his level increases as he acquires experience points from his adventures. A character's level does not necessarily increase each time he gains experience points; it increases when his experience point total reaches certain points, as explained below.

2.61 EXPERIENCE POINTS

Learning how to award experience points is one of the most difficult tasks that a Gamemaster faces. It is something that is very hard to formalize. Basically a Gamemaster should award experience points for ideas and actions by the characters which are clever, intelligent, innovative, dangerous (but not foolhardy), and above all successful.

Below we summarize some of the activities that normally arise during play which should be rewarded with experience points. The suggested experience points awards are guidelines and the Gamemaster should feel free to modify them whenever common sense indicates that they are out of line. The Gamemaster may total and reward experience points at any convenient time. This usually occurs at the beginning or end of a session of play.

NOTE: All of these totals may be multiplied by 4 if the activity has never been performed before by the character, by 2 if the activity has only been performed once before, and by 1/2 if it has become routine.

1) HIT POINTS — At the end of a battle, a character receives one experience point for each hit he received during the battle (providing they were not cured during the battle).

2) CRITICAL POINTS — These points are awarded for any criticals inflicted on a foe regardless of their effect. The experience points awarded are based upon the level of the foe and are modified depending upon the state of the foe and the combat. Table ET-3 summarizes these points.

3) KILL POINTS — These experience points are awarded for killing an active opponent or rendering him unconscious. This must occur in a combat situation (i.e., a true conflict, not a practice or staged fight). An active opponent is one that is not dead or unconscious. These points all go to the combatant who delivers the blow that knocks out or kills the opponent. The experience points awarded for "killing" a character are given in Table ET-1. These experience points are reduced by the number of experience points given for criticals already inflicted on the opponent, see 2) above. In some cases the Gamemaster should add extra points for creatures with special abilities and powers.

EXAMPLE: For this example and the rest of the examples in Section 2.61, we will be referring the sample adventure presented in Section 1.2. In that adventure, Naug (2nd level), Agonar (4th level), Droppo (1st level) and Chinta Kari (2nd level) decided to explore and camp in a ruined tower that contained 3 Orcs (one 1st level, one 2nd level and one 4th level) who were breaking camp to travel for the night. The resulting encounter ended with 2 Orcs dead and 1 Orc having fled.

Naug killed the 4th level leader outright, and since this is only the second Orc that Naug has killed he gets double the normal 300 experience points (ep), that is, 600 experience points. Nobody gets experience points for the one that got away (Droppo blew his chance when he fumbled). Agonar put the 2nd level Orc to sleep, but only gets 130 ep because he is 4th level and has put Orcs to sleep before.

If Droppo had thrown a dagger at the Orc and given him a "B" Puncture critical before Naug killed him, then Droppo would have gotten 40 experience points (10 for the "B" x 4 for a 4th level foe). In this situation, Naug would only have gotten 520 points, 2 x (300 normal ep - the 40 ep that Droppo got).

The "E" and "C" criticals delivered by Naug on the sleeping Orc would normally be worth 50 ep (25 x 2nd level) and 30 ep (15 x 2nd level) respectively. However, he was already unconscious (asleep), so the 80 ep is multiplied by 1/10 and Naug only gets 8 points.

Chinta received 100 experience points because of the "A" critical she took when the Orc and the chest fell on her. She also receives 9 experience points for the 9 hits she took.

So for combat, Naug gets a total of 608 ep, Agonar gets 130 ep, Chinta gets 109 ep, and Droppo gets 0 ep.

4) MANEUVER POINTS — These experience points are given for unique or inspired maneuvers (static and moving) successfully accomplished during an adventure. For moving maneuvers (see Section 6.51) a "100" result or higher must be obtained. Based upon difficulty, the experience points awarded are given in Table ET-4.

EXAMPLE: Droppo successfully scouted the area (the GM ranks this a Medium maneuver) for 50 ep. He also snuck (or sneaked) across the tower without the Orcs hearing him (a Light maneuver), heard the Orcs coming (a Medium maneuver), and hid at the main door (a Medium maneuver) for a total of 110 ep. Chinta successfully cleared rubble (an Easy maneuver) for 5 ep, and she opened the chest but not quietly so she received no experience points. The successful taking and hiding of the small box (a Hard maneuver) gives her a total of 105 ep.

5) SPELL POINTS — These points are awarded for casting spells during a combat situation (both intrinsic spells and spells from runes and items). Casting a spell that fails results in 0 points. The spell must have a purpose that aids the character or his group during the combat. The experience points awarded are given by the following formula and summarized in the Table ET-2:

$$100 - (10 \times \text{level of the caster}) + (10 \times \text{level of the spell cast})$$

EXAMPLE: Agonar cast Levitate, which would have helped in a different situation by keeping him safe from melee. However in this situation it did nothing to help the group or himself, so he gets no points for it. His Sleep spell was a 1st level spell, so as a 4th level character he gets 70 ep.

1	5	10	15	20	25

for each level above 10th	+ 5	+ 10	+ 15	+ 20	+ 25
to self *	100	200	300	400	500

These totals are further multiplied by:

- 0 x — if the foe is dead or dying (i.e. no points).
- 1/10 x — if the foe is unconscious or incapacitated.
- ½ x — if the foe is stunned.
- 2 x — if the character is alone in melee combat with the foe(s).

NOTE — The critical points may not exceed the opponent's "kill points".

* — These points are awarded to a character for criticals inflicted upon him by a foe, for these points the "level of the foe" is always treated as 20.

ET-4 — MANEUVER POINT TABLE

Routine	0
Easy	5
Light	10
Medium	50
Hard	100
Very Hard	150
Extremely Hard	200
Sheer Folly	300
Absurd	500

These points may also be awarded by the Gamemaster for events that have special significance to a given character (e.g., having a religious experience, visiting a special place, accomplishing a special mission or goal, casting non-combat spells, etc.). They are also awarded for any actions or accomplishments that the Gamemaster deems worthy of reward.

EXAMPLE: The Gamemaster decides that the group deserves some miscellaneous experience points for achieving their objective in a relatively effective manner. He gives Droppo 150 ep for taking the initiative and most of the reasonable risk. He gives Agonar and Naug 100 ep apiece for their solid support activity, while he gives Chinta only 50 ep because she disregarded her own safety and the group's when she went after a potential treasure. However, Chinta gets the reward of having the small box without the rest of the group knowing that she has it.

2.62 CHARACTER LEVELS

The level for each character is determined by how many experience points he has accumulated. A character starts at 1st level with 10,000 experience points. Table ET-5 summarizes which experience point totals correspond to which levels.

EXAMPLE: If the Gamemaster decides to immediately reward experience points after this adventure, the points are totaled as follows:

	OLD EP	OLD LEVEL	EP GAINED	NEW EP	NEW LEVEL
Agonar	43480	4th	470	43950	4th
Chinta	23400	2nd	370	23770	2nd
Droggo	19764	1st	570	20334	2nd
Naug	28940	2nd	928	29868	2nd

Driggio's total experience points has passed 20000, so he advances from 1st level to 2nd level. So now he must allocate his development points to his skills in order to increase his skill ranks, and then he must update his Character Record Sheet. If Naug had gotten 132 more points, he would have advanced to 3rd level. The other two characters are not even close to advancing a level.

ET-5 – EXPERIENCE POINT TABLE

LEVEL	EXPERIENCE POINT TOTAL REQUIRED
1	10000
2	20000
3	30000
4	40000
5	50000
6	70000
7	90000
8	110000
9	130000

2.63 ADVANCING A LEVEL

When a character advances (goes up) a level, he may develop skills (increase his skill ranks) and update his bonuses. To develop a skill he allocates development points to it (see Table CGT-4) in order to increase the skill's rank. This process is identical to apprenticeship skill development and is described in Section 3.6. After all development points have been allocated to increasing skill ranks, the level bonuses for professions (see Section 2.4) are updated. Finally, any skill bonuses whose components have changed must be re-totaled. This process is summarized below:

- 1) Allocate development points to increase skill ranks.
- 2) Update skill rank bonuses.
- 3) If necessary, roll for hits (body development) or a spell list.
- 4) Update level bonuses for the character's profession.
- 5) Retotal any skill bonuses affected by 2) and 3).
- 6) Increase your Power Point total (see 4.55).
- 7) Mark the character's new level.

2.7 KEEPING TRACK OF A CHARACTER

In a fantasy role playing game each player must keep track of the factors defining and affecting his character, while the Gamemaster must keep track of the non-player characters. In the Middle-earth Role Playing system (MERP), each player should keep track of his one character (his player character) on a Character Record Sheet. The Character Record Sheet (RS-1) has places for all of the important statistics and factors which are important to a character. The Gamemaster may want to use Character Record Sheets for certain crucial non-player characters (NPC's), but in general he only needs to keep track of their levels. This allows him to refer to the Master Character Table ST-3 in order to obtain non-player character bonuses required during play.

The rest of this section discusses the Character Record Sheet and the different types of capabilities and bonuses that the players should keep track of.

2.71 THE CHARACTER RECORD SHEET

The Character Record Sheet has space for all of the factors which affect a character's bonuses and capabilities (e.g., skill bonuses, languages known, spell lists known, height, weight, etc.). A player should fill in all of the appropriate spaces (this process is described step by step in Section 3) and add the values in each of the rows, putting the result in the "total" space at the end of the row. When this process is completed the character is ready to play and has on his Character Record Sheet all of the bonuses which can affect his actions.

Anyone using MERP may photocopy as many Character Record Sheets as he wishes for use in his game, however they may not be copied for commercial usage. Players can use the back of the Character Record Sheet to keep track of the character's supplies, equipment and other possessions.

2.72 SKILL BONUSES

Skill bonuses are the numbers added to various rolls which determine the success of events and actions during play. They represent how capable a character is at certain activities. The basic classifications for skill bonuses are the Offensive Bonuses (OB), Defensive Bonuses (DB), Moving Maneuver Bonuses (MM), and Static Maneuver Bonuses (SM). Each skill bonus has its classification indicated on the Character Record Sheet.

Each skill bonus is the sum of several specific bonuses, each of which has a column under "Skill Bonuses" on the Character Record Sheet. The specific bonuses include the skill rank bonus (see Section 2.31), the stat bonus (see Section 2.12), the profession bonus (see Section 2.4), item bonuses (see Section 4.56), and any special bonuses. If a bonus space contains an "X" then that specific type of bonus doesn't apply to that skill. If a space already has a number in it, then it is a fixed bonus and does not change.

As a skill rank is increased by one through development (see Section 2.3), the increase is marked on the Character Record Sheet by placing an "X" in the first open box on the row for that skill. Movement and Maneuver skill ranks are limited by the number of boxes on the Character Record Sheet. Skills without boxes (i.e., Base Spells, Leadership, Defensive Bonus, and all of the Resistance Rolls) never have a skill rank. All other skills are not limited as to how high the skill ranks can go; space considerations allow only 15 boxes to be included on the Character Record Sheet.

Offensive Bonuses (OB) — Offensive Bonuses include all of the weapon skills bonuses, the Directed Spells skill bonus, and the Base Spells skill bonus. These bonuses are used in combat to attack opponents with weapons and spells (see Section 6.6). The bonuses are added to attack rolls which are applied to the various attack tables.

Defensive Bonus (DB) and Defensive Equipment — A character's Defensive Bonus is used in combat as a subtraction from an opponent's attack roll against the character. There is a section of the Character Record Sheet with a space for the type of armor being worn, a space for the extra bonus added to the Defensive Bonus when the character is using a shield against an opponent, a space to indicate a helm, a space to indicate arm greaves, and a space to indicate leg greaves. Normally a shield can be used to increase a character's Defensive Bonus against one foe by 25.

EXAMPLE: Shen-Tyga wears chain, a helm, arm greaves and leg greaves:

Armor — chain
 Shield — (-25)
 Helm — Yes
 Arm Greaves — Yes
 Leg Greaves — Yes

So his Perception Bonus (due to helm), his Offensive Bonuses (due to arm greaves) and his Movement and Maneuver Bonuses (due to leg greaves) are all decreased by 5.

Moving Maneuver Bonuses (MM) — Moving Maneuver Bonuses include all skill bonuses for skills involving a lot of movement: movement and general maneuver, climbing, riding, swimming, and stalking. These bonuses are added to maneuver rolls which are resolved on the Moving Maneuver Table MT-1.

Static Maneuver Bonuses (SM) — Static Maneuver Bonuses include all skill bonuses for skills not involving much movement: tracking, hiding, picking locks, disarming traps, reading runes, using items, perception, and leadership. These bonuses are added to maneuver rolls which are resolved on the appropriate column of the Static Maneuver Table MT-2.

2.73 SPECIAL BONUSES (SP)

Several of the skills do not fall in the general pattern outlined above: Body Development, Ambush, and Stalk/Hide. The Body Development Bonus is the number of hits which a character can take before passing out (see Section 2.32). The Ambush Bonus is a modification to critical rolls resulting from a sneak attack on the rear of an opponent (see Section 2.32). The Stalk/Hide Bonus is a Moving Maneuver Bonus for Stalking (avoiding detection during movement), and a Static Maneuver Bonus for Hiding (avoiding detection without moving).

2.74 RESISTANCE ROLL BONUSES (RR)

Certain attacks occurring during play will require a character to make a Resistance Roll to determine if or how an attack affects the character. The types of attacks are Essence spells, Channeling spells, Poisons, and Diseases. The attack's level (caster level if it is a spell, attack level if a poison or disease) is cross-indexed with the target's (defender's) level on the Resistance Table RRT to obtain a single number. In order to successfully resist the attack, the Resistance Roll must be greater than or equal to this number (see the example in Section 6.6).

Resistance Roll Bonuses consist of a stat bonus, any item bonuses, and race bonuses (place in one of the special spaces). The race bonuses can be obtained from Table BT-3.

2.75 OTHER CAPABILITIES

Other information is kept on the Character Record Sheet. This information is not used as much during play as the skill bonuses, but it is still important to keep track of it.

Languages — In the section of his Character Record Sheet marked “LANGUAGES”, the player should record each of the languages that he knows and the “rank” to which he knows each one. Starting languages are based upon the character’s race (see Section 2.21), along with his development choices during adolescence (see Section 3.3) and apprenticeship (see Section 3.6). The rank to which a character knows a language can be further developed during a later level.

Spell Lists — In the section of the Character Record Sheet marked “SPELL LISTS”, the player should record each of the spell lists that he is learning and has learned (see Section 2.32). He should put an “X” in the “chance” box to the right of the spell list if he has already learned the list; if he has not completed learning the list (see Section 3.6), he should put the percentage chance which he has in the “chance” box.

Level and Experience — Each character has an Experience Point total (see Section 2.6) and a level. These should be recorded in their respective space on the Character Record Sheet.

Armor, Shields, Helmets and Greaves — Normal armor (plate, chain, rigid leather, and soft leather) covers from the shoulders to mid-thigh, and to the middle of the upper arms. Characters may also elect to wear helmets, arm greaves, and/or leg greaves. These pieces of equipment allow the wearers to avoid certain criticals, but they also involve penalties: helmets modify the Perception bonus by -5, arm greaves modify the Offensive bonuses by -5, and leg greaves modify Movement and Maneuver bonuses by -5. If a character is wearing any of this equipment, he should record it on his Character Record Sheet (see Section 2.72). Armor, helmets, and greaves do not count for encumbrance purposes (see below).

Helmets and greaves may be metal or leather. Once a piece of leather equipment (helm or greaves) has protected the wearer from one critical, it will be worthless until replaced or repaired. Metal equipment has no such limitations if properly kept up and repaired. It is assumed that a character performs such maintenance.

Shields may only be used with 1-Handed weapons (see Table CST-1), and they require the full use of one arm. When using a shield a character may increase his Defensive bonus by +25 against one opponent in front of him or to his left. It is assumed the shield is on the left arm; the Gamemaster may wish to allow characters to be left-handed (10% chance) or ambidextrous (2% chance).

Encumbrance — The movement and maneuver capabilities of a character are affected by the weight of the material which he carries on his person (if they are worn, armor, clothes, helmets and greaves already have their own penalties already figured in). Each character should total the weight of all of the equipment (other than material that he is wearing: clothes, armor, helmet, greaves, belt, etc.) and supplies that he carries (see Table ST-4 for weights), rounding down to the nearest pound. If the total is over 15 pounds, a penalty may result. A burden of 15 lb. or less will result in no penalty. It is assumed that smaller characters are rugged enough to bear this weight. This is particularly true for non-human races.

Table BT-5 gives the penalty for carrying excess weight based upon the weight of the character. To this penalty the character adds his Strength bonus (if positive), giving his “Encumbrance Penalty”. This penalty is applied to ALL movement and moving maneuvers. If running or attempting to run, the encumbrance penalty is applied before the doubling effect for doubled movement. An example of this can be found in Section 3.72).

Stats — In the “STATS” section of his Character Record Sheet, the character should record his stats. The stats are numbers between 1 and 102 that represent the physical and mental capabilities of the character (see Section 2.1). These values are placed next to the stats in the column marked “value”. Each stat value has a normal bonus (from Table BT-1) and a race bonus (from Table BT-3); each of these is placed in the appropriate column. The sum of these two bonuses is placed in the “total” column and is used as a stat bonus for calculating skill bonuses.

Constant Information — Certain information concerning a character is relatively constant and unchanging. The Character Record Sheet provides spaces for a character’s name, race, height, weight, hair, eyes, demeanor, and profession. A space is also provided for any special properties the player might wish to record.

2.8 THE ROLE OF THE CHARACTER

There are certain factors which are not formalized in the Middle-earth Role Playing system but which still affect the role of a character, and in particular a player character. These are factors which are not capabilities of or restrictions on the character; instead, they are facets of his individual nature and temperament. These factors are crucial in bringing a character to life in the terms of the game, and they make the character seem more realistic to the character’s player as well as the other players and the Gamemaster. Three of the most important of these intangible factors are Personality, Motivation and Alignment in the struggle between Good and Evil in Middle-earth.

PERSONALITY — Many players may inject their own Personality into their character, which is very acceptable and enjoyable. However, sometimes it is exciting, stimulating and rewarding to embody your character with a personality other than your own; after all, this is FANTASY Role Playing. Whatever you decide to do, it is important to carefully consider your character’s personality.

MOTIVATION — Another question that should be answered about the character is: What is his motivation? What are his objectives in the game? It may be to adventure and have a good time. It may be to amass as much gold, wealth, and magic items as possible. It may be to kill and fight. It might be to defeat the evil minions of Sauron and make the world safe for Humanity (or Hobbitity or Elfity or Dwarfity or Entity). It might be to defeat the naive dupes of the Valar and bring the Rightful Ruler of Middle-earth to control of Middle-earth (Sauron or even your character). Whatever your character’s motivation, it really helps to flesh him out.

ALIGNMENT — You should determine your character’s philosophy, morals, and social tendencies; so we group these factors under alignment. The easiest decision is: is the character good, evil or neutral (neither good or evil, out for yourself)? In Middle-earth terms the evil dudes are usually (but not always) dominated by Sauron and are out to destroy the good guys (who either are passive or are actively opposing Sauron).

The next question is: What are the morals and philosophy of the character? — Does he believe that the end justifies the means? Saruman did and he was finally corrupted. — Does he respect rigid laws? The Elves did not; some evil beings do. — Is he fatalistic? A good person might feel that Sauron would win regardless of what he as an individual might do, so why bother resisting. — Is he a hedonist? Good or evil, his prime concern would be to enjoy himself. All of these are interesting examples; there are many other options that add dimension and complexity to a character.

3.0 CREATING AND MOLDING A CHARACTER

In a Fantasy Role Playing game each participant (player) except for the Gamemaster (GM) assumes the persona of one of the individual characters — his player character. Each player must first “generate” his player character in order to determine the character’s attributes, background, physical appearance, skills, etc.; in short, he must determine all of the various factors that control what the character is capable of doing in a Fantasy Role Playing environment. To generate a character the player should perform each of the following steps (as described in Sections 3.1 — 3.8):

- 1) Decide in general what type of character to play.
- 2) Roll the character’s stats (see Section 2.1).
- 3) Choose a race for the character.
- 4) Develop the character’s adolescence skills.
- 5) Choose a profession for the character.
- 6) Choose the character’s background options.
- 7) Develop the character’s apprenticeship skills.
- 8) Outfit the character.
- 9) Total the character’s penalties and bonuses.
- 10) Develop a persona for the character.

The Character Record Sheet is the key in generating a character. This sheet is organized to aid you during the generating process. As you follow each step of the process, you should record your results on this sheet. Use a pencil, since you will be changing and updating your character regularly. The various parts of the Character Record Sheet and what needs to go in them are discussed in Section 2.7. Some of the generation steps are interchangeable — primarily stat generation, race choice, and profession choice.

If the Gamemaster and players wish to avoid the process of generating characters, they can use the Master Character Table ST-3, which gives average bonuses for the various professions and levels.

Before beginning to generate a character, a player should make a general decision as to what type of character he wants to have. This decision should concern the character’s profession, race, and his physical and mental attributes.

EXAMPLE: The player that will be developing and controlling the character in this example and the rest of the examples presented in Section 3 has read The Lord of the Rings and wants to play a character similar to Aragorn II. Thus in general, he wants to generate a character who is a Dúnadan Ranger with good physical stats. This example character will be called Varak Tanuk.

To give the readers an idea of the different types of characters that may be developed, here are some of the characters from The Lord of the Rings (usually of very high level) and their races and professions in MERP terms.

Aragorn II	— Dúnadan Ranger.
Elrond	— Half-elf Animist.
Éomer	— Rohir Warrior.
Frodo	— Hobbit Scout.
Galadriel	— Noldor Elf Mage.
Gandalf	— Human Mage (really one of the Istari).
Gimli	— Dwarf Warrior.
Glorfindel	— Noldor Elf Bard.
Legolas	— Sindar Elf Warrior.
Radagast	— Human Animist (really one of the Istari).

BT-1 — STAT BONUS TABLE

100	+ 25	3

10-24	-5	0
5-9	-10	0
3-4	-15	0

* — Power points are required for casting spells (see Section 4.55). The number (based upon Intelligence or Intuition) given above is multiplied by the character’s level to obtain the character’s power point total.

3.1 GENERATING STATISTICS

First the player must generate the stats which determine his mental and physical prowess (see Section 2.11 for descriptions of the 6 stats). To determine the stats for a character, first make 6 rolls (1-100) and record them on a piece of paper. Ignore rolls of less than 20; you need 6 rolls above 19. Low assign at your discretion each of the 6 rolls to one of the six stats as you see fit, and record them on your Character Record Sheet (see Section 2.71). You should now have one value (between 20 and 100 inclusive) for each of your 6 stats. Remember, the higher the stat the more capable your character will be when performing an action using that particular stat. At this point the normal stat bonuses (see Section 2.12 and Table BT-1) should also be recorded.

Elves have certain advantages over the “mortal” races (see Section 2.21), and in terms of a fantasy role playing game this is reflected by a restriction on how they assign their stats. Each Noldor Elf must assign his highest stat to his Presence, each Sindar Elf must assign one of his two highest stats to his Presence, and each Silvan Elf must assign one of his three highest stats to his Presence.

Keep in mind that when a profession for the character is chosen (see Sections 2.4 and 3.4), the value assigned to the prime stat for the character may be replaced with a value of 90. Thus it is often a good idea to assign your lowest stat to the prime stat.

EXAMPLE: Our character, Varak Tanuk, makes 6 stat rolls: 91, 98, 07, 44, 85, 28. Since the 07 is less than 20, he rolls again and gets a 63. These are the 6 values that he may assign to his stats: 91, 98, 44, 85, 28, and 63. The player has read about Aragorn the Ranger and thinks that he wants to be that type of character. Varak wants to be strong, quick, and still be able to cast some spells. Since a Ranger has Constitution as a prime stat, he knows that he will be able to replace one of his low rolls (the 28) with a 90 when he chooses his profession. So he assigns his 6 stats as follows:

		----- BONUSES -----
STATS	Abbr.	Value	Norm	Race	Total
Strength	(ST)	98	+20	_____	_____
Agility	(AG)	71	+10	_____	_____

Intuition	(IT)	85	+5	_____	_____
Presence	(PR)	63	+0	_____	_____
Appearance	(AP)	_____	_____	_____	_____

He had to place his 85 in Intuition in order to have one power point per level (see Table BT-1), otherwise he would be unable to cast spells (see Section 4.5). Varak has also looked up his stat bonuses from Table BT-1 and recorded them.

3.2 CHOOSING RACE AND CULTURE

There are a variety of races (and cultures) that a player may choose for his character in Middle-earth. These races are described in Section 2.21; they include certain general classifications that in fact cover many races and cultures (e.g., Men include such races and cultures as Haradrim, Dunlendings, Beornings, etc). The race chosen affects a character's bonuses for skills (see Section 2.31), his development during his adolescence, his special abilities, his appearance, and certain other factors (see Section 2.22). Once the race (or culture) is chosen the player records it on his Character Record Sheet. He should also record any stat bonuses and Resistance Roll bonuses due to race (see Table BT-3).

The Gamemaster may wish to restrict the players' choices to certain "acceptable" races. For example, a gamemaster may not want to allow player character Orcs or Trolls because members of those races are usually not free enough of external domination (evil masters, such as Nazgûl or Sauron) to be controlled by a player. However, a Gamemaster running a game set in the 4th Age of Middle-earth (i.e., after the destruction of Sauron and The Ring) might allow player characters to be Orcs and Trolls.

In order to get a feeling of which races are usually suitable for player characters the Gamemaster should read the race descriptions in Section 2.21. The Race Table CGT-3 gives races which we suggest might be suitable.

The Gamemaster may wish to require a random determination of race and culture based upon Table CGT-3.

Once the race has been chosen the player should determine the character's appearance. Factors affecting a character's appearance include height, weight, age, hair color, eye color, demeanor, etc. These characteristics and their significance are described in Section 2.21 for each race (and culture). The Gamemaster must decide whether to assign these characteristics or whether the players may choose the characteristics within the limits given in the race descriptions.

To obtain the character's Appearance (AP), make a roll (1-100) and then add the character's stat bonus for Presence (see Table BT-1). The Appearance may not exceed 100 through this method, although it may reach 101 (but not 102) by using background options (see Section 2.51). If the Gamemaster allows it, a character may exchange his Appearance with one of his stats. We suggest that this only be allowed if the character's Appearance is increased by the exchange.

EXAMPLE: Still thinking of Aragorn, Varak chooses to be a Dúnadan (the singular of Dúnedain). He records this in the "RACE" space, and looks up and records his special racial modifications from Table BT-3.

NAME: VARAK TANUK
RACE: DÚNADAN
HEIGHT: 6'5"
WEIGHT: 220 lbs.
HAIR: BLACK
DEMEANOR: STERN

After reading the racial description of the Dúnadan in Section 2.21, the player decides that Varak will be 6'5", 220 lb., with black hair, grey eyes, and a stern demeanor. He also records which languages (and to what rank) a Dúnadan knows. A 77 is rolled for Appearance; and with a Presence stat bonus of +5, Varak's Appearance is 82 (fairly good-looking). He decides not to exchange this 82 with one of his stats.

3.3 ADOLESCENCE SKILL DEVELOPMENT

Table CGT-5 indicates what skills a character develops during his adolescence (early life), and also how much the skill rank is increased in each skill. The significance and mechanics of skills are described in Section 2.32. These skills are based upon the character's race or cultural background. For example, if a man is raised in an Elven society he would use the appropriate Elven skill development. On his Character Record Sheet the player should place "X's" in the number of skill rank boxes indicated below for each skill. Some skills are not included on the tables below because no race develops those skills during adolescence.

EXAMPLE: Varak must now record the skill ranks, languages, and spell lists obtained during his Adolescence (see Table CGT-5).

Varak really gets lucky when he rolls to try and learn a spell list. Needing to roll (1-100) "10" or less, he rolls an "04" and learns a spell list. He chooses "Moving Ways" and records it. Varak also gets 6 ranks of language; he chooses one more rank in Quenya, 3 ranks in Rohirric, and one each in Hobbitish and Silvan. He would like to have picked Khuzdul (Dwarvish), but the Gamemaster ruled that he would not have had the opportunity during his youth.

LANGUAGES		RANK	SPELL LISTS		chance

2)	WESTRON	5	2)		[]
3)	QUENYA	2	3)		[]
4)	SINDARIN	5	4)		[]
5)	ROHIRRIC	3	5)		[]
6)	HOBBITISH	1	6)		[]
7)	SILVAN	1	7)		[]

Varak marks his Adolescence skill ranks with "X's" in the appropriate boxes (see Table CGT-5). He marks one box each in No Armor, Rigid Leather, Missile weapons, 2-Handed weapons, Polearms, Riding, Swimming, Reading Runes, and Using Items. He marks two boxes in Chain and 1-H Edged weapons. Finally, he marks three boxes in Body Development.

CGT-1 – LANGUAGE RANK TABLE

Rank 1	Allows basic verbal communication through simple phrases (e.g., Safe to eat?, Danger ahead?, What is cost?, Where is bathroom?, etc.). No reading or writing.
Rank 2	Allows speech on very simple subjects through simple sentences if both parties speak slowly and with great care. Allows the reading of simple sentences for a basic overview, but few details and no writing.
Rank 3	Allows speech with a fluency equivalent to that of an average native speaker, but without the tonal qualities (i.e., the speech would be accented). Allows the ability to read and write moderately simple passages but not for subtle concepts (i.e., about fifth grade level).
Rank 4	Speech as in Rank 3, and the ability to read and write as an average literate man (i.e., about ninth grade level).
Rank 5	Allows absolute fluency with no accent and total literacy.

* — If the player rolls equal to or below this number (1 — 100), his character learns a spell list. The actual choice of this spell list is not made until the player has chosen a profession for his character, because the choice must be made within the restrictions of his profession (see Section 2.4) and race (see Section 2.21).

† — This allows the player to increase the ranks of languages he already knows due to his race (up to a rank of 5), or it allows him to choose other languages and develop ranks in them, or a combination of the two possibilities.

3.4 CHOOSING A PROFESSION

After a character's stats have been assigned, his racial factors determined, and his adolescence skills recorded, the player must choose one of the six professions (see Section 2.4) and record it on his Character Record Sheet. The Gamesmaster may wish to restrict certain races from choosing certain professions (e.g., Dwarves and Hobbits may not be Mages or Bards). Suggestions for such restrictions appropriate to Middle-earth are summarized in the descriptions of the individual races (see Section 2.21).

Each profession has one stat which is that profession's "prime stat". The prime stats are Strength for a Warrior, Agility for a Scout, Intelligence for a Mage, Intuition for an Animist, Constitution for a Ranger, and Presence for a Bard. If the player wishes he may replace the value previously assigned to his character's prime stat with a 90.

The character should then choose a realm of magic (see Section 4.5) at this point. This is automatic for Mages (Essence), Animists (Channeling), Bards (Essence), and Rangers (Channeling); Warriors and Scouts have the option of choosing either Essence or Channeling. The character should also record how many power points (see Section 4.5) he has for casting spells. The number of power points a character gets per level can be obtained from Table BT-1, using his Intelligence stat (if his realm is Essence) or his Intuition stat (if his realm is Channeling).

The character should also total his stat bonuses at this point and record that he is 1st level and has 10000 Experience Points.

EXAMPLE: Varak chooses to become a Ranger. He records this, along with the other factors determined at this time: his Realm (for casting spells) is Channeling (since he is a Ranger), his level is 1st, and he has 10000 experience points. He also (cleverly) decides to replace his prime stat as a Ranger, Constitution, with a 90. This is done and the stat bonus is upgraded from +0 to +10. Since his Realm is Channeling his Power Points are determined by Intuition; from Table BT-1, we look up and record that his Power Point total is 1. Finally, Varak totals his normal stat bonuses and his racial stat bonuses to obtain his total stat bonus.

3.5 BACKGROUND OPTIONS AND DETAILS

Each player character has a certain number of "Background Points" based upon his race (as indicated in the last row of Table CGT-5). These points must be allocated to the "Background Options" described in Section 2.51. The Gamemaster may decide to assign these options in his own manner, or he may allow the players to choose from or roll on the Background Option Tables CGT-2. The results of these choices should be marked on the player's Character Record Sheet.

After the character has allocated his points to his background options, the Gamemaster should define his background (see Section 2.52). The Gamemaster can base this background upon the character's race, profession, and background option choices, as well as the setting of the game. This is up to the Gamemaster even though the player character concerned may have some input.

EXAMPLE: Varak must now allocate his background option points; he has 3 points since he is a Dunedain (see Table CGT-5). He puts one point into Special Abilities, one into Special Items, and one into Hobby Skill Ranks (see Section 2.51). His Gamemaster has decided to allow the players to choose from the Background Option Table CGT-2 instead of having to roll.

Varak chooses "Very Observant" as his special ability since he is a Ranger, and records his +10 bonus in the "Special" column of the Track skill row and the Perception skill row. He also writes "Very Observant" next to SPECIAL on the Character Record Sheet.

SPECIAL:
Track . . .	IG			+10
Perception . . .	IT			+10
Varak chooses a +15 broadsword as his special item, and records a +15 in the "Item" column of the I-H Edged row.

WEAPON SKILLS (Offensive Bonuses):

I-H Edged . . .	ST			+15
-----------------	----	--	--	------------	--

Finally, he chooses to put his hobby skill ranks into Caving (a secondary skill, Section 2.33). Since it is a secondary skill he gets 5 skill ranks and records them.

SECONDARY SKILLS:

Based upon these choices, the Gamemaster and player get together and decide upon a brief outline of his background. Varak is the younger son of Canae Tanuk, a Dúadan Ranger of Northern Arnor. All of his family but his father were killed in an Orc attack when he was young. He was trained by his father in Caving and Woodsmanship. He is exceptionally sharp-eyed and observant. His father disappeared when he was 17, leaving only his +15 broadsword that Varak carries. Varak plans to find out what happened to him as soon as he finishes his apprenticeship under his father's best friend, Pralorn Durban. The Gamemaster plans to flesh out this background as Varak adventures and finds out more details about his family.

3.6 APPRENTICESHIP SKILL DEVELOPMENT

After background options and a profession have been chosen each character must develop skills during his apprenticeship. Based upon his profession, the character receives a certain number of Skill development points in each of the skill categories as indicated in Table CGT-4. This process is also used each time that a character's level increases. The various skills and categories are described in Section 2.32.

The development points in a given category may be used towards increasing skill ranks (see Section 2.3) in that category. A skill rank may be increased by one (and one only), by using one of these development points. A skill rank may be increased by two by using a total of three development points. A skill rank may not be increased by more than 2 ranks during the apprenticeship.

The exception to these rules are the Movement and Maneuver skills. A character may allocate to any of the Movement and Maneuver skills as many of his development points that he has available in the Movement and Maneuver category (and those he transfers). Each point increases the skill rank by one, regardless of how many points are allocated to that skill.

EXAMPLE: Varak must now develop his skills during his Apprenticeship. Remember that some skills have already had their ranks increased during Adolescence skill development. He checks Table CGT-4 and finds out how many development points he gets in each category:

Weapon Skills	— 3	Body Development	— 2
General Skills	— 4	Languages	— 1
Subterfuge Skills	— 2	Movement and Maneuver	— 2
Magical Skills	— 0	Spell Lists	— 1

Varak decides to concentrate his weapon development in 1-H Edged weapons and puts all 3 of his Weapon Skill points into 1-H Edged, increasing that skill rank by 2. Remember (except for Movement and Maneuver skills), an allocation of 1 point increases a skill rank by 1, but an allocation of 3 points only increases a skill rank by 2. He also puts both of his Movement and Maneuver points into Rigid Leather, increasing his Rigid Leather skill rank by 2.

Looking at his 2 points in Subterfuge Skills, he decides to put one point into Stalk/Hide and one point into Disarm Traps. He puts one of his General Skills points into Track and one into Climb, and decides to transfer the other 2 General Skills points to Body Development, resulting in a total of 3 points for Body Development (since development points normally transfer at a rate of 2 to 1).

TRANSFERRING DEVELOPMENT POINTS — Development points that have not been used may be transferred to another category. If the category that the points are transferred to has an initial development point total that is zero (e.g., Weapon Skills for a Mage or Spell Lists for Warriors and Scouts), then that category receives one development point for every four transferred. If the category that the points are transferred to has an initial development point total that is not zero, then that category receives one development point for every two transferred. Points may be transferred from several categories. Unused points are lost. Points from any category or combination of categories may be used to develop the Perception skill (i.e., transferred on a 1 to 1 basis).

SPELL LISTS — Each development point used on a spell list gives a 20% chance of "learning" (see Section 4.5) a spell list, thus using 5 points gives a 100% chance of learning a list. A given character may only roll once during apprenticeship to learn a spell list. If a character attempts to learn a list and fails, the development points carry over to learning the list for the next level (see Section 2.63). These points should be recorded on the Character Record Sheet next to the spell list name. If enough points are expended to give a 100% chance of learning a list, the character may expend more points to take a chance of learning a second list (20% chance per point). A character's profession (see Section 2.4) and race (see Section 2.21) determine which spell lists he may learn.

He uses the 3 points that he has in Body Development to increase that skill's rank by 2. Since points from any category can be used for Perception (on a 1 to 1 basis), he uses his Language point to increase his Perception skill rank by one.

Finally, he uses his point in Spell Lists to try and learn the "Nature's Guises" list. This gives him a 20% chance of learning the list (rolling less than or equal to 20). He rolls an 84 and does not learn the list. However, he records the list and the fact that he has a 20% chance to build on when he reaches the next level.

3.7 READYING THE PLAYER CHARACTER

Once the player has completed the steps outlined in Sections 3.1-3.6, he needs to obtain equipment and supplies for his character. He also needs to total each of his bonuses (i.e., Offensive Bonuses, Defensive Bonus, Moving Maneuver bonuses, etc.).

3.71 OUTFITTING

Each character begins the game with two normal weapons of his choice (in addition to any special items). He must have a skill rank of 1 or more in each weapon skill that applies to the weapons. He begins with one set of armor (MM bonus must be -10 or higher). In addition, he begins with clothes (including cloak and boots), scabbards for his weapons, a weapons belt, and normal personal effects.

Each character starts with two gold pieces with which to buy equipment and to survive on until he can get more. In addition he may start with more money from his background options (see Section 2.51). The character may purchase (and start the game) any equipment and supplies that he wishes from Tables ST-4 and ST-5 with this cash. If the character has enough money, these purchases may include herbs (see Table ST-5) and items with magic bonuses (see Table ST-4, Table ST-7, and Section 4.56). The Gamemaster may wish to make other equipment available. The players can keep track of their supplies and equipment on the back of their Character Record Sheets.

EXAMPLE: Varak must now determine what equipment and supplies he will carry. As starting equipment, he may automatically choose to have:

	weight in lb.
His +15 sword (only weighs 3 lb)	3
Rigid Leather Armor	wear
A Handaxe	5
A Composite Bow	3
Weapons belt	wear
Clothes (includes boots & cloak), personal effects	wear
	11

Varak has 2 gold pieces to spend on other equipment (from the Equipment and Price Table ST-4). He decides to buy:

gp	sp	bp	cp	tp*		weight in lb.
0	0	0	0	0	Starting equipment	11
0	2	5	0	0	Leather helm	wear
0	5	5	0	0	Shield	15
0	3	0	0	0	Dagger	1
0	1	0	0	0	2 Quivers of 20 Arrows each	6
0	0	2	0	0	Backpack	2
0	0	2	0	0	Bedroll	5
0	0	1	0	0	Tarp	4
0	0	1	0	0	Flint and steel	½
0	2	4	0	0	100' superior rope	6
0	0	0	1	5	5 torches	5
0	0	0	1	0	Waterskin (full)	1
0	0	1	0	0	Trail rations (1 week)	14
1	5	1	2	5		70 ½ lb.

* gp = goldpiece; sp = silver piece; etc. . . .

Varak decides against arm greaves (-5 to OB) and leg greaves (-5 to Movement and Maneuvers), due to the cost and penalties. These purchases leave him with 4 silver pieces, 8 bronze pieces, 7 copper pieces, and 5 tin pieces.

3.72 CALCULATING THE ENCUMBRANCE PENALTY

After the character has been outfitted, the player should total the weights of all of the character's equipment and supplies (other than clothes and armor), rounding down to the nearest pound. If the total is over 15 pounds, a penalty may result. Table BT-5 gives the penalty for carrying excess weight; this penalty is applied to ALL movement and moving maneuvers. If running or attempting to run (see Section 6.41), the encumbrance penalty is applied before the doubling effect for doubled movement. This penalty should be placed in the "ENCUMBRANCE PENALTY" space on the Character Record Sheet.

3.73 TOTALING THE BONUSES

At this point the player must determine and total his bonuses for skills and other capabilities.

Skill Rank Bonuses: The number of skill ranks is totaled for each skill and the bonus is determined from Table BT-4 and recorded on the Character Record Sheet on the appropriate skill's bonus line.

Stat Bonuses: For each stat, the stat bonus is obtained from Table BT-1, and the racial stat bonus modification is obtained from Table BT-3. Both are written in the appropriate space next to the stats on the Character Record Sheet, and then the totals are written next to them. These stat bonuses are also recorded on the bonus line of any skill to which they apply (see Section 2.7).

Professional Bonuses: Each profession receives bonuses for certain skills and skill categories (see Section 2.4). These bonuses are recorded on the appropriate bonus lines on the Character Record Sheet.

Item Bonuses: Certain magic items provide bonuses to certain skills. These bonuses should be recorded on the Character Record Sheet.

Special Bonuses: These bonuses can come from background options, spells, armor penalties, etc. Some of these bonuses are already on the Character Record Sheet. Total these bonuses for each skill and place them in the appropriate spaces on the player Character Record Sheet.

Finally for each skill, all of the bonuses are summed to obtain the total bonus which is used in play.

NOTE: No "Movement and Maneuver" bonus for a given character can exceed the sum of his Agility stat bonus + 10.

EXAMPLE: In the example in the previous section, Varak equipped himself and figured out how much weight he was carrying, 70 ½ lb. He checks Table BT-5, and finds his penalty is -25. Since he is extremely strong, he has a strength bonus of +25, resulting in an Encumbrance Penalty of 0. For a normal person (with no strength bonus), the Encumbrance Penalty would be -25. People have teased Varak that he would make a good pack animal (the teasing does not usually last long and is not repeated).

Varak would start incurring a penalty if he picked up 10 more pounds of stuff, so he tells the Gamemaster that a lot of the heavy stuff (backpack, waterskin, rope, most of the rations, bedroll, tarp, and torches) is in his backpack. Then even if he enters a fight or has to run away carrying someone, he can drop his pack and his Encumbrance penalty will not cause him to suffer much (it can never be greater than 0).

ENCUMBRANCE PENALTY: ST +25 + -25 = +0

NOTE: An additional penalty of 5 is added to the maximum penalty above for each 10 lb. over 160 lb.

EXAMPLE: Varak now fills in all of his bonuses and totals them. His item and special bonuses are a +15 broadsword, -5 to Perception when wearing a helmet, and +10 to Tracking and Perception.

His professional bonuses are +2 for Weapon Skills, Perception, and Stalking/Hiding. He also gets +3 on all General Skills.

The Stat bonuses come straight from his Character Record Sheet.

and the Skillrank bonuses are obtained from Table BT-4 (-25 for skill rank 0, and 5 times the skill rank otherwise).

For each skill rank in Body Development, Varak may roll D1-10. He rolls: 5, 8, 4, 3, and 4; for a total of 24. This plus his stat bonus of +20 and the standard +5, give Varak 49 hits. Thus he can take 49 hits in damage before he passes out.

3.8 BRINGING A PLAYER CHARACTER TO LIFE

The player should develop a scheme and outline of his player character's basic character traits (see Section 2.8). These may be the player's own traits, in which the player character is basically the player himself placed in the game world and situation. Alternatively the player may choose a persona entirely different from his own, or some medium between the two extremes.

EXAMPLE: Varak is a noble person, devoted to fighting evil in the form of the minions of Sauron. Unfortunately, he tends to carry this to an extreme; to him mere association with a known agent of Sauron should be punished by quick execution. Likewise, he feels that many neutral people who steal or perform "evil" acts must be destroyed. His motivation is to become as powerful as possible, so as to most effectively thwart the plans of the Dark Lord. He also wants to find his father (living or dead), if it does not interfere with his personal war against evil.

4.0 THE WORLD SYSTEM — THE GAMEMASTER'S TASK

In order to run a fantasy role playing game a Gamemaster must develop and outline all of the basic components of a "World System". These components are similar to the components of a novel or play:

- 1) A setting must be developed for action to take place in.
- 2) The characters who inhabit the setting must be sketched out.
- 3) A general plot or scenario must be outlined.
- 4) Decisions must be made concerning how to handle certain elements of role playing (e.g., adventures, magic, religion, healing, poisons, etc.).

Developing the components mentioned above requires a lot of work and effort on the part of the Gamemaster. There exists a number of commercial products which provide part or all of each of these components. Adventure or campaign modules provide settings, characters, and scenarios, while rules systems such as MERP provide the guidelines for handling the various elements of role playing. A Gamemaster should keep in mind that all such play aids are merely guidelines for his own creativity and imagination. These modules and rules are meant to be modified and adapted to fit the Gamemaster's concept of what he wants his "world system" to be like.

For a Middle-earth world system, the Gamemaster should first and foremost read and absorb J.R.R. Tolkien's works, primarily The Hobbit and The Lord of the Rings. These novels provide a rich, descriptive outline of an exciting setting — all of Arda, and Middle-earth in particular. They introduce an enormous variety of types of characters and creatures — Elves, Hobbits, Dúnedain, Wizards, Ents, Nazgûl, Orcs, Trolls, Dragons, Balrogs, etc. And of course the novels are intertwined with a plot of truly epic proportions (the struggle of the Free Peoples against the Dark Lord, Sauron of Mordor, and his minions).

Iron Crown Enterprises' (I.C.E.) Campaign and Adventure Guidebook for Middle-earth provides a wealth of general information on Middle-earth. It describes the principle inhabitants, languages, cultures, topography, climate, trade routes, population centers, and a variety of other factors concerning Middle-earth. It also provides a 24"x36" full color poster map of the entire continent of Middle-earth, including the wild lands north, south, and east of the Western Middle-earth detailed by J.R.R. Tolkien.

Iron Crown Enterprises' Middle-earth Campaign Modules provide even more detail concerning specific regions of Middle-earth. These modules provide a view of Tolkien's Middle-earth and are concerned with the necessary elements of setting, culture, characters, and plot which specifically apply to fantasy role playing. They include detailed maps of the region covered by the module, descriptions of the cultures and specific major adventure locations in the area, and other material which makes a Gamemaster's job easier and more productive.

I.C.E.'s Middle-earth Adventure Modules are descriptions of specific locations for ready-to-run adventures that provide all of the material needed for a number of sessions of a fantasy role playing game. The Middle-earth Role Playing system includes a very simple sample adventure module, THE LAST BRIDGE, which is designed to be played by a beginning Gamemaster and group. THE LAST BRIDGE includes the inn at the "Last Bridge" on the road from Bree to Rivendell, the Trollshaws region, a Troll lair, and a ruined castle. After beginning a group in this area a Gamemaster can outline and design an area of his own in Middle-earth, or he can use one of I.C.E.'s Modules set in an adjacent region or another section of Middle-earth: Bree and the Barrow-Downs, Angmar, Northern Mirkwood, Isengard, etc.

Whichever approach a Gamemaster employs, MERP provides guidelines and suggestions for designing and organizing the key elements of his fantasy role playing game. The following sections discuss the various elements of a fantasy role playing game and present some of the problems and situations that may arise during play.

4.1 THE SETTING

The setting for a game can vary according to the amount of time, effort, or money a Gamemaster is willing to spend. Fortunately for a Gamemaster running a game in Middle-earth, an enormous amount of the work has already been done — by J.R.R. Tolkien. Further detailed material is also available in the form of I.C.E.'s modules. Playing aids such as maps, layouts of building and towns, descriptions of various hazards, and provisions for treasure are all necessary ingredients for a setting that is realistic and playable.

For the purpose of bringing beginning Gamemasters gradually into fantasy role playing, MERP will simplify the process of constructing and designing a setting for a game. The three basic types of settings defined in MERP are: civilized areas, the countryside, and adventure sites. Each type of setting satisfies a different need in a fantasy role playing game, while the three taken together provide a framework that will handle most situations that arise in a game.

4.11 CIVILIZED AREAS

Civilized areas in a fantasy role playing game provide a place for player characters (and other characters) to buy and sell things, to get food and lodging, to get information on potential adventures, to heal and recuperate, etc. In other words a civilized area is a place that serves as a base of operations for a group of adventurers. These areas also have potential for adventures such as attacks by thieves or muggers, con jobs, tavern brawls, attempted poisonings, etc. Suggestions for various activities of this type and guidelines on how to run them are presented in Section 5.1.

A civilized area can be as simple as an isolated inn or castle (the sample civilized area provided with MERP is the inn at the Last Bridge), or as complex as a huge city with intricate internal politics and adventures. In general, a civilized area setting (see Part III for a complete example) can be described by providing:

- 1) Maps and layouts.
- 2) A description of inhabitants and visitors.
- 3) A price list of available services, supplies and equipment.
- 4) Some sort of outline of available information and clues.
- 5) An outline of available healing and recuperation facilities.
- 6) An outline of possible hazards and adventures.
- 7) A basic description of the area's current events and mood.

4.12 COUNTRYSIDE

The countryside in a fantasy role playing game includes all of the areas of the world which are not adventure sites (see Section 4.13) or civilized areas (see Section 4.11). The countryside is the setting in which characters can travel, camp, explore, scout, hide, and evade pursuing forces. Characters can also encounter creatures and other characters in the countryside, resulting in ambushes, fights, meeting, sightings, etc. These activities and how to resolve them are detailed in section 5.2. Basically, the countryside is the general setting in which the civilized areas and adventure sites are placed.

The countryside that a Gamemaster uses can be represented by a simple pencil sketch of a small area with the primary terrain features, the locations of the civilized areas, and the locations of the adventure sites all marked. Alternatively, the countryside can include all of Middle-earth in a very general form (from the maps in J.R.R. Tolkien's works and I.C.E.'s Middle-earth continent map), along with very detailed maps and descriptions of the specific region in which the game is taking place. The map and sample terrain layout provided in MERP are good examples of a detailed countryside. In general, an adequate countryside (see Part III for a complete example) can be described by providing:

- 1) A sketch map of the overall world.
- 2) Detailed maps of the specific area in which the adventures occur.
- 3) The location of civilized areas and adventure sites.
- 4) Sketches of typical terrain that might be encountered.
- 5) A description of normal creatures and inhabitants.
- 6) A description of characters and creatures who might pass through.
- 7) A list of possible encounters and hazards (including weather).

4.13 ADVENTURE SITES

Adventure sites are specific places which provide opportunities for characters to sneak around, explore, fight, loot, and all of the other things that contribute to the central objective of fantasy role playing — adventure. Section 4.4 describes some suggested types of adventures. Adventure sites usually have several common attributes: they have a physical layout (a castle, a ruin, a cave complex, a temple, etc.), they have some sort of danger (guards, hostile inhabitants, traps, etc.), and they have some sort of objective or goal (treasure, rescuing captives, wiping out evil creatures, etc.). These features are described in the following sections. Activities in adventure sites are resolved as actions in a tactical environment (see Section 6.0).

The range of the complexity of an adventure site varies from a simple cave (for an example see the Troll cave in Part III), to a ruined castle (for an example see the castle in Part III), to the complexity of ruined cities and hollowed out mountains. In general, an adventure site (see Part III for two complete examples) can be described by providing:

- 1) Why the place was designed and built originally.
- 2) What (if anything) has happened to make the place an adventure site.
- 3) What the place currently is used for.
- 4) Who or what lives there, or visits frequently.
- 5) The layout and its immediate surrounding area.
- 6) The hazards (traps, guards and inhabitants).
- 7) Any treasure or goals.

Physical Layouts — To run characters in an adventure site the Gamemaster must have at least a sketch of the site's physical layout. This can be a simple sketch of the rooms, door, walls, corridors, towers, etc. and their relationship to one another. The layouts in Part III provide an example of how to approach designing adventure sites.

Hazards — In order for an adventure site to provide exciting action, there must be hazards. This may take the form of guards, traps, and hostile inhabitants like Men, Orcs, Trolls, and other creatures (see Section 4.2). The hazards may include natural obstacles like sheer walls, chasms, collapsing walls, etc. Their location should be marked on the adventure site's physical layouts. The adventure sites in Part III provide examples of some of these hazards.

Goals and Objectives — Characters have to have some reason to visit an adventure site. This can take the form of a mission, such as rescuing a prisoner, scouting out the adventure site, assassinating someone, stealing something, and a variety of things limited only by the imagination. Many times it may just be a desire to fight, loot, and pillage — the key word being LOOT.

Treasure — Table ST-6 provides a list of some of the types of treasure that might be found in an adventure site: money, gems, weapons, armor, magic items, spells on scrolls, spells in potions, and clues to other objectives (maps, books, inscriptions, etc.). Treasure should not be restricted to this table; magic items and spells are only limited by the imagination. Very powerful items are called artifacts and usually have a detailed history, purpose and alignment (i.e., good or evil). Magic items are discussed in more detail in Section 4.56. A Gamemaster must be careful when he sets up the treasure at an adventure site. Too much money or too powerful items can unbalance a game, while players can lose interest in a game with too little money or items.

4.2 THE NON-PLAYER CHARACTERS (NPC's)

A fantasy role playing game not only needs settings (see Section 4.1), it also needs characters and creatures to inhabit those settings. The player characters provide the adventurers for a game, but it is up to the Gamemaster (or his choice of playing aids) to provide the rest of his world's population, the non-player characters and creatures. Of course, the Gamemaster does not need to develop the entire population of Middle-earth; he need only sketch out the nonplayer characters that are required for interaction with the player character. For a simple game, the non-player characters usually required include: allies and opponents for the player characters, neutral characters for the player characters to interact with (e.g., to buy and sell to, get information from, pay taxes to, etc.), and any other characters and creatures who can add depth and flavor to a fantasy role playing game.

Playing aids such as I.C.E.'s modules usually provide complete descriptions of a variety of non-player characters, along with guidelines for how to use them. The example adventure in Part III gives the non-player characters required by that adventure. These characters should provide a good sample of the various types of non-player characters and creatures that are useful in fantasy role playing. The Master Character Table (ST-3) provides average bonuses for characters, based on profession and level. The rest of Section 4.2 will outline some of the most important classes of non-player characters and creatures.

When deciding what non-player characters do in a given situation or how they react, a Gamemaster may wish to make an open-ended "reaction roll". As a very general guideline, if the reaction roll is high the non-player character should react favorably with regard to the player characters in the given situation. If the roll is low the reaction should be unfavorable, and if it is mid-range the reaction is neutral. The intensity of the reaction should be based upon how high or low the reaction roll is.

EXAMPLE: In the sample adventure presented in Part I (p6), three Orcs exit their camp at dusk by walking up a flight of stairs to the ground floor of a ruined tower. The first hint they get of danger is when their leader is shot through the neck and dropped. The two remaining Orcs look around and see a female human kneeling over a chest with her back to them, a Dwarf with a still "smoking" (and thus unloaded) crossbow, and an Elf levitating about 14' over the Dwarf.

Their options in order of aggressiveness are to: attack the Dwarf, attack the kneeling human, draw a short bow, take cover and fight defensively, slowly retreat looking for possible openings to attack, or flee. The Gamemaster takes into account the death of their leader (Orc leaders usually lead through intimidation), and makes a reaction roll for each Orc (high being aggressive). The first Orc rolls 06 and flees for his life (or to "get help"), the second rolls a 91 and "bravely" decides to attack the nearest and of course "weakest" opponent, the kneeling female human with her back to him.

If he had rolled much above the 91, he would have charged the sneaky (but tough) Dwarf who shot his leader. If he had rolled a medium roll, he would have drawn a missile weapon or taken some defensive type action. Of course, on a low roll he would have joined his buddy and run away.

4.21 THE GENERAL POPULACE

The first step in outlining the non-player characters is to determine the races and cultures which inhabit the world at large. For Middle-earth, such a general populace is detailed in Tolkien's works and in I.C.E.'s campaign and adventure modules. MERP provides very general descriptions of these races and cultures in Section 2.21 and Appendix 1 (Section 8.0).

Next the Gamemaster must decide which races and cultures inhabit the specific region of Middle-earth in which his game is to take place. The example adventure in MERP (Part III) is set in the area between Bree and Rivendell. Thus, in terms of MERP, races in the surrounding area include Hobbits, Dwarves, Elves, Orcs, Trolls, and Men; the local cultures of Men include Dúnedain, Woodmen, Rural-men, and Dunlendings.

Defining the general populace allows the Gamemaster to visualize the way of life of the region along with the motivations and obvious features and mannerisms of the non-player characters. It also helps him to develop a plot for his game (see Section 4.3) and provides an aid for developing richer player character backgrounds (see Section 2.52).

4.22 HOSTILE POPULATIONS

The members of races or cultures which are hostile to the player characters must be defined in more detail than the general populace. This must be done because the player characters are most likely to encounter them during an adventure. That is, player characters are most likely to choose to visit an adventure site (see Section 4.13) inhabited by members of a hostile population.

If the player characters are members of the Free Peoples (good guys or neutral) of Middle-earth, the hostile population will in general consist of Orcs, Trolls, evil creatures, and evil or neutral Men. For beginning games, we suggest that the player characters not be evil, since evil groups of characters are much harder for a Gamemaster to run.

4.23 INHABITANTS OF ADVENTURE SITES

Normally the inhabitants of an adventure site are members of the hostile population. However this is not always true as the inhabitants may be friendly or neutral towards the player characters. In such a case the site is an adventure site because the player characters want someone or something that is at that spot. Such a situation is interesting, but it may be too complex a situation for an inexperienced Gamemaster to handle. We suggest that for beginning fantasy role players the inhabitants of adventure sites be hostile.

Keep in mind that intelligent inhabitants of an adventure site will require certain features in an adventure site: a reason for being there, a food supply, a water supply, toilet facilities (sometimes), entertainment (e.g., for Orcs this could be torturing prisoners or each other), and a variety of other things.

Thinking Races — The most dangerous (and thus exciting for adventures) foe is an intelligent or somewhat intelligent character. So in Middle-earth many of the adventure sites will be occupied by Orcs, Trolls, evil Men, evil Elves, etc. There are also many intelligent creatures in Middle-earth not generally thought of as characters or people (e.g., Dragons, Ents, etc.).

Flora and Fauna — Many adventure sites will be inhabited by animals (defined as not particularly intelligent creatures) and plants. Animals may be non-hostile, non-hostile unless bothered, non-hostile unless attacked, hostile, aggressively hostile, etc. They may also be under the control of intelligent inhabitants of the adventure site. Table ST-2 summarizes the capabilities of many of the animals of Middle-earth. Plants are sometimes dangerous, but more often they are sources of food, healing, or poison. They are sometimes the goal that adventurers are after (e.g., they are looking for certain herbs to heal one of their characters).

Monsters and Other Creatures — In addition to characters and animals, Middle-earth adventure sites may have a variety of monsters and intelligent creatures. Tolkien's writings are full of creatures such as Dragons, Giant Spiders, Balrogs, Wargs, Kraken, Ents and many other enchanted or unusual creatures. These types of creatures are described in Section 4.24 and Appendix 2 (Section 9.0).

4.24 DESCRIPTIONS OF MIDDLE-EARTH CREATURES

The special monsters and animals of Tolkien's world are very important to any campaign. The creatures vary from minor nuisances like Dumbledors to major irritants such as Balrogs. Some of these monsters are intelligent and/or social animals and need special care when being encountered. Some of these special monsters have been given detailed racial descriptions in Section 2.21 and Appendix 1 (Section 8.0); only the combat characteristics are covered in Table ST-2. A large number of the monsters in Tolkien's world are very powerful. Monsters such as Balrogs and Dragons should not be faced by low level characters or inexperienced players.

This is a list of special Middle-earth creatures that may be used by Gamemasters within the MERP rules. Other creatures may be invented or used, but the Gamemaster must decide their traits and capabilities. Appendix 2 (Section 9.0) provides detailed descriptions of each of these creatures.

Balrogs	Mearas
Crebain	Mewlips
Dragon	Mûmakil
Dumbeldors	Nazgûl
Great Eagles	Olog-hai
Ents	Orcs
Faistitycelyn	Great Spiders
Fell Beasts	Trolls
Flies of Mordor	Vampires
Giants	Wargs
Hummerhorns	Werewolves
Huorns	Wights
Krakens

4.25 ASSOCIATES OF THE PLAYER CHARACTERS

Often a Gamemaster and players will want to have non-player characters that associate or adventure with the group of player characters. This is often necessary when there are not enough player characters to make a group large enough to handle a particular adventure. In addition, it is often helpful to have allies or a powerful friend to help balance overly powerful foes. In Tolkien's novel, The Hobbit, Gandalf fulfilled this role for the group of Dwarves and Bilbo during their adventures. The "plot" (see Section 4.3) of the Gamemaster's world will heavily influence how such non-player characters are introduced and used.

Hiring Non-player Characters — Player characters may wish to hire non-player characters to adventure with them. A Gamemaster must decide what kind and how many characters are available at a given time and civilized area (see Section 8.1 for an example). The number of available characters should be limited in the smaller civilized areas. In Middle-earth Warriors and Scouts should be the most available, with Bards and Rangers being less common, Animists being rare, and Mages being even rarer.

To hire a non-player character, the Gamemaster should require a roll on the Influence and Interaction Column of the Static Maneuver Table (MT-2). For a given civilized area the Gamemaster should rate the difficulty of hiring non-player characters who are looking to go adventuring. The following ratings for difficulty are based upon the offer made by the character attempting to hire. They might be applicable for the sample adventure in Section 8.0 (it should vary based upon how many players there are). A "share" is the total money value of non-magic treasure (gp, sp, bp, cp, tp, and gems; see Section 4.8) obtained during the adventure divided by the number of non-hired members.

Difficulty Offer Made

- Routine — 1 gp (or more) per day plus a full share.
- Easy — 5-9 sp per day plus half of a share.
- Light — 5-9 sp per day plus a quarter of a share.
- Medium — 1 gp (or more) per day.
- Hard — 5-9 sp per day.
- Very Hard — 1-4 sp per day.
- Extremely Hard — A half of a share.
- Sheer Folly — A quarter of a share.
- Absurd — "Come adventure with us"

After being hired, the Gamemaster still controls the hired character, but the hirer should decide his actions in non-crucial or non-dangerous situations. Unless the hirer makes a successful influence or interaction roll, the Gamemaster should make a "reaction" roll for the hired character in dangerous or distasteful situations to determine his actions. A relatively low roll would indicate an unwillingness to enter or deal with the situation, while a relatively high roll would indicate willingness.

Allies — Certain non-player characters may be allies of the player characters and aid them if they happen to be on the same mission or in the same area. A good example of this is the meeting between Frodo and Sam with Faramir and the Rangers of Ithilien in the forests of North Ithilien. Frodo and Faramir were "allies", and Faramir gave Frodo advice, aid, and a place to rest. The Gamemaster may wish to structure his game so that the player characters have allies to turn to for healing, information and help.

Guardians — While hired characters and allies are more passive examples of the type of help a Gamemaster may give to player characters, "guardians" are more active forms of aid. Guardians are non-player characters who either show up when needed or when summoned by the player characters. For example, Tom Bombadil was a guardian for Frodo and his friends for a little while after they left the Old Forest. When they were about to be destroyed by Wights, Frodo summoned Tom Bombadil by reciting a verse. We suggest that guardians be limited by distance, the number of times that they may be called, or the severity of the danger faced by the player characters. Guardians can vary in their power and effectiveness.

4.3 THE PLOT

The plot for a fantasy role playing game consists of the general politics of the world, the activities and objectives of the non-player characters, the goals and incentives for the player characters, and the interactions between all of these elements. A plot can be as simple as a ruined tower inhabited with bandits and their treasure (the player characters want the loot). On the other hand, a plot can be as complex as the plot in The Lord of the Rings. We suggest a simple plot for beginners. Part III provides such a plot with a castle holding the possibility for treasure and adventure.

4.31 GENERAL POLITICS

Sketching out the general politics for a game helps the Gamemaster make decisions concerning the actions of non-player characters. It also helps him make the player characters' backgrounds come to life. It provides a framework for the general course of events in the regions that the player characters travel through. For example, a war or armed raid may be taking place in an area where the player characters are adventuring.

The World Politics — The politics of Middle-earth during the Second and Third Ages are fairly simple: Sauron and his forces are trying to take over the known world through direct conflict (war) or through subversion and corruption of the Free Peoples. The Free Peoples are trying (in a disunified fashion) to resist Sauron's expansion and hopefully to defeat him. In between we have neutral forces being influenced by the two extremes. Through all this many separate kingdoms and cultures have their own internal politics and objectives. The specific political situation (How powerful is Sauron? What is he doing? What are the Free Peoples doing? etc.) should be based upon the time in which the game is being run. Gamemasters may gather needed material along these lines from Tolkien's works and I.C.E.'s Campaign and Adventure Guidebook to Middle-earth.

The Fourth Age (i.e., after the destruction of The Ring and Sauron) allows for a greater flexibility in determining the politics of Middle-earth. The Gamemaster may develop any sort of political situation that he wishes, restricted only by the history of the earlier ages. During this period, we suggest the main political organizations be empires, kingdoms, guilds, religious groups, and the like. Much of the conflict in Middle-earth can result because of conflicts between such groups. Truly evil (as opposed to self-interested) organizations could be included in the form of the remnants of Sauron's forces, pirates, bandits, etc.

Regional Politics — The politics of the specific region being adventured in should be more detailed than the world politics. Questions that should be answered include: Are Sauron's forces active in the area? Is Sauron corrupting the local rulers? Are the local rulers already evil? Are the local rulers in conflict? Where are the headquarters of the opposing sides? How do both sides treat characters not involved in the conflict? In short, any activities of the locals that might affect the player characters should be outlined.

4.32 NPC OBJECTIVES AND PLANS

The objectives and plans of any significant non-player characters should be noted. The objective of a farmer would be to bring in his crops; shopkeepers and traders want to sell high and buy low; local officials want to collect taxes and keep things peaceful; etc. More unusual characters may have personal objectives that conflict or coincide with the player characters. Such objectives should be carefully thought out.

4.33 PC GOALS AND INCENTIVES

The player characters should set their own goals (sometimes with help from their Gamemaster through background details). However, to maintain an exciting game, the Gamemaster should supply incentives. A good adventure should have the danger and rewards balanced. Obtaining treasure, experience points, crucial information, and the like should involve risk, difficulty, and good play. This is something that requires experience and a good Gamemaster, so it may take several adventures to master.

4.4 TYPICAL ADVENTURES

This section outlines some typical adventures that the Gamemaster might use in his game. These suggestions are general and need to be adapted to a specific region and circumstance.

4.41 SCENARIOS

These scenarios are adventures that can be keyed to a specific region or adventure site. The Gamemaster may wish to make information concerning several of these available to the player characters and hope that they pick one. Alternatively, he may wish to require that a scenario be chosen because it is the only one that the Gamemaster has available.

Missions — Missions are often adventures in which a non-player character sends the player character to an adventure site or region to accomplish a certain goal. The non-player character may or may not accompany the group, and he may or may not give them all of the information that he has on the mission. Often the non-player character has ulterior motives and is willing to pay for the services of the player characters.

Sometimes the player characters have missions of their own choosing. Examples of this might be: rescuing a captured group member, rescuing a friend or relative, searching for herbs to heal an injured group member, or searching for a specific magic item. Basically any goal of the player characters can be used to initiate a mission.

Scouting — Scouting missions do not necessarily take place in adventure sites; they may consist of general investigation of the countryside. In a scouting mission the main goal is information, either for a non-player character or for the player characters themselves. Such information could later lead to a specific mission. Scouting missions often lead to combat in the form of encounters with hostile guards or patrols.

Raiding — Raiding is an adventure designed to attack, fight and loot. It doesn't have to be keyed to a specific adventure site. Player characters are out for any appropriate fight with a suitable reward (treasure and experience points).

Looting Attack — A looting attack is basically the same as raiding, except that the player characters are attacking a specific adventure site.

Tournaments — Tournaments are staged competitions in fighting, archery, riding, and other combat skills. These are usually held in civilized areas during fairs and holidays. Cash prizes are usually offered, and on rare occasions magic items are awarded. Usually the combatants are not trying to injure or kill one another, but accidents do happen. During tournaments, unless a participant is trying to kill someone, all criticals inflicted are reduced to "A's" regardless of the result from the attack table.

Duels — Duels are also very interesting. Player characters or non-player characters often feel that they have a basic disagreement that can not be settled by talking. If neither party feels inclined to run away and leave town, a duel might result. This can range from a duel in which the winner is the first to draw blood using only "A" criticals (see above), to a duel to the death.

4.42 GENERAL ENCOUNTERS

In addition to scenarios, adventures may often occur when the player characters encounter something through chance. Encounters can occur in civilized areas or the countryside, and sometimes but not always lead to combat. Encounters include ambushes, fights, meetings, sightings, barroom brawls, etc. Encounters can occur anywhere: in the countryside or in civilized areas. Sections 5.15 and 5.24 give a suggested technique for determining when and what kind of encounters occur.

4.5 MAGIC AND SPELLS

Middle-earth had unique ties to the Undying Lands which created a potential for the appearance and use of significant power (magic). Such power manifested itself on a massive scale in the First Age, and to a lesser, but significant degree in the Second Age. By the time of the late Third Age it was quite subtle — except in the cases of Dragons, the Balrog, Saruman, and (of course) Sauron. This low-key approach to the utilization of great power was a factor relating to the nature of those possessing the gift. The Valar laid down their direct guardianship of Middle-earth in stages, at the end of the First Age and with the downfall of Númenor. They still kept watch and intervened in the Third Age by sending the Istari (Wizards), beings who themselves had great power. The Istari, like their masters, did not use force unless it was absolutely necessary to combat Darkness, and then only to the degree needed. As a result of this approach, they appeared far weaker than they really were.

The other masters of magic in Middle-earth employed their abilities in relative secret. Men and Hobbits were not great friends of spells and often were unaware of their usage outside of fairy tales and legends. This created an atmosphere where magical occurrences were rarely seen and often became merged or confused with natural events.

One of the primary reasons for this subtle and secret use of magic and spells is the presence of Sauron in Mordor. Sauron is not one to restrain himself when he deems it necessary to act with great authority. He does act cautiously and quietly, especially when nursing himself after a great defeat, but he is capable of unbridled explosions. Those who live under his eye are particularly careful not to cause attention to be brought upon themselves, and this feeling may contribute to the restraint found in those who possess the ability to wield spells. Some are weary or concerned about upsetting the balance of things, to be sure, but others are doubtlessly afraid. Still others died at the hands of Sauron or others of power, for the bold and those with power often dare to combat those most dangerous.

When constructing the setting for a fantasy role playing game based upon Middle-earth, a Gamemaster must take great care to show restraint regarding the use of magic. Magic-users are relatively rare, although most folk had some “magic” in them, and open displays of power are still rarer. Elves certainly employ magic in daily life, and Dwarves use spells for a variety of reasons, even for producing wondrous toys; nonetheless, such enchanting skills are not necessarily the norm. Among Hobbits magic is considered the stuff of legends. Many Men most often feel the same way; indeed some have never heard of its use. The racial descriptions in Section 2.21 give more details for the individual races.

This section deals with magic and the use of spells in the Middle-earth Role Playing system. Spell usage falls into two separate realms, Essence and Channeling, each of which concerns a different source of power required to cast the spell. This spell system is limited to 1st through 10th level spells and two realms of magic, in order to provide a more usable framework for low level adventures. For higher level spells and a more detailed framework, I.C.E.'s Spell Law provides an expanded spell system with three realms of magic, over 2500 spells, and over 150 spell lists.

4.51 ESSENCE

The Essence realm utilizes the power that exists in everyone and everything of and in Arda, and in particular Middle-earth. Essence in Middle-earth has its source in The Song (The Ainulindalë) which created Arda and the order of things. A character who casts spells of the Essence taps this power, molds it, and diverts it into his spells. Most of the truly powerful Essence spells deal with forces elemental in nature: fire, earth, water, wind, light, cold, etc. The more inert material that is on the person of someone casting Essence spells, the more difficult it becomes to manipulate the Essence. Thus, when casting or using an Essence spell NO armor, greaves or helmet may be worn.

4.52 CHANNELING

The Valar are the offspring of Eru (God) who came to Arda to fulfill The Song. The Channeling realm utilizes the power of the Valar as channeled through characters casting spells. Since the Valar are not part of The Song (they helped to develop part of The Song, and Morgoth corrupted part of it), Channeling is independent of the Essence. A character casting Channeling spells draws directly from the power of one or more of the Valar, even though this does not “usually” require the conscious cooperation of the Valar involved. Thus spells of this realm do not necessarily reflect the nature of the Valar as long as the spells are relatively subtle and low level (e.g., healing, detection, etc.). More powerful and higher level spells not included in MERP might require active consent of the Valar (the Valar include Morgoth, so evil spells may be cast if the power comes from him). Metal interferes with drawing power from the Valar, so no metal armor, metal helmets, or metal greaves may be worn when casting a Channeling spell.

4.53 SPELL LISTS

A spell list is an ordering of spells based upon the correlation of spell level, intricacy of the spell, and potency of the spell. All spells in a list have some common characteristics and attributes, although each may have vastly different effects and applications. A character does not gain the ability to cast individual spells; instead he “learns” (see Section 4.54) an entire spell list of related spells and is limited only by his level and the level of the spells.

The spell lists are in Section 7.1. Each spell list falls into one of six groups: Essence Open Lists, Mage Lists, Bard Lists, Channeling Open Lists, Animist Lists, and Ranger Lists. These classifications determine which spell lists are learnable by which professions (see Section 2.4). Each spell on a spell list is preceded by a number called its level. Each spell has an area of effect, a duration (how long do the spell effects last), a range (how far the spell can be cast), and what class it falls into. Each of these factors is described in Section 7.1.

4.54 LEARNING SPELL LISTS

A character may “learn” spell lists during his adolescence skill development (see Section 3.3), during his apprenticeship skill development (see Section 3.6), and when he advances a level (see Section 2.63). Depending upon his profession (see Section 2.4) and race (see Section 2.21), a character may “learn” only certain spell lists.

Normally, once a character learns a spell list he may cast any spell on that list that is his level or lower. Certain professions may only cast spells up to a certain level (see Section 2.4).

4.55 CASTING SPELLS

A character may cast a spell from a list that he knows if the spell level is less than or equal to his own level AND he has enough power points. Certain professions are limited as to the highest level spell that they may cast (see Section 2.4). Whenever a spell is cast an attack roll must be made and resolved on the appropriate attack table (see Section 6.6). Even when casting a non-attack spell a roll must be made and resolved on the Base Attack Table (AT-9) to determine if the spell fails.

Power Points — Each character has a certain number of power points available to use for casting spells. In order to cast a spell, a number of power points equal to the spell’s level must be used.

Each character has a number of power points based upon his level and one of his stats (Intelligence for Essence spells and Intuition for Channeling spells). The number of power points that a character has is obtained by checking Table BT-1 for the appropriate stat and multiplying the given power points by the character’s level. Once these points are used casting spells, they may be regained by resting for 8 hours.

Time Required to Cast Spells — It takes one round of action to cast a spell (see Section 6.3). However, up to 4 rounds can be spent preparing a spell. The more rounds spent preparing a spell, the more effective the spell. The attack roll for the spell is modified according to the number of rounds spent preparing the spell. Instantaneous spells (marked with an “*”) are unaffected by these preparation modifications, and thus do not incur a penalty if cast without preparation.

- +20 — if caster spends 4 rounds preparing the spell.
- +10 — if caster spends 3 rounds preparing the spell.
- +0 — if caster spends 2 rounds preparing the spell.
- 15 — if caster spends 1 round preparing the spell.
- 30 — if caster spends 0 rounds preparing the spell.

4.56 MAGIC ITEMS

Certain items are magical in nature; they either have magical properties or have the capacity to cast spells.

BONUS SPELL ITEMS — There are two types of magic items, called bonus spell items, which enable a character to cast more spells than he would be able to normally: spell adders and spell multipliers. Spell bonus items are usually in the form of a staff (5’ long), a rod (2.5’ long), or some other hand-held object of a similar size. Only one bonus spell item is usable by a given character between 8 hour periods of rest. Bonus spell items should be held or worn.

A +1 spell adder allows a character to cast one extra spell between 8 hour periods of rest in addition to those which he can normally cast by using his power points; a +2 spell adder allows 2 additional spells; a +3 spell adder allows 3 additional spells; etc.

A x2 spell multiplier doubles the number of power points available to a character between 8 hour periods or rest; a x3 spell multiplier triples his power points; etc.

MAGIC ITEMS WITH BONUSSES — Magic items with bonuses (e.g., a +10 mace, a +5 lock pick, a set of +15 chain, etc.) add their bonus to the total skill bonus of any skill that normally utilizes an item of that type. For example, the use of a +10 mace would increase a character’s Offensive Bonus by 10, a +5 lock pick would increase his Pick Lock skill bonus by 5, and a set of +15 chain would increase his Defensive Bonus by 15. The use of such items does not usually require a Using Items static maneuver roll (see Section 2.32). Their bonuses apply to any appropriate rolls by any character using them.

EXAMPLE: A few sample magic items and their costs follow:

Staff of Firebolts — 500 gp + 5 cp

- 100 gp — since it is a “Staff” charge item
- 5 cp — normal Quarterstaff price
- 400 gp — since Firebolt is a 6th level spell

Rod of Waterbolts — 180 gp + 3 cp

- 30 gp — since it is a “Rod” charge item
- 3 cp — an estimate of a rod price
- 150 gp — since Waterbolt is a 4th level spell

Wand of Shock Bolts — 40 gp + 1 cp

- 10 gp — since it is a “Wand” charge item
- 1 cp — an estimate of a wand price
- 30 gp — since Shock Bolt is a 2nd level spell

Wand of Calm II — 70 gp + 1 cp

Calm II is a 2nd level spell just like Shock Bolt, but it is a Channeling spell so the price doubles.

Dagger with Daily II (twice per day) Levitate Spell — 245 gp + 3 sp

- 20 gp — since it is a “Daily” item
- 3 sp — since it is a dagger
- 225 gp — 150 gp since Levitate is a 4th level spell, 75 gp since it is twice per day instead of once.

Ring with Daily II Levitate Spell — 490 gp + ring price. Price of Dagger above is doubled since a ring is smaller.

Potion of Haste I — 100 gp

- 10 gp — for a vial of Potion
- 90 gp — since Haste I is a 6th level spell

+15 magic Handaxe — 1250 sp = 125 gp

- 5 sp — cost of a normal +0 handaxe
 - x250 — multiplying factor due to +15 bonus

MAGIC ITEMS CONTAINING SPELLS — Certain magic items contain spells which a character may cast. Such spells do not require power points, and the caster doesn't have to have learned the list which they come from. Spells from this type of item fall into one of several categories:

Rune Paper: A scroll with a spell inscribed on it, the spell may only be cast once from the rune paper before it disappears. A piece of rune paper may be reused by placing another rune on it by using a spell from the Spell Way list (see Section 7.12).

Potion: A vial of special liquid with a spell "in" it. The spell takes immediate effect when swallowed (no roll necessary to use); it only has effect once. A potion may use the spell to directly effect the character drinking it OR it may allow him to cast the spell.

Daily Spell Item: A magic item containing a spell that may be cast a certain number of times each day.

Charge Spell Item: A magic item containing a spell that may only be cast a limited number of times (called its number of charges). Then the item is exhausted (lost its charges) and the spell may no longer be cast. The size of the item determines the maximum number of charges and the maximum level of the spell:

	Minimum Length	Maximum # Charges	Maximum Spell Level
Wand —	1'	10	2nd
Rod —	2.5'	30	5th
Staff —	5'	100	10th

Normally in order for a character to use an item or rune, he must successfully make a static maneuver roll on the Reading Runes and Using Items column of Table MT-2. Special items obtained from a background option (see Section 2.51) do not require such a roll from the character that they are keyed to. A Gamemaster may wish to include other special items that do not require a Reading Runes roll or a Using Items roll, or which cast a spell with no preparation modifications (instantaneous).

BUYING AND SELLING MAGIC ITEMS — To buy a magic item first check the Equipment and Price Table ST-4 to determine the base price of the item. The base prices for items containing spells (not including the cost of the spell itself) are included in Table ST-7.

If a magic item has a bonus (see above) or is especially lightweight, its base price is multiplied by a factor given in Table ST-7. If a magic item contains a spell there is an additional cost added to the base price. Table ST-7 gives these multipliers and additional costs.

These prices are for buying magic items. Normally, only 50% of these prices may be obtained when selling a magic item. A static maneuver roll is necessary to get more than this (see Section 4.84). Magic items are usually only bought and sold in large cities or in special civilized areas.

ST-7 — MAGIC ITEM PRICING TABLE

BASE PRICES:

A piece of Rune Paper (holds one spell) — 1 gp
 A vial of Potion (holds one spell) — 10 gp
 A Daily Item — 20 gp + the normal cost of the item
 A Charge Item:
 Wand — 10 gp + the normal cost of the item
 Rod — 30 gp + the normal cost of the item
 Staff — 100 gp + the normal cost of the item
 +1 spell adder — 50 gp
 +2 spell adder — 100 gp
 +3 spell adder — 200 gp
 +4 spell adder — 400 gp
 x2 spell multiplier — 200 gp
 x3 spell multiplier — 400 gp
 A bonus item — the normal cost of the item

MULTIPLICATIVE FACTOR DUE TO ITEM BONUS:

10x — +5 bonus
 50x — +10 bonus
 250x — +15 bonus
 1000x — +20 bonus
 5000x — +25 bonus

MULTIPLICATIVE FACTOR DUE TO ITEM WEIGHT:

1x — 100% of weight given.
 10x — 80%–99% of weight given.
 50x — 60%–79% of weight given.
 100x — 40%–59% of weight given.

COST = (Base Cost + Additional Cost) x Multiplicative Factors

ADDITIONAL COST (in gold pieces) DUE TO IMPLANTED SPELLS:

TYPE OF ITEM OR BONUS	LEVEL OF THE SPELL IN THE ITEM*
	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
Rune Paper	3	10	20	30	40	60	80	100	125	150
Potion	5	15	30	45	60	90	120	150	200	225
Daily Item 	15	50	100	150	200	300	400	500	600	750
Wand	10	30	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Rod	40	80	120	150	200	—	—	—	—	—
Staff	100	150	200	250	300	400	500	600	700	800

— recharging a wand, rod or staff after it has been exhausted costs half of the cost of the implanted spell.

* — Channeling spells cost double these prices.

 — Once per day; add half of cost for each additional time per day. The cost is doubled if the item is smaller than a dagger.

4.6 RELIGION

Middle-earth is a vast continent which is the home of numerous races and cultures. Most have their own god or gods and have their own set of associated rules and rituals. Many of these religions involve cruel deities and the worship of Darkness. Other pantheons reflect some local perception of and belief in some or all of the Valar. This is particularly true in northwestern Middle-earth, where the Elves and enlightened Men know of the true nature of those on high.

Eru and the Valar

Eru is Arda's One God, and the Valar are his servants. It is the Valar who live in Aman. Eru originally assigned them the guardianship of the world and — although they removed themselves from direct interaction with Middle-earth following the Downfall of Númenor in S.A. 3319 — they still attempt to maintain the balance of things. Through their agents (the Wizards or Istari) they aid the Free Peoples in the struggle against Sauron. The Valar feel justified intervening, since they are doing no more than righting a wrong and combatting power with power. Both the Wizards and Sauron are lesser Valar, those beings called Maia.

The Valar include a number of beings who normally exist as spirits and only take physical form when dealing with lesser creatures or visiting Middle-earth. Some — like Morgoth, Sauron, and the Balrogs — have become enslaved in their adopted bodies as a result of expending too much of their inner power. Although they could originally alter their appearance at will, their Evil has bound them to their hideous forms.

The fifteen greater Valar are often called the Powers of Arda or Ainur. It is they who are most revered by the inhabitants of Middle-earth. Within their group the eight Aratar (“Exalted”) are preeminent:

Manwë — King of the Valar. Wind Lord. Master of the Air and Weather.

Varda — Queen of the Valar. Lady of the Stars. Spirit of Light. Also called Elbereth or Eleñdri.

Ulmo — Ocean Lord. Master of the Waters.

Aulë — The Smith. Master of the Earth. Lord of Crafts. Maker of Mountains. Maker of Dwarves. Also called Mahal.

Yavanna — Nourisher. Mistress of the Earth. Giver of Fruits. Keeper of Plants. Also called Kementári.

Námo — Master of Spirits. Keeper of the Dead. Doomsman. Lord of the Halls of Awaiting. Also called Mandos.

Nienna — Mistress of Grief, Pity, and Suffering. The Weeper. The Conscience.

Orome — The Huntsman. Tamer of Beasts. Forest Lord. Master of the Wilds. Horn-blower. Also called Araw, Aldaron, or Tauron.

Morgoth — The “Black Enemy” was once the mightiest of the Aratar, and indeed all the Valar, but he fell from grace and has been cast into the Void. Named Melkor (“He who arises in Might”), he became jealous of his lord Eru and coveted power. He was King of Darkness and the origin of Evil — Evil incarnate.

The other six greater Valar are: Vána, Mistress of Flowers and Song; Lessa, Dancer and Mistress of Youth and Celebration; Irmo, Dream Master, Lord of Visions, Lórien; Estë, Healer; Vairë, Weaver of Fate, wife of Mandos; and Tulkas, Champion of the Valar.

Remember that the Valar are worshipped by many peoples under different names and with unique beliefs. Some folk revere specific Valar above all others simply because the Vala has power over locally significant natural influences. For instance, Ulmo might have more significance to a coastal race, and he might be called by a totally foreign name.

Religious Worship

Religious practices vary with locale, but those found in northwestern Middle-earth are generally informal. Personal meditation and infrequent communal celebrations dominate the ritual life of the region. Elsewhere in Middle-earth strict or formal religious norms are more widespread.

4.7 INJURY, DEATH, AND HEALING

During the course of a game characters will likely receive damage in the form of injury or death (sorry, but that’s life in Middle-earth). There are two major factors in damage to a character: injuries to the body of the character and death (the departure of the soul from the body). Injuries to the body can lead to “death”. Each of these two types of damage requires separate types of healing.

If all injuries to a body have been completely cured but the soul has departed (death has occurred), then the character will be in a coma until his soul is returned. While in the coma a roll on Table IHT-1 is required once a day as described below. In this case the column headings referring to rounds are used to refer to the number of days after death.

If a body is injured enough to cause death (see Section 4.72) and the soul has departed (or is Lifekept, see Section 4.74), it will begin to decay normally (a Preservation spell will halt this, see Section 4.74). As soon as all injuries leading to death have been cured, the decay will slow (see paragraph above). As a body decays the main effect is the deterioration of stats due to a lack of oxygen flow to the brain. Each round after death has occurred, a roll must be made on Table IHT-1 for each of the character’s stats to see if that stat is reduced. Once any stat reaches zero or below, the character’s soul will not return to his body through normal means (spells or herbs).

4.71 INJURIES

Injuries can occur as a result of attacks, fumbles, failure, and spells. Injury takes the form of hits, hits per round, stunned rounds, subtractions from activity, and specific injuries to various parts of the body. These injuries are detailed in Section 6.65.

IHT-1 — STAT DETERIORATION TABLE

ROLL	ROUND AFTER DEATH
	1st-6th	7th-18th	After 18th
1–10	0	0	0
11–25	0	0	1
26–50	0	1	2
51–75	1	2	3
76–90	1	2	4
91–00	1	3	5

NOTE: Number result is the amount the stat is reduced.

IHT-2 — RECOVERY TABLE

TYPE OF INJURY	SEVERITY
	LIGHT	MEDIUM	SEVERE
Burn/Tissue	3 days	10 days	25 days
Bone/Muscle/Tendon	5 days	15 days	35 days
Head/Internal Organs	2 weeks	2 months	varies

IHT-3 — LIFEGIVING EFFECT AND PRICE TABLE

LEVEL OF CASTER	% CHANCE OF FAILURE	DAYS REQUIRED FOR RECOVERY	SUGGESTED PRICE
12th	10% x Days Dead	100 x Days Dead	150 gp
15th	5% x Days Dead	50 x Days Dead	250 gp
17th	2% x Days Dead	20 x Days Dead	350 gp
20th	1% x Days Dead	5 x Days Dead	500 gp
25th	1% x Days Dead	none	800 gp

4.72 DEATH

Death (departure of the soul) occurs in one of four ways:

- 1) Immediate Death — An injury occurs which causes the character to die immediately.
- 2) Excessive Hits — If a character receives more hits than the sum of his Body Development hit total (see Section 2.32) and his Constitution stat, the soul will depart after 6 rounds. If someone heals enough of these hits (before the 6 rounds are up) to drop the total under the sum mentioned above, then death will not occur due to excessive hits.
- 3) Death After a Number of Rounds — If an injury occurs which determines that the character will die after a number of rounds due to the injury, then the soul will depart after that many rounds have passed. If the injury leading to death is healed before the rounds have passed, the character will not die due to this injury.
- 4) Special — Certain special spells or occurrences may lead directly to death.

4.73 NATURAL HEALING AND FIRST AID

In a fantasy role playing game healing is very important. It determines how often characters die and how much time and money are required for recovery from injury. Injuries heal naturally and may be temporarily patched as follows:

Hits — One every hour if resting, one every 3 hours if not resting.

Hits per round — A bandage and compress will stop 1, 2 or 3 hits per round (or reduce a hits per round "wound" by 3), so long as the character does not do more than walk during the next 8 hours (the hits per round start again if he does more than walk). A tourniquet will stop 4 to 10 hits per round from a limb wound, but until the wound is healed the tourniquet must be loosened once every 24 rounds and 3 hits per round must be taken for 5 rounds (or the limb will be lost).

Subtractions to Activity — These are eliminated and activity is restored to normal when the Injury causing them is healed.

An estimate of the average natural recover time for specific injuries can be obtained from Table IHT-2. These times are based upon a period of rest and recuperation, and proper treatment (e.g., setting of broken bones, bandaging of wounds, proper nutrition, etc.). The Gamemaster should base the severity upon the description of the damage.

4.74 HEALING WITH SPELLS

Animists have certain spell lists that allow them to heal injuries, preserve the body, and prevent the soul from leaving the body. The spells that heal injuries are specifically defined in the spell list descriptions (Section 7.1).

The Preservation spell on the Direct Channel list (see Section 7.15) halts decay of the body so that the deterioration of stats described above in Section 4.7 will not occur, or will stop if it has started. The Lifekeeping spell on the same list will prevent the soul from leaving a body that would otherwise die without the injuries being healed as described above in Section 4.7. Once a soul has left a body, Lifekeeping will NOT bring it back; Lifegiving would be required. Lifegiving is at least a 12th level spell, and will vary depending upon the level of the character casting it as given in Table IHT-3. This assumes that an Animist of that level is available. Each Lifegiving spell (based upon level) may only be attempted once for a "dead" character, but the next time that character "dies" each spell may be used again.

If characters wish to pay for healing spells, the Gamemaster should determine if the required level of Animist is available (this is part of the development of a civilized area, see Section 5.14). The suggested price is at least the level of the spell times the level of the spellcaster (in gp). This price is often treated as a "donation". Certain Animists may heal all comers, their own people for free, or those who "donate" all that they can (see Section 5.14).

4.75 HEALING WITH HERBS

Healing herbs are another alternative form of healing. Table ST-5 gives a list of sample herbs, their prices in town, their natural forms, how to prepare them, and where they are found in the wild. Section 5.32 gives suggestions for how to handle searching for herbs in the wild. The Lifegiving herbs are treated as 20th level Lifegiving spells (see Section 4.74 and Table IHT-3) for the purposes of failure, recovery, and limitations on casting.

4.8 POISONS, DISEASES, WEATHER, BUYING, SELLING AND MONEY

There are many different elements of fantasy role playing that add detail, flavor, and realism. Many of these elements have already been discussed in Section 4, but all of the elements of a real world can not be covered. A few of the more important remaining topics will be discussed in this section.

POISONS — Poisons are an interesting play aid because they add danger and excitement to even the most simplistic attack or trap. Table ST-5 gives a selection of useful poisons along with prices, effect, source and form.

DISEASES — Diseases are also interesting and add realism to a game. Diseases can range from a common cold to a plague created by the Dark Lord to decimate the populations of certain regions. Table ST-5 gives a summary of the source and effect of certain diseases.

BUYING — Many areas of Middle-earth will operate on a barter system; that is, trading and exchanging goods of approximately equal value. Cash values can be a comparative standard for those using barter. Table ST-4 can be used for approximating the relative barter values of various goods. However, it is often easier to handle buying and selling on a cash basis.

SELLING — The prices given in Table ST-4 are those given if characters are buying goods. Prices for magic items can be determined as described in Section 4.56. If characters try to sell goods in a civilized area they can automatically get 50% of the normal price; that is, if a buyer can be found (e.g., a buyer for a staff that casts fireballs might be hard to find at a country inn).

A character can attempt to get more than 50% by making a static maneuver (see Section 6.52) on the Influence and Interaction section of the Static Maneuver Table MT-2. Of course, he runs the risk of not being able to sell the goods. The Gamemaster should base the difficulty of the Influence roll on the price that the character is trying to get, the person he is trying to sell to (e.g., what is his experience in trading and how much does he want the goods), and his trading techniques (e.g., if he tries for 80%, gets a partial success result, and then lowers his asking price to 70%, the difficulty should drop for a 2nd roll).

5.0 ACTION IN THE STRATEGIC ENVIRONMENT

The strategic environment consists of the civilized areas and the countryside (see Section 4.1). Compared to tactical action (see Section 6.0), which usually takes place in adventure sites, action that takes place in a strategic environment is usually less dangerous and requires less time to resolve and describe. Such action can often be resolved in very little real time (as opposed to time within the framework of the game).

5.1 ACTIVITY IN CIVILIZED AREAS

Activity in civilized areas can be as simple as returning after each adventure, healing, re-equipping, and heading back out to adventure again. However, it is often very interesting to make a visit to a civilized area more involved than that. A civilized place can be a source of information, intrigue, recreation, and dangerous encounters.

5.11 BUYING AND SELLING

Each character can usually handle his own buying and selling of normal goods (supplies and items) on his own. This process and a monetary system is described in Sections 4.56 and 4.8, and prices are available in Tables ST-4, ST-5, and ST-7. However, certain unusual parts of the process may involve trading and dickering, and the Gamemaster should become involved as the person that the character is trying to trade with. The Gamemaster must also determine if sellers or buyers exist for unusual or special items or herbs. Normally this is part of the description of the civilized area.

5.12 FOOD AND LODGING

Each civilized area should have facilities for food and lodging, even if it is only swill or table scraps and a barn. Table ST-4 gives some suggested prices for food and lodging at a normal inn in a town. The Gamemaster may make a roll for each inn (or lodging desired) visited to determine the amount of activity for that day. Very high means that there is no room for the characters; very low means that they might be able to get cheaper rates.

5.13 GATHERING INFORMATION

Often a civilized area is the place to pick up information about adventure sites, missions, and other scenarios described in Section 4.41. Information on missions that non-player characters want performed should be made available at inns and public places, either through word of mouth or direct contact with the person who wants the mission performed. Notices of tournaments, duels, and other public activities should also be available, as well as other material like wanted posters.

Rumors and clues about local occurrences, creatures, and adventure sites should be available from local people in bars and inns. Often it will help to get the locals drunk or in a good mood to get lots of information. Such information should be in the form of rumors, legends, tall tales, and outright lies.

Reliable information like maps and descriptions (from characters who really know what is going on) should be available for a price. This type of information can be bartered for like any other commodity (see Section 4.8).

The Gamemaster may wish to allow characters to make "background legend rolls" on a given topic, in order to remember tales, legends or other information from their background or past history. Bards are professionally adept at this and should be given an extra bonus of +5 per level, because it is assumed that they continually increase and update their knowledge base. The Gamemaster may use the Perception column or the General column of the Static Maneuver Table (MT-2) to help resolve legend rolls.

5.14 HEALING AND RECUPERATION

Healing and recovery from injuries is discussed in Section 4.7. The Gamemaster should sketch out the healing facilities (first aid, herbs and animists) in each civilized area, even if it is only a farmer's wife with some old rags and a hot poker. Food and lodging and possibly a nurse should be required whenever a character is recuperating from serious injuries.

5.15 ENCOUNTERS

Sometimes action in a strategic environment turns into action in the tactical environment (i.e., fighting, stealing, running, etc.). A Gamemaster should make an open-ended "activity roll" each day in a civilized area to determine the likelihood of an "encounter". If this roll is very high, then some encounter may occur. How high the roll has to be to initiate an encounter should be based upon the type of civilized area and the situation of the player characters.

Some typical encounters in a civilized area include: a brawl in the tavern or inn that the player characters are visiting, an attempt to mug (on the street or in their quarters) player characters and steal their possessions, an attempt to sell the player characters fake goods (or information), an attack by outside forces on the civilized area, etc. The possibilities are endless, and often lead to an adventure which can fill out an entire game session.

5.2 ACTIVITY IN THE COUNTRYSIDE

While in the countryside, groups usually are attempting to get from one place to another (see Section 5.3, for activity in the countryside while seaching for something). The Gamemaster must deal with activities such as movement, making camp, evading pursuers, and encounters.

Activity in the countryside is normally handled in intervals of 4 hours when the player characters are moving or active, and 12 hours if they are resting, sleeping or hiding. Distance is generally measured in miles.

5.21 MOVEMENT

Normal movement in a strategic situation is resolved in intervals of 4 hours. This type of movement is different than tactical movement (see Section 6.4). Table ST-9 gives some normal 4 hour movement rates based upon the given terrain. The terrain is assumed to have some sort of open areas or paths. If the group is hacking its way through a jungle or dense growth, the movement rates should be halved. The Gamemaster should modify this based upon special circumstances, such as encumbrance, wounded characters, traveling more than 8 hours in a row (4 hours if jogging and walking), not having enough food, weather conditions, etc.

If traveling at night, the movement rate is normal for groups with all members capable of seeing at night. For groups with no characters capable of seeing at night, movement is lowered to 10% of normal. For groups consisting of at least half of its characters capable of seeing at night, the movement rate is 75% of the normal rate; it is 50% if fewer than half are capable of night vision.

5.22 CAMP SITES FOR RESTING AND SLEEPING

While traveling it is assumed that the group rests for about 15 minutes every 2 hours (10 minutes per hour in mountainous terrain); this is figured into the strategic movement rates given in Table ST-9. A group can travel 8 to 12 hours a day, and it is assumed they make camp for the rest of any 24 hour period. We will call such a rest period night but groups (especially Elves and Dwarves) can travel at night and sleep during the day. If the group has only traveled for 8 hours it is assumed that they have found a good, defensible camp site. Otherwise, the Gamemaster should make an open-ended roll to help him decide the quality of the camp site found. A low roll indicates a poor camp site and possible dangerous surroundings. A high roll indicates a good camp site.

Normally, the player characters will set a watch in shifts (usually 3, 4 or 5 shifts), but the Gamemaster should not suggest it or remind them. If an encounter occurs (see Section 5.24), the Gamemaster should divide the night into a number of parts (usually based upon the player characters' shifts) and roll to randomly determine when the encounter occurs. Only the characters on watch (if any) will be awake and alert when the encounter begins. Other characters must be awakened by various actions or noises occurring during the encounter, or by the specific actions of already awake player characters.

5.23 EVASION AND HIDING

Sometimes a group will find itself in the position of being pursued through the countryside by hostile forces. This may take the form of being chased by another group (direct pursuit), or it might take the form of a general hue and cry (i.e., the whole countryside has been alerted and is looking for the group).

A general hue and cry is handled by rolling for encounters (see Section 5.24) once an hour instead of once every 4 hours. As for direct pursuit, most of the time the pursued group will want to avoid capture or conflict (evasion and hiding). Other times they will want to ambush the pursuing group (handle as a normal combat). Direct pursuit is handled once every hour as follows:

- 1) Determine the distance separating the pursued group and the pursuing group.
- 2) The pursuing group must make a tracking maneuver, modified by adding one pursuing character's Tracking bonus and subtracting one pursued character's tracking roll. If the pursued group is unaware of the pursuit and does not try to cover their tracks, only the Tracking bonus of one pursuing character and +40 are added to the roll.
- 3) If the tracking maneuver is a "success" or an "absolute success" (from Table MT-2), the distance separating the two groups is modified by the difference in their movement rates. Each "near success" before a "success" increases the distance separating the groups by 200' (most of the time this can be ignored).
- 4) If the tracking maneuver is a "partial success", the distance separating the groups is increased by the movement rate of the pursued group.
- 5) The other tracking maneuver results are self-explanatory failures.

If the pursuers sight the pursued group, action should be resolved as a tactical situation (see Section 6.0). In rain (or snow) if the distance separating the two groups exceeds the distance that the pursuers can cover in one hour, the pursuit is ended (less for very heavy rain, more for light rain).

5.24 ENCOUNTERS

Basically, at certain times the Gamemaster makes an open-ended activity roll to see how much action there is in the area containing the player characters. Then one of the players makes an open-ended avoidance roll to determine how well the group avoids any activity. The difference between these two rolls is cross-indexed with the density of habitation on the Encounter Table ST-10.

This process is called an encounter roll and is normally performed once every 4 hours when a group is moving and once during each period of sleep (night) when the group camps. Table ST-10 also includes modifications for the activity roll and modifications for the avoidance roll.

5.3 SCOUTING THE COUNTRYSIDE

Often a group is not just moving through the countryside; they are actively searching for someplace or something. The object of the search may be herbs, an adventure site, food, water, etc. Searches are more likely to result in encounters (see Encounter Table ST-10).

5.31 LOOKING FOR ADVENTURE SITES

Searching for adventure sites can fall into one of two different categories: looking for a specific site or looking for any random site in the area being searched. A search for a specific site is usually the result of information obtained in the form of maps, rumors or other clues (see Section 5.13). Searches for random sites may be initiated because of rumors or just a general desire for loot and adventure. Random sites could consist of animal or monster lairs, old tombs, abandoned towers and temples, or deserted ruins of any type.

5.32 SEARCHING FOR HERBS

Often characters go searching for herbs in order to heal a group member, for healing during future adventures, or just to sell to make money. Table ST-5 indicates the climate and type of terrain in which specific herbs are found. Each hour a group searches in such a locale, the group may make one static maneuver on the "Perception and Tracking" column of Table MT-2 (normal perception modifications do not apply) to find herbs. The following procedure is used:

- 1) The difficulty of finding the herb is obtained from Table ST-5, giving a modification for the perception maneuver.
- 2) The group's roll also receives any of following applicable maneuver modifications: -50, if searching an area previously searched within 6 months; +20, for each Animist and Ranger in the group; and +2, for each searcher in the group. Bonuses for group members' "Foraging" secondary skills may be added, but they are first divided by the number in the group.
- 3) "Absolute Success" indicates the searchers have found 1-5 doses, "Success" indicates one dose was found; "Near Success" allows another roll made for this hour and modified by +20; "Partial Success" or "Failure" results in no herbs found; and "Absolute Failure" or "Blunder" means no more doses will be found during the rest of the day.

A group may decide to split into smaller groups (or individuals), allowing a roll for each small group. However the small groups must cover entirely separate areas for 4 hour periods, usually out of earshot, and are thus subject to separate encounter rolls.

ST-9 – STRATEGIC MOVEMENT RATE TABLE

(result is the miles covered in a 4 hour period)

TRANSPORT TYPE	TERRAIN TYPE
	ROAD	OPEN	FOREST	ROUGH	ROUGH & FOREST	MOUNTAINOUS
Sneaking	4	4	3	2	2	1
Careful walk	8	7	4	4	3	2
Normal walk	10	8	6	5	3	2
Jog/Walk	15*	12*	9*	7*	4	3
Slow Ride	15	12	9*	7*	4*	3
Fast Ride	25	18*	12	10	6	4

* – Requires a maneuver roll once every 4 hours from each character.

 – Requires a maneuver roll once every 2 hours from each character.

ST-10 – ENCOUNTER TABLE

This table is intended to cover the usual pattern of encounters between player characters and local inhabitants or wild beasts. The zones represent the relative density of social beings or inhabitants. These are cross-indexed with ranges which cover the differential between the two encounter dice rolls.

The letter codes before the slashes represent interaction with social beings, usually local inhabitants; letters that follow the slashes cover interaction with wild beasts. If there is a letter in both categories, the Gamemaster should roll again: a low result means that there is an encounter with wild beasts; a high result means interaction with social beings.

POPULATION DENSITY

	Dense	Moderate	Light	Uninhabited	Waste
1-30	s/-	-/-	-/-	-/-	-/-
31-40	e/-	s/-	-/s	-/s	-/-
41-50	e/-	s/-	-/s	-/s	-/-
51-60	e/-	s/-	s/s	-/s	-/-

141-160	a/a	a/h	h/h	e/h	e/a
161-180	a/a	a/a	a/h	h/a	h/a
181-200	t/a	a/a	a/a	a/a	a/t
201+	t/t	t/t	t/t	t/t	t/t

Encounter codes: t = trap or ambush or surprise attack;
a = attacking group;
h = hostile group;
e = basic encounter;
s = sighting by other group.

The encounter codes are meant to be general and relative. A simple encounter with a group from an outrageously brutal or suspicious culture may be more dangerous than a hostile force of passive people. The GM should take note of the local folk and beasts to determine which type will be involved, and what their relative strength will be. A simple rule of thumb: the higher the differential, the more dangerous the encounter. The GM may wish to increase the number or capabilities of the given inhabitants or beasts accordingly.

6.0 ACTION IN THE TACTICAL ENVIRONMENT

In a tactical situation, action is resolved in terms of feet and seconds. During the MERP tactical sequence, each character may take only one action once every 10 seconds; he may move, attack, prepare a spell, cast a spell, make a moving maneuver, make a static maneuver, or perform some other action. This 10 second period is called a "round". A round usually takes considerably longer than 10 seconds of real time to resolve.

Certain factors may affect the action that a character may take. Most of these are obvious and can be resolved by using common sense (e.g., a character with a broken arm can't use a two-handed weapon or a bow; an unconscious character can perform no action, except perhaps breathing; etc.). The Gamemaster is of course the final authority on these matters.

Certain spells allow more than one action in a round (e.g., Haste I allows 2 actions to be performed in one round). The use of spells to move (e.g., Levitation, Flying, Windwalking, etc.) count as the sole action for a round unless they are merely used to hold position (i.e., hover).

Certain critical results from attacks limit actions, while other criticals restrict activity (e.g., -20 to activity). Unless stated otherwise in the critical description, these subtractions from activity apply to all bonuses except the Defensive Bonus and Resistance Roll bonuses.

The Gamemaster and the players should divide up the work involved in controlling a tactical combat situation. The Gamemaster has to handle the physical layout and all of the non-player characters, but the players can help with other factors. One player should keep track of the damage taken and status of each character (a sheet is provided in MERP for this and may be photo-copied for non-commercial purposes). Another player should keep track of the round and action sequencing (see Section 6.2). Another player can record activity by player characters which can later lead to experience points. Other players can handle the tables and read off results during play. By dividing up these tasks the game flows very smoothly, everyone gets involved, and no one is swamped with work.

The MERP system for tactical action and combat is simplified and abstracted to increase its playability. If beginning fantasy role players have mastered MERP and desire more detailed and realistic combat, I.C.E.'s Arms Law & Claw Law provides an expanded combat system, with individual attack tables for the various weapons, 20 classifications of armor, more detailed critical strike tables, and rules that allow more flexibility.

6.1 REPRESENTING THE PHYSICAL SITUATION

The Gamemaster must decide how to keep track of movement, the relative positions of all of the characters, ranges for firing missiles and casting spells, and the layout of the area in which they are adventuring. This usually requires a playing surface that represents the physical situation and playing pieces representing the characters and other combatants. Many possibilities exist for such play aids, and the Gamemaster may elect to use whichever seems most appropriate for his game and for a particular situation. Below we present a few of the most helpful display techniques and hints.

The Gamemaster can sketch the layout on a sheet of paper (or on a black board) and mark the position of each character on it. For small sheets of paper we suggest a scale of 1" = 50'. For a larger surface, 1" = 20' or 1" = 10' would be more appropriate. You can keep track of distance with a ruler. The problem with this technique is lack of detail and the hassles of erasing each time a character moves.

To solve part of this problem we suggest that a playing piece be used to represent the position of each character. These can be as elaborate as the players and Gamemaster wish. Suggestions include: commercially available miniatures (small statues of various types of fantasy inhabitants and creatures), chess pieces, coins, or 1/2" square to 1" square pieces of cardboard marked with the characters names. The cardboard pieces are particularly easy to make and use; they can be colored or decorated to aid the flavor of play.

We have included in MERP two sheets of 8 1/2" x 11" paper (hex paper) with different sized grids consisting of hexagons placed on them. These sheets make keeping track of distances easier; just count the number of hexagons between two points. If playing pieces are used each playing piece can occupy a separate hexagon to indicate its location.

Most large photo-copying centers have a transparency machine which is capable of copying any black and white figure onto a clear plastic sheet. We suggest that you take a piece of the hexagon paper included in MERP and have a transparency made. This can be laid over any sort of layout, superimposing a grid on it.

6.2 THE SEQUENCE OF ACTIONS

Actions are normally performed in the following order during a round (unless a character cancels his action or puts it into an "opportunity state"):

- 1) Prepare or cast a spell.
- 2) Missile and thrown weapon attacks, missile parrying, and loading/reloading.
- 3) Moving maneuvers.
- 4) Melee attacks and melee parrying.
- 5) Movement.
- 6) Static maneuvers.

- Orientation rolls are used when required by circumstance.
- Conflicting actions may modify this sequence (see Section 6.7).

At the beginning of each round, each player should state or write down (the Gamemaster must decide) what action he wishes to perform for that round. At the same time, the Gamemaster should decide what actions the non-player characters will take. The actions are then resolved in the order specified by the sequence above. The following sections describe how to resolve the various actions. The sample adventure presented in Section 1.2 is a good example of actions taken on a round by round basis.

OPPORTUNITY ACTION — When it comes time during a round to resolve an action, each character has the option of putting his action into an “opportunity” state — in effect, delaying his action until he wishes to resolve it. He may not perform any other action until his opportunity action is canceled (at the end of a round) or resolved (at anytime he decides). He may initiate his action any time later in the current round, or any time during a following round. Opportunity actions represent activities like: waiting for a target, setting an ambush, waiting to push a boulder down on someone, etc. In the sample adventure presented in Part I (p6), Naug is on opportunity when he waits for a shot with his Crossbow without performing any other action.

CANCELING ACTION — During a round an action may be canceled before it would otherwise be resolved. A character who has canceled his action may perform one of the following alternative actions: melee with half his normal Offensive Bonus OR move half his normal (not running) movement OR make a maneuver modified by -30. The alternative action chosen must be performed when the other actions of that type are normally resolved.

ST-11 — ACTION TABLE
ACTION	ADDITIONAL INFORMATION AND OPTIONS
Prepare a Spell	May take 10' movement later.
Cast a Spell	May take 20' movement later.
Missile Attack	May take 10' movement later.
Loading/Reloading	May take 10' movement later.
Missile Parry	Half of OB is subtracted from one missile attack. May later take half movement OR later make a melee attack with half his OB.
Moving Maneuver	The maneuver may not cover a distance of over half that of the character's normal movement.
Melee Attack	May take 10' movement. May shift equipment, in which case Offensive Bonus is lowered by 30 for each item shifted (drawn, sheathed or unslung). Part of the OB may be used to parry one opponent's attack (a melee parry).
Movement	Movement is decreased by 10' for each item shifted.
Static Maneuver	No additional action allowed.
CANCEL ACTION — Any action may be canceled before it is resolved. The character may then perform one of the following actions during the appropriate part of the round: 1) Melee with half normal Offensive Bonus. 2) Move half of his normal movement. 3) Make a maneuver modified by -30.
OPPORTUNITY ACTION — Any action may be delayed by making the action an opportunity action. Once an action is delayed, no other action may take place until the opportunity action is resolved or canceled. However the opportunity action may be initiated at any time during the current round or a following round.
NOTE: If a Gamemaster is using facing for the characters (see Section 6.83), a change of facing may accompany movement, even if the movement is made in addition to another action.

EXAMPLE: The following actions were taken on a round by round basis by the participants in the sample adventure presented in Part I (p6). The actions begin with the player characters 10' from the tower and ready to move up and with the Orcs waking up in the basement of the tower and preparing to break camp and leave.

ROUND	PLAYER-CHARACTERS				NON-PLAYER CHARACTERS
	Agonar	Chinta	Droggo	Naug	Orc #1	Orc #2	Orc #3
1	Move	Move	Move	Move	—	—	—
2	Prepare Spell	Move	Move	Opport. Attack	—	—	—
3	Cast Spell (success)	Static Maneuver (fails)	Static Maneuver (success)	Opport. Attack	Move	Move	Move
4	Move	Static Maneuver (success)	Static Maneuver (success)	Opport. Attack (fires)	Move (dies)	Move	Move
5	Prepare Spell	Moving Maneuver (success)	Opport. Attack (fumbles)	Move	xxxxx	Move (flees)	Move
6	Cast Spell (Orc)	Moving Maneuver (fails)	Out From Fumble	Attack Orc (hits)	xxxxx	Runs (gone)	Attack Chinta (asleep)
7	Floats down.	Takes Critical.	Recovers weapon.	Cleans Axe.	xxxxx	Got Away.	Captured.

Round 6 is a good example of action sequencing:

- 1) Agonar's spell is cast first and Orc #3 is put to sleep.
- 2) There is no missile fire.
- 3) Chinta Kari maneuvers (and fails) to get under the chest before Orc #3 can attack her.
- 4) Naug attacks Orc #3 who is falling asleep and is down, breaking the Orc's leg. Both Orc #3 and the chest fall on Chinta Kari who takes an "A" Unbalance critical.
- 5) Orc #2 is out the door and begins to run away.
- 6) There are no static actions, except perhaps Droggo contemplating his fumble.

6.3 PREPARING AND CASTING SPELLS

The number of rounds that a character (the caster) spends preparing a spell affects the effectiveness of a spell by modifying the attack roll when the spell is cast. The modifications are:

- 30 for no preparation rounds
- 15 for one preparation round
- +0 for two preparation rounds
- +10 for three preparation rounds
- +20 for four preparation rounds

All preparation rounds for a given spell must immediately follow one another and immediately precede the casting round (unless casting the spell is put into an opportunity state; see Section 6.2). During a preparation round, a character may also move up to 10 feet when movement is resolved. In the sample adventure in Part I (p6), Agonar prepared his spell during the round that the Orc moved towards Chinta Kari.

It requires one round's action to actually cast a spell and have it take effect. The target must be in sight or detected in some manner. To cast a spell an "attack" roll must be made (such as Agonar's Levitate spell in Part I (p6)'s sample adventure). All spells must make an "attack" roll even if the spell doesn't actually attack a target (there is a chance of failure for every spell). Bolt spell attacks are resolved on Table AT-7, Ball spell attacks are resolved on Table AT-8, and all other spells are resolved on Table AT-9. During a casting round, a character may also move up to 20 feet when movement is resolved. In the sample adventure in Part I (p6), Agonar cast his Sleep spell the round that the Orc attempted to attack Chinta Kari.

6.4 MOVEMENT

Movement is simultaneous for all characters. If there are conflicts (opponents have both specified movement), players should write down where they intend to move. The Gamemaster should use common sense to interpret the intent of each character, and characters should be able to modify their actual movement during play in order to react to circumstances. Each character may move up to 50' plus his movement and maneuver bonus without a maneuver roll, or up to double that (running) if he successfully makes a maneuver roll (see next section).

A character may shift items and equipment on his person (e.g., draw a weapon, sling a shield, take out some herbs, etc.), but the distance that he may move is decreased by 10 feet for each item shifted (for that round). Terrain may also slow a character: going up a hill, through a thicket, across a stream, across sand, etc. It is suggested that a Gamemaster cut movement by half for such terrain.

6.41 RUNNING — DOUBLE MOVEMENT

If a character wishes to move double his normal movement (run), the Gamemaster should assign a difficulty based upon the character's encumbrance and the terrain. Then the character makes a maneuver roll modified by his Movement and Maneuver bonus and applies the result to the Moving Maneuver Table MT-1. If the result is an "F", then a second roll must be made on the Maneuver Failure Table FT-4. Otherwise the result is a number. If the number is 100, the character may move up to double his normal movement rate. For every increment of 10 that the number is under 100 the doubled movement rate is decreased by 10'. For every increment of 10 that the number is over 100 the doubled movement rate is increased by 10'.

The number of rounds that a character is capable of running is equal to his Constitution bonus plus 5. For each round that he rests he will be able to regain 2 rounds of running capability. For example, a character with a Constitution bonus of +10 could run 15 rounds before having to rest; or he could run for 10 rounds reducing his running capability to 5, rest for 2 rounds and get 4 rounds of running capability back for a total of 9, and then run for 9 more rounds before being forced to rest.

EXAMPLE: Looking at the sample adventure in Part I (p6), the fleeing Orc (#2) leaves the main door and begins to run. His normal movement rate is 55' per round (50' plus his Movement and Maneuver bonus in Rigid Leather of +5), so his running rate would be 110' per round. The Gamemaster deems his running a light maneuver, rolls a 38, and adds the Orc's Movement and Maneuver bonus to get a total of 43. Referring to the Moving Maneuver Table (MT-1) under a "light" maneuver, we get a result of 70. Thus the Orc moves 30' (100 minus result from Table MT-1) less than his normal running rate, 100'.

6.42 MOUNTED MOVEMENT AND ACTIONS

A mounted character may move up to the movement rate of his mount (usually a horse). Such movement rates are given in Table ST-4. The character and mount may move up to twice that (galloping) if the character makes a Riding maneuver roll.

If a mounted character makes a Riding maneuver roll (in addition to any maneuver roll for galloping), he may move (or sit on the mount and not move), while taking another action in the same round. This action is called a mounted action and may be any activity that may be performed from horseback (e.g., attacking, firing a bow, picking up a passenger, etc.). The roll normally required to perform any such mounted action is modified by adding the result of the maneuver roll and subtracting 100 (in addition to normal modifications).

If the character wishes to gallop and take a mounted action, both maneuver rolls would be required. Certain horses (see Table ST-4) may modify the maneuver roll for galloping or the maneuver roll for a mounted action.

EXAMPLE: Suppose there is a horseman named Tulas waiting outside for the fleeing Orc in the sample adventure in Part I (p6). Tulas and his mount could move as the Orc begins to run; the horse only has to move 20' to get next to the Orc so no maneuver roll is required to gallop. However, Tulas must make a maneuver roll for mounted action (in this case a melee attack). The Gamemaster rates this maneuver a "medium" maneuver, Tulas rolls a 66, his Riding Bonus is 30, and his total of 96 results in an "80" result from the Moving Maneuver Table (MT-1). Tulas' Offensive Bonus with his Mounted Lance is 50, so he adds 30 (OB of 50 + his riding maneuver result - 100) to his attack on the Orc.

6.5 MANEUVERS

Maneuvers are actions (other than attacks and spell casting) which under normal circumstances have a chance of failing and usually entail an element of risk. Thus normal movement and activities (e.g., walking, climbing stairs, drawing a weapon, etc.) are not maneuvers, while unusual activities (swimming, climbing a rope, running up or down stairs, opening a locked chest, etc.) and activities performed under stress (running, dodging, stalking, hiding, etc.) are maneuvers and require rolls. The Gamemaster is the final judge as to what is a maneuver and requires a roll, and what is normal activity and doesn't require a roll. In MERP, maneuvers are classified as Moving Maneuvers or as Static Maneuvers. Each class of maneuvers is resolved differently.

6.51 MOVING MANEUVERS

Moving Maneuvers include climbing, swimming, riding, stalking, and any complex or unusual movement (acrobatics, dodging, tumbling, diving, etc.). If a character decides to make a Moving Maneuver as his action for a turn, the Gamemaster should assign it a difficulty: routine, easy, light, medium, hard, very hard, extremely hard, sheer folly, or absurd. The maneuver must still be within the physical capabilities of the character, and is limited to covering a distance no more than half of the character's normal (not running) movement. The Gamemaster may also assign an additional modification to the maneuver roll (e.g., an unassisted running leap across a 40' chasm for a human might be given a difficulty of "absurd -10" since the world record is only around 28'). Assigning difficulty requires a familiarity with the Moving Maneuver Table MT-1 and a subjective decision by the Gamemaster (practice and experience will help).

After the difficulty is assigned, the character may then decide not to attempt the maneuver (i.e., he reconsiders and decides not to do it). In this case, he cancels his action and may perform some other limited action as described in Section 6.2.

If the character decides to proceed with the maneuver, he makes an open-ended roll and adds his appropriate bonus along with any other applicable modifications. The resulting total is cross-indexed with the difficulty on the Moving Maneuver Table MT-1 to obtain the maneuver result. An "F" result requires a second roll on the Maneuver Failure Table FT-4. A number result indicates the percentage of the attempted maneuver that was accomplished. To summarize:

- 1) The Gamemaster assigns a difficulty to the maneuver.
- 2) The character decides whether or not to perform the maneuver.
- 3) If he decides to perform the maneuver, an open-ended roll is made.
- 4) All applicable modifications are made to the roll.
- 5) The total is applied to the Moving Maneuver Table MT-1.

EXAMPLE: In the sample adventure presented in Part I (p6), Chinta Kari decides to try and turn over a large chest and get under it before an Orc which is trying to kill her can swing. Considering the situation (Chinta Kari has her back to the Orc), the Gamemaster rates the maneuver as "Extremely Hard", but Chinta Kari decides to try anyway. She rolls an 03 (1-100) and must roll again and subtract the second roll from the first (it is an open-ended roll); her second roll is a 62, resulting in a total of -59. Her Movement and Maneuver bonus is +20, giving a total maneuver roll of -39; not too swift. This gives a result of "Failure" from the Moving Maneuver Table (MT-1). Chinta Kari's Failure roll is a 74 and is modified by +10 due to the difficulty of the maneuver (Extremely Hard), which gives an "84". Checking the Moving Maneuver Failure Table (FT-4), we see that Chinta Kari has fallen down, taken 3 hits and is at -20 to activity for 3 rounds.

If she had rolled a 78 on her maneuver roll she would have a total maneuver roll of 98 (78 + 20), for a result of "50". Thus she would have been 50 per cent of the way through her maneuver when the Orc could attack (he could make a maneuver roll to swing earlier, see Section 6.7). The Gamemaster could rule that the chest acts like a shield and would give Chinta Kari a +25 bonus to her Defensive Bonus. In the original sample adventure, the Orc was put to sleep by Agonar and beat upon by Naug, causing the Orc and the chest to fall on Chinta Kari, giving her an "A" critical.

6.52 STATIC MANEUVERS

Static Maneuvers include tracking, hiding, picking locks, disarming traps, reading runes, using items, perception, influencing other characters, and any other complex or unusual activity not involving significant movement. If a character chooses a Static Maneuver as his action for a round, the Gamemaster must assign a difficulty and then the character must decide whether or not to actually perform the maneuver (see Section 6.2 for the effects of canceling an action). The Gamemaster may require more than one round for maneuvers which he decides are very difficult or complex. He may also allow a character to decrease the difficulty of appropriate maneuvers by using multiple rounds.

If the character decides to proceed with the maneuver, he makes an open-ended roll and adds his appropriate bonus along with any other applicable modifications. The resulting total is cross-indexed with the appropriate column on the Static Maneuver Table MT-2 to obtain the maneuver result. To summarize:

- 1) The Gamemaster assigns a difficulty to the maneuver.
- 2) The character decides whether or not to perform the maneuver.
- 3) If he decides to perform the maneuver, an open-ended roll is made.
- 4) All applicable modifications are made to the roll.
- 5) The total is applied to the Static Maneuver Table MT-2.

6.6 ATTACKS

This section describes attacks and the process used to resolve them. A very detailed example combat is included to illustrate many of the rules outlined in this section.

Attacks occur when a character (the attacker) attempts to affect or harm an opponent (the defender or target). The attacks fall into three categories: spell attacks, missile (includes thrown weapons) attacks, and melee (weapon and animal) attacks. Each type of attack is normally resolved during a different part of the round. If a character's action for a round is an attack (spell, missile, or melee), he may move up to 10' during the proper part of the round (i.e., during movement). Simple actions such as dropping whatever is in his hands may be performed with the permission of the Gamemaster, who may assign a penalty (to the character's OB) if necessary.

If a character's action is melee, he has the option of moving the 10' just before melee attacks are resolved (i.e., the movement is a charge and thus part of the attack). The attacker may also shift an item (e.g., draw a weapon, unsling a shield, take herbs from a belt pouch, etc.), but then his Offensive Bonus is modified by -30.

An attack is resolved by the attacker making an open-ended attack roll, adding any applicable modifications, and applying the total to the appropriate attack table. The result will usually require a second roll on the Fumble and Failure Table, a critical table, or the Resistance Roll Table. Applicable modifications are given on the attack tables, and special attack properties are given in the Statistics tables: the Weapon Statistics Table CST-1, the Animal Statistics Table CST-2, and the Spell Statistics Table CST-3. To summarize:

- 1) Attacker makes an open-ended attack roll.
- 2) If an UM (unmodified) result is obtained proceed to 4.
- 3) All applicable modifications are made to the roll.
- 4) The total is applied to the appropriate attack table.
- 5) The result may require a roll on a second table.

6.61 SEQUENCING ATTACKS OF THE SAME TYPE

All spell attacks are resolved simultaneously. All missile and thrown attacks are resolved simultaneously. Melee attacks are resolved one at a time; the character with the highest Movement and Maneuver Bonus resolves his attack first, then the character with the second highest proceeds, etc. If the Movement and Maneuver bonuses of several meleeing characters are equal, those attacks are resolved simultaneously.

If a character's attack is an opportunity action (delayed from a previous round, or from earlier in the current round), it is always resolved before other attacks of the the same type.

6.62 TARGET CHOICE AND PARRYING

Just before melee attacks are resolved all combatants must decide which opponents they will attack and how much of their Offensive Bonuses they wish to parry with. A character may only attack a foe who is adjacent to him (within 10'). This is an acceptable form of limited movement. If more than one foe is available, the character must choose one to attack. He may attack one foe and use his shield bonus against another (see Section 2.75), if it is physically possible.

Melee Parrying — A character may "parry" the melee attack of the target he is attacking in melee. He may reduce his Offensive Bonus by any amount (but not to less than 0), and his target's melee attack roll is then modified downward by that amount. In effect, the character may use all or part of his Offensive Bonus to subtract from the melee attack roll of one of his adjacent foes. The character still makes a melee attack roll against the foe that he is parrying, adding whatever part of his Offensive Bonus that was not used to parry (it can be 0).

A stunned character or a character using a 2-Handed weapon may not parry with more than half his Offensive Bonus.

When the characters indicate their actions for a round (see Section 6.2), the Gamemaster may wish to require the characters to indicate or write down their target and the amount they wish to parry with.

Missile Parrying — If a character has a shield and he is facing an opponent making a missile attack against him, he may "parry" the missile attack with up to half of his Offensive bonus (this is handled like melee parrying). This may be combined with half of his normal (not running) movement or a melee attack modified by half of his Offensive Bonus.

6.63 UNMODIFIED ROLLS

Certain results on the attack tables are marked with an "UM". When the attack roll before modification falls within one of these ranges, no modifications are made to the attack roll. These results can only be achieved if the unmodified roll falls within these ranges. Modified rolls falling into these ranges are treated as the next lower (or higher) result.

6.64 MAXIMUM AND MINIMUM RESULT LIMITATIONS

The attack tables have maximum and minimum results. If a modified attack roll exceeds a maximum result, the roll is treated as the highest non-UM result allowed. If a modified attack roll is less than the minimum result, the roll is treated as the lowest non-UM result.

On most of the attack tables the maximum result is 150 or one less than an unmodified result, while the minimum result is usually one more than the unmodified fumble/failure result. On the Bolt Attack Table AT-7 the maximum result is determined by the spell type; on the animal attack tables (Table AT-5 and Table AT-6) the maximum result is determined by the animal's size (small, medium, large or huge).

6.65 ATTACK RESULTS

An attack may have several results depending upon the attack roll (modified or unmodified). These results include hits, fumbles, failures, criticals, and Resistance Roll modifications.

FUMBLES AND FAILURES — If an attack roll results in an "F" result, the attack has failed and a failure roll must be made on the Fumble and Failure Tables FT-1, FT-2, FT-3, or FT-4. A Fumble/Failure roll is modified only by the type of weapon or spell used to make the attack. If the attack is made with a weapon, a Fumble occurs if the original unmodified roll is within the fumble range of the weapon being used (see Table CST-1 for the various ranges). Animal attacks which fail merely result in no damage being given.

HITS — The number results on all of the attack tables except the Base Attack Table AT-9 equal the number of hits delivered to the target.

CRITICALS — The letter results (A, B, C, D, and E) indicate that the target has been given one or more critical strikes (critical or crit). The type and number of criticals depends upon the type of the weapon or spell used. This information is given in the statistic tables (Tables CST-1, CST-2, and CST-3). To determine the result of the critical a second roll is made, modified by a bonus based upon the severity or the critical (i.e., what letter), and then applied to the appropriate critical column. Finally, the results of the critical are applied to the target.

If the target takes a critical result that lasts for a certain number of rounds and he has not yet performed his action for the current round, the current round counts as one of the rounds affected by the result.

The criticals give very specific damage to targets that receive them. All of the damage specified by criticals should be self-explanatory except for the following very common results:

+ # hits. — This many hits (#) are taken in addition to the normal hit result derived from the attack table used (e.g., "+ 5 hits.").

hits per round. — Each round after the crit is taken, the target takes this many (#) additional hits due to pain and bleeding (e.g., "3 hits/round.").

Stunned # rounds. — The target is stunned for this many (#) rounds, during which he may not attack and may only parry with 50% of his Offensive bonus. Any other action requires a maneuver roll modified by -50 (e.g., "Stunned 5 rounds.").

- # to activity. — All of the target's bonuses (except DB and RR's) are lowered by the # (e.g., "-10 to activity.").

RESISTANCE ROLLS — Non-failure results from the Base Spell Attack Table AT-9 are numbers which are used as modifications to the target's Resistance Roll. A result of this type requires the target make a Resistance Roll to avoid (or decrease) the effects of the spell.

Once this modification has been obtained from the attack roll, the target must make a roll and add the attack roll modification, the target's RR modification and any other appropriate modifications (see Table RRT). Then the attacker's level and the target's level are cross-indexed to obtain a number from the Resistance Table RRT. If the target's modified RR is greater than or equal to this number, he has successfully resisted the spell, otherwise the target has failed to resist. The results of failing to resist vary from spell to spell, but are uniformly bad.

EXAMPLE: Suppose that in the sample adventure presented in Part I (p6) : Orc #2 decided to unsling his shield and attack Naug with his short sword, Orc #3 decided to drop his short sword and draw his 2-Handed sword, and Naug decided to draw his handaxe and unsling his shield. They would all end up next to each other, Orc #2 on Naug's left and Orc #3 on Naug's right. Agonar decides to prepare his spell for a 2nd round since Chinta Kari is in no immediate danger (as an Elf he thinks of Naug as "only a Dwarf"), while Chinta Kari hearing the shouts still ducks under the chest. Droggo starts to sneak up behind the Orcs.

The pertinent bonus for the combatants are:

	OB	ARMOR	DB	Shield	Maneuver Bonus	WEAPON	Hits
Naug	65	chain	10	Yes	+0	Handaxe	46
Orc#2	50	r. leather	10	Yes	+5	Short Sword	22
Orc#3	40	r. leather	5	No	+0	2-Handed Sword	28
Droggo	35	none	30	No	+40	Short Sword	27
Agonar	8	none	20	No	+25	Spells	31
Chinta	30	r. leather	10	Yes	+20	Mace	25

— All combatants are right-handed.

Due to the relative Maneuver bonuses, Orc #2 will attack first and Orc #3 and Naug will attack simultaneously (the rest are performing other actions this round). Naug has to use his shield against Orc #2, he decides to use 20 of his OB to parry Orc #3 (subtract 20 from Orc #3's attack), and he decides to use his remaining 45 OB to attack Orc #3. The Orcs decide to attack with all of their OB's and not to parry (Orcs are like that).

Orc #2 rolls an 86, his OB of 40 (50 -10 for a short sword against chain) is added, Naug's DB of 10 and his shield bonus of 25 are subtracted, and the total of 91 is obtained. Crossindexing this with chain on Table AT-1, we see that Naug has taken 8 hits but no critical.

Orc #3 and Naug attack simultaneously (if Naug had been stunned by Orc #2's attack, he would not have been able to attack, but he could have parried with half of his OB, 33). Orc #3 rolls a 98, since this is between 96 and 100, he rolls again (gets a 14) and adds it to his first roll. This gives a total of 112. He adds his OB of 40, he subtracts Naug's DB of 10 and his parry of 20, and the total of 122 is obtained. Checking Table AT-3, we see that Naug has taken 24 hits and a "C" critical (the Orcs have rolled well).

Naug rolls a 93, adds the portion of his OB that is used to attack (+45), subtracts Orc #3's DB of 5, and obtains a total of 133. From Table AT-1, we see that Orc #3 takes 18 hits and a "D" critical.

Checking the Weapon Statistics Table (ST-1), we see that a 2-Handed sword gives a Slash primary critical and a Crush secondary critical. So Naug has taken a "C" Slash critical, an "A" Crush and a total of 32 hits. Orc #3 has taken 18 hits and a "D" slash critical.

Naug's "C" Slash critical is a 32 (the actual roll): he takes 5 more hits and since he is wearing leg greaves he takes no further damage from this slash critical. His "A" crush critical is a 58 (roll) minus 20 (for being an "A" critical) for a 38: he takes 5 more hits and is stunned 1 round. Naug was "lucky"; he has "only" taken 42 hits (out of 46 before he passes out) and is stunned one round. Orc #3 critical is a 28 (roll) plus 10 for being a "D" critical for a 38; the Orc takes 3 more hits for a total of 21 (2 more and he passes out), he takes 1 hit per round, and he must subtract -5 from all of his bonuses.

Things don't look good for Naug: both of his opponents are unstunned, he is stunned, and if he takes 5 more hits he will lose consciousness.

The next round starts with the above situation, and with Droggo behind Orc #2, Agonar ready to cast his sleep spell (having prepared for 2 rounds to avoid the penalty), and Chinta Kari still under the chest (she is starting to peek out). Agonar will attack first because he is casting a spell. Droggo will strike next because of his maneuver bonus of +40. Naug can not attack (he is stunned, and may only parry with half of his OB) and the Orcs will attack simultaneously because Orc #3's maneuver bonus has been reduced to 0 by the results of the critical.

Agonar rolls a 01, this is an unmodified roll and the spell automatically fails as indicated on Table AT-9. Agonar rolls a 98 (a roll of 88 + 10 for using a Class F spell) on the Spell Failure Table (FT-3), causing the spell to affect Agonar. Agonar makes a Resistance Roll (from Table RRT he sees that he needs 50 or above to resist); rolling a 37, he fails to resist and falls asleep. Not good for the home team, it's all up to Droggo the Hobbit.

Droggo decides to Ambush Orc #2 (see Section 2.3), rolls a maneuver roll of 87 to do it, and succeeds (Droggo has an Ambush Skill Rank of 2). He rolls his attack roll of 65, adds his OB of 35, adds +10 because he is using a short sword against leather armor, adds a bonus of 15 for a flank attack and 20 for a rear attack and 20 for a surprise attack, subtracts 10 for the Orc's DB (but not the shield), and obtains a total of 155. This is reduced to 150, the maximum possible result on Table AT-1. The Orc takes 22 hits and an "E" Slash critical. Droggo rolls a 78 (a roll of 58 + 20 for being an "E" critical), however his Ambush skill rank of 2 may be added to this to give an 80. Droggo chooses to do this and Orc #2's carotid artery is severed, his neck is broken, and he dies in one round.

Of course, Orc #2 may not attack (or do much of anything except gurgle). Orc #3 winds up to take his swing with his 2-Handed sword, and rolls a 04. Unfortunately for the Orc, this is a fumble (2-Handed swords fumble on a 01-05, unmodified). The fumble roll is a 28, he gives himself 2 hits for a total of 23 hits. The Orc passes out and drops. Naug can't believe what happened. Chinta Kari starts to get out from under the chest, while Droggo wipes off his short sword and Agonar snores as he floats to the ground. The group has really cut it a little close (to death) this time.

6.66 RANGE AND RELOADING

Characters may use certain weapons for missile attacks against targets which are not adjacent. The Weapon Statistics Table CST-1 indicates which weapons are allowed to attack at a given distance by giving them a base range. For each weapon with a base range, the table gives short, medium, long and maximum ranges; each range gives a modification to the attack roll. The ranges are based upon multiples of the base range.

All of the bows and the sling require loading and reloading. The number of rounds required for loading each weapon (and reloading without penalty) is given on the Weapon Statistics Table CST-1. Some of the weapons can be reloaded in fewer rounds (even 0 rounds), resulting in a modification (given in the table) to the next missile attack roll made by that weapon. Unless the load/reload time is 0, loading or reloading counts as the action for a round, but the character may still move up to 10'.

EXAMPLE: A composite bow has a base range of 75', so when it is fired at a target between 0' and 75' away there is no modification to the OB (this is short range). When a composite bow is fired at a target between 76' and 150' away, the modification to the OB is -25 (medium range). Between 151' and 225' the modification to the OB is -50 (long range), and between 226' and 300' the modification is -75' (maximum range). Shots at a target more than 300' away are not allowed.

A composite bow normally takes 1 round to load or reload without penalty, and thus could be fired once every other round without penalty. However it may be reloaded in 0 rounds ("reload(0) at -25 to OB") and fired the round immediately following a round in which it was fired, if the OB for that round is reduced by 25. Thus firing every round results in a -25 penalty to the firer's OB.

A character named Sheynk fires his composite bow at an Orc and misses. The next round he has two options for reloading: he can fire again with a -25 to his OB (normally 55), resulting in a missile attack on the Orc with a +30 OB OR he can spend the round reloading. He decides to spend the round reloading, and then in the third round he may fire with his full 55 OB.

6.7 CONFLICTING ACTIONS

Sometimes the actions of two or more characters may conflict, and the Gamemaster must resolve the problem. In general, both should make conflict rolls modified by their respective Movement and Maneuver bonus. The Gamemaster gives each roll a difficulty and obtains results from the Moving Maneuver Table (MT-1). Then the character with the higher of the two results succeeds, and the difference between the two results gives the Gamemaster some idea of how successful he was. The same result by both characters means a draw of some kind, and the Gamesmaster must decide what happens. These conflict rolls are just used as a measure of the effectiveness and quickness of a character's action and do not affect the action being attempted.

One of the most common conflicts occurs when one character attempts to avoid melee with another. If a foe is adjacent to a character and attempts to maneuver away before melee occurs, the character who has chosen melee as his action may decide to attack that character before he maneuvers away. Both characters make conflict rolls. If the character who has chosen melee has the higher result, the attack is resolved normally and then the maneuver is resolved if the maneuvering character is still functioning. If the maneuvering character's result is higher, he may perform his maneuver before the other character can attack. If there is a draw (equal results), it is suggested that the attacking character be allowed to melee with half of his Offensive Bonus (all of it if the other character cancels his maneuver action) OR he may wait and melee with all of his Offensive Bonus.

If a character attempts to move within 10' of a character performing an opportunity melee action (see Section 6.2), the meleeing character may intercept, stop the movement and attack.

EXAMPLE: In the sample adventure in Part I (p6) one Orc decides to flee out the main door of the tower past Drogo who was hiding with his weapon ready (opportunity melee state). In this case Drogo could automatically attack. Suppose however that the Orc is standing next to a window faced by Naug with a blood-stained battle-axe, who has obviously chosen melee attack as his action. The Orc has chosen to make a moving maneuver to leap out the window before Naug can attack. Naug tells the Gamemaster that he wants to attack before the Orc can get away. The Gamemaster rates Naug's conflict roll as "light" and the Orc's as a "medium". Both Naug and the Orc have +0 Movement and Maneuver bonuses.

The Orc rolls an 87, obtaining a result of "70" from the Moving Maneuver Table (MT-1). If Naug rolls a 56 or above, he will attack the Orc, and if the Orc is still able (good luck Orc) he will attempt his maneuver when movement is resolved. If Naug rolls a 40 or less the Orc will get to attempt his maneuver immediately, and if he makes it through the window Naug will be unable to attack (he may cancel his attack and take ½ his normal movement). If Naug rolls between 41 and 55, there is a draw. The Gamemaster decides that Naug may attack with ½ his OB before the Orc makes his maneuver. Of course Naug may elect to wait and see if the Orc makes it through the window (if the Orc blows it, Naug can waste him).

6.8 MISCELLANEOUS FACTORS

There are a variety of things that come up during tactical situations that cannot be covered in a set of rules. The Gamemaster must use common sense and a die roll (low is bad, high is good) to make a decision in such cases. Several techniques described below aid these decisions.

6.81 ORIENTATION ROLLS

If a character takes a confusing action (e.g., teleports, dives, falls, is knocked down, etc.), the Gamemaster may require an orientation roll (modified by the Perception Bonus of the character) to determine the awareness and readiness of the character. The orientation roll can be made on the Moving Maneuver Table MT-1 with the result indicating how much action is allowed the next (or current) round, or by how much bonuses are reduced.

EXAMPLE: The Orc in the previous example successfully leaps through the window. The Gamemaster rates the orientation roll as "easy", and then makes an orientation roll of 52, modified by the Orc's Perception bonus of + 5 for a total of 57. From Table MT-1 a result of "90" is obtained. So any bonuses next round are reduced by $100 - 90 = 10$, and any movement is 90% of normal. Of course, this same process is also used for player characters.

6.82 BASIC PERCEPTION ROLLS

If something happens during a combat that might be noticed by the characters (e.g., the arrival of new combatants, a character sneaking up to ambush someone, etc.), the Gamemaster may require a Perception roll from all characters who might notice it. These rolls are resolved on the Static Maneuver Table MT-2. Alternatively, the Gamemaster may use the rolls to aid in making a subjective decision.

EXAMPLE: In the sample adventure in Part I (p6) three Orcs climb the stairs onto the ground floor of the tower. Drogo is hiding next to the main door. The Gamemaster might allow Perception rolls for the Orcs to notice him. Drogo has made a successful Hiding static maneuver, so the Gamemaster rates the Orcs' Perception rolls as "Extremely Hard", giving a modification of -30. The Orcs' rolls are 23, 57, and 133 (the last roll was a 98 with a second roll of 35 added since the first was between 96 and 100); modified by the -30 and their perception bonuses of + 5, the total rolls are -02, 32, and 108. The first Orc notices nothing (perhaps because Naug's crossbow bolt is about to kill him) and the second Orc notices nothing. The third Orc realizes that Naug, Agonar and Chinta Kari are in the tower and considers the possibility of other opponents in hiding, but he does not see Drogo. If his roll had totalled 111 or higher, he would have seen Drogo.

6.83 FACING

The Gamemaster may wish to use some sort of mechanism (see Section 6.1) for keeping track of which way each character is facing, since it really helps determine what each character is aware of and what he is capable of doing.

6.84 COMMUNICATION BETWEEN CHARACTERS

When characters talk or plan in the midst of combat, it is assumed that they are talking out loud and may be heard by their foes. Of course if they are close together they may speak softly or whisper. If a long complicated discussion arises or a complex suggestion is made by one character to another, that should constitute their action for that round.

If a group of characters holds a discussion on what to do or where to go, the amount of real time spent talking by the players should be treated by the Gamemaster as the time spent talking in the game by the characters. For example, if the group of players take 5 minutes to decide on how to enter a particular door, it will take 30 rounds of game time (30 rounds at 10 seconds a round equals 5 minutes).

7.0 SPELL LISTS, TABLES, AND RECORD SHEETS

The Middle-earth Role Playing system contains a number of lists, tables and sheets which are used to play the game and to aid the Gamemaster and players. The spell lists contain the descriptions and parameters of spells that certain characters may cast. The tables range from the tactical combat resolution tables to the strategic tables for weather, treasure and prices. The record sheets provide mechanisms for keeping track of information required for playing the game.

7.1 SPELL LISTS

Each spell list is organized with the spell list title at the top, followed by a summary of the spells on that list, and concluding with the detailed descriptions and explanations of each spell. The descriptions of the individual spells are ordered according to the levels of the spells (levels 1 through 10). Each spell's area of effect, duration, and range are listed in the summaries. A key to some of the abbreviations and notation used in the spell summaries and descriptions is provided below.

ABBREVIATIONS:

rd — round (10 seconds)

min — minute (60 seconds or 6 rounds)

hr — hour (60 minutes or 360 rounds)

day — 24 hours (1440 minutes or 8640 rounds)

" — inches

' — feet

mi — miles

cu' — cubic feet

x # x # — the physical dimensions of an area or object

R — radius

/lvl — per level of caster

— — Effect lasts only an instant

 — The spell is an instantaneous spell and any rolls required to cast it (i.e., attack rolls) are not modified because of the number of preparation rounds taken.

c — Either the spell requires concentration (see below) to cast or to control, or the spell will last as long as the caster concentrates.

C — The spell lasts as long as the caster concentrates (see below).

P — The duration of the spell's effects is "permanent" in the sense that the physical or mental condition created by the spell is real. The "permanent" condition created may be disturbed by another spell or natural physical forces. For example, Freeze Water will create a "permanent" condition of water being frozen, but the ice so created will melt normally. Similarly, anything "permanently" created or altered by a spell will deteriorate and disperse according to normal physical laws and properties.

% chance — This is the percentage chance of an event occurring. Roll 1 — 100 and if the roll is less than or equal to the # given, the event occurs; otherwise, it does not.

"time" / # pt of failure of RR — If a target fails a Resistance Roll (RR), the duration of the effect of the spell is increased by the "time" once for each complete increment of # points (pts) that the target failed to resist by. Suppose for example, a spell (Blinding) indicates "10 min / 10 pt of failure of RR". If the target needed to roll a 50 to resist and rolled a 24, he would have failed to resist by 26 points or two complete increments of 10 points. Thus the target is blinded for 20 minutes.

SPELL PARAMETERS:

Area of Effect: This is the scope of the spell's effects. Depending upon the spell, this can be the size and shape of the area affected, the type of target, the number of targets, the mass affected, etc. For some spells the area of effect varies with the caster's level (e.g., 10'R/lvl means a radius equal to ten feet per level of the caster). The area or number given is an upper limit and can be reduced if the caster wishes.

Duration: The duration of a spell determines how long the effects of the spell last. The duration can be only for an instant (—), for a fixed amount of time (e.g., 1 min), for an amount of time dependent upon the caster's level (e.g., 1 min/lvl), for as long as the caster concentrates (C), or indefinite (P or varies). The duration given is an upper limit, and the caster may cancel one of his spells (before its duration has passed) by concentrating for one round. Canceling a spell will not always negate its effects (e.g., canceling a Wall of Fire does not do away with any burns which it may have caused).

Range: The range of a spell is the distance that may separate the caster from the target of his spell or the direct effects of his spell. Typical ranges are: only on the caster himself (self), touching the target (touch), a fixed distance (e.g., 100'), or a distance dependent upon the caster's level (e.g., 10'/lvl). The range given is an upper limit and spells may be cast at a target (or take effect) at lesser ranges. If a spell has an area effect, the center (or the approximate center) of the area of effect must be within range, but part of the area effected may be outside the range.

SPELL CLASSES:

(E) — Elemental spell: These spells use the force of the spell to manipulate physical elements (heat, cold, wind, light, water, earth, sound, smell, taste, touch). These elements (and not the spell) are used to either directly attack a target or to affect the senses of a target. Since the elements are real, no Resistance Rolls are normally allowed. Elemental attack spells and illusion spells fall into this class.

(F) — Force spell: These spells involve the direct manipulation of matter, energy, the elements, or living being through the use of a spell's force. If the spell has a target capable of resisting, it must make a Resistance Roll to see if it is affected by the spell. Most base attack spells fall into this class.

(P) — Passive spell: These spells usually only indirectly or passively affect a target. Thus if a Resistance Roll (Gamemaster's decision) is allowed, its purpose is only to determine if the target is aware of the spell. Many detection spells and protection spells fall into this class.

(U) — Utility spell: These spells only affect the caster, a willing target, or a target incapable of resistance. Thus, Resistance Rolls are usually not necessary. A willing target who is capable of resisting may still be required to make a Resistance Roll, but it is modified by -50. Most healing spells fall into this class.

(I) — Informational spell: These spells involve gathering information through means that do not require any Resistance Rolls.

NOTE: A target is capable of resisting a spell if it is a living creature OR if it is magical or enchanted OR if it has special properties which might resist the spell (Gamemaster's decision).

DEFINITIONS OF SPELL TERMS:

Animal — A living creature of feeling and voluntary motion, but not particularly intelligent.

Being — Any intelligent creature, including all humanoid types, enchanted creatures, etc.

Concentration — If a caster "concentrates", he may not perform any action other than moving up to 10' each round. If he is attacked and given hits, he must make an orientation roll to maintain concentration. Concentration is automatically broken if the character is stunned or rendered unconscious. Certain spells (with a duration other than "C") allow the caster to break concentration and then return to concentration later (e.g., most detect spells).

Inorganic — Not of or deriving from living organisms (e.g., iron, copper, silver, water, glass, etc.).

Organ — A differentiated part of an organism, adapted for a specific function (e.g., a liver is an organ, a heart is an organ, the muscles in a leg are not an organ).

Organic — Of or deriving from living organisms (e.g., leather, bone, cotton, wool, etc.).

10—GASLUNGS	1 target	10 min./lvl	10'

1—RESIST HEAT (U) Target is totally protected from all natural heat to 200 degrees F, and adds +10 to RR's vs. heat spells and -10 to elemental heat and fire spell attacks.

2—RESIST COLD (U) As Resist Heat, except protects against natural cold to -30 degrees F and modifies spells involving cold by 10.

3—SLY EARS (U) Target's hearing is augmented to double normal effectiveness.

4—BALANCE (U*) Adds +50 to any rolls for one slow maneuver (e.g., walking a 3" beam).

5—NIGHT VISION (U) Target can see 100' in normal darkness (e.g., night or dark rooms) as if it were daylight. Magical darkness will reduce this spell's effects.

6—SIDEVISION (U) Target has a 300 degree field of vision, all around except for directly behind him.

7—SOUNDING (U) Target's voice has its loudness tripled. This has no effect on spell casting capabilities.

8—WATER VISION (U) As Nightvision, except target can see 100' in water, even murky water.

9—WATERLUNGS (U) Target can breathe water as if it were normal air, but he will be unable to function in air (he will pass out but not die).

10—GASLUNGS (U) As Waterlungs, except target can breathe any gas as if it were normal air.

ESSENCE HAND

	AREA OF EFFECT	DURATION	RANGE
1—VIBRATIONS	up to 5 lb	1 min./lvl	100'
2—SHIELD *	self	1 min./lvl	self
3—STAYING	up to 5 lb	1 min./lvl	100'
4—TELEKINESIS c	up to 5 lb	1 min./lvl	100'
5—DEFLECTIONS *	1 missile	—	100'
6—VIBRATIONS	up to 20 lb	1 min./lvl	100'
7—BLADETURN *	1 melee attack	—	100'

9—TELEKINESIS c	up to 20 lb	1 min./lvl	100'
10—AIMING * c	1 missile	1 rnd	T

1—VIBRATIONS (F) Causes an object (up to 5 lb. mass) to vibrate rapidly; if fragile it may break (roll a RR). If it is an object that is being held, the holder must make a RR or fumble it (each round).

2—SHIELD (F*) Creates an invisible force shield in front of the caster; it subtracts 25 from melee and missile attacks and functions as a normal shield (e.g., it is operated as if held by the caster) if the caster is not already using one.

3—STAYING (F) Exerts 5 lb. of pressure on a person or object. Object cannot be moved by staying alone, and pressure can only be in one direction.

4—TELEKINESIS (F) One object can be moved (up to 5 lb. in mass), 1'/sec with no acceleration. Living beings or items in contact with a living being get a normal RR based on the living being. If the caster stops concentration before the duration is up, the object remains stationary as if it had "Staying" thrown on it.

5—DEFLECTIONS (F*) Caster can deflect any one missile that passes within 100' of him; this causes 100 to be subtracted from the missile's attack (missile must pass through caster's field of vision).

6—VIBRATIONS (F) As above, except mass limit is 20 lbs.

7—BLADETURN (F*) As Deflections I, except its effect is against 1 melee attack.

8—STAYING (F) As above, except mass limit is 20 lbs.

9—TELEKINESIS (F) As above, except mass limit is 20 lbs.

10—AIMING (F*) By concentrating on the mind of a missile firer and the flight of the missile, the caster causes +50 to be added to the attack roll of the missile. The caster must concentrate, touch the firer and see the missile for the entire round that the missile is fired.

ILLUSIONS

	AREA OF EFFECT	DURATION	RANGE
1—SOUND MIRAGE	10'R	10 min/lvl	100'
2—UNSEEN	1 target	max 24 hr	10'
3—LIGHT MIRAGE	10'R	10 min/lvl	100'
4—INVISIBILITY	1 target	max 24 hr	10'
5—TASTE/SMELL MIRAGE	10'R	10 min/lvl	100'
6—ILLUSION II	varies	varies	varies
7—PHANTASM I c	10'R	1 min/lvl	100'
8—INVISIBILITY	10'R	max 24 hr	10'
9—ILLUSION III	varies	varies	varies
10—PHANTASM II c	varies	varies	varies

1—SOUND MIRAGE (E) This illusion creates any set of simple immobile sounds coming from an area of up to 10'R. It can dampen normal sounds in the area to the loudness of a normal conversation.

2—UNSEEN (E) A single object (or being) is made invisible (1 garment, 1 naked body, etc.) until 24 hrs. pass OR the object is struck by a violent blow (being hit by a weapon, falling, etc.) OR the object (or being) makes an attack.

3—LIGHT MIRAGE (E) This illusion creates any simple immobile image or scene in an area of up to 10'R. It can dampen normal light in the area to the brightness of candlelight.

4—INVISIBILITY (E) As Unseen, except everything within 1' of the target is invisible as long as it starts and remains within the 1'R.

5—TASTE/SMELL MIRAGE (E) Creates any set of simple immobile tastes or smells in an area of up to 10'R. It can dampen normal tastes and smells in the area.

6—ILLUSION II (E) This illusion creates a simple immobile image or scene up to an area of 10'R. One of the following options may also be chosen: a) an extra sense can be added to the illusion (the corresponding "Mirage" spell must be known) OR b) the duration can be doubled OR c) the range can be doubled OR d) the radius of effect can be doubled.

7—PHANTASM I (E) This illusion creates the image of one object or being, that will move however the caster wants while he concentrates. When the caster stops concentrating the image remains, but stops moving (the caster can resume concentration later and resume moving the phantasm). The image can be any size that would fit in a 10'R sphere.

8—INVISIBILITY (E) As above, except the radius is up to 10'.

9—ILLUSION III (E) As Illusion II, except TWO options are allowed.

10—PHANTASM II (E) As Phantasm I, except one of the options from Illusions II may also be chosen OR two images can be created and moved (both images must be within the caster's field of vision).

NOTE: These spells actually create a physical change which affects the senses. No RR's are required or allowed. Detection of the use of these spells can only be accomplished through the use of other spells, the use of a sense other than the sense(s) affected by the illusion, or a perception roll based on how believable the illusion is.

UNBARRING WAYS

6—DISARM I	1 trap	—	touch
7—JAMMING	1 door	P	50'
8—WEAKENING	1 door	P	50'
9—OPENING II	1 lock	—	touch
10—UNDOOR	1 door	P	10'

1—LOCK (F) Caster can cause any lock he can see within 100' to be locked (the lock is just normally locked and can be unlocked normally).

2—MAGIC LOCK (F) A door (or container) can be magically "locked"; the door can be broken normally or the spell can be dispelled but otherwise the door cannot be opened.

3—LOCKLORE (I) Gives the caster a +20 modification on picking the lock analyzed, and +10 to anyone to whom he describes the lock.

4—OPENING I (F) When cast on a lock there is a 20% chance a normal lock will open, and a 45% chance that a 'Magic Lock' will open (failure means there is a 10% chance of setting off attached traps). Rolls are open-ended, and the quality of the lock may modify the roll.

5—TRAPLORE (I) As Locklore, except that it applies to disarming traps.

6—DISARM I (F) As Opening I, except its chances apply to disarming traps.

7—JAMMING (F) Causes a door to expand and jam into its frame (roll 1-100 for severity, ranging from slightly stuck to unopenable.)

8—WEAKENING (F) Reduces the inherent strength of a door by 50%.

9—OPENING II (F) As Opening I, except chances are 40% for normal locks and 90% for a "Magic Lock".

10—UNDOOR (F) Will vaporize a non-magic door up to 6" thick, 10' high and 10' wide (if the door is thicker than 6" it will vaporize 6"). Doors made of special material will get a RR.

SPELL WAYS

8—DISPEL CHANNELING *	10'R	C	self
9—RUNE V	1 sheet	varies	touch
10—SIGN OF STUNNING	1 cu'	varies	touch

1—SPELL STORE (U) Caster may cast this spell in addition to, and just before, the spell he wants to store; then the stored spell may be cast at any time, with no penalty. The Storing spell costs the same number of power points as the spell stored and no other spell may be cast while a spell is stored.

2—CANCEL ESSENCE (F*) This spell helps protect the caster from Essence spell attacks. When the Cancel Essence caster is attacked by a spell of the Essence realm, the attacker must make a RR against the Cancel Essence spell. If the attacker's RR is successful, the attack spell proceeds normally. Otherwise, the attack spell has no effect.

3—RUNE I (F) This spell inscribes a spell on a specially prepared piece of paper (called rune paper); the rune can then be used to cast the inscribed spell once (using the normal procedure for casting spells). The caster must cast the Rune spell and then the spell to be inscribed. Rune I can only inscribe 1st level spells. The rune paper can be reused.

4—CANCEL CHANNELING (F*) As Cancel Essence, except only Channeling spells are affected.

5—RUNE II (F) As Rune I, except 1st-2nd lvl spells may be inscribed.

6—DISPEL ESSENCE (F*) As Cancel Essence, except dispelling effect is in a 10'R about the caster and any already existing spells in the radius must save (with a +30 modification) or be canceled.

7—RUNE III (F) As Rune I, except 1st-3rd lvl spells may be inscribed.

8—DISPEL CHANNELING (F*) As Dispel Essence, except only Channeling spells are affected.

9—RUNE V (F) As Rune I, except 1st—5th lvl spells may be inscribed.

10—SIGN OF STUNNING (F) Inscribes a "Sign" on a non-mobile surface. A Sign can be triggered by one of the following (decided by caster): after a chosen period of time, certain movements, certain sounds, touch, reading, etc. Stuns the triggering victim for 10 min/10 pt of RR failure.

8--LOCATION (P) Gives the direction and distance of any specific object or place that the caster is familiar with OR has had described in detail.

1—LEAPING (U*) Allows the target to leap 50' laterally or 20' vertically (or some combination of lateral and vertical movement) in the round that the spell was cast.

2—LANDING (U*) Allows the target to land safely in a fall up to a distance equal to 20' per level of caster, and to take that distance off the severity of any longer fall (e.g., a 2nd level caster could reduce the effects of a 50' fall to a 10' fall).

3—LEAVING (U) Caster teleports target to a point up to 100' away, but there can be no intervening barriers in a direct line between the target and the point (for these purposes a barrier is anything he could not physically go through; closed doors and bars are barriers; a pit is not).

5—FLY (U) As Levitation, except target can fly (move horizontally and vertically) at a rate of up to 75'/rnd (or 5 MPH).

In case of error: first determine direction of error (randomly), then determine distance of error (make an open-ended roll for number of feet).

2—INTUITIONS I (I) Caster gains a vision of what will probably happen in the next minute if he takes a specified action.

3—DREAM I (I) Caster has a dream relating to a topic he chooses. He must sleep or meditate for at least 8 hours.

4—LIFEKEEPING (I) Caster can prevent the soul of a "dead" body from leaving, thus preventing actual death and enabling the fallen being to regain health via simple bodily repairs (Preservation is required to preserve the body). Lifekeeping must be cast upon the target within 2 minutes (12 rounds) of "death", or the soul will leave the body. Returning a soul to a body would be a 12th level (or higher) spell.

5—INTUITIONS III (I) As Intuitions I, except the time span is 3 minutes.

6—DEATH'S TALE (I) Caster gets a vision of the events surrounding the death of any 1 dead being through the eyes of the deceased. He also gets a view of the killer. Corpse must have died within a number of years equal to caster's level.

7.2 TACTICAL AND COMBAT TABLES

These tables are organized to increase their ease of use during play. Most of the tables required to resolve combat are included in this section.

Fist/Kick	(Fi)	Tooth and Claw	UB(A)	—
Wrestling/Tackles	(Wr)	Grappling and Unbalancing	GR(A)	—

CR — Crush critical. PU — Puncture critical. GR — Grapple critical. UG — Grappling and Unbalancing Attack Table.
 SL — Slash critical. UB — Unbalance critical. TC — Tooth and Claw Attack Table.

PRIMARY CRIT — The type of critical delivered by the weapon; a letter in parentheses indicates the maximum critical that can be obtained (if none is given it is "E"). Higher criticals are treated as the maximum.

SECONDARY CRIT — If a critical higher than an "A" is obtained then a second critical of this type is delivered in addition to the primary critical. This secondary critical is one step less severe than is indicated by the attack result (e.g., an "E" result delivers a "D" secondary critical, a "C" delivers a "B", etc.). Each critical is rolled separately. A letter in parentheses indicates the maximum critical that can be obtained (if none is given it is "D").

* — For these attacks only "large" and "huge" attacks get the secondary critical listed above.

 If a character falls, this attack is rolled with the number of feet fallen added to the roll and the character's agility (only) subtracted. The size of the attack is based upon distance fallen: 1'-10' (Small), 11'-50' (Medium), 51'-100' (Large), over 100' (Huge).

 These attack types are for hand-to-hand attacks. The attacker's OB is his strength bonus plus his agility bonus.

* — May not move with these weapons loaded and ready to fire. They may be carried in hand and fired as if reloading (penalty applies).

F — Fumble range: if unmodified attack roll is less than or equal this number the attack fails and a roll must be made on the Fumble Table.

CR — Crush critical. PU — Puncture critical. GR — Grapple critical. UG — Grappling and Unbalancing Attack Table.

SL — Slash critical. UB — Unbalance critical. TC — Tooth and Claw Attack Table.

† — All non-Missile weapons with a range are treated as "thrown weapons" (for skill purposes) when used as missiles.

PRIMARY CRIT — The type of critical delivered by the weapon; a letter in parentheses indicates the maximum critical that can be obtained (if none is given it is "E"). Higher criticals are treated as the maximum.

SECONDARY CRIT — If a critical higher than a "B" is obtained then a second critical of this type is delivered in addition to the primary critical. This secondary critical is two steps less severe than is indicated by the attack result (e.g., and "E" result delivers a "C" secondary critical, a "C" delivers an "A"). Each critical is rolled separately.

BASE RANGE — The base range in feet for the weapon to be thrown or fired. Short range is between 1' and the base range, and there is no OB modification. Medium range is between the base range and double the base range, and the OB modification is -25. Long range is between double the base range and triple the base range, and the OB modification is -50. Maximum range is between triple the base range and four times the base range, and the OB modification is -75. Missile weapons may not be used if the wielder is engaged in melee. The table below summarizes the various ranges.

There is a 50% chance that any traps will be activated.	BLUNDER: Whatever spells or abilities are in the item or on the rune paper are activated and directed against you. Any runes on rune paper are gone, and you will never be able to use any of the spells or abilities contained in the item. -25 – 04 ABSOLUTE FAILURE: User incompetence causes a mental lapse. Any static actions attempted during the next 10 min (60 rounds) will result in failure (see 05–75 below).	FAILURE: You have failed. Your audience will not be receptive to any of your attempts at influence at least 1 day.	FAILURE: Currently you have no further ideas on how to pick/dismarm this lock/trap. After 24 hours you may make a perception roll and if it succeeds you may make another attempt.	FAILURE: Currently you have no further ideas on how to read/use this rune/item. After you have gone up a level, you may make make another attempt to read/use this rune/item.	FAILURE: You gain no information, but you think that you have learned everything available. 05 – 75 FAILURE: You have failed. You may not try again the same static action in the same place for 1 day.	PARTIAL SUCCESS: Your audience is still listening. You can continue to try to influence them.	PARTIAL SUCCESS: You have figured out part of the lock/trap and have an intuitive feel for the rest. Do something else for 10 minutes and then you can try again.	PARTIAL SUCCESS: You learn how many spells and abilities it contains and what they are. However you can not yet read/use it, and you may not make another attempt until 1 week has passed.	PARTIAL SUCCESS: You gain some of the information on the topic that required the perception roll, but you are not aware that you missed something. You may not try again on the same topic in the same area for 1 hour.

7.3 GENERAL TABLES AND RECORD SHEETS

The general tables serve a variety of purposes during character generation (Section 3) and character development (Sections 2 and 3). The rest of the general tables are used by the Gamemaster to create, control and resolve situations in the strategic environment. The record sheets are meant to be used as play aids, and may be photocopied for non-commercial purposes. Some of the general tables are included in this section; others are included in the sections in which their use is described. The Contents' section at the beginning of MERP gives page numbers for the locations of the various tables.

ST-3 — MASTER CHARACTER TABLE

The Master Character Table contains summaries of the various bonuses for each of the six professions. These are the average bonuses based upon the character's level. These summaries are useful for determining the capabilities of non-player characters. The Gamemaster may also wish to use them for player characters if the players wish to forego the skill development process.

WARRIOR [Stat Bonuses: ST(+15),AG(+10),CO(+5),rest(+0)]

SCOUT [Stat Bonuses: ST(+10),AG(+15),CO(+5),rest(+0)]

RANGER [Stat Bonuses: ST(+10),AG(+5),CO(+10),IT(+5),rest(+0)]

BARD [Stat Bonuses: AG(+5),IG(+10),IT(+5),PR(+10),rest(+0)]

MAGE [Stat Bonuses: AG(+5),IG(+15),IT(+5),PR(+5),rest(+0)]

ANIMIST [Stat Bonuses: ST(+5),AG(+5),IG(+5),IT(+15),rest(+0)]

ASSUMPTIONS — The bonuses below were obtained by following the standard character development process and they are based on the following assumptions. Warriors, Scouts, Rangers, and Animists are Rural-men; Bards and Mages are Urban-men. The total stat bonuses are as given below for each profession.

Background options for Warriors, Scouts, and Rangers are:

- 1) A +10 primary weapon was obtained.
- 2) The "Lightning Reactions" special ability was obtained.
- 3) 30 gold pieces were obtained.
- 4) One secondary skill was developed to a skill rank of 5.
- 5) One stat was increased by 2.

Background options for Mages, Animists, and Bards are:

- 1) A +2 spell adder was obtained.
- 2) An extra spell list was learned.
- 3) 30 gold pieces were obtained.
- 4) One secondary skill was developed to a skill rank of 5.
- 5) One stat was increased by 2.

Remember, the development process is very flexible, and for each of the professions the bonuses below only reflect one of the possible ways of developing the skills.

NOTE: Skill bonuses not listed have a zero (0) value.

FORM/PREP (Form and Required Preparation):

Brew — Takes 20 rounds after water is boiled, then it may be drunk.

Ingest — May be eaten, chewed, drunk, or inhaled; whichever is appropriate.

Apply — Takes 1-10 rounds to prepare. The herb is then applied to the area of injury.

Paste — Poison is made into a paste which may be applied to edged or pointed weapons. It will remain effective for up to 1 week, or until an opponent is struck. If a critical is obtained the opponent must make a Resistance Roll or he takes the effect. If the result of the attack is only hits, the poison is gone. It may also be put into food or drink.

Liquid — As paste, except it only remains effective for 1 hour.

Powder — May not be applied to weapons, it may be placed in food or drink.

COST: Normal cost if available.

EFFECT: A maximum of 1 dose can take effect on a character each round. The effect is based on a dose weighing ½ ounce.

ADDICTION: A Gamemaster may wish to make certain herbs addictive. In such a case, use of the herb will become less effective, and the herb will be required to operate at full effectiveness (see Merrig under STAT MODIFIERS as an example).

ST-6 — TREASURE TABLE

GEMS AND JEWELRY — Gems and jewelry are forms of wealth that are more portable than most money. They are also more easily identifiable and more difficult to assess.

MONEY — The Gamemaster should keep in mind that most money in the world at large is in the form of tin pieces (tp) and copper pieces (cp), followed in decreasing frequency by bronze pieces (bp), silver pieces (sp), gold pieces (gp), and mithril pieces (mp). Often the sheer weight of the money in a treasure will limit the amount which can be carried away.

NORMAL EQUIPMENT — Many treasures will include lots of normal equipment (i.e., weapons, rope, tools, clothing, books, and manuscripts, etc.).

LIGHT EQUIPMENT — The weight of equipment (e.g., weapons, armor, shields, food, etc.) is often a big hindrance to a character. A piece of equipment which is lighter than normal is often very valuable to a character.

BONUS SPELL ITEMS — See Section 4.56.

MAGIC ITEMS WITH BONUSSES — See Section 4.56.

MAGIC ITEMS CONTAINING SPELLS — See Section 4.56.

SPECIAL ITEMS — The Gamemaster may create (make up) any magic item that he wants. Often these do not fall into the categories above. A good example of this type of item is a "slaying" weapon, which will be especially deadly against certain creatures. For example, a sword of "Orc-slaying" is treated as a normal sword against all non-Orc foes; however if it is used to give a critical to a Orc, the critical is resolved twice (two rolls instead of one) and both results are applied to the Orc.

ARTIFACTS — Artifacts are special items that are very powerful, and often contain multiple powers and abilities. The One True Ring and the Elven rings of power are examples of artifacts. Usually these items have a history and a cultural or political significance.

MONEY, GEMS AND JEWELRY CHART — First roll to determine the size of the treasure (the number of rolls allowed), then make a number of rolls to determine the actual composition.

DETERMINING THE COMPOSITION OF A TREASURE

— Most of the time a Gamemaster will choose a treasure that is appropriate for a particular adventure site. However, it is often useful to be able to quickly generate a random treasure or part of a treasure.

The charts below are included to help the Gamemaster in this task. The Gamemaster must assign a relative richness (very poor, poor, normal, rich or very rich) to the treasure's wealth (money, gems and jewelry) and to the treasure's magic item content. The richness of these factors may differ; for example, a treasure might be very rich in terms of wealth, but poor in terms of magic items. Each chart has a section for determining the size of the treasure; alternatively the Gamemaster may decide on the size. The size of the treasure is reflected in the number of rolls allowed on the composition section of each chart. These charts are only included to provide aid to the Gamemaster; he should use them as he sees fit.

MAGIC ITEM CHART — First roll to determine the size of the treasure (the number of rolls allowed), then make a number of rolls to determine the actual composition. If any "Spell" results are obtained, further rolls are required to determine what the spell item is and what spell is in it.

KEY:

- Normal = A normal non-magic item.
- # % Light = Equipment which weighs # % of normal.
- + # Bonus = An item with a + # bonus.
- Spell = An item containing a spell (roll on charts below).
- + # Adder = A bonus spell item, a + # "spell adder".
- x # Mult. = A bonus spell item, a x # "spell multiplier".
- Special = The Gamemaster should choose a special magic item.
- Artifact = An artifact may be present.

NOTE: See the descriptions of magic items to determine the type of items. Suggested items include: weapons, armor, helmets, greaves, shields, tools, saddles, cloaks, boots, gloves, glasses, etc. The Gamemaster should determine the type of item based upon the adventure site and situation.

CHOOSING A SPELL AND SPELL ITEM — The Magic Item Chart may indicate that a spell item is included in a treasure, or a Gamemaster may want to randomly choose a spell which is in an item. The two charts below provide a mechanism for choosing a spell and a spell item. Using the Spell List Chart, roll to determine which type of spell list the spell is from, then roll to determine the specific spell list. Then the Item and Spell Level Chart can be used to determine the type of item (if the Gamemaster has not already decided), and to determine the level of the spell. If the spell obtained is inappropriate, just repeat the process or part of the process, as necessary.

Curse — The spell is some how cursed; it may attack a character or affect him in some other negative fashion (e.g. a disease, a poison, a drop in stats, a phobia, etc.). The Gamemaster has great flexibility in this matter.

Special — The Gamemaster may make up a spell, or make a higher level spell based upon the existing spells (e.g. a Firebolt with a longer range, a Haste V spell, etc.).

NOTE: The Gamemaster should determine the number of charges left in a wand (maximum of 10), a rod (maximum of 30), or a staff (maximum of 100). A 1 — 100 die roll can help; low rolls indicating few charges and high rolls indicating lots of charges. He may also want to include multiple charges (or doses) on special scrolls and potions. A Daily # item may be used to cast a spell a number (#) of times each day (e.g. a Daily III item could be used 3 times a day), and may take any form that the Gamemaster wishes (e.g. a ring, a weapon, a bracelet, an earring, a rod, etc.).

ST-2 — CREATURE SUMMARY TABLE

No world is complete without the inclusion of the fauna and indigenous nasties of each locale. For the sake of convenience and ease of explanation, the "normal" fauna of Middle-earth is kept separate from the spectacular and deadly animals and monsters that comprise such a large portion of the atmosphere of any Tolkien-based game.

The combat capabilities of the animals most likely to be encountered adventuring in Middle-earth are summarized in the first part of Table ST-2. All of these creatures should be familiar to the players and thus are not fully described. Names are generic, such as "small cat" or "large dog." Anytime an animal is encountered the nearest compatible set of statistics should be used. Thus, a charging tiger would use the "large cat" row of statistics, while a water buffalo would use the "bull" row. One thing to remember is that most animals will not attack men voluntarily. Encounters with an animal should have a reason such as the animal being summoned or fighting to protect its young. In general, squadrons of moose do not roam the woods looking for a group of player characters to mug.

KEY:

Type — The type is the name and size of the broad generic category described in the remainder of the row.

Level — The level column denotes the level of the average animal for resistance roll and experience point purposes. Note that any animal with a zero in this column counts as level 0 for experience points and level 1 for resistance roll purposes.

#app — The approximate number of animals appearing in an average encounter with a group of 4-6 player characters. This is purely a suggested figure and is completely up to the Gamemaster.

Speed — The relative speed of the animal or monster. See the chart below.

Hits — The number of concussion hits the average specimen of that animal variety can take without losing consciousness. This may vary by 20% or more in either direction for any given animal.

AT — The armor type equivalent of the animal. NO = none; SL = soft leather; RL = rigid leather; CH = chain; PL = plate.

DB — The base defensive subtraction of the animal. This should be varied by the Gamemaster according to the circumstances and should naturally vary 20% just to give each animal an individual appearance.

Attack — This denotes the animal's type of attack and the base of-fensive bonus of that attack. See Table CST-2 for a further discussion of animal attacks.

Size — This gives the maximum size limitation of the animal's attacks. T = tiny; S = small; M = medium; L = large; H = huge.

Crit — The name of the critical table that the animal rolls when hit: Reg = normal; Lge = large creature; Hge = large creature (minus 10).

		Movement †		Defensive# Modifiers
		Base Movement	Movement Bonus	Charge/ Lunge	Flee/ Evade
CR	Creeping	20'	0	0	0
VS	Very Slow	40'	0	0	0
SL	Slow	50'	10	0	5
MD	Medium	65'	15	-5	10
MF	Moderately Fast	80'	20	-10	15
FA	Fast	110'	30	-15	20
VF	Very Fast	140'	40	-20	30
BF	Blindingly Fast	170'	50	-20	40

† — See Section 6.4 for an explanation of how to use these movement numbers.

— These modifiers apply to the animal or monster's defensive bonus when the proper situation occurs. A Charge/Lunge occurs when the animal attacks a person without surprise. Only the animal's target, or someone within 5', causes the modifier when attacking the charging beast. The Flee/Evade column occurs when the animal is at least fifty feet away and is moving at dash speed away or across the firing person's line of sight.

* — This monster has special attacks or powers. For details, see the individual descriptions.

8.0 APPENDIX 1 — RACE DESCRIPTIONS

The following are general descriptions of the predominant races of Middle-earth. Naturally, certain individuals will differ to varying degrees. Certain modifiers are included for purposes of realism, but GMs should feel free to omit them if they consider them to be unwieldy.

DWARVES (Pl. Khazad, sing. Khazad)

The Dwarves are descendants of the Seven Fathers, the original lords crafted from the earth by the Vala Aulë. He is the Smith of the Valar, the giver of mountains and master of crafts, and the Dwarves call him Mahal (Kh. "Maker").

They were created first, but Eru forced his servant Aulë to delay their awakening until after the coming of Elves. Following their birth the Seven Kings formed tribes based on their lines and separated. Although these Seven Tribes have since spread across Middle-earth, they have remained close and have spawned a universal reputation for ruggedness, practicality, and unwavering loyalty. Most groups favor the rocky highlands and deep caverns of the mountains, for the Dwarves, perhaps more than any race, remember their origin and heritage.

Physical Character

Build: Short, stocky, strong, with exceptionally strong limbs.

Coloring: Black, red, or dark brown hair. Fair to ruddy complexion.

Endurance: Tremendous. They can carry great burdens over long distances with little rest.

Height: 4 to 5 feet tall.

Lifespan: 200–400 years.

Resistance: Resistance against flame and ice: +30 bonus versus heat and cold attacks.

Special Abilities: Dwarves see well in extreme darkness. In the dimmest light, they can see 50' perfectly, and fairly well up to 100.' They can see 10' in total darkness (non-magical).

Culture

Clothing and Decoration: Beards, sometimes braided. Long hair. Heavy garb with colorful hooded cloaks.

Fears and Inabilities: Open water and the Vala Ulmo (Lord of Waters). They do not normally swim (-50 to Swimming maneuvers).

Lifestyle: Dwarves are superb miners and craftsmen, and unsurpassed stoneworkers. They live in tightly-knit groups and favor underground cities which are usually cut into rugged hills or mountains.

Marriage Pattern: Monogamous. Only a third of the race is female. The line is traced through the male.

Religion: Dwarves believe that each lineage has a common spirit which permeates them all and ties them together. They revere their ancestors above all other things but Aulë their maker, and believe that in each King exists a part of his predecessors. Those of "Durin's Folk", the Dwarves of Moria and the highlands of Wilderland, believe their Kings to all be one Dwarf — Durin the Deathless.

Other Factors

Demeanor: Sober, quiet, possessive, suspicious, pugnacious, introspective, and often very greedy. Tenacious warriors, they fight without quarter and never retreat. Each Dwarf treats his kind as brothers and non-Dwarves as lesser beings who, one way or another, are a constant threat. Their blood is thick and their bonds are deep. They enter into agreements with extreme care but, once made, honor them to the letter. The old adage is true: "no friend ever did a Dwarf a favor, no enemy a wrong, without being repaid in full".

Language: When in public or about in the wild, Dwarves speak Westron (Rank 5), the Common Speech, or some Elvish language (Rank 3). Among themselves, Dwarves speak Khuzdul (Rank 5), a guarded tongue known by virtually no one but themselves.

Prejudices: Orcs, Wargs, and Dragons are the sworn enemies of Dwarven-kind. Above all other races, they despise these the most, although they are extremely suspicious of mages and Elves. They have suffered too much as a result of magic. No Dwarf will ever forget the sly words of Sauron, one whose conjuring enslaved many of their great lords.

Restrictions on Professions: No Dwarven Mages or Bards. Dwarves know of spells and enchantments, but generally scoff at the ways of Elves or other conjurers, preferring instead to use such power in the making of permanent physical items. Traditional Mages and Bards are unheard-of; instead they produce alchemists and engineers.

Background Options: They get four background points.

UMLI

The *Uml*i live in the Far North of north-central Middle-earth, east of the Lossoth. They are a race of short folk who apparently came from an ancient union of Men and Dwarves. Legends call them Half-dwarves.

Physical Character

Build: Strong and compact, with large features and considerable facial hair. Males average 150 pounds; females 135 pounds.

Coloring: Ruddy skin and red hair, with penetrating pale blue eyes.

Endurance: Exceptional in cold climes; average in temperate areas; poor in warm or hot climates.

Height: 4-5 feet.

Lifespan: 100-200 years.

Resistance: Uml*i* have a +30 bonus versus cold/ice attacks and a -15 bonus versus heat/fire attacks.

Special Abilities: Uml*i* need sleep but three hours a day. In the cold (below 35°) they halve any encumbrance penalties; above 90° they suffer double encumbrance penalties.

Culture

Clothing and Decoration: Fur-lined skin coats, shirts, pants, boots, and hoods.

Fears and Inabilities: None.

Lifestyle: Hunters, gatherers, and fisherman, they move from site to site depending on the season. Most reside in caves or underground settlements. Many mine, and the Uml*i* are accomplished smiths and artisans.

Marriage Pattern: Monogamous. The line is traced through the male.

Religion: Somewhat formal. They worship Eru and the Valar, and revere Aulë (who they call Mahlic) above all others.

Other Factors

Demeanor: Possessive, persevering, stubborn, fierce, and yet quiet.

Language: They speak Umitic (Rank 5). Some know a little Labba (Rank 2), Westron (Rank 2), or Khuzdul (Rank 1).

Prejudices: They hate Dragons and Wargs above all other races.

Restrictions on Professions: None.

Background Options: They get four background points.

ELVES (Quendi)

Elves were the first to awaken and venture onto Middle-earth. They are a graceful and noble race of immortal beings who resemble Men, but shine with an inner glow which betrays the spirit of unique thoughts and gifts. No race has been blessed with more, or cursed so much by the hand of Fate.

Though basically similar to mortal men in most ways, Elves have several important, if subtle differences. As a race they are taller than humans but they are uniformly slender and have less body hair. Elven men have no beards. Fine features and fair, unmarred skin combine with sparkling eyes to give the Elf an enchanted aura. A strange deftness and ease of movement give them a graceful quality and it is not surprising that they are very agile and so light afoot; they leave few traces of their passing and can walk on the surface of freshly fallen snow. Their gentle physical appearance belies great strengths, however, for they are highly resistant to the crippling effects of extreme temperatures, and are immune to disease and illness.

They are also immortal, and age in a graceful, nearly imperceptible manner. Elves commonly die from only two causes: through violence, or as a result of a weariness of the world. In the latter case an Elf is simply overcome with grief over the course of time, thereby losing the will to live. All the Elves who pass away are gathered in the Halls of Mandos, the Place of Awaiting, in the far west of Aman (Valinor). There they await the End of the World, or are released back into the world to replace another of their line who has perished. In a sense, Elves are often reborn as descendants of themselves.

The Elves revere the Valar and many know their nature well. Still, they have no formal religion; instead they show their respect through poetry and song and gather to celebrate life and the gifts from on high. This respect for the way of things is largely tied to their acceptance of their close ties to the Fate set down in the Song of Creation, although much of it also stems from an understanding and joy regarding the creations of nature which have been handed down and overseen by the Valar. Above all but Eru they worship Varda, Queen of the Valar and fairest of all creations. She is the bringer of light and they call her "Lady of the Stars" (Elentári or Elbereth).

HALF-ELVES (Peredhil)

Half-elves are a rare breed, the offspring of Men and Elves. While the Dúnedain, Corsairs, and Black Númenoreans have Elvish (and even Maia) blood, their connection to Elves lies in the remote past and they are not called Half-elves. True Half-elves have one Elven parent and one Mannish parent.

Upon reaching adulthood, a Half-elf must decide whether to live as a mortal Man or an immortal Elf. Elrond of Rivendell chose the latter course, while his brother Elros — first King of Númenor — opted for mortality. Those who become Men receive the Gift of Death and are not bound to Fate like their Elven kin.

Physical Character

Build: Strong and slender, thinner than Men but stouter than Elves. They have thin, angular features. Males average 200 pounds, females 140 pounds.

Coloring: Fair, generally with brown or black hair and grey eyes.

Endurance: Considerable. Half-elves need but 4 hours rest a day: sleep for mortals or meditation for the immortals.

Height: Males average 6'3", females 5'11".

Lifespan: Mortal Half-elves live 250-500 years.

Resistance: Half-elves are virtually immune to disease and natural illness. They have a +5 bonus against cold attacks.

Elves do not need sleep. Instead, they receive rest through meditation involving memories, past events they recall with remarkable vividness. Normally they go into this trance-like state for approximately two hours each day, although they can function for many days with little or no relief. While in their meditative state, Elves are extremely difficult to awaken; they rise at a point previously decided. This manner of rest is in keeping with the Elven fondness for the night. Men have often referred to them as people of the stars with good reason, for Elves see as well on a star-lit evening as a man would at the height of day. Elven sight is ideal for the partial darkness of the shadowy forest or cloudy sky, and allows them a mobility unlike that of any other race. In absolute darkness, however, they suffer as others do; they can not see at all.

Their sense of hearing is also superb, and no doubt accounts for the Elven skills with music. Their reverence for song is unparalleled and has affected their language and way of keeping precious records. The Elves were first to use spoken words and have taught the other races of the gift of speech; thus their own name for their kind: "Quendi" — the "Speakers". All of their speech has a musical quality when spoken properly, lending itself well to verse. Elven Bards, then, have had little trouble in maintaining the histories and epics of their race as a collection of wondrous songs and spoken poetry.

There are two major groupings of Elves in Middle-earth. Their split in the early First Age formed the basis for the development of two separate Elven cultures. The most exalted group is the Eldar, the three kindreds (Noldor, Vanyar, and Teleri) which made the Great Journey across Middle-earth during the First Age. Most settled for a time in Aman (the Undying Lands), or along the shores of now-sunken Beleriand. Only the Noldor and Sindar (a group of Teleri) remained in Middle-earth following the War of Wrath that ended the First Age. All other folk are called Avári or Silvan Elves. They are commonly called Wood-elves.

From these cultures came the three groups which form the Elven races of Middle-earth: (1) the Noldor, (2) the Sindar, and (3) the Silvan Elves.

Special Abilities: Half-elves can see extremely well in the dark. Under moonlight or starlight they can see perfectly for 500'. In other darkness situations they see as Elves do (50' to 100' if a light source is available).

Culture

Clothing and Decoration: Varies, although it is generally well-made and beautifully and subtly adorned. Favored colors are deep blues and greens, greys and grey-greens, silver, and white.

Fears and Inabilities: None.

Lifestyle: Varies, although they generally live in secluded retreats or havens, or among Elvenkind. Their culture is much like that of the Sindar, although they are constantly concerned with the ways of Men.

Marriage Pattern: Monogamous. The line is traced through the male or female.

Religion: Quiet, personal, and involving meditation. They respect Eru and the Valar and revere Varda and Oromë above all others. Those who live by the sea hold Ulmo dear.

Other Factors

Demeanor: Patient, reserved, considerate, balanced, mellow, and thoughtful.

Language: Most speak Sindarin (Rank 5) as their first tongue. They all know Westron (Rank 5) and some Quenya (Rank 3).

Prejudices: Orcs are their sworn enemies.

Restrictions on Professions: None.

Background Options: Because of their strong cultural and racial ties they only get three background points.

THE NOLDOR (sing. Noldo)

The Noldor are often called “High Elves” or “Deep Elves”, ostensibly because they are considered to be the most noble of the Quendi in Middle-earth. In reality, they are so named because they are the only Elves living in Endor who have ever resided in the Blessed Realm of Aman across the sea. This exalted status is accentuated by their close ties with the Valar, a relationship which accounts for their unique cultural and linguistic roots. Other names for the Noldor include Deep-elves, Golodhrim or Gelydh (Sindarin labels), and Nómin (Edain label).

Finwë was the first King of the Noldor, which is counted among the Eldar as the Second Kindred. Finwë’s sons — Fëanor, Fingolfin, and Finarfin — produced the three traditional lines which compose the whole of the Noldor.

Physical Character

Build: Of all the Elves, the Noldor are the strongest and sturdiest of build, although they are still slimmer than Men.

Coloring: Most are dark haired and have greyish eyes which betray a proud looking manner. Descendants of the Fingolfin and Finarfin are often fair haired and blue eyed, for their blood contains Vanyar influences.

Endurance: They do not carry great burdens, but they are capable of traveling 16-20 hours a day. The Noldor do not sleep; instead they rest in a trance for 1-3 hours a day (this restores any Power Points using casting spells).

Height: Males average 6’7”, females 6’3”.

Lifespan: They are immortal and will only die due to violence or if they weary of life and lose the will to live.

Resistance: They cannot become sick or scarred and are virtually immune to disease. +20 bonus versus cold attacks.

Special Abilities: No race sees better outside during the darkness of night than the Elves. Their vision under moonlight or starlight is as good as a Man’s during the height of day. In other situations when there is any light source, Elves can see at least 50’ perfectly and fairly well up to 100’. In absolute darkness, however, they are no better than Men (i.e., they can’t see at all). Their hearing range is three times the norm.

Noldor are unparalleled at understanding and working with crafts. +20 for Item Use rolls.

Culture

Clothing and Decoration: They favor rich clothing and fine craftsmanship, and often have the appearance of great wealth.

Fears and Inabilities: None.

Lifestyle: Of all the Elves of Middle-earth, the Noldor are the most ordered. While their brethren are content to wander or mark time in quiet diffusion, the Noldor seek to build communities and states in beautiful, guarded places.

Marriage Pattern: Monogamous and for life. They sometimes marry mortal Men. Such unions produce Half-elves.

Religion: Informal and centered around communal celebration and personal meditation. Like the Dwarves, the Noldor are fiery craftsmen who are fast friends of Aulë, and it is the Smith who imbued them with a heightened respect for physical objects. It is not surprising, then, to find that the Noldor revere Aulë more than any other Vala, save Varda herself. Like all Elves, they worship Varda as giver of Light and maker of the stars.

Other Factors

Demeanor: Regardless of the line, all Noldor are noble of bearing and carry themselves with assurance. They are haughty and often appear to be arrogant. Of all the Elves, they are the most inquisitive and passionate, being full of a lust for experience and expertise in the arts and the ways of the world. Because of this thirst for knowledge the Noldor have often fallen prey to lust, corruption, and strife.

Language: The Noldorin tongue is called Quenya (Q. “The Speech”; pronounced Kwen-ya), and they embrace it as their true tongue (Rank 5), but largely confine its use to their own environs. It is still the exclusive language of ceremonies, writings, and oral traditions, regardless of circumstance. For other uses outside of their quiet territory the Noldor employ the language of their more numerous Sindar cousins, Sindarin (Rank 5). When dealing with Men or races unacquainted with Sindarin, they rely on the Common Tongue of Westron (Rank 5) or, more rarely, the Adûnaic of the Dûnedain (Rank 3).

Prejudices: The Noldor hate Orcs, Trolls, and Dragons above all creatures. Due to their pride they look down upon non-Dûnedain Men.

Restrictions on Professions: None. The term Noldor means “Wise” or “Knowing”, and serves as a fine label for the Second Kindred. For this reason, they produce the greatest number of Elven bards and loremasters.

Background Options: Since the Noldor are Elves and tied by their immortality to the Song of Creation, they are strongly bound to Fate and get only two background points.

THE SINDAR (sing. Sinda)

The Sindar or “Grey-elves” are Eldar and were originally part of the great kindred called the Teleri. Unlike the Noldor, Vanyar, and bulk of the Teleri, the Sindar chose not to cross over the sea to Aman; instead they stayed in Middle-earth. They, like the Silvan Elves, are part of the Moriquendi, those Elves who never saw the Light of Valinor.

Physical Character

Build: Thin when compared to Men, the Sindar are nearly as tall as the Noldor but are generally slighter of build. They are more muscular than the Silvan folk.

Coloring: Most have fair hair and pale blue or grey eyes. Like the Noldor, they have light skin.

Endurance: Same as for Noldor Elves.

Height: Males average 6’5”, females 6’1”.

Lifespan: Same as for Noldor Elves.

Resistance: They cannot become sick or scarred and are virtually immune to disease. +15 bonus versus cold attacks.

Special Abilities: Vision same as that of Noldor Elves.

The Sindar are less musical than the Vanyar or Silvan Elves, and are less skilled in forging or crafts than the Noldor. Nonetheless, they are adept at all the arts and excel in their special provinces. No race builds better boats or ships.

Culture

Clothing and Decoration: Sindar clothing is exceedingly well made, yet subtle and utilitarian. They do not favor the rich garb of their Noldor cousins. Greys and silvers are their chosen colors.

Fears and Inabilities: None.

Lifestyle: The Sindar are the most open and cooperative of Middle-earth’s Elves. They are great teachers and borrowers and have an interest in the works of all races. This is in contrast to the more inquisitive Noldor, who are quick to scoff at things which are subtle or modest in appearance or utility. Grey-elves are a settled people and enjoy the company of others. Unlike the Silvan Elves, they build towns and havens and gather in close-knit communities.

Marriage Pattern: Same as for Noldor Elves.

Religion: Informal and centered around communal celebration and personal meditation, just as those of other Elves. Like the Noldor, they revere Eru and see Varda as their patron Vala. They also have a special respect for Ulmo, the “Lord of Waters”.

Other Factors

Demeanor: Of the three Elven races of Middle-earth, the Sindar are the quietest and calmest, and appear to be the most content. They are less frivolous and playful than the Silvan Elves and are less fiery and passionate than the Noldor. Sindar feelings are deep and not easily aroused, but when they are they cannot be stayed. This is the root of their Sea-longing.

Language: Their own speech Sindarin (Rank 5) has become the principal speech of all the Elves of northwestern Middle-earth and has heavily influenced mannish tongues. Nonetheless, the Sindar know Westron (Rank 5), Silvan (Rank 4), and some Quenya (Rank 3).

Prejudices: The Sindar are great friends of most races and have remained particularly close to Dwarves. Their chief enemies are Orcs, Wargs, and Dragons.

Restrictions on Professions: None.

Background Options: Since the Sindar are Elves and tied by their immortality to the Song of Creation, they are strongly bound to Fate and get only three background points.

SILVAN ELVES

When the Eldar departed from the original Elven homeland during the Elder Days, a number of their brethren remained behind. They decided not to seek the light of the Aman and were labeled as the Avari (Q. “Unwilling, Refusers”). These kindreds were left to fend for themselves during the days when Morgoth’s Shadow swept over the East. During these dark times they were forced into the secluded safety of the forests of eastern Middle-earth, where they wandered and hid from the wild Men who dominated most of the lands. They became known as the Silvan or Wood-elves.

As a result of this co-mingling, some confusion arose as to the identity of Silvan kindreds, and many of the Teleri have been called Wood-elves, but here the term is only applicable to the Avari.

Physical Character

Build: Most are slight of build, and all are thin by mannish standards.

Coloring: Ruddy of complexion, with sandy hair and blue or green eyes. Generalizations are difficult, however, since there are many kindreds and there is wide variation among them.

Endurance: Same as for Noldor Elves.

Height: Males average 6’0”, females 5’9”.

Lifespan: Same as for Noldor Elves.

Resistance: They cannot become sick or scarred and are virtually immune to disease. +10 bonus versus cold attacks.

Special Abilities: Their vision is the same as that of Noldor Elves.

The Silvan folk are superb musicians and have tremendous hearing, even for Elves. +10 to Bardic spell attacks. They are also elusive. +10 for trickery and Stalking/Hiding maneuvers.

Culture

Clothing and Decoration: Their preferred clothes are usually forest green, grey, or brown, and are generally functional in design.

Fears and Inabilities: None.

Lifestyle: The culture of the Silvan Elves is best characterized as unstructured and rustic by Elven standards, but rich and relatively advanced when compared to the ways of Men. They have always been independent, but as of late many have settled in kingdoms ruled by the Noldor or Sindar. Still, all the Silvan folk enjoy a good journey or adventure and most look at life much as a game to be played. Music and trickery are their favorite pastimes. The Silvan Elves are also masters of the wood and know much of wood-craft and wood-lore.

Marriage Pattern: Monogamous and for life. They sometimes marry Men. Such unions produce Half-elves.

Religion: Informal and centered around communal celebration and personal meditation. Like all Elves, they worship Varda as giver of Light and maker of the stars. The principal difference is their strong attachment to the Vala Oromë, the “Huntsman and Tamer of Beasts”.

Other Factors

Demeanor: They are a fun-loving but guarded folk. Outward mirth often hides their grim intentions.

Language: Silvan tongues (Bethleur) are their favored languages (Rank 5), although the Silvan Elves of Mirkwood and places further west generally use Sindarin (Rank 5) as their native tongue. Because all Elvish has a song-like quality, however, the slightly unique Silvan vocal pattern betrays their racial origin, even when they employ the tongues of the Eldar. Most know Westron (Rank 4) and a little Quenya (Rank 2).

Prejudices: The Silvan Elves seclude themselves more readily than the Eldar, for they have a less friendly history of relations with Men. They despise Orcs, dislike Dwarves, and are suspicious of Men.

Restrictions on Professions: None. Of all the Elven groups, they are the quickest to employ spells, and often use magic for simple uses or mere tricks. Still, they are not normally prone to use magic of great power.

Background Options: Since the Silvan Folk are Elves and tied by their immortality to the Song of Creation, they are bound to Fate and get four background points.

HOBBITS (Kuduk)

Hobbits have an unclear origin, although it appears they arose in the East in the First Age, at about the same time as Men. Indeed, they are said to be related to Men. Their habits, however, are unique: they burrow and dig and reside in “holes”; thus their name Kuduk, which means “hole-dweller” (from the ancient Rhovanion Hobbitish kûd-dûkan).

Physical Character

Build: Smallest of the speaking people, Hobbits average between 2 and 4 feet in height, and tend to be fat or pudgy. They have large and hairy feet — to the point of being furry.

There are three principal varieties, or tribes, of Hobbits: the Harfoots, Stoors, and Fallohides. The Fallohides are the tallest and average between 3 and 4 feet in height. They have fair skin and, of all the groups, resemble Men the most. Their numbers are small, however, and some observers have confused them with nearby mannish groups.

The most common Hobbits are Harfoots. They are the smallest in size and the darkest in color, rarely exceeding 3 feet in height and having brown skin and hair. Neat and uniformly beardless, they are in many ways the picture of the average Hobbit.

The Stoors are the stockiest Hobbit folk and often appear shorter than some of the Harfoots because of their wide profile. Generally, however, they are taller than Harfoots and shorter than Fallohides. Their coloration is also somewhat of a compromise, although they have curly brown hair which resembles that of their shorter cousins. Nonetheless, the most distinguishing features of Stoors are their huge hands and feet (large even by Hobbit standards) and frequent beard growth.

Endurance: Hobbits have a subtle ruggedness which is akin to that of Dwarves and Orcs. When pushed, they can travel long distances over tough terrain, despite the fact that their normal routine requires frequent meals and relaxation.

Lifespan: 90-110 years. They become adults at 30.

Resistance: Their feet and hands are almost immune to heat and cold. Accordingly, they are almost always barefoot. Their innate simplicity and innocence gives them heightened resistance to magical attacks.

Special Abilities: Dexterous, they move nimbly and quietly. Their long, strangely slender fingers allow them to craft fine handiwork and help explain their fine reputation as thieves.

Culture

Clothing and Decoration: They wear linen or wool garb — shirts, pants which fall to the upper ankle, and brightly colored vests. They occasionally don hats, but rarely wear shoes or gloves.

Fears and Inabilities: Hobbits shy away from the bizarre or unusual, but otherwise have normal dispositions.

Lifestyle: They are capable craftsmen, but are not friends of complex machines or magic. Their vices are few: six hefty meals a day, pipeweed smoking, and bright apparel. Still, regardless of this dull and insular lifestyle, the Hobbits' steady approach to life has proved successful; in the face of wars, plagues, and famines they have survived relatively undisturbed.

Some Hobbits are curious enough to travel or adventure a bit and the Fallohides have produced a considerable number of rather bold individuals. Each Hobbit tribe has its own favorite locale: Fallohides enjoy the woodlands found in cool northern climes; Harfoots favor hillsides and highlands; and Stoors prefer riversides and flatlands. Accordingly, their preferences have had an effect on their living patterns. The conservative Harfoots, for instance, have always had sites for their traditional smials or Hobbit-hole houses, while the Stoors and Fallohides have begun relying on surface dwellings of wood, brick, or stone.

All the Hobbits enjoy the simple life of farmers, millers, and craftsmen. Workshops and sheds dot their territories, uniformly low structures, for the halflings hate towers and rarely build above the first story.

In the Shire (K. “Sûza”) the traditional office of the ruling Thain is hereditary.

Marriage Pattern: Monogamous. Harfoots and Fallohides trace their lines through either the male or female. Stoors trace theirs through the female.

Religion: Hobbit religion is without exception low-key and informal. It is actually a series of joyful celebrations centering on the gifts of Nature. Mid-years (midsummers) is the time for the summer festival, while the two Yule days at the beginning and end of the year mark the beginning of the return of the Sun and the march toward Spring. Harvest times, of course, are always of special note.

Other Factors

Demeanor: Hobbits are basically cheery, conservative, unassuming, and peaceful folk. Ambition is not part of their makeup. Most are conformists who avoid the unknown and shun adventure, preferring instead to stay within the comforts of neat, humble villages.

Language: Hobbits speak their own subtle variant of Westron (Rank 5) which is modern Hobbitish. This adoption of the Common Speech is indicative of their subtle adaptability, for the whole of the tribes abandoned the original Kuduk tongue when they migrated out of Rhovanion in the 13th and 14th centuries of the Third Age. The traditional Westron name for Hobbits is Banakil (U. “Halfling”).

Prejudices: Fallohides are the most prone to mingle with Big People. Stoors rarely deal with other races and the Harfoots, for the most part, prefer to interact with the grim Dwarves. All Hobbits share in hating Wargs and Orcs.

Restrictions on Professions: Hobbits produce no Mages, Animists, Bards, or Rangers.

Background Options: Those Hobbits who dare venture away from home are assumed to be extraordinary, and therefore get five background points.

MEN (Hildor or Atani)

Men were the Secondborn and first arose in the Far East during the First Age. There, in a land called Hildórien, they awoke to find a wild continent and it was sometime before they first encountered the Firstborn, or Elves. It was the Elves who gave them the name Hildor (El. "Followers"), although they are now more commonly called by the Quenya Atani or Sindarin Edain ("Second People").

Men differ from the Elves in many ways, the least subtle of which is their "Gift of Death". Men are mortal and live their brief lives with a fire and passion unlike any other race. They are also varied and often flawed and vulnerable. Unlike the Firstborn, they are quite susceptible to disease and temperature extremes. At the same time, however, they rarely weary of life.

There are two greater groupings of Men: the High Men, who are commonly called Edain; and the Common Men, those who did not ally themselves with the Elves in the wars against Morgoth. Some speak of the Northmen as a third group, Middle Men who are racially close to the Edain, but did not benefit from any contact or alliance with the Elves.

High Men are exceptionally large, averaging 6'3" to 6'7" and weighing 200 to 275 pounds. Their great bones and musculature gives them a grand appearance; only the Noldor Elves rival their strength. They are not as nimble or resilient as the Elves, however. The hair of High Men is dark-brown or coal-black — their eyes blue, grey, or black — and they tend toward fair skin. Those of pure blood live as long as 250-300 years.

Common Men are more numerous and less blessed. Stocky and relatively short (5' to 6'4"), they have produced a wide variety of types. Their hair and skin colors vary from the deepest brown and blacks to the lightest shades of blond and cream. Unlike the High Men, many wear beards and mustaches. From their ranks come the vast majority of Middle-earth's mannish lines.

BEORNINGS

Also called Beijabar or Bajaegahar, this dispersed group of large men has a confused origin. They are a Northmen branch related to the Woodmen, Lake-men, and Dale-men of Rhovanion, although they apparently became distinct in elder times, probably before the Northman migrations out of Eriador. Their numbers are few, and some have distinguished them as a clan rather than a separate people. Culturally, and to some degree physically, however, they are unique.

Physical Character

Build: Physically, the Beornings are the largest of the Northmen, and all are strong of build and bone structure. Men are exceedingly hairy; they average 220 pounds. Women average 145 pounds.

Coloring: Their complexions are fair, but unlike most Northmen (who are usually blond), the majority have reddish hair.

Endurance: Beornings need sleep only twice every three days.

Height: Men average 6'4", women 5'7".

Lifespan: 80-100 years.

Resistance: Average.

Special Abilities: Wild animals will not attack a Beorning unless actively provoked.

Culture

Clothing and Decoration: They are extremely hairy, and their tendency to wear furs gives them an "animal-like" appearance. Favoring rugged tunics, capes, and woolen pants with leggings, they rarely wear any traditional armor.

Fears and Inabilities: They shy away from civilized areas.

Lifestyle: Beornings have traditionally lived in small groups or single families on well-tended "manors". Some, like Beorn's line, have favored relative lowlands, while the majority reside in the passes and foothills of the Misty Mountains or Grey Mountains. In each case, their presence is extremely subtle. Beorning families tend both them and their surrounding manors with the aid of a wide variety of friendly animals, members of the household which appear tame to the outsider. Males leave their manors for extended periods in order to conduct military, religious, or social affairs.

Marriage Pattern: Monogamous. The line is traced through the male.

Religion: Centers on the ancient Cult of the Bear (Rh. "Bairakyn"). The head of the Cult, or Waildanbair (Rh. "Ruling Bear"), is also the hereditary lord of the whole Beorning clan and is the foremost of the famous Shape-changers. During their secluded ceremonies these Men take the form of bears and recreate their ancient legends and epics using complex dance rituals. These gatherings occur at specific holy places which have some connection to their patron Vala Oromë (who they call Araw).

Other Factors

Demeanor: Beornings are loners by nature, but enjoy their rare moments with others. Generous and normally quiet and introspective, they can become jovial and explosive when in social situations. Their deep, thundering laughter is legend. As warriors, Beornings are fierce and often uncontrollable. This is particularly true of the rare Shape-changers, for they have a tendency to transform into Bears when outraged or overly stimulated. Once Bears, they can attack with tremendous force, but they have little more than single-minded instinct to work upon.

Language: Beornings generally use two forms of communication: their standard language Atliduk (Rank 5), and the system of Nature-signals called Waildyth (Rank 5). The latter can be used to speak over long distances without betraying one's presence, since the sounds are merely variations on the noises of the wild — beasts, the wind, and the like. Most Beornings also know Westron (Rank 5) and the Woodman tongue Nahaiduk (Rank 5).

Prejudices: Beornings hate Orcs, Wargs, Trolls, Giants, and Dragons.

Restrictions on Professions: Beornings produce no Mages. A few, however are Shape-changers who can change from Man to Bear-form, but have limited control over this process. They have a Shape-changing Skill which increases by two Ranks each level. Each Rank gives them a bonus when they attempt to change form or resist involuntary change while under stress (e.g., stay in Man-form after being struck in combat). This Skill is accessible only to noble Beornings. It is treated like any other Secondary Skill and all rolls are resolved on the Static Maneuver Table (MT-2).

Background Options: Those Beornings who leave their tight society are assumed to be special, and get five background points.

BLACK NÚMENOREANS

The term “Black Númenorean” (S. “Mornúmenedain”) is used to describe Men of Dúnedain stock who are descended from the “Unfaithful” Númenorean colonists and conquerors who came to Middle-earth during the middle and late Second Age. These Unfaithful had broken with the Valar and Elves who had bequeathed them the island kingdom of Númenor at the beginning of the Second Age, and many worshipped their own idols or paid homage to the Dark Lord Sauron. Gradually, the Unfaithful came to control Númenor and her colonies, the greatest of which was centered around the Havens of Umbar. When Númenor was destroyed by Eru in S.A. 3319 many of the Unfaithful survived in their refuges in Middle-earth.

Black Númenoreans, therefore, are actually very similar in physical and cultural character to the Dúnedain. Certain changes have occurred after their centuries of separate development, but both groups have actively sought to remain relatively pure and true to their origins.

Physical Character

BUILD: Strong and imposing, with angular features. Men average 225 pounds, women 150 pounds.

Coloring: After long years in the hot South, the Black Númenoreans have tanned, grey-brown skin, and black hair. Their piercing eyes are various shades of grey.

Endurance: Considerable.

Height: Men average 6'4", women 5'10".

Lifespan: 90-175 years.

Resistance: Average.

Special Abilities: +25 to Sailing maneuvers. +10 to melee Offensive Bonuses, -10 to Defensive Bonus.

Culture

Clothing and Decoration: Black and gold are their favored colors. They wear rich clothing made of dyed silk and cotton. Gems and feathers add elaboration. The karma — Númenor's famous overlapping scale helm surmounted by a colored leather fish crest — is still in use.

Fears and Inabilities: They fear Death, but not in battle. Confidence and passion lead them to believe they can overcome any known physical enemy.

Lifestyle: Black Númenorean culture reflects a rigid slant. Their societies are well-ordered and ruled by force of personality, backed by harsh law. Dictators and oligarchs hold sway over the people, most of whom are subject races who serve and pay tribute to the Black Númenorean upper class. Warriors are considered the elite and most Men serve in the army at one time in their lives. This has enabled them to almost always be at war. Superb craftsmen and fighters, the Black Númenoreans are experts at ship-building and naval warfare.

Marriage Pattern: Monogamous. The line is traced through the male.

Religion: Organized religion is the norm among Black Númenoreans. The most important cults are those pertaining to death and the afterlife, for these old Númenorean concerns have been perpetuated and modified. Mummification is the norm.

Most revere their own local heroes or gods associated with war, power, terror, and the unknown. They see the untamed Darkness as the only frontier they cannot master; therefore they worship it. Those few that still worship the Valar favor Tulkas the Strong, the greatest master of strength and deeds. It is the always-laughing Tulkas who best embodies the spirit of raw strength, for he is quick to make war, weak of counsel, forthright, and sworn of passion and honor.

Other Factors

Demeanor: Black Númenoreans are generally haughty and self-centered — rash, confident, and full of pride. They believe in their own superiority and support the view that it is the destiny of their race to rule Middle-earth. Their views have made them quick to strike a blow; warlike and single-minded, they enjoy a fight. When in a superior position they will rarely offer quarter.

Language: They have a strong passion for tradition and have, therefore, maintained the Adûnaic tongue of Númenor in a relatively pure form (Rank 5). Most also know Westron (Rank 5) and Haradaic (Rank 5).

Prejudices: Black Númenoreans are biased against nearly every other people, but their prejudices against the Elves and the Dúnedain are particularly vehement.

Restrictions on Professions: None.

Background Options: Due to their stratified society and rigid upbringing, they get three background points.

CORSAIRS

The Corsairs are descendants of the Dúnedain rebels who fled from Gondor in the wake of the Kin-strife of T.A. 1432-47. Most settled in Umbar in T.A. 1447 and began a long struggle for control with the stronger Haradan and Black Númenorean elements. Since that time modest inbreeding with the locals has created a somewhat distinct group, although their Dúnedain roots remain strong. They long to reclaim Gondor as their own.

Physical Character

BUILD: Strong of build; males average 220 pounds, women 145 pounds.

Coloring: Corsairs are generally fair skinned and have grey or bluish eyes and black or dark brown hair.

Endurance: Considerable. They do not get seasick.

Height: Men average 6'3", women 5'9".

Lifespan: 95-190 years.

Resistance: Normal.

Special Abilities: +25 bonus for Weather-watching or Star-gazing activity.

Culture

Clothing and Decoration: Corsairs favor purple, red, and gold clothing made from silk or fine cotton. They wear tunics and only rarely don leggings. Men wear gold collars, while women are well-adorned with jewelry.

Fears and Inabilities: Disease and illness, and their own natural mortality.

Lifestyle: Corsair culture reflects the conservative elements found among Gondor's aristocracy, only it is carried to an extreme. The warm coastal influence of Umbar has added some additional influences, mostly Black Númenorean, and the result is a throwback to the ancient marine culture of Númenor.

Marriage Pattern: Monogamous. Line is traced through male.

Religion: Corsair religion is preoccupied with Death and Darkness, and largely revolves around ancestor and hero worship. Great Númenorean Kings are revered as godlike. Ceremonies dwell on the perpetuation of the life of the individual and, more importantly, the lineage. The dead are buried with elaborate fanfare and are laid to rest in a preserved state, one of pronounced splendor.

Other Factors

Demeanor: Aggressive, haughty, determined, embittered — the Corsairs have the attitude of royalty in unjust exile.

Language: The first tongue of the Corsairs is Adûnaic (Rank 5), since they identify it with Númenor and the line of the Dúnedain. All of them speak Gondor's Common Speech, Westron (Rank 5), as well as the Haradaic (Rank 4) of Umbar's citizenry.

Prejudices: The Corsairs are a minority group and are locked in a constant struggle with their allies the Black Númenoreans and Haradrim. They look upon both groups with suspicion and some disdain. The Black Númenoreans, like the Dúnedain, have in many cases married subject peoples and the Corsairs consider this a sign of weakness. They view the Haradrim as yet another inferior race, one which must be tolerated. Their greatest enemy is the Northmen (Rohirrim, Woodmen, Beornings, etc.), because they are held to blame for the Kin-strife.

Restrictions on Professions: None.

Background Options: Normal, five background points.

DORWINRIM (sing. Dorwinadan)

The Dorwinrim occupy the lower Carnen valley and the region running south from the river to the northwest shore of the Sea of Rhûn — the land called Dorwinion. They are a mixture of Northman and Easterling stock.

Physical Character

Build: Dorwinrim are slightly larger than most groups labeled as “Common Men”: males average 160 pounds, females 110 pounds. Overall, they are somewhat stocky and have wide features; narrow noses and eye slits are the only exception.

Coloring: Their fair, slightly yellowish complexion is unique. They have subdued eyes which are usually brown (like their straight hair), although some are blue or green.

Endurance: Average.

Height: Men average 5'9", women 5'2".

Lifespan: 60-80 years.

Resistance: Normal.

Special Abilities: +30 bonus to RR versus poisons. +15 for Acting or Public Speaking situations. +10 for Rowing maneuvers.

Culture

Clothing and Decoration: A wide variety of wools and linens. They wear shirts and pants and adorn themselves modestly.

Fears and Inabilities: None.

Lifestyle: They are traders and river-men who abandoned their nomadic past in favor of an urban, albeit rustic life. Dorwinion is known for its fine wines and strong oils. Vines cover the land and provide the principal sources of income: grapes, olives, wine, olive oil, etc. Additional revenue comes from the Sea of Rhûn: shellfish products, food, and dyes bring good money to the Dorwinrim.

Marriage Pattern: Monogamous. The line is traced through the male or female.

Religion: Dorwinrim religion is a prominent and stable element. It is a unifying force among a people who have no formal law and equate authority with power. Worship centers around tribal and clannish totems (L. “Igana”), holy symbols which represent deified heroes. The heroes are believed to have power over the places they influenced during life and hold sway over their descendants. Therefore, a family or clan guards its territory religiously. The totems are also crucial, since they are believed to have real power and are the sole means of communication with the hero they represent.

Other Factors

Demeanor: The Dorwinrim are known for their hardy, hospitable character. Most favor strong drink and story-telling and never shy away from a celebration. Their distinct rolling laughter and physical closeness (e.g., hugging) adds to their reputation of friendliness, although it is somewhat deceiving; a Dorwinadan may appear closer than he really is. The Dorwinrim are amazingly loyal to friends, and distinctly short or cruel with enemies.

Language: The Dorwinrim are well-versed in the commercial tongues of northwest and north-central Middle-earth. They speak fluent Westron (Rank 5) and Logathig (Rank 5), the latter their own home tongue. Since they frequently deal with the Silvan Elves, many have acquainted themselves with Silvan speech or Sindarin (Rank 3).

Prejudices: Renowned as explorers, traders, and travelers, they have learned much of the spirit of others and enjoy dealing with a wide variety of Elves and Men alike.

Restrictions on Professions: None.

Background Options: Normal, five background points.

DÚNEDAIN

The Dúnedain are descendants of the Edain who settled on the island kingdom of Númenor during the Second Age. It was their Númenorean forefathers who colonized and conquered much of Middle-earth. When the Isle of the West sank into the sea during the Downfall of S.A. 3319, two groups survived: the Black Númenoreans and the Faithful Dúnedain. The latter settled Arnor and Gondor, the Realms in Exile. Like all their brethren, they have traces of Elven and Maia blood.

Physical Character

Build: Tall and strong. Men average 225 pounds, women 150 pounds.

Coloring: Fair skin and black or dark brown hair. They have grey, hazel, blue, or green eyes.

Endurance: Considerable.

Height: Men average 6'5", women 5'10".

Lifespan: 100-300 years.

Resistance: Normal.

Special Abilities: None.

Culture

Clothing and Decoration: Rich and well made, with elaborate collars. The Dúnedain of lowland Gondor wear light tunics and often go without leggings. Those of colder areas wear more. They favor feathers and white symbols on dark fields.

Fears and Inabilities: The Dúnedain fear Death, for they are acutely aware of their own great skills and potential.

Lifestyle: Comfortable and centered around cosmopolitan cities and towns.

Marriage Pattern: Monogamous. They often marry folk of other races. The line is traced through the male.

Religion: Restrained and personal. The Dúnedain revere Eru and all the Valar, especially Manwë, Arwa (Oromë) and Varda. They have elaborate burials involving preservation of the body.

Other Factors

Demeanor: Noble, confident, impatient, proud, and often haughty.

Language: Their original tongue is Adûnaic (Rank 4), but most speak Westron (Rank 5). Many also speak Sindarin (Rank 4) and a little Quenya (Rank 1).

Prejudices: The Dúnedain hate the Corsairs, for they blame them for the Kin-strife, Gondor's civil war. They also despise the Black Númenoreans. The Dunlendings, Haradrim, Wargs, and Orcs have always been their enemies.

Restrictions on Professions: None. They are well-suited to magic, although the Dúnedain of the North (those from Arnor and her regions, particularly Arthedain) use spells and enchantments more often than any other group.

Background Options: The Dúnedain are traditional and well-educated. They have a well organized society. This, combined with the fact that their early days are so filled with learning, gives only three background points.

DUNLENDINGS

Also called “Hillmen”, this group of Common Men traditionally lives in the hills and highlands west of the Anduin valley. Most have become settled farmers and herders and make up majority populations in Eriador. Others remain pure and live in the foothills and mountain vales.

Physical Character

Build: They are of medium to stocky build and rugged, with little body hair. Men average 175 pounds, women 135 pounds.

Coloring: They have a tanned or ruddy complexion and brown hair.

Endurance: They are superb mountaineers and handle tough terrain with little additional effort.

Height: Men average 5'10", women 5'6".

Lifespan: Short; about 50-80 years.

Resistance: Normal.

Special Abilities: +20 for Climbing and Acrobatic maneuvers. +20 for Public Speaking and Acting activity.

Culture

Clothing and Decoration: Crude wool and hide tunics with leggings. They also wear rough over-coats, short cloaks, and fur hats.

Fears and Inabilities: Numerous superstitions, notably a fear of Darkness centering around the spirits in the earth and plants (which come forth at night).

Lifestyle: Dunlendings are herders, hunters, and gatherers who live in extended families and reside in villages.

Marriage Pattern: Monogamous, but one must marry outside the family. Political marriages common. Line traced through the female.

Religion: Superstitious rituals devoted to a complex grouping of vengeful petty deities. Many are vaguely based on the Dunlendings' peculiar interpretations of the Valar. Oral traditions are crucial to the keeping of histories and law. Sacrifices are widespread and the clergy are both revered and feared.

Other Factors

Demeanor: Suspicious and self-centered, yet vocal and animated. They love to talk, laugh, sing, and scream.

Language: They speak their native tongue Dunael (Rank 5) and Westron (Rank 4). Written Dunael is rare, for a premium is placed on oration and the performing arts.

Prejudices: Dunlendings generally hate the Rohirrim and Woses above all, although many also despise the Dúnedain, Dwarves, and Orcs.

Restrictions on Professions: None.

Background Options: They get four background points.

EASTERLINGS

This term refers to a collection of peoples who live in northcentral Middle-earth, the area to the east of the western shore of the Sea of Rhûn. These nomadic confederations are ever in search of territory and wealth and periodically invade the lands of their neighbors. The Balchoth and Wainriders are two such peoples. Each group has its own subculture and language, although most are related. The following is a general view; where specifics are mentioned, the discussion centers on the westernmost Easterling people — the Sagath.

Physical Character

Build: Compact and agile. Men average 140 pounds, women 100 pounds.

Coloring: Swarthy, with a tan or yellowish/tan quality.

Endurance: Normal, although they can ride horses, wagons, or chariots for long periods without exhaustion.

Height: Short to medium. Men average 5'6", women 5'1".

Lifespan: Short, about 40-65 years.

Resistance: Normal.

Special Abilities: They are superb with riding animals and produce fabulous horsemen. +10 bonus to Offensive Bonuses when fighting from a horse or chariot. +20 to any attempt to train, befriend, or subdue a horse.

Culture

Clothing and Decoration: Colorful linen cloaks, woolen tunics, leather pants, and lower leg protectors. They also wear fur hats with ear flaps, or fur-covered pot helmets. Some groups paint their upper bodies and faces.

Fears and Inabilities: Darkness and thunderstorms.

Lifestyle: They are nomads who live in mobile camps and move their camps using great wagons (wains). Warriors all, they also herd horses and cattle. The leaders travel in, and fight from, rugged war chariots.

Marriage Pattern: Men may take more than one wife, but this is rare and costly since they must pay a bride-price. The line is traced through the male.

Religion: Superstitious rituals concerning natural spirits and heroic ancestral deities. Many worship Darkness and Morgoth.

Other Factors

Demeanor: Cold, determined, brave to the point of foolhardiness. They relish, or are at the least unconcerned with, death in battle.

Language: Most speak a Logathig dialect (Rank 5), as well as a smattering of Westron (Rank 2).

Prejudices: Easterlings have little regard for anyone except their own people. They hate the Dúnedain.

Restrictions on Professions: None.

Background Options: They get four background points.

HARADRIM (sing. Haradan)

This is a collective name for the peoples who occupy the great arid and semi-arid lands south of Harondor and Mordor, the land called Harad. Since this is rough and unblessed territory, their greatest populations lie beside the seacoast, rivers, and bays; however, Harad contains little true desert and sparse groups settle or roam the whole region. Haradrim (S. "Southmen") are also called "Southrons" or "Haradwaith" (a term also referring to the land).

Physical Character

Build: North and central desert — Most groups are small and wiry, particularly those of the open country: males average 130 pounds, women 100 pounds. Coastal areas and Far Harad — Most are related to the Men of Mûmakan, and are tall and wiry: males average 180 pounds, women 140 pounds.

Coloring: Northern groups have light/medium grey or brown skin, straight black hair, and dark brown eyes. Southern groups have dark grey, brown, or black skin; straight or curly black hair; and dark brown or black eyes.

Endurance: Haradrim can travel great distances in hot climes and need little water. They are slowed only slightly by sand. They operate poorly in the cold.

Height: Northern groups — males average 5'5", women 5'0". Southern groups — males average 6'5", women 6'1".

Lifespan: Northern groups — average, about 80-100 years. Southern groups — short, about 40-60 years.

Resistance: +10 bonus versus heat/fire attacks; -10 bonus versus cold/ice attacks.

Special Abilities: Their eyes are attuned to extremely bright light and they are unaffected by brilliant displays which might blind others.

Culture

Clothing and Decoration: Red, purple, and gold are favored colors, although white and black are used in practical cases. Both men and women wear their wealth, mostly in the form of gold.

Fears and Inabilities: None.

Lifestyle: Laughter, partying, and violent games are common. Although some groups are nomads, most are used to urban life. Generally well traveled, they are used to interaction with foreign Men. Many are or were involved with the caravan trade and most ride well: horses and camels in northern Harad, horses and elephants in southern Harad. There is a distinct separation between males and females, and very strong bonds between members of families and clans.

Marriage Pattern: Men may take more than one wife, but this is expensive since it involves a bride-price. The line is traced through the male.

Religion: Elaborate rituals in service to idols which represent various "high gods". Altars for household gods are carried everywhere.

Other Factors

Demeanor: Passionate, fiery, and instilled with a fierce but peculiar honor. Some consider them cruel and vengeful, particularly since life is not particularly valued.

Language: Northern groups speak Haradaic (Rank 5), their home tongue, as well as Westron (Rank 5) and Apysaic (Rank 4). Southern groups normally use Apysaic (Rank 5), Westron (Rank 3), and Haradaic (Rank 3).

Prejudices: Most hate the Dûnedain, Elves, Dwarves, and anyone who looks particularly different — although they are suspicious of most peoples.

Restrictions on Professions: None.

Background Options: Normal, five background points.

LOSSOTH (sing. Lossadan)

The Lossoth live in the Far North of western Middle-earth and are often called "Snowmen" or "Forodwaith" (the latter is also a name for their land). They are a sparsely settled, nomadic folk who move with the seasonal migrations of big game and rarely interact with other Men.

Physical Character

Build: Stocky and hard, with pronounced muscles. They have wide features and large, pudgy hands and feet. Men average 175 pounds, women 140 pounds.

Coloring: Fair, with reddish highlights. They have pale blue eyes and fair hair.

Endurance: They are extremely rugged and can travel great distances with little or no rest.

Height: Short; men average 5'5", women 5'3".

Lifespan: Medium, about 75-90 years.

Resistance: +20 bonus versus cold/ice attacks. -20 bonus versus heat/fire attacks.

Special Abilities: They have an acute sense of smell and perception. They can pick up a Man's scent a mile downwind and 100 feet upwind (1000 feet otherwise). +10 bonus to Perception.

Culture

Clothing and Decoration: Fur, leather, and sea-mammal hides. Some possess one colorful, patterned coat made of spun fabric and lined with fur. All wear colorful, lined, conical hoods.

Fears and Inabilities: Many fear Darkness.

Lifestyle: The Lossoth are poor, nomadic hunters and gatherers. They use stonework, bone, and limited amounts of wood and metal (mostly copper). Some herd reindeer and all make use of hunting dogs. Furry horses or reindeer draw their sleighs, although the dogsled is used in areas of extreme cold. Extended families and bands are normally the largest groups.

Marriage Pattern: Monogamous. The line is traced through the female.

Religion: They worship Nature-spirits who they believe to be akin to enchanted or godlike beasts. Dance and story-telling rituals make up the bulk of ceremonial life.

Other Factors

Demeanor: Generous, quiet, slow-paced, reserved, and shy — but fearless and persevering.

Language: The Lossoth speak Labba (Rank 5) and do not write. Some speak a little Westron (Rank 2) or Sindarin (Rank 2).

Prejudices: They hate Wargs, Dragons, Giants, and Trolls above all things. Those that know of Orcs also hate them.

Restrictions on Professions: None.

Background Options: They get four background points.

ROHIRRIM (Riders of Rohan)

The Rohirrim (S. “Masters of Horses”) are the Northmen of Rohan and have a complex ancestry. They settled in Rohan (then Calenardhon) about T.A. 2510 at the request of Cirion, the Steward of Gondor. The grant was a reward for the Northmen’s aid in the defeat of the Easterling Balchoth.

Between T.A. 1977 and 2510 the ancestors of the Rohirrim — then called the Éothéod — lived in the northern Anduin Valley. During the period T.A. 1857-1977 these Northmen lived further south in the Anduin Valley, between the Old Ford and the Gladden Fields (S. “Loeg Nínglören”). Prior to T.A. 1857 they were called the Éothraim of Rhovanion and lived south and east of Mirkwood.

The Rohirrim call Rohan the Riddermark.

Physical Character

Build: Average to stocky and strong. Men average 190 pounds, women 130 pounds. They have considerable amounts of facial hair.

Coloring: Blond, with fair skin and blue eyes.

Endurance: Average, although they can ride as long as their mounts can endure, and as long as they can stay awake.

Height: Men average 6’1”, women 5’5”.

Lifespan: 60-85 years.

Resistance: Average.

Special Abilities: +20 bonus to melee Offensive Bonus when fighting from horseback.

Culture

Clothing and Decoration: Linen and/or woolen shirts, medium length pants, and leggings. Warriors commonly wear chain mail and carry shields bearing the symbol of their folk, a white horse on a green field.

Fears and Inabilities: None.

VARIAGS

The Variags live in the region of Khand, a semi-arid plateau which lies southeast of Mordor. They are a distinct race, but are occasionally confused with the Haradrim of Far Harad. In reality, they have as many ties to the Easterlings. Brutal and semi-nomadic, they have long been influenced by Mordor and the constant wars with their neighbors.

Physical Character

Build: Medium; men average 160 pounds, women 125 pounds.

Coloring: Extremely dark grey or black skin, straight black hair, and red or reddish brown eyes.

Endurance: Variags can travel for extreme periods on horseback with little or no rest.

Height: Medium; men average 5'9", women 5'3".

Lifespan: Short, about 50-70 years.

Resistance: Average.

Special Abilities: Variags are superb riders and handle both horses and camels well. +10 bonus to Offensive Bonuses when fighting from horseback (+5 bonus when fighting from camelback).

Culture

Clothing and Decoration: Variags favor black and red clothing and wear richly adorned garb. Their armor is designed around hideous, frightening beast designs. They carry gold or gilded weapons. Many wear gold trinkets in their ears, noses, cheeks, or lips.

Fears and Inabilities:

Lifestyle: Always at war, Variags live a brutal and exciting life. Most are herders and raid the stocks of their enemies. Elite warriors and the female priesthood control life.

Marriage Pattern: Women take more than one mate and there is no marriage. A woman's brother helps raise the children. The line is traced through the female.

Religion: Variags worship a pantheon of cruel gods and have elaborate nighttime ceremonies; sacrifices abound. The Lord of Darkness is the strongest deity, and is actually a modified incarnation of Morgoth or Sauron. Female priests interpret laws.

Other Factors

Demeanor: Confident, fearless, jealous, abrupt, impulsive, and cold hearted.

Language: Variags speak Varadja (Rank 5), Haradaic (Rank 3), and Westron (Rank 2).

Prejudices: The Variags despise all Men except those who have recently defeated them in battle. They have grudging respect for the races of Mordor, but generally hate all non-mannish folk.

Restrictions on Professions: None.

Background Options: They get four background points.

Culture

Clothing and Decoration: They wear crude woolen tunics and short pants with leggings. Most favor coats, cloaks, and fur hats.

Fears and Inabilities: None.

Lifestyle: They are an independent lot who have no formal political structure. Living off the gifts of the forest, they reside in small, close groups secluded from other races. They interact with few other than the Beornings and Silvan Elves.

Marriage Pattern: Monogamous. The line is traced through the male.

Religion: Mostly personal and within the family or band. Female Wuitan ("Knowing Ones") serve as shamans — Animists who act as seers, healers, and spiritual leaders. They manage the ancient Cult of Growing ("Alanakyn") which meets for rare tribal ceremonies. The Vala Araw (Oromë) is revered above all others.

Coloring: Fair skin with reddish highlights. They have blond hair and blue or green eyes.

Endurance: Average.

Height: Men average 6'1", women 5'5".

Lifespan: 45-85 years.

Resistance: Average.

Special Abilities: They can climb and move along tree limbs exceedingly well: +20 to Climbing and Acrobatics maneuvers. +10 to Foraging maneuvers.

WOSES (Drúedain, sing. Drúadan)

Of all Men, none surpass the Woses in the arts of wood-lore and wood-craft. This very ancient and diminutive race has long been tied to the forests and has remained the greatest lot of woodland warriors ever produced by the Second-born. Their skills have in fact guarded their narrow survival, for they are considered ugly by Men and Elves alike and have been hunted and persecuted since the days of the First Age.

The Woses have many names. What they call themselves is not altogether clear, although the name Drúgs is taken from their own tongue. Drúedain (sing. Drúadan) is the label given them by the Elves, while Men call them by various labels: Rógin (sing. "Róg"), Púkelmen, Wild Men, or Woses, the latter a Westron term. Orcs fear the Woses, and have named them Oghor-hai.

Physical Character

Build: Woses generally have a broad, stumpy profile marked by wide faces, flat features, and deep-set eyes. Short, thick legs, heavy lower bodies, and pronounced brows help give them an eerie character — unlike any other Men.

This uniqueness is accentuated by their peculiar hair growth, for few of the Wose Men have any hair below their eye level. Those that do are revered, although even they have no more than a slender patch of black chin hair which lies well below their wide mouths. Nearly all Wose Men are bald from the forehead to the back center of their squat skulls, but take pride in the hair they have along the flanks of the head.

Coloring: Ruddy skin, black hair, and black eyes. Because the Woses have guarded eyes which are dark and set with black pupils, they appear to gaze from shadowy pools which might be mistaken at a distance for a pair of cavities. One must get quite close to a Wose to notice any eye movement at all, much less any of the subtle distinctions in the eyes themselves. This haunting feature is made even more unsettling when a Wose is angry; then the pupils glow with a fiery red hue.

Endurance: Average.

Height: 4 to 5 feet.

Lifespan: 30-50 years.

Resistance: Average.

Special Abilities: The wide noses of the Woses are the most sensitive found in Man. Even in an open field, they can smell an Orc before another Man can see him. Together with their strong eyesight, they can track better than almost any hunting hound. Only running water will stay their pursuit. This is even true at night, since Woses are blessed with superb night-vision. Even in the dark forest of the night they can see 1000 feet as if it were daylight. +25 bonus to Tracking maneuvers; +15 bonus for Foraging.

They have the ability to sit for days on end without movement. With legs crossed, hands on their laps or knees, and eyes closed or facing groundward, they can remain silent as a statue. This affords them peace and allows for recall or meditation. Unfortunately, it apparently does nothing to lengthen their years, for the Woses generally die at a young age.

Culture

Clothing and Decoration: They often braid or wear their hair pulled back and joined from behind. Woses wear little or no clothing or adornments. Instead, they prefer to go about relying on their rugged bodies, using pigments to create imagery. Those that are most acquainted with other Men occasionally don hide leggings and a breechcloth, and in rugged terrain they employ a distinct high, thick-soled laced shoe. Beyond these trappings, they have little use for the costumes of other Men.

Fears and Inabilities: Woses do not like towns and cities.

Lifestyle: Wose culture revolves around the forests and plants they hold so dear. They are frugal and eat little, even in the best of times, and they partake of no drink but water. Being exclusively vegetarian, they live on the gifts of the woodlands and are quick to acquire an understanding of the nature and location of nearly every plant in an area — regardless of its size. Only the Elves and Ents exceed their skills in carving and plant-lore.

It is for their stone sculpture that the Woses are best known. They carve a variety of motifs and beasts, and employ a particular form in the making of life-like "watch-stones" (Púkel-men). These are guardian statues which they place to protect paths, entries, crossroads, and the like. Legends surround the watch-stones, most of which are true. It is clear that they are enchanted. Orcs fear them most of all, and with good cause, since the Woses can communicate with watch-stones of their making and can derive knowledge from the carvings' "experiences." Some very powerful watch-stones actually come to life in order to guard their posts — acting instead of their creators — although in such a case the Wose sculptor will feel all the pain of his creation. They place these watch-stones and hideous statues around the borders of their lands and at various sensitive sites. Some are used to do no more than dishearten their foes.

Marriage Pattern: Monogamous, producing few young. The line is traced through the female.

Religion: Many of the watch-stones stand over the Wose holy sites. Unlike many of the other Men, particularly the Dunlendings with whom the Woses are often associated, the Woses have a strong tradition of organized worship. This is a pronounced animism which revolves around a reverence for Nature. They hold Eru and the Valar in proper awe, although they have their own view of the nature of the masters of the world. Of all the Valar they worship none more than Yavanna, the Giver of Fruits and Queen of the Earth. It is she who presides over the kelvar (plants) and it is the plants which breath life into the world of the Woses.

Other Factors

Demeanor: Woses generally seclude themselves from other folk and do not take on friends easily, but when they do, they are unwaveringly loyal. Those that do get to know them will be impressed by their frequent bouts of laughter, since the Woses will laugh when others sing. Their rich and unrestrained joviality forms quite a contrast to their usual demeanor; normally they appear unemotional and slow to speak.

Language: When they do talk, the Woses use the guttural Púkael tongue (Rank 5) which is ideally suited to their deep voices and is alien to that of other Men. Some also speak a little Westron (Rank 2) or Dunael (Rank 2). Having no use for traditional runes or script, the Woses have developed their own system of pictographic signs — most quite simple — which they utilize for the most practical purposes, notably to mark paths or signal their brethren while out in the wood.

Prejudices: Woses hate Orcs, Wargs, and Rohirrim. The latter group has occasionally made sport of hunting the Wild Men.

Restrictions on Professions: There are no Wose Mages or Bards.

Background Options: Normal, five background points.

ORCS (Yrch, sing. Orch)

These hideous creatures are members of a race descended from Elves who were twisted and perverted by Morgoth during the First Age. Although they are not inherently evil, they are culturally and mentally predisposed toward Darkness. The following is a description of Common Orcs; superior breeds are discussed below.

URUK-HAI (sing. Uruk)

Following Sauron's resurrection in T.A. 1000 he began breeding a new race of Orcs, one capable of independent and intelligent action. After centuries of work, he produced the first Greater Orcs, and he called them the Uruk-hai (BS "Orc-race") because they were more suited to the formation of societies. Initially, the Uruk-hai remained close to Sauron and served as lieutenants and elite guards, but gradually their numbers grew and their strain strengthened. Their existence remained guarded until Sauron was willing to show his hand. Nonetheless, in T.A. 2475 they were unleashed in full scale battle formations. They are the Dark Lord's finest goblin troops.

The Uruk-hai differ from normal or Lesser Orcs in many ways:

(1) they stand 5-6 feet tall; (2) they have a more "human" appearance, despite cat-like eyes, fang-teeth, and black/grey hides; (3) they have longer, stronger, and straighter legs; (4) they are intelligent and cunning; and (5) despite their preference for darkness, they operate freely in daylight. They speak Black Speech (Rank 5), Orkish (Rank 4), and good Westron (Rank 4).

HALF-ORCS (Peryrch)

Half-orcs are a hideous creation, born of Man and Orc. They are often confused with Uruk-hai, but are a distinct race, small in number but capable and deadly. Their origin is also unclear, although it appears that they were first used by the tainted Wizard Saruman. He still employs them as agents, spies, lieutenants, and special guards. They are particularly effective in Eriador, for Saruman's Half-orcs have Dunlending blood in them and are capable of blending into their societies.

Half-orcs are akin to Uruk-hai, but look more like dark Men. They speak Westron quite well (Rank 5), and most know both Orkish (Rank 3) and a little Black Speech (Rank 2). Half-orcs have no restrictions on professions, and get three background points.

COMMON ORCS

Physical Character

Build: Heavy, with thick hides, short legs, and long, thin arms. They have grotesque, fanged faces and random hair growth.

Coloring: Black or grey hair, black or reddish-brown eyes, and deep grey or black hides.

Endurance: Tremendous. Orcs can travel for 2 days without rest. Alternatively, they can run for up to 12 hours without stopping.

Fears and Inabilities: Natural sunlight and deep, running water. In full daylight their activity is at -60; in artificial or magical daylight their activity is at -25.

Height: 3-5 feet.

Lifespan: Indefinite; certainly hundreds of years, but the nature of their warlike life permits few to live past the age of 50.

Resistance: +30 bonus versus heat/fire attacks.

Special Abilities: Orcs sleep during daylight hours, although they need rest only once every 3 days. In most darkness Orcs can see like Elves (see Elf descriptions), and in absolute darkness they can see 10'.

Culture

Clothing and Decoration: Skins, leathers, and metal armor; crude but well made and effective.

Lifestyle: Bred as laborers and warriors, Orcs respect power and terror above all things. They join and cooperate in substantial groups only when led by a "focused will", some overwhelmingly strong individual. To them, politics equates with force, and separate Orc tribes often war. Inter-tribal cannibalism is the norm.

They are, however, quite skilled. Their smiths rival those of the Dwarves and Elves and, although the items they produce lack beauty in form, they are exceptionally effective. Orcs are also fine healers, despite their lack of concern for scarring. Utility is their principal concern.

Marriage Pattern: Orcs do not marry; they breed. The females live together in secluded areas which are normally accessible only to the strongest males. In addition, the females are receptive only to the fiercest and most attractive males. This results in the strongest offspring. The many young are kept together and raised jointly by all the female Orcs.

Religion: Orcs worship Darkness and power. Most revere Sauron as a god, respecting his ability to induce utter terror.

Other Factors

Demeanor: Orcs are cruel, jealous, petty, ambitious, selfish, and suspicious. They are almost always uncomfortable and, aside from mealtime or battle, are never happy or at peace with themselves.

Language: Orcs speak various Orkish dialects (Rank 5) which are generally related to Westron and are somewhat understandable (Rank 3) to one knowing Westron or another such Orkish dialect.

Prejudices: Orcs hate all races, including Orcs of other tribes. They particularly despise Elves, who they believe to be a spiteful, wicked, and wayward race.

Restrictions on Professions: Orcs produce no Mages, Animists, Bards, or Rangers.

Background Options: Orcs only get two background points.

TROLLS (Tereg, sing. Torog)

Bred by Morgoth in mockery of Ents, Trolls are as tough and stupid as the stone from which they were made. Some feel they are related to Giants. In any case, Trolls hate all other creatures, a legacy of Morgoth's dark touch. Normal Trolls are divided into several types (based on their location): Hill, Cave, Snow, and Stone-trolls. The latter is the most common group. These types all revert to the stone of their substance when exposed to the light of day, for they were created in Darkness and the Sun can unmake the spell. Another group, Sauron's Olog-hai, despise but can withstand sunlight; but these "Black Trolls" are discussed below.

OLOG-HAI (sing. Olog)

The Olog-hai have been bred by Sauron from lesser Troll stock, and have until late been a rare breed. Cunning and organized — yet as big and strong as their lesser brethren — the Olog-hai are superb Warriors. They know no fear, and thirst for blood and victory.

Olog-hai are also called Black Trolls, for they have black scaly hides and black blood. Most carry blank shields and war hammers, although they are adept at using almost any weapon. They differ from older Troll varieties in other ways as well: (1) they ignore bleeding or stun results when given a critical strike from a normal weapon, since they are more resistant to unenchanted weapons; (2) they can operate freely in daylight; (3) they are relatively quick; and (4) they are capable of using normal language properly, and speak Black Speech (Rank 5) and Westron (Rank 3).

HALF-TROLLS (Petereg)

Half-trolls are the product of a union of Olog-hai and Variag Men. For this reason, they are sometimes confused with Black Trolls, but they are smaller and quicker and vaguely resemble Men. Their 7' height, jet-black skin, long sharp red tongues, and glowing red eyes should also serve notice of their uniqueness.

Half-trolls differ from Olog-hai in other ways: (1) they wear crude black clothing and considerable amounts of armor; (2) they are kept away from other Trolls; (3) they are as intelligent as Men; and (4) they are more agile. Given their increased minds, they get two background points.

NORMAL TROLLS

Physical Character

Build: They are huge and immensely strong, with thick bodies and limbs. Their tough hides have an inconsistent quality; many have overlapping scales and some have body hair.

Coloring: Various shades of brown, green, or grey hide, with black or brown eyes. They have black blood.

Endurance: Average.

Height: 9 to 11 feet.

Lifespan: Variable; hundreds of years.

Resistance: Trolls do not understand fear.

Special Abilities: Their vision is the same as that of Orcs.

Culture

Clothing and Decoration: Little or none, aside from random armor and hides.

Fears and Inabilities: Sunlight. When exposed to the natural light of day they turn to stone.

Lifestyle: Trolls live in order to play and eat. To them play means killing and pillaging, and eating means fresh meat — raw or cooked — or jelly made from innards. They eat folk of other races, and take whatever bright trinkets they might acquire. No society or inner purpose stirs them, since they unite only when compelled to by some greater force. Trolls live in scattered caves and ruins, usually on the edge of civilized lands, and come forth only at night.

Marriage Pattern: None. Females are exceedingly rare, although the distinction is confused.

Religion: None.

Other Factors

Demeanor: Mean, slow, stupid, and somewhat lazy.

Language: Most have little or no language capability and communicate through noises, signals, or actions. The more intelligent Trolls speak a debased Westron (equivalent to Rank 4).

Prejudices: Trolls have little regard for anyone, although they particularly hate Dwarves.

Restrictions on Professions: Trolls only produce Warriors.

Background Options: Limited to one background point.

9.0 APPENDIX 2 — CREATURE DESCRIPTIONS

BALROGS — Huge and fiery, these man-like demons of might are among the most feared of the denizens of Middle-earth. They are intelligent, very cunning, and capable of causing massive destruction when the mood strikes them. Their most feared physical weapon is the flaming whip, but their other hand often contains a secondary weapon such as a sword or mace. The whip and all other weapons attack using the 2-Handed Weapons Attack Table, AT-3. Grappling them will cause massive burns and bring great pain. Anyone foolish enough to be caught in their grasp will most likely be torn apart by their great body strength if he doesn't die of terror first. Balrogs "fly" over obstacles and don't have to touch the ground except in a restricted space. They also have the ability to alter their size considerably.

Since they are Maiar, Balrogs are imbued with an imposing presence. Their presence is one of their best long-range weapons: anyone coming in sight of a Balrog revealed in all of its terrible anger will have to make a Resistance Roll (RR) versus a 15th level fear spell or run in terror. If the RR is failed by more than 50, the character will faint or be frozen in place for 1-10 rounds (Treat as unconscious or stunned, respectively). If he fails by more than 100, the character will die of a heart attack. The flaming weapons of the Balrog will cause a heat critical in addition to the normal criticals and will do an additional 5-50 hits of flame damage. The whip can reach out to 20 feet and ignores shields. Anyone coming in contact with the body of the Balrog out of water will take a fireball attack (+30 OB) with no subtraction except for armor or spells. Anytime a Balrog wishes to use his great strength to rend a person in two, all he must do is catch a person with a Hard maneuver (with all bonuses applicable). Once in his grasp the Balrog needs to succeed on the Very Hard table +50 minus the target's strength bonus if the poor soul is conscious. A 100 result means the victim is split in the middle and quite dead. Any result less than 100 is the number of concussion hits taken less the victim's strength bonus, if conscious.

The Balrog of The Lord of the Rings is referred to simply as "The Balrog" in western lore and is a being so awesome that the presence of any brethren would hardly go unnoticed. It is likely, however, that other Balrogs were be trapped beneath the land following the fall of their master, just as the Balrog of Moria was; such a circumstance could have prevented their detection. There had been, in the First Age, many Balrogs, for they were the servants of Morgoth, the Dark enemy, master of all darkness and mentor of Sauron. The cataclysm that accompanied Morgoth's departure enveloped almost all of the host.

Of all the single dark entities in Middle-earth save Sauron, none possessed greater physical power than Balrogs. Originally they came from the Undying Lands, just as the Istari and Sauron had, and their relative strength when compared to the inhabitants of Middle-earth is enormous. Even Dragons fear Balrogs. They are described in many ways by the few who lived to tell of their passing: Balrogs are both flame and shadow, huge and changing, "shadow-winged" and slimy, stronger than the greatest serpent, bearing a flaming whip and sword of tremendous size and power. As a foe, they are called by Legolas the greatest bane of the Elves, save the Lord of the Dark Tower. Gandalf struggled for ten days with the Balrog of Moria before winning.

CREBAIN — A type of large black crow that has fallen under the sway of evil. Crebain live primarily in Dunland and Fangorn Forest. Normally they are present in large flocks in order to keep an eye on one another and to improve the chance of spotting whatever they are sent to find. Primarily scouts, they usually will not attack. They have a +50 perception bonus while in the air.

DRAGONS — There are three kinds of Dragons, all of which were created by Morgoth during the First Age of the Sun. Some slithered like snakes, others walked, while the most miraculous flew. All varieties use their physical bodies in combat, while many of the most powerful of the Dragons also breath fire of extreme temperatures. Dragons are 90-120' long and have a wingspan about 20% larger than their length. This entire huge length is covered with incredibly tough and shiny scales bigger than a man's hand. Dragons have an awesome presence that terrorizes onlookers as Balrogs do. Further, all of them are cunning, vain, extremely intelligent, and possess excellent senses of all sorts. They are rapacious, greedy, and love destruction and fire.

Physical attacks by Dragons are of terrifying power. The Gamemaster should allow Dragons to attack multiple targets, one with each limb that is available, plus the mouth and tail. All extremities should be able to attack more than one person with a -15 subtraction for each additional target. A Dragon can attack one target with any two adjacent extremities. The most fearsome weapon of some Dragons is the breath weapon, however. When used against one target it should act on the bolt table with a 100-150 OB out to 300 feet. When used against a group, the ball table is used with a 50-75 OB out to 150 feet. When used on the ball table, the breath covers a cone with a 50' wide base. A Dragon can breath once every six rounds, up to 4-6 times per hour.

With a breath like a full force hurricane, a Dragon can set a river steaming like hot tea and reduce to cinders and blackened stumps a thriving mannish settlement. The mighty winged Dragons first appeared on the scene in the later First Age when Morgoth, intent upon destroying the Valar, unleashed a host of winged, fire breathing monsters led by Ancalagon the Black, mightiest of all Dragons (Ancalagon makes Smaug look like a homesick Hobbit.) Fortunately for the good guys, Ancalagon was slain by Eärendil in a battle in the sky. The slain monster fell upon the "Mountains of Tyranny" raised by Morgoth and flattened them (and Morgoth's hopes) in one earth shattering crash that instantly invalidated all contemporary topographical maps of Middle-earth.

Dragons, while unwise, are cunning and cruel creatures who can reason, dream, and even prophecy. They are always ready to suspect the worst of others since they themselves are always up to the worst. Nothing pleases a Dragon more than sacking a town of its treasure, gathering the booty into a golden heap and nesting upon it for a century or two. Dragons do have genuine weaknesses: they tend to grow vain and complacent if unchallenged, giving themselves away in riddling talk, and each seems to have an Achilles heel, or soft spot, where its armor can be pierced and mortal damage done.

DUMBELDORS — A race of ferocious winged insects mentioned in Hobbit poems. They are essentially 6-8 pound black and yellow wasps with a poison that gives 2-20 hits if the target is hit and given a critical and fails an additional 3rd level RR.

EAGLES, GREAT — The Great Eagles are the absolute rulers of the air in the northern mountains, barring any Dragon in full battle dress. Eagles are the greatest of all birds and are thought to be of divine creation; the Eldar, the first Elves, believed Eagles to be direct manifestations of the Thought of Manwë, Lord of the Valar. In truth, the Eagles seem worthy of such worship. Indomitable in spirit and never evil, Eagles lived in the treetops of the world until Manwë ordered them to build their eyries in the peaks and crags of Middle-earth's greatest mountains and to keep an eye upon the Mortal Lands below, reporting to him what they saw and heard. These winged reporters were greater in size than their Third Age descendants: Thorondor, the First King of the Eagles, had a wingspan of 180 feet!

In the turmoil of the First Age the Eagles served the Eldar valiantly; after Beleriand was swallowed up by the sea, the Eagles flew east, some to settle in the high peaks of the Misty mountains (then a home to the inhospitable Orcs), and some to the Grey Mountains, where Dragons slept, mated, and then slept some more. In these high snowy peaks the natural rivalries between the giant beasts sharpened their talons. Later in the Third Age, Dwarves, Elves, Hobbits, Istari and men would come to depend upon the Eagles for rescue, information, and defense. When the Eagles chose to cooperate, the help-seekers were not disappointed.

The Great Eagles of Middle-earth are princely birds. Imperious, swift and proud, these hunters show no mercy to foes or prey. Clashed in the Eagle's talons, a foe may as well shut his eyes and prepare for eternity. Armed with a hooked beak and vice-like four toed talons to clutch and crush or impale its prey, an eagle cannot be easily overcome by force. The eyes of the Eagle are relatively bigger than man's and, unlike other birds, their retinas contain dense concentrations of extraordinarily precise color nerve receptors to give a marvelously accurate sense of color discrimination. A soaring Eagle can perceive details in a landscape eight times better than a man. For example, the Lord of the Eagles can spot a rabbit dashing for cover a mile below in the moonlight! On top of the superb accuracy, an Eagle's eyes point both forwards and sideways, allowing the great bird an unusual degree of peripheral vision. Little loss of accuracy and clarity occurs in the dark.

The great natural gifts of the Eagles make them valuable allies in war. However domineering and lacking in sentiment, the Eagles are concise, rational, and difficult to beguile. Unlike Dragons, who, —one-on-one—, have greater destructive power, the Great Eagles operate as a squadron, and their wisdom and knowledge make them a match for almost any evil force in Middle-earth. These extremely wise and intelligent beasts should not interfere often in the concourse of the world, but when they do act, their interference should be most puissant and effective in nature.

ENT, ONODRIM — The Ents are the strongest and largest of the natural races. Their limbs are extremely hard and can rend stone and steel when they are roused, which, while rare, is a sight few wish to behold. When enraged, all viewing the Ent must resist a 10th level spell of Fear. Those failing by 1-50 flee, those failing by more than 50 freeze in terror for 1-100 rounds. An Ent may use any object at hand as a thrown missile much like a giant, but with a 110 OB due to their greater agility. The skin on an Ent is extremely tough, being resistant to all but strong axe blows. Therefore, blunt weapons and arrows do only half damage and must do an "E" critical before being able to roll on the Large Critical Hit Table at minus 10. Flaming weapons or fire affects them as a normal creature.

Though the oldest of speaking peoples, Ents were dormant until the coming of the Elves. Elves taught them to speak and inspired them to become mobile. Ents are the shepherds of the forest and usually resemble one specific variety of tree. This leads to a wide disparity of sizes and description. Gentle by nature, Ents are not quick thinkers and do not act rashly except when incredibly angry.

Ents are a dwindling race, partially because they have been reverting to their dormant tree-like form out of weariness, forgetfulness, or bitterness. Another key cause is the disappearance of the Entwives, who, over a span of many years, became sundered from their mates and have vanished from the pages of history.

FAISTITYCELYN — A vast turtle-like animal mentioned only in Hobbit legends, the Fastitocalon is big enough to camp on. They would be about 150' feet long, almost as wide, with a huge head and flippers that are extremely powerful. If angered, they would find it quite easy to destroy most boats or ships.

FELL BEASTS — Cruel mockeries of the Eagles, the Fell Beasts make their homes in high caves or on shelves beneath overhangs of rock. A number of them are spread throughout the hills of Southern Mirkwood. These creatures grow to lengths of thirty feet with 30-35 foot wingspans and are distantly related to the cold drakes of ancient days. They cannot breath fire, but their physical armory is formidable. Nine inch claws and six inch fangs along with equivalently sized legs and jaws have persuaded many to become the Fell Beasts' next foil-wrapped lunch.

Fell Beasts have excellent nightsight and can glide soundlessly and effortlessly, allowing them to attack with complete surprise at night. (Add +50 OB to any first attack at night if the target does not make a -30 perception roll to spot the beast.) During daylight hours, they use a more direct approach; a fast dive out of the sun impales their target on their outstretched claws. Somewhat social creatures, they often hunt in pairs, one beast making a distraction while the other strikes from behind. Large Fell Beasts can support the weight of two men in flight and are frequently used as mounts by Sauron's Nazgûl and Olog-hai warlords.

FLIES OF MORDOR — The only beasts in Mordor, these greyish insects are each marked with the Eye of Sauron on their back. Individually, they are much like horseflies.

GIANTS — Again a beast rumored only in Hobbitish legends, these large ten foot monsters are reputed to guard the passes in Rhovanion. Large and simple-minded, they are still to be avoided. The attack in the chart is their club attack. Giants are also capable of crushing people under their huge feet and throwing any large object that is at hand. Both attacks require a maneuver roll against the victim's movement and maneuver bonus, and, if successful, an attack with a 90 OB. Objects are thrown on the missile attack table, doing double hits, while the stomp attack is done on the Two-Handed Weapon Table AT-3, causing triple the listed concussion hits.

HUMMERHORNS — These large insects are said to attack armored knights. Shaped much like mosquitos, they have a wingspread of about four feet and weigh about ten pounds. Loving swamps and marshy areas, they will swarm any unlucky passersby in large numbers, attacking until they are all dead or the victims are dried husks.

HUORNS — Huorns are either active trees or settled Ents; they are sort of the missing link. Huorns are present with Ents 50% of the time. Huorns fight and defend much like Ents, but are much slower and are not really sentient. In most cases they will obey the will of any Ent and will fight at their side although possibly for different reasons.

KRAKEN — Huge evil relatives of the giant squid, the Kraken are used wherever needed by the forces of Darkness to guard any area of salt or fresh water. Each Kraken has many, many arms and can attack up to three targets with its full add. If it chooses to concentrate them the add goes up by 50 for each attack foregone. A subtraction of 25 can be taken off each attack for each target over three attacked in the same round. Once entangled (Any "C" critical or better), the victim gets no shield bonus and the Kraken gets a 20 bonus plus any of the situational bonuses. As listed in Table ST-2, there are three different sizes of Kraken. The major difference between the sizes is the OB and the AT.

MEARAS — Super horses of the Rohirrim, the Mearas are virtually worshiped by the blond horsemen. Mearas are much more intelligent, faster, and hardier than any other horse. As such they make ideal warhorses if they can be acquired. No Rohirrim will sell such a steed and all will inquire about one he sees that is not in the hands of a Rohir noble.

MEWLIPS — Mewlips are an evil race of cannibalistic spirits said to be akin to the Wights. They favor noisome swamps and marshes, endangering anyone nearby. Once killed, however, they can prove profitable, since they are hoarding beasts. If a group of Mewlips is put to flight or killed completely, a tracking roll at a -50 subtraction will lead the party to the Mewlips' lair and treasure, along with another larger group of Mewlips arranged in defensive terrain they know well.

MŪMAKIL — Very much like the extinct woolly mammoth, the Mûmak has been trained as a beast of war by the Haradrim and other Southrons. All Mûmakil love battle and are not easily controlled once battle is joined. Any horse that comes within 100' of a Mûmak must make a RR against a 10th level spell or flee in terror. (The horse's rider gets his riding bonus as a modifier.) Due to the armor on Mûmakil in wargear and their naturally tough hides, all arrows only give 1/2 damage and give criticals on the large critical table minus 10 on a D or better.

NAZGŪL — The greatest of the servants of Evil during the Third Age, the Nazgûl are feared by all. Also called the "Ringwraiths" or simply "The Nine", these are nine great lords of men who were enslaved by Sauron in the Second Age. Each had coveted great power and accepted one of the Nine Rings of Men wrought by Sauron. Since the rings are ruled by the One Ring and controlled by the Dark Lord, the Nazgûl became his slaves. As time passed they became immortal in spirit, but their bodies gradually faded into mist. Essentially, they became "shadows" of great power and are now Sauron's most trusted Lieutenants. The Witch-king of Angmar, also called the Lord of Morgul, is their chief. Of the Nine, he possesses the greatest power and ability for independent action. The Nazgûl are afraid of deep or running water, fire, and holy Elvish names such as "Elbereth." They are virtually blind by usual standards, but possess an amazing sense of smell and can enlist the help of other creatures (such as specially trained horses). Their power is lessened during the day; Khamul, the second in command has a considerable fear of the light. All Nazgûl shared this weakness to some degree, but all, including Khamul, can master their fear.

Nazgûl wear large dark cloaks, hauberks and helms. Underneath their clothing, they are but misty forms with almost no substance. The special powers of the Nazgûl are very numerous, but they also use more mundane weapons such as swords and poisoned daggers. One special power is fear. Anyone coming in sight of a Nazgûl is affected with unease and terror (without a RR). Anyone foolish enough to face them in combat and view their red glowing eyes must make a 15th level RR or freeze in combat and be cut down like a corn-stalk. Anyone surviving close contact with a Nazgûl or a critical received from a Nazgûl must make a 10th level RR (Chan.) or suffer the Black Breath (If a critical is the cause of the RR, the RR is -30). This is somewhat similar to freezing to death — no matter what the temperature — but also freezes and destroys the target's spirit and soul. Death occurs 10 days after exposure, modified by a number of days equal to the victim's constitution bonus.

Most weapons that come in contact with a Nazgûl will wither and vanish. No weapon except those of Westernesse or Elvish make will harm the Nazgûl even if they do hit. A RR versus a 10th level attack should be made for any weapon hitting a Nazgûl. All weapons are 1st level, but the following modifiers apply: double the bonus of the weapon (+10 adds 20 to the RR); Elvish make +20; Númenorean make +10; or a Holy weapon is +30. These bonuses are cumulative. (For example, a +15 magic shortsword made in Númenor would have a +40 bonus for a RR needed of 45 or better.)

All Nazgûl are capable of using some sort of spells of differing power. Beckoning spells and blasting fire are the most common. Of the Nazgûl, the Witch King of Angmar is the most sorcerously-inclined. Mostly, Nazgûl ride large black horses or Fell Beasts that are inured to their presence. These horses provide the Nazgûl with physical senses. Since the Nazgûl are spirits, they see best in the spirit world and rely heavily upon symbiotes such as horses for their direct interaction with the commonplace world.

OLOG-HAI — See the racial description in Section 2.21.

ORCS — See the racial description in Section 2.21.

SPIDERS, GREAT — Encountered in the old forests of Middle-earth, the Great Spiders are the remnant of an evil race bred by Morgoth and augmented by Ungoliant. Intelligent and capable of speech, these Spiders can easily trap and eat all but the doughtiest of foes. The greatest of the Spiders in Middle-earth during the Third Age is Shelob the Great. She lives in Cirith Ungol and is left alone even by Sauron. Most smaller Spiders took up residence in the forest of Greenwood, later renamed Mirkwood. These smaller Spiders are the ones represented by the statistics. Shelob would be much more fearsome. Even smaller Spiders are a force to be reckoned with since they work together in large numbers, possess a stunning poison, and can spin webs very quickly. Any bite that hits home and gives an "A" critical or better forces the target to make a 5th level RR versus poison or fall unconscious. If the RR is made each RR versus successive bites is at 2 levels higher. If any RR is failed by more than 50 the target dies in six rounds.

TROLLS — See the racial descriptions in Section 2.21.

VAMPIRES — Vampires are another of the ancient beasts from the pits of Morgoth. Many of his and Sauron's chief servants and messengers took the form of Vampires. All Vampires can fly and are armed both with weapons and powerful talons on their leading wing edges. They are spirits and affect weapons much like Nazgûl, but with only a third level effect. The most famous Vampire was Thuringwethil in the First Age. After she lost her magic cloak and vanished the cloak was used by Lúthien, who along with Beren, infiltrated Angband and stole the Silmarils.

WARGS — As the Great Eagles are greater than earth eagles, so are Wargs greater than normal wolves. Malicious but intelligent, these beasts are large enough to serve as mounts for tribes of Orcs they are allied with.

WEREWOLVES — Evil spirits held in thrall by a greater Evil, the werewolves were the special servants of Sauron during the Wars of Beleriand in the First Age. Werewolves speak both Black Speech and most Elvish tongues, and this is but a small part of their cleverness. Like Balrogs, they force opponents to resist their terrible presence, although the RR is based only on a 5th level attack. Lesser Maiar or another type of spirit, the Werewolves are not slain easily. If they are slain, the spirit is only temporarily removed from the physical plain and will return to seek out its slayer.

WIGHTS — Wights appear as dark, shadowy human forms with eyes akin to faint lights. They inhabit the same world as the dreaded Nazgûl and are hard to perceive as anything other than dark, misty shapes. If seen with the aid of special magic, Wights will take the tattered forms of great lords of men with cold cruel eyes. Wights inhabit the old graves of Dúnedain, sent as messengers of despair by Sauron and the Witch-king of Angmar.

Wights are extremely hard to kill. They take half damage from non-magic weapons, roll on the Large Critical Table, and have the same weapon dissolution effect of Nazgûl at third level effect. Anyone touched by the Wight, or hit by its weapon, is affected like the Nazgûl's Black Breath at a 7th level effect. Unlike the Black Breath, this effect is immediate. Wights also affect onlookers as a Balrog, but at only the 5th level.

The only way to permanently kill a Wight is to kill it physically, open the grave it inhabits, and spread the graves contents out for all passersby to take and thus scatter. If this is not done, the grave will quickly be reinhabited by another similar Wight. Three different types of Wights are given in the chart. The power of a given Wight should relate directly to the power of the lord buried in the grave the Wight inhabits.

A SAMPLE GAME ENVIRONMENT

The Gamemaster, not the players, should read these scenarios thoroughly. As the players adventure, the GM should describe the people, creatures and settings detailed in this section.

CIVILIZED AREAS

THE INN AT THE LAST BRIDGE

The Last Inn stands on the eastern bank of the river Mitheithel (Hoarwell) and just off the Great East Road leading from the Elven haven of Rivendell to the settled western lands and the town of Bree. The Last Bridge, so called because it is the southernmost bridge across the Mitheithel and the easternmost structure on the Great East Road, is within view of the Inn. Travel along the road is curtailed but steady. Guests at the Inn are plentiful (if somewhat seedy), although some may appear a bit too eager to learn more of the treasures whispered about over an ale in the public room. Now, in TA 1640, the rugged, rocky, and heavily-wooded region of fallen Rhudaur known as the Trollshaws is a dangerous area to travel. Hill-trolls wandering south from the Ettenmoors (near Angmar) have gathered in large numbers and roam the forests at will after dark. (In the daytime they rest in their underground lairs, picking at the bones of their victims.) Rumors of disappearances are widespread. Now, word of bizarre and frightful events taking place in a once-abandoned castle halfway between the Last Inn and the old Hillmen city of Cameth Brin regularly reach the perked-up ears of those adventurers, schemers and fortune-seekers brash or foolish enough to listen, reflect and make plans.

The Last Inn itself is a relatively safe, clean and roomy establishment run by the Grumm family for generations. The current owners, Rubb and Bura Grumm, are honest and industrious.

The Grumms employ their two young sons as stable hands, and their daughters Minna, Bannie, and Gleefa cook and clean. Bura is also recognized as a fine nurse and employs healing herbs and potions with a skill that has caused some to call her a magician. (She is really an Animist.)

In addition to the stables and courtyard behind it, the first floor of the Last Inn boasts a spacious public room, a smaller tavern for serious drinking and gossiping with the locals, two small booths with curtains, a 13-by-13 foot room (with a secret exit to the shadowy shrubbery at the eastern edge of the Inn) for private discussions, and a large kitchen that serves the best roast fowl east of the river. The Grumm family also lives on the first floor in rather cramped quarters.

The second floor of the Inn offers four comfortable and well-heated private bedrooms and two very large communal sleeping rooms. Let the frugal be forewarned, however; thievery is common in the larger rooms, and rogues who are proficient pickpockets regularly travel the Great East Road and prey upon unsuspecting souls looking to save a copper piece or two by sleeping in the large, bare, chilly rooms with their fellow wayfarers. Because of the Grumms' fundamental decency, brawls and muggings are rare but occasionally unavoidable.

Many travel the Great East Road regularly and stop at the Last Inn en route to Bree, the towns of Rhudaur or occasionally, Rivendell. Unquestionably the most popular visitor is the wandering minstrel Turlin, a handsome and charming fellow who is as free with his money as he is with yarns and songs. Turlin sleeps at the Inn every fortnight or so on his way west to Bree or north to Cameth Brin, where song-loving Hillmen have gathered. Some say the ballads of the honey-voiced Turlin could charm the scales off a Troll's back!

Another regular guest at the Last Inn is Falen the Trader, a man of mixed Dúnedain and Easterling blood, who (it is joked) could sell sunlight to an Orc. No one but Turlin knows more about the goings-on in and around the Trollshaws than does Falen.

A third regular at the Inn is the herb-and-potion salesman and would-be healer, Goldang, who was run out of Gondor years ago after inadvertently poisoning a noble household. Goldang also possesses a wealth of information about Cameth Brin, where he regularly travels, and declares that the scary tales of the once-haunted castle in the woods are true. For a few copper pieces, Goldang will tell more, but only in the privacy of a booth or a room.

Other wayfarers travel the Great East Road and stay at the Last Inn, but most mind their business and are gone before anyone notices that they've arrived.

NOTE: For information about Hiring Non-player Characters, see Section 4.241.

Because of the Inn's location and distance from centers of population and production, prices for accessories tend to be a bit steep for most traveler's tastes, about one and a half times the normal price. Food and lodging are available at normal prices, but only the most common weapons can be purchased, usually from travelers looking to make a quick score of copper pieces. Crude clothing can be purchased from Falen, who also deals in arrows and bows. Magic items are rarely seen around the Inn. Bura Grumm keeps a few healing herbs in a locked chest in her kitchen pantry, but these are not for sale. The only means of ground transport available are a light horse and a pony kept at the Inn's stables. Each sells for one and a half times the normal price.

NOTE: For more on prices, refer to ST-4, the Equipment and Price Table.

The first-time traveler will notice a gloom in the air at the Inn, for the Grumm's eldest and brightest son, Leddon, has disappeared and is feared held prisoner by Trolls in the nearby Trollshaws. The Grumms are offering a reward of two gold pieces plus a lifetime of free meals and lodging to anyone who safely returns with Leddon, or more sadly, who produces what can be identified as the remains of their beloved son, who has been missing for almost a week. Leddon wears a distinctive ring made of bone carved in the shape of a male goat rearing on his hind legs and bears an ugly scar on the calf of his left leg.

As with any crossroads establishment, nothing is more abundant than rumors of gold, gems, magic weapons and items hidden in the area nearby. Over ale and biscuits in the tavern of the Last Inn, one can learn of a castle in the woods two or three days north of the Inn and just east of the river, a castle rumored to be unoccupied and full of treasure. One drunken fellow known as Grepp, insisting that he alone knows the true tale of the castle, tells of a crude but detailed map leading one to the booty hidden deep within the stronghold. He even intimates that for one gold piece, he could locate and hand over a copy of the treasure map. According to Grepp, a hard-drinking farmer and local gossip, the castle long ago belonged to a well-born but mysterious Edain nobleman, a Mage whose experiments with animals were much talked about and feared. Grepp calls the castle Herubar Gûlar, or "Dwelling of the Lord of High Sorcery," and hints that if one is fortunate enough to avoid the many traps and pitfalls that yet guard the wealth hidden there, he might be the richest and most powerful man in all the Trollshaws. When someone laughs at his tall tale and asks why he, Grepp himself, does not claim the booty, Grepp only shakes his head and says: "I am too old and too cowardly for that."

Those too spooked by Grepp's tales or by the warnings of others to mount an exploratory expedition to the castle in the woods may want to gather a few like-minded friends and tackle a simpler goal, like scouting a Troll-lair and if all goes right, raiding it. Such lairs are hollowed out of the rocks in the deep woods bordering the Inn, and most hold substantial booty.

Stouter-hearted adventurers may take up the Grumms on their offer and search for their son, Leddon, hoping to rescue him — perhaps seizing some gold and gems in the process — and to return to claim the reward.

Under the shadowy elms and oaks of the Trollshaws, many adventures await. Rest at the Inn and learn as much as possible, for once within the woods you will discover why this land is unsettled, and why men call it the Trollshaws.

THE COUNTRYSIDE

Three grave dangers await those courageous or greedy enough to scout and move about the dark and dangerous woodlands called the Trollshaws: crude and superstitious Hillmen, the unlikely and unlikeable creatures who give the region its name, the Hill-trolls, and the roving Orc patrols of Angmar. Whether searching for healing herbs or a stash of gems, one had best avoid meeting any of the unsavory trio of threatening groups. Natural dangers — such as stumbling upon a pack of hungry wolves or a black bear guarding her young — also abound in these wild woods. The only chance of encountering friendship in the precipitous countryside north of the Great East Road is the rare, face-to-face meeting with a Hobbit, for a few Stoors still inhabit the Trollshaws. The only problem is that a Stoor clumsy enough to bump into is likely to be drugged, half-dead or wholly insane.

NOTE: For more information on moving about the Trollshaws in search of action, and what happens when you find it, see Sections 5.23, EVASION AND HIDING, and 5.24, ENCOUNTERS. The ENCOUNTER TABLE, ST-10, will also prove helpful.

THE HILLMEN

Hillmen, descendants of Dunlendings and just as hospitable, fought the Witch-king when he subdued (some might say razed) Rhudaur hundreds of years ago. Now they fight for him, at least when “asked.” Lovers of copper jewelry and loud, bawdy songs, Hillmen relish the outdoor life, scaling steep cliffs like mountain goats. Superstitious and xenophobic, Hillmen fear darkness and prefer to spend the long winter nights in their homes, talking much too loud, screaming insults and curses at each other, and laughing at misfortunes and missteps that might bring tears to a kinder race of men.

Among themselves, Hillmen speak Dunael, although most know Westron well enough. They also offer sacrifices to their vengeful, despicable deities and deeply despise Woses, Dwarves and Dúnedain (all rarely seen in these parts), as well as Orcs and Strawheads (the Rohirrim).

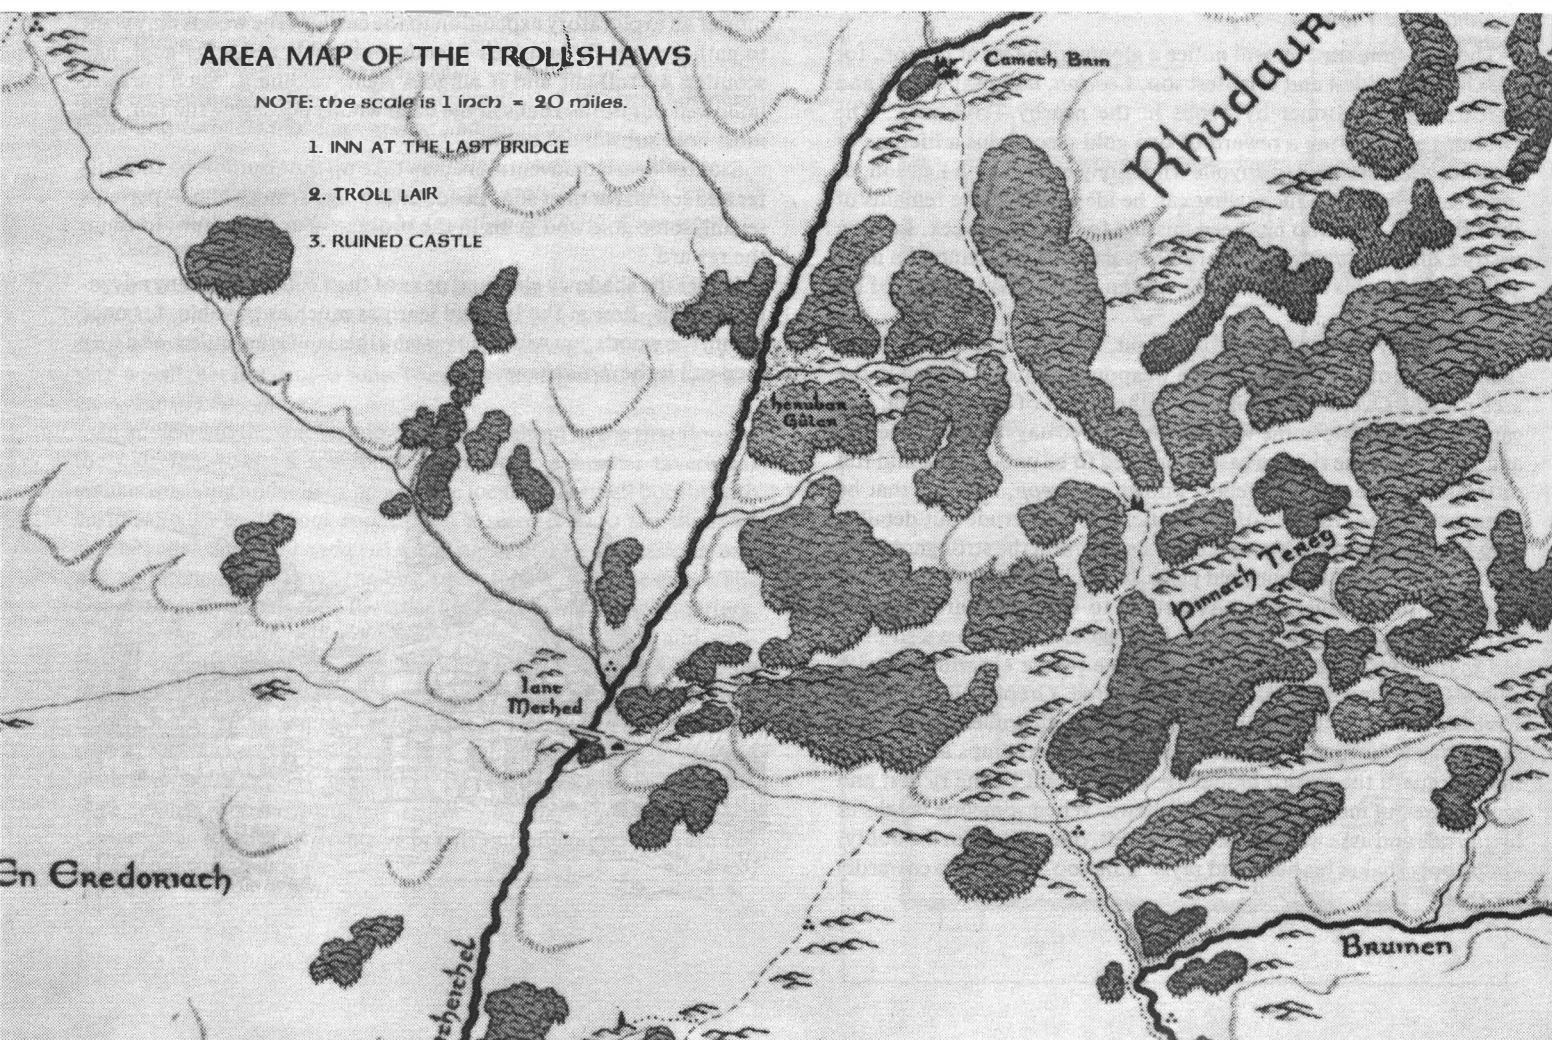

Hillmen are great trackers, all but impossible to lose or throw off your trail, and are quiet as mountain cats. They know the Trollshaws so well they could give guided tours blindfolded, but of course they would never trust you enough to even turn their backs on you. (A wise adventurer would treat them the same.)

THE HILL-TROLLS

Trolls are huge, tough, ugly, stupid and bloodthirsty, and the Hill-trolls of the Trollshaws, although a bit more intelligent than most of their brethren, are no exception. Hill-trolls do speak a bit of Westron, usually enough to make you understand that you are in great danger and have but a moment to make friends or die. Trolls relish nothing more than the grinding of flesh and bone in their ghastly teeth, although they prefer fattening up a victim over a course of several days before dining on the unlucky wretch. Hill-trolls do employ hammers as well as their claws and like most Trolls, must avoid sunlight or they will turn to stone, the sight of which drives fellow-Trolls into paroxysms of uncontrollable, hideous laughter.

THE PATROLS OF ANGMAR

The Witch-king keeps a close eye on the Trollshaws. His Orcs and Wargs regularly scout the forests of Rhudaur, sniffing for news and fresh meat traveling to and from the settled West.

ADVENTURE SITES

THE RUINED CASTLE

Three days north of the Last Inn and just off a tributary of the Mitheithel stand the crumbling, eerie ruins of a once-magnificent castle, Herubar Gûlar, the Dwelling of the Lord of High Sorcery. The stream that once fed a moat shielding the stronghold from frontal attack has now cut through the wall and eaten away at Tower 3, which is flooded, and has tumbled Tower 4, which has dammed the stream and diverted its flow. (A subterranean river skirts the walls in the rear and provides escape from the deepest bowels of the keep, if one makes it that far in his exploration of the much-feared Castle in the Woods.) The main gate is blackened and blasted. The entrance on the castle side of the splintered, plank bridge is flooded; the approach from the road, however, is high and dry. Steep cliffs fall behind the castle and provide ideal protection for its current residents, a rowdy band of Orcs led by their captain, Thuk, and his master, the elusive and peripatetic Mage and agent of the Witch-king known to the Orcs of the castle as Ar-Gûlar. (The perceptive PC may recognize the handsome evil-doer from his regular appearances at the Inn, where he sings and charms audiences as Turlin, the wandering minstrel.) Ar-Gûlar is, in actuality, a fallen Edain noble, the bastard son of a powerful lord of Rhudaur, who was denied any inheritance but received an extraordinary education and developed a zest for deception, the use of magic and sorcery, and revenge upon the Edain nobility. Thus was he led by fate to the dark gates of the Witch-king's realm.

Ar-Gûlar's duties are threefold: first, to gather all the information he can about the region's inhabitants and their movements and aims; second, to cause them as much trouble as possible while seizing all the wealth he can; and third, to report all he learns and to surrender to the Witch-king most of what he gains through his perfidy and black magic.

The obvious entrance to the castle is up the road or along the stream bed, taking care to stay behind the generous cover of trees and shrubbery. At least two Orc lookouts are on duty. From the second floor of Tower 1, where the Orcs sleep, and the third floor of the hexagonal keep, where a ruined observatory provides a broad view of the landscape before the gates, Orcs are ever-vigilant after dark. During daylight hours, Orc guards don't see very well and rely instead upon their keen sense of hearing.

NOTE: Corresponding stairways and secret passages are marked by corresponding capital letters.

THE FOUR TOWERS

Those adventurers with enough guts to enter the crumbling castle walls may first want to explore the four decaying towers, to secure them and seize any booty stashed there. All four towers are fifty feet in diameter and have interior stairs up from ground level. Luckily for the would-be plunderer, only one tower is occupied by Orcs.

1. Tower 1. Tower 1 is flooded at basement level, the stairs broken and dangerous. A corroded, gold-colored chest rests on a ledge ten feet below the water line of the forty-foot deep pool that fills this tower. The brightness of the "gold" may catch one's eye, but the stinging fish and small kraken (twenty-five feet from tip of tentacle to crown of head) lying low in the shadows may catch a hand, an arm, or more! The chest holds 200 gp worth of jewels, silver, and gold and has corroded to the point that it cannot be pulled up without destroying it. The first diver into the pool risks a 10% chance of disturbing the kraken; each dive thereafter increases the chance of provoking the creature by 5%. Each successful dive brings up 1-100 sp worth of jewels and money. The stinging fish are merely nuisances and inflict no damage other than an ugly rash. (The PC's don't know this and may suspect the fish to be poisonous.)

NOTE: See ST-2, CREATURES SUMMARY TABLE, and Section 4.24, DESCRIPTION OF MIDDLE-EARTH CREATURES, for more information on the kraken.

2. Tower 2. This structure is in ruins; only scattered human bones, a skeleton with an arrow through the rib cage, and a beastly stench greet the entering hero.

3. Tower 3. Here the 10-12 Orcs who call the castle home sleep, keep their weapons handy, and argue about who can swallow a live Stoor faster. At least five Orcs are always present here; one to seven more may appear depending upon the time of day and the level of activity in the region. Those not sleeping or lying around on the second floor of Tower 3 are off on patrol or in the Lookout Tower (formerly an Observatory) on the third floor of the Castle Keep. However, they will respond to any alarm or disturbance. Like most Orcs, those of the castle fear water as well as light and are surprisingly adept healers. Also of note in Tower 3 is a secret passage built into the thick wall that leads down to the first level of the underchambers of the keep; this passage is known only to the Orc commander and to the evil lord Ar-Gûlar himself.

NOTE: PC's must make a Hard (-10) perception roll to determine whether or not they discover this secret passage.

4. Tower 4. Crebain have claimed Tower 4 as their own; here up to thirty-three of the large blackbirds live as they spy for the lord and squabble all day long. At any one time, only 3-30 of the birds are present. Crebain also pick up baubles and small gems, saving them for their master, Ar-Gûlar. Each of the birds' twenty nests contains 1-10sp worth of booty; Crebain will fight to protect their nests and raise a racket likely to rouse all the Orcs of the castle in a moment or two (20% chance each round). Crebain are also very fast fliers, cruising at 140 feet plus a 40 bonus per round. They can travel at four times that speed when rushing secret messages to Ar-Gûlar, wherever he may be, and can reach him in less than an hour when he is entertaining at the Last Inn, for example. Tower 4 also has a secret passage built into the thick wall that leads down to Level 2A of the underchambers of the donjon. (PC's must make a Very Hard (-20) perception roll to discover the passage.) Behind a slightly less filth-encrusted brick marked by a barely-discernible "X" and about four feet above the floor there rests a simple leather-covered box with an Easy (+20) lock. Inside the box is a duplicate key to the treasure chest lying deep within lower chambers of the castle, on Level 3. A Medium (+0) stabbing trap protects the box; anyone pulling at the covering brick who doesn't duck below the level of the brick will be met with a blade driven deeply into him. (An "A" Slash and a "C" Puncture Critical.) On the other hand, a typical Dwarf or Hobbit will merely chuckle to himself as the blade juts harmlessly above his head.

THE CASTLE KEEP

First Floor. The ground floor of the 120' by 80' hexagonal keep was once an elegant hall of striking proportions and beauty. (Obvious to anyone but an Orc, a wealthy Edain baron or lord once owned and occupied the castle.) Now the walls are hung with tattered tapestries and ripped paintings. Smashed sculptures litter the inscribed stone floor. Orcs rarely enter the keep except to maintain a lookout from the third-floor observatory.

Second Floor. A balcony overlooks the Great Hall, where balls and feasts enlivened and enlightened the structure long ago. Guest Quarters and the remnants of icons in the now-empty Ceremonial Chamber take up the rest of the second floor.

Third Floor.

1. Lord's Bedroom. This 36' by 24' chamber holds a secret passageway (built into the wall) that leads to the Library, bypassing the Servants' Chambers.

2. Servants' Chambers. A 30' by 13' room where the Mage-lord's personal servants slept and stood ready to serve him at any hour.

3. Library of Lore. Floor-to-ceiling bookshelves line much of the Library's walls. Looted, yellowed maps and ripped-up books are strewn about the floor and tables. Dust has settled over everything. (The Library, approximately 50' by 25', also contains a secret, unlooted room and two secret passageways discussed further in #'s 6, 7, and 8.)

4. Observatory/Lookout. A 37' by 20' room with windows looking out upon the road leading to the castle gates. The telescope in one window is functional, but the glass is smudged. Orcs use this room as a lookout station; the watch changes every four hours. There is always at least one Orc here, and there is a 10% chance of the Orc Captain, Thuk, coming by in any given 10 minute period.

5. Laboratory. This 65' by 20' chamber holds aged texts, papers, and puzzling experimental devices, all in disarray. A tiny, secret room (further discussed in # 9) stands undisturbed, hidden behind floor-to-ceiling bookshelves.

6. Secret Passage (Bedroom). This narrow hall built into the wall leads directly to the secret passage hidden behind bookshelves in the Library.

7. Secret Room. Only Ar-Gûlar (Turlin) knows of this narrow room hidden behind bookshelves in the Library; he keeps it intact both as a lure and as insurance, should the Witch-king turn against him or cast him out. (Ar-Gûlar also wants to keep his presence as a magic user and an agent of Angmar a secret, of course.) The room holds regional maps and assorted histories and bestiaries of interest to travelers in the Trollshaws; spread across a table are ten Black Númenorean sorcery texts. Each tome weighs just over 10 pounds and would bring 30 gp in Fornost or in another city. (The very bold might want to try selling the volumes in Carn Dûm, which is closer but much riskier.) Several rhymes written on charred and dusty scrolls both warn and beckon to those intrepid enough to find and examine this room, which is Extremely Hard (-30) to discover. One such poem lies exposed on the table:

*Down deep, deep down,
Treasure will be found.
Past the beasts and near the pools
Wealth greets the wise, Death welcomes fools!*

NOTE: The GM is advised to make full use of the information and clues contained in this secret chamber, many of which will lead to further adventures both within the castle and outside it.

8. Secret Passage. This winding and very narrow stairway leads down to the Mage-lord's lower bedroom hidden on the first level of the Underchambers of the keep. To discover this secret passage requires a successful Very Hard (-20) perception roll.

9. Secret Room. This tiny chamber, hidden behind bookshelves in the Laboratory, is unknown to Ar-Gûlar and the Orcs. Here the Edain lord of old stored papers documenting his experiments in altering the size and functions of various beasts native to the region. (The handwritten text ends abruptly, suggesting that the Mage-lord gave up his studies suddenly.) The papers total 10 pounds and would be worth 10-100 gp to the right people in the right place — a big city, most likely. The room is Extremely Hard (-30) to discover; Ar-Gûlar does not suspect its existence and believes that the Library's secret room holds all the secrets of old.

THE LOWER CHAMBERS OF THE KEEP

Level One

1. Arena. The first level below the ground once housed an elegant arena of battle and well-lighted stage for performances of song, dance and drama. The sunken arena now holds the booty taken by the Orcs from travelers and others foolish enough to travel in the Trollshaws. Guarding the bronze, copper, silver and gold pieces scattered over the floor of the pit (and chained to its center) is an angry and not-well-fed black bear known affectionately to the Orcs as GRRR. The bear is a 3rd level beast and takes 150 hits. (See Table ST-2.) All Orcs must deposit their booty here (under the watchful eye of their commander), and all do. The loot strewn across the floor of the arena includes: 5000tp, 2000bp, 5000cp, 500sp, and 30gp.

2. Storage Room and Wine Cellar. Looted and wrecked, this chamber is useless, holding only cobwebs and empty, broken wine bottles.

3. Hall of Heroes. Down the stairs and to the left one finds the shadowy Hall of Heroes. This long and narrow passage is lined with slashed family portraits of the original inhabitants of the castle and at first glance appears useless to the treasure-seeker. However, a closer look will reveal grimy, dust-shrouded, and crude maps of the castle's underchambers. (Other messages urge one to seek greater treasure in the depths of the keep.) Tucked into the frames of three paintings at the end of the hall near the great stone statue is jewelry totaling 50gp.

4. Statue. This eight-foot tall stone giant is in fact a sleeping golem. Even a light tug at one of the three portraits hiding the family gems will bring to life the imposing golem. The golem will not rest until those who dare to disturb the portraits leave the Hall or join their ancestors in oblivion.

5. Lord's Secret Bedroom. It is here that the Mage-lord of old commonly rested, sleeping on a raised platform bed near a chest of magic items.

Items in the chest:

1. A + 15 chainmail of gleaming golden metal which contracts upon contact with perspiration. Each time the wearer gets into a tense situation, there is a 20% chance of a "C" Crush Critical once every twenty-four hours.
2. Ten + 10 arrows and one, similar in appearance to the others that, when shot, returns to attack the archer instead of his foes. The attack is resolved normally; the archer rolls any resulting crit for himself.
3. One pair of shiny boots that don't leave tracks behind you when you walk but which, after 8 hours of constant wear, rush off with the unwary wearer in an easterly direction for one hour. (Inscribed in the leather of both boots is an Elvish warning that one has put on more than he suspects.)
4. 25 gp worth of charms and jewelry, including a ring of bone carved in the shape of Rhudaur.
5. Books, drawings, and papers of lore which appear very important but which in fact are fakes. For example, verses written in an elegant Sindarin script appear to give clues to further secrets of the castle keep but in fact lead one to death traps in the lower levels.
6. One + 15 magic dagger that bleats like a sheep when Orcs are within 100 feet of the holder.
7. One genuine + 20 arrow, reusable if recovered, for the slaying of fell beasts. (Roll any Critical normally and roll as "Slaying" on Table CT-10.)
8. A potion that, when swallowed, gives the Gift of Underchamber-Vision to the imbiber. Swallowing the contents of the tiny vial gives one a brief vision of the lowest chamber of the castle; dangerous areas are marked in red and places where booty is kept appear as yellow. The PC with a good memory (Intelligence, or IG) will thus be able to draw a detailed layout of Level 3 of the Underchambers.
9. A clear potion like that described in #8 above except that it provides a false vision of Level 3. In fact, this vision reverses the areas of booty and danger.

6. Arms Storage Area. The overflow of arms and weapons seized in battle and ambush are kept to the right of the stairs in this long, narrow chamber. Orcs cannot or will not use items piled here in haphazard fashion.

Items in the Arms Storage Area:

1. Piles of 2-20 of each type of normal but tarnished weapons and armor.
2. Two + 5 broadswords.
3. One + 5 Morning Star (the weapon, not the celestial body).
4. A + 5 magic Javelin that returns to its thrower only after the first miss of any twenty-four period. (For more information on Magic Items, see Section 4.56.)
5. A Long Bow with three + 5 arrows.
6. A + 10 Battle Axe that weighs only 60% of the average weight of similar axes.

7. Storage Hall. Spare clothing and junk are piled here.

8. Hallway and Stairs.

Level 2-A

1. Herb and Poison Storage Room. Located to the left of the stairs, this artificially lighted chamber, 100 feet by 14, sprouts mushrooms galore. Ten varieties of herbs and poisons (some healing, some noxious) also grow in abundance.

NOTE: PC's should roll one die; the number rolled represents the herb chosen. Check ST-5, HERBS, POISONS AND DISEASES TABLE, for more information.

HERBS AND POISONS:

1. Arfandas. 2-20 doses grow per month.
2. Culkas. 1-10 doses grow per month.
3. Belan. 1-10 doses grow per month.
4. Gariig. 1-10 doses grow per month.
5. Attanar. 2-20 doses grow per month.
6. Degiik. 1-10 doses grow per month.
7. Arnuminas. 2-20 doses grow per month.
8. Kilmakur. 1-10 doses grow per month.
9. Kly. 1-5 doses grow per month.
10. Uraana. 1-5 doses grow per month.

2. Torture Chamber. This 50' by 43' chamber is the focus of this level of the keep; here the Orc captain and his two most trusted followers persuade uncommunicative captives to reconsider their commitment to continued silence. A variety of devices, including heated tongs, tongue clamps, and eye gougers aid them in their quest for information. Those who refuse to talk or remain of interest to the Orc commander or his lord are held in the four small dungeon chambers.

3. Dungeon Chamber #1. Here, a prisoner withholding desired information is held and fed a steady diet of mildly poisonous and hallucinogenic mushrooms. (Orcs of the castle commonly carry antidotes to the poisons in vials labelled in Orcish.)

4. Dungeon Chamber #2.

5. Dungeon Chamber #3.

6. Dungeon Chamber #4.

7. Hall of Essence Inhibition. Here, power points can be drained. For example, each time a character enters the Hall of Essence Inhibition, one half of his power points are drained.

8. Hall of Essence Enhancement. On the other hand, entering the Hall of Essence Enhancement maximizes one's power points, but only once each twenty-four hour period.

9. Secret Passage. Narrow, dark stairs lead down to Level Three of the Underchambers, where the great treasures of the castle remain hidden. This passage is guarded by a flame trap and in the spring and summer, by a vicious family of horse flies. The flame trap fills the room with fire (giving everyone 1-5 "B" Heat Cries) if every person entering the four-foot high oval stone door does not first utter the Elvish words inscribed in dusty stones above the doorway:

*Down I go and down I dance
To seek my golden magic chance.*

10. Secret Stairs. They lead up to Tower 4.

Level 2-B

1. Stairway. Down these stairs, the audacious adventurer reaches the Ar-Gûlar's favorite chambers, what he calls his "game room." For on this level reside the hardy offspring of the warped experiments performed so many years ago. A dark, wide stairway crumbling into ruin is hardly inviting, but go on you must to reach the treasures still further down.

2. Breeding Pit. Empty now (but for a few spiders and asps hidden in the shadows), this decayed chamber still holds the stench of corruption and dark arts. Here it was that the Mage-lord of old first bred the outsized spiders, snakes, bats, lizards and hounds that thrived in the gloom of this level of the dungeon keep. (And myth has it that in this dank cell the lord met his death, swallowed by his own misshapen beasts.)

3. Passage. Located near the wide stairway, this passage leads up to Level One and down to the treasure of Level Three of the Underchambers. It is also something of a challenge since it is guarded by a pair of stabbing traps that can literally hand the unwary interloper his head. The traps give 1-5 "B" Puncture Criticals and are Very Hard (-20) to disarm. When the door is opened normally, the traps operate mechanically by shooting out a dozen razor-sharp, thin, knife-like blades from a pair of hidden receptacles on either side of the door to the walkway.

4. Magic Cistern. This cistern contains an endless supply of fresh drinking water.

5. Hall of Hounds. The Hall of Hounds is silent now; no beasts remain, but the enormous skeletons of two hounds are visible to the torch-carrying explorer.

NOTE: The accompanying illustration marks areas where there is a good chance of being bitten, indicates the percentage chance that a PC will be bitten each round he spends in that particular chamber, and tells what kind of bite he will suffer, should his luck desert him.

- a = 5% SPIDERS
- b = 20% ASPS(SNAKES)
- c = 5% BATS
- d = 10% LIZARDS

6. Hall of Lizards and Bats. A score of poisonous lizards and poison-bats inhabit this chamber. Venom from these creatures can be used to poison-tip arrows, but of course the beasts involved are unlikely to cooperate. The effect of a poisonous bite varies: a bat-bite leads to paralysis while lizard venom causes the loss of use of the limb struck. Antidotes are available in Cameth Brin, and the Orcs of Herubar Gûlar commonly carry them in vials about their necks.

7. Hall of Snakes. Dozens of poisonous asps lurk in the shadows of this chamber. Asp venom causes the loss of use of the affected limb.

8. Hall of Spiders. Hundreds of spiders ranging in size from minute to a pair the size of a two-man tent live in this dangerous den. A spider bite leads to paralysis.

9. Stairs. This dark, creepy passage leads down to the lowest level of the keep.

There is little reason to tarry at this level; no one but Ar-Gûlar does, for these are his pets and his agents of assassination. Even Thuk, captain of the Orc-guard, prefers not to accompany his lord as he visits this twisted zoo.

Level Three

1. Stairs. On this level, one finds some of the greatest treasures of the western Trollshaws — and one faces the gravest dangers. None of the Orcs ever comes to this level of the keep; Ar-Gûlar alone enters these dark chambers. The stairs from the previous level lead one into a wide walkway, the Hall of Runes.

2. Hall of Runes. The Hall of Runes is full of cryptic clues to magic items and treasures hidden elsewhere on this floor. For example, behind the wall-to-ceiling tapestry of a battle scene one will find hidden in a crack in the wall a slender, pliable key that will unlock a gold chest in the Great Weapon and Treasure Room down the hall. (To find the key requires a Very Hard (-20) Perception Roll.) Messages inscribed on the wall warn all who enter to leave the way they came or to surrender unto death and damnation. A secret passage from Level One can be entered from this hall.

3. Great Weapons and Treasure Room. This most valuable room lies beyond the flooded Loading Platform and holds fine weapons, some of them magical, stored in gold-plated, locked vaults. The lock on the door is Very Hard (-20) to disarm. Simple but valuable jewelry is kept in a plain bronze chest on the floor. Other items adorn the walls. A pit trap at the exit to the hallway may dump the greedy or spooked treasure-seeker into a 20' deep, spiked pit below; PC's must make a Hard (-10) Perception Roll to avoid the 1-5 "C" Puncture Crits inflicted by the pit trap.

Items in the Chest:

1. A +15 broadsword.
2. 100 gp of jewelry and gems.
3. One +10 chain mail with no movement encumbrance.
4. Mithril ring; +10 to wearer's DB.
5. Wand of herblore that allows instant analysis and knowledge of healing herbs.
6. A +15 set of Rigid Leather Armor.
7. Five +10 arrows.

4. Room of Jewels and Magic Vaults. This very dangerous chamber lies just off the Hall of Runes. The lock on the door is Routine (+30) to pick. Inscribed on the door is the following warning:

*Once inside, the wise will not tarry;
For danger will be tough to parry.*

When someone enters, the door slams shut behind him once every 12 rounds, or every two minutes. The adventurer with a good sense of time can manage to leave the room before the two minutes expire and can reenter if he is quick enough. There is no handle on the inside of the door and 2 other exits. Once the door is shut, the walls begin moving in on the trapped fortune-seeker; the walls can be stopped and the door opened by reciting the two-line verse inscribed on the door. The walls give each character trapped within 1-5 "E" Crush Crits. The walls move back automatically after the crush criticals are delivered. The large, gilded vaults in this chamber hold cheap, fake jewels and magic items (worth 10 sp in total) designed to lure one away from the Great Weapon and Treasure Room further on.

5. Room of Luring Light. This chamber is an enticing death trap. This chamber is emblazoned by a magic glow of warm amber. Nothing is to be found inside but the will-sapping light, an ancient curse and 10th level spell. If one fails to resist the spell, he stands motionless and motiveless as a statue and is incapable of independent action until rescued.

6. Baths. Only ruins of this splendid pool remain.

7. Forges. These forges which once rang with the clash of metal upon metal lie quiet and cool.

8. Dock. Flooded and rotted now, this dock still provides access to the underground stream that flows around the lowest depths of the keep.

9. Loading Platform. This waterlogged structure also offers escape to those willing to trust their fate to the curving, unmapped subterranean river that flows by, although much of the platform is underwater now. (Much further on, the stream joins the aboveground river which flows through and by the castle's walls. The swift current makes swimming upstream a very difficult and dangerous maneuver at best.) The boats nearby are rotted and warped. There is just enough dry wood lying around the higher areas of the platform to build a raft.

10. Vault of Runes. This underwater chamber contains both cursed weapons and magic items. The lock to this chamber is Extremely Hard (-30) to pick. Potions stored here have leaked into the water, and if it is swallowed, one risks a substantial loss of memory or poisoning. (A Character takes 1-100 hits.) There is a 10% chance that with his first dive, a PC will swallow water. Every following dive increases the chance of ingesting the tainted water by 5%. Scattered about the bottom of the 12' deep pool are magic items and a valuable waterproof book.

Items at the bottom of the pool:

1. A handsome, lightweight cloak that allows the wearer to invoke invisibility up to three times every twenty-four hours.
2. A Book of Runes (sealed in a small, watertight chest) with all Mage-only spells to the Tenth level.
3. Two +10 magic Shields of Wolf-Coming that cause sword attacks against the bearer to fail in the first attack each twenty-four hour period. With each subsequent attack, the bearer of the shield has a 20% chance of turning into a wolf immediately. This lycanthropic state lasts for 10 minutes.
4. A Bow with ten Arrows of Itching that, when striking a foe, cause him to scratch incessantly for ten minutes.
5. A Ring of Friend-finding that glows when the wearer is within 50 feet of a potential ally.
6. A Neckerchief of Invisibility (4th Level) that allows the wearer to disappear. The neckerchief can be used only once a day under normal restrictions.
7. A Magic Staff that divines the nature and worth of all metals in a ten foot radius. An added bonus allows the bearer a +10 defense against Elemental Spell Attacks. The staff does not work underwater.
8. A total of 500gp of gems, jewels, and gold pieces for the having lie scattered about the bottom of the pool. With each dive, the sure-handed adventurer is likely to grab 2-20gp worth of valuables.
9. Gold Pieces.
10. Gold Pieces.

NOTE: Each time a character dives, he rolls a 1-10 to see what he comes up with. If the PC rolls 8, 9, or 10, he rolls a 2-20 to see how many gp's he has grabbed. A PC who rolls an item that has already been taken receives 2-20 gold pieces.

11. Secret Stairs. Located inside the Jewel and Magic Vaults Room, these stairs lead up to Level 2-A of the Underchambers. The stairs require a Very Hard (-20) Perception Roll to discover.

12. Secret Exit. A hidden hole in the wall just two feet by three feet allows access to the underground stream which circles the underchambers of the keep. A short swim downstream leads one to the river and a good chance at escaping.

No lower levels exist, and no more treasures or traps are to be found in this, the decaying but deathly-dangerous Castle in the Woods, Herubar Gûlar. Enter if you dare, adventurer, and may good fortune light your path! (And the best of luck to your widow and children.)

A HILL-TROLL LAIR —

The Hill-trolls holding Leddon Grumm captive have built their lair within a stony hill surrounded by deep woods. The lair is occupied by six Trolls: three adult males, one adult female, one adolescent male Troll, and a Troll-baby. At night, one or two of the adult males usually go out raiding.

1. Entrance. The fifteen-foot high main opening into the cave is set well below the ridge and is blocked by a boulder that takes two or three strong men to roll aside. One male Troll normally guards the cave entrance after dark — when he manages to stay awake — while inside the other Trolls sleep. Unknown to the rock-brained Trolls, a secret entrance exists just 160' feet away from the boulder-blocked opening they use. The secret passage is blocked by tree and rocks but accessible to skilled and hardy climbers.

2. Living Area. The path from the Entrance leads to the shadowy, smelly cell the Hill-trolls call home. Here four male Trolls sleep on rough wooden pallets, eat, drink and brag. A fire usually burns in the center of the chamber; a hole in the roof of the cave allows the escape of smoke. Their most commonly-used arms are kept handy here too, near their bedsides. Empty and smashed bottles and bones are scattered over the floor of the cave.

3. Torture and Holding Cell. Here Leddon and another man (who claims to have been to the Castle in the Woods) are held captive. Ironically they are chained just a few feet from the secret exit, a jagged hole which is completely blocked by a large rock. However, water from the underground stream that leads to the outside and to freedom does trickle out from beneath the rock. The prisoners are generally unguarded. However, once every four hours, one of the male Trolls is supposed to check on them and their chains. The four male Trolls who occupy the lair are trying to fatten the lean Leddon, but their offerings — half-cooked rabbit and raw venison — have met with marked resistance from the plucky young man. Due to a recent influx of careless fortune-seekers, the floors of this cell and of the larger living area are littered with bones and skeletons. But for this stroke of good fortune, Leddon Grumm and his fellow captive would already have joined their fleshless comrades in an uneasy, eternal rest.

4. Beer, Wine and Food Storage Cell. Shelves are “stocked” with the best and worst Dorwinion vintages, bottles of Bree beer and sundry supplies.

5. Treasure Cell. Except at meal times (when it is left unguarded), this chamber is usually guarded by a single male Troll. A large boulder blocks the way to anyone larger than a child or a small Hobbit. Two strong men could roll the boulder aside with great effort; inside lies a small pile of loot.

Items in the Pile:

- Two gold-plated helmets, gaudy but worth about 3 gp each.
- A dozen discarded belts and bloodstained tunics.
- Two bejewelled bracelets worth 1-10 sp each.
- A necklace of rare stones worth 5-50 sp.
- A pair of matching 6" by 6" by 4" jewelry boxes filled with trinkets and a handful of silver pieces, each box worth 1-10 gp.
- Scattered rings (including Leddon's) worth 1-10 sp in total.
- Three apparently undisturbed leather herb pouches. (The GM may roll randomly to determine what herbs are present and how much of each herb is contained within each pouch.)

6. Arms Storage Area. A few battered shields and axes of normal capabilities are scattered about the floor. A half-dozen short swords lay nearby; one is +5, and another is only 50% of the normal weight of a short sword.

7. Path to lower halls. This long, winding, and dark passage leads down to the dank cell where a lone and weary female Troll lives with her only offspring. (Adult male Trolls don't believe in spoiling their young and thus raise them on spare limbs and tough tendons and joints that they themselves pass by.)

8. Secret passage. This winding, narrow and low-ceilinged opening follows the course of a stream to exit the Troll lair about 160 feet from the entrance the Hill-trolls themselves use. A large, round stone blocks the way.

Be forewarned, adventurer, that entering a Troll lair, however quietly, is a dangerous undertaking, and the word "undertaking" is used with all due premeditation.

NOTE: Refer to Table ST-5, HERBS, POISONS AND DISEASES to determine which herbs and how much of them are found in the herb pouches mentioned in the Treasure Cell. Also, check the NPC Character Summaries Chart below for more information about the levels and capabilities of the Trolls of this lair.

EXPANDING MERP WITH ROLEMASTER

Middle-earth Role Playing (MERP) provides six professions and spell lists to 10th level. MERP is compatible with Rolemaster (RM) which provides nineteen professions and spell lists up to 50th level for those professions. This section is concerned with two major questions: 1) how to use Rolemaster professions within the MERP framework, and 2) how to convert existing MERP characters to Rolemaster characters.

USING ROLEMASTER PROFESSIONS WITH MERP

Most Rolemaster professions require spell lists from Spell Law (the magic system found in RM). Therefore, even when using MERP, Spell Law should be used to determine which spell lists a character of a specific Rolemaster profession can learn. Given these spell lists, Rolemaster professions translate easily into MERP professions.

- RM Fighters, Thieves, and Rangers should be treated as MERP Warriors, Scouts, and Rangers (respectively).
- RM Magicians, Illusionists, Alchemists, Sorcerors, and Mystics are handled the same way as MERP Mages for the purposes of Prime Stat (Intelligence), Development Points (CGT-4), and Professional bonuses (BT-6). RM Clerics, Animists, Healers, and Astrologers are treated as MERP Animists.
- RM Bards are the same as MERP Bards, but use Presence as the Prime Stat.
- RM Mentalists, Lay Healers and Seers use Presence as their Prime Stat, use Animist Profession Bonuses, and use the Development Points given for “Mentalist” (listed later in this section).
- RM Rogues should be treated as MERP Fighters, but use the Development Points given for “Rogue” (listed later in this section).
- Treat RM Warrior Monks as MERP Fighters, but use the Development Points given for “Warrior Monk” (listed later in this section).
- RM Monks are treated as MERP Rangers, but use the Development Points given for “Monk” (listed later in this section).

MARTIAL ARTS AND DEFENSE CATEGORIES

The development points given above include two new categories: Martial Arts and Adrenal Defense. The Martial Defense category consists of a single skill called Adrenal Defense. If a character is not using armor or a shield and he moves at least 5 feet during a round, his skill bonus for Adrenal Defense is added to the character's Defensive Bonus against all attacks which occur that round (he must be aware of each attack).

The Martial Arts category consists of six attack skills (Offensive Bonuses, OB). The first three should use “Impact” criticals (CT-9); the last three should use “Unbalance” criticals (CT-4).

- 1) “Small” Tooth/Claw Attack (AT-5).
- 2) “Medium” Tooth/Claw Attack (AT-5);
OB cannot be greater than the OB of #1.
- 3) “Large” Tooth/Claw Attack (AT-5);
OB cannot be greater than the OB of #2.
- 4) “Small” Grapple/Unbalance Attack (AT-6).
- 5) “Medium” Grapple/Unbalance Attack (AT-6);
OB cannot be greater than the OB of #4.
- 6) “Large” Grapple/Unbalance Attack (AT-6);
OB cannot be greater than the OB of #5.

Weapon skill “Profession Skill Bonuses” apply to these OB's. The stat bonuses for #1, #2, and #3 are based upon Strength, and the stat bonuses for #4, #5, and #6 are based upon Agility. All of the original MERP professions have no development points in these two categories.

Note the critical type change for the two types of attacks and the restricts on the relative allowed values for the various OB's. The Tooth/Claw attacks represents “hard” Martial Art attacks similar to Karate, while the Grapple/Unbalance attacks represent “soft” Martial Art attacks similar to Judo.

CONVERTING CHARACTERS FROM MERP TO ROLEMASTER

When using material from Rolemaster (RM) with MERP, a Gamemaster must keep in mind that while MERP and RM are compatible, RM is more complex and detailed than MERP. This added flexibility in character capabilities will require the GM to make certain decisions when converting MERP characters to RM characters. The following are suggested guidelines:

- A Warrior may be directly converted to a RM Fighter.
- A Scout may be directly converted to a RM Thief.
- A Ranger may be directly converted to a RM Ranger.
- A Mage may be directly converted to a RM Magician.
- A Bard may be directly converted to a RM Bard; however, Essence will be the RM Bard's realm of power for spells (i.e., the spells must be treated as Essence spells, with the Bard having access to the Essence Open Lists NOT the Mentalism Open lists).
- An Animist may be directly converted to either a RM Cleric or a RM Animist. The GM may decide to make this choice based upon the character's nature and use of the MERP spell lists OR he may allow the player to choose.

A GM may allow other profession conversions for appropriate characters. For example, a Warrior who concentrated in light armor and stealth might be allowed to become a RM Rogue; a Mage who used the Illusions list frequently might be allowed to become a RM Illusionist; an Animist who concentrates in healing might be allowed to become a RM Healer; etc.

After conversion, character development should proceed using the RM character development rules. We suggest that a GM allow MERP characters to keep their professional bonuses (MERP Table BT-6), but limit these bonuses to a 10th level maximum.

Alternatively, a Gamemaster may decide to allow characters to continue using MERP character development rules, but convert to using the spell lists provided in Spell Law.

CONVERTING SPELL LISTS

When converting to RM, the spell lists "known" to MERP characters should be carefully examined. For each MERP spell list "known", either the GM or the player involved should make one of the following choices: 1) Keep the MERP spell list OR 2) Take one of the corresponding RM spell lists (provided later in this section). Both choices are limited to 1st-10th level spells.

Characters may learn additional spell lists and sections of spell lists normally available to their RM professions. "Knowing" a MERP spell list counts as "knowing" one of the corresponding RM spell lists (GM or player choice) for the purposes of learning 10th-20th (and higher) level spells. The following chart gives the correspondence between MERP and RM spell lists for these purposes.

CONVERTING MERP AND FANTASY HERO STATISTICS

Fantasy Hero (FH) from Hero Games is part of the Hero System family of role playing products. It uses a significantly different combat and spell system from those found in MERP and Rolemaster. The conversion of characters and creatures from one system to the other requires some mathematics but, if you play MERP or Fantasy Hero, the task should not present a great obstacle.

TIME

During combat or other situations where game time is precisely reckoned, Fantasy Hero uses twelve second "turns" which are divided into one second "segments." MERP and Rolemaster (RM) employ one minute "turns" which are divided into ten second "rounds." For time conversion, we recommend the following:

1 MERP Round = 3 FH segments

1 MERP Turn = 18 FH segments or 1.5 FH turns

Due to the way the various game mechanics work, our suggested time conversion guideline is not exact.

STATS (CHARACTERISTICS)

The MERP/RM system uses percentile values (1-100) to describe a character's stats (characteristics). FH uses an open-ended system with most values falling in the 5-20 range. We suggest the following conversion guideline:

MERP stat = FH stat x 5

FH stat = MERP stat / 5 (with a minimum value of 8)

Thus, a MERP character with a stat value from 01 to 42 would have an 8 value for his Fantasy Hero characteristic. The following conversion table shows how MERP/RM stats and Fantasy Hero stats relate.

MERP/RM		Fantasy Hero
ST	(Strength)	STR	(Strength)
AG	(Agility)	DEX	(Dexterity)
CO	(Constitution)	CON	(Constitution), BODY
IG	(Intelligence)	INT	(Intelligence)
IT	(Intuition)	EGO	(Ego)
PR	(Presence)	PRE	(Presence)
AP	(Appearance)	COM	(Comeliness)
QU	(Quickness)	DEX	(Dexterity)
RE	(Reasoning)	INT	(Intelligence)
ME	(Memory)	INT	(Intelligence)
EM	(Empathy)	EGO	(Ego)

When two MERP/RM stats correspond to one FH stat (i.e., DEX, INT, and EGO), use the highest stat. Average FH STR and BODY to obtain the equivalent MERP/RM CO.

SKILLS AND SKILL BONUSES

MERP skills can be translated to Fantasy Hero skills by simply comparing the name of the skill. Bonuses may be converted by using the following conversion guideline:

+ 10 MERP bonus = + 1 FH bonus

ARMOR AND WEAPONS

RM weapon skills are keyed to specific or individual weapons (e.g., a rapier) rather than a grouping of weapons. In order to convert to Fantasy Hero, simply turn to the chart on page 78 of the Fantasy Hero guidelines to determine where to assign the weapon in terms of the appropriate general weapon skill category.

Where weapon skills are broadly defined in terms of MERP's weapon categories, conversion is even easier. Fantasy Hero's weapon skill categories are fairly close to those found in MERP, so simply use the following guidelines to find the equivalent label:

MERP	Fantasy Hero
1-hand Edged	Swords
1-hand Concussion	Axes, Maces, Hammers, etc.
2-hand	2-hand
Pole Arms	Pole Arms
Missile	Missile
Thrown	Thrown, Javelin

SPELL CONVERSION

There is no room here to list each of the spell lists and the myriad spell descriptions found in MERP/RM, nor is there space to demonstrate how to construct Fantasy Hero spells which correspond to them. The easiest approach is to use the following guideline to relate MERP/RM spell lists "learned/picked" to FH spell-caster Character Points spent on spell construction:

1 MERP/RM spell list "learned/picked" =
10 to 15 FH Character Points

Note the common themes of the character's spell lists and spells (e.g., "fire" in the Fire Law list) should be retained when converting.

CREATURE CONVERSION

Use following equivalences as guidelines for creature conversion:

MERP/RM	Fantasy Hero
Offensive Bonus (OB)/15	OCV
Offensive Bonus (OB)/10	Damage Class
Defensive Bonus (DB)/7	DCV
Armor Type (AT)/2	resistant ED and PD
Armor Type (AT) x2	total ED and PD
Base Movement Rate/10	Move in inches per phase
Hits/10	BODY (min. 10)

When two FH stats are given for one relation (e.g., ED and PD for Armor Type), average them before converting to MERP/RM. When there are two relations given for one MERP/RM characteristic (e.g., OB and AT), calculate both resulting values and then average them for the final value.

SELECTED READINGS

This work is based on The Hobbit and The Lord of the Rings, particularly the appendices from The Return of the King, the third volume of the trilogy. Great pains have been taken to assure no conflict with any other primary source material. Since the material in ICE's series is derived from the histories of the Third Age, The Lord of the Rings stands as the most instrumental resource.

The Silmarillion and Unfinished Tales may provide crucial data for campaigns set in the First or Second Ages of Middle-earth. The former is certainly key to any in-depth cosmological overview. ICE's Middle-earth line is aimed at settings of a later period, but will, nonetheless, prove helpful to those concerned with earlier times.

B-1 HOW TO GET STARTED WITH ROLE PLAYING

Just getting started often presents a problem for those unfamiliar with the concepts involved in role playing games. For an introduction to these concepts, you should read Part I (starts on page 4) of the Middle-earth Role Playing™ rules book.

The material presented here is intended to simplify the process of learning how to role play. It should be used if you have problems with the material presented in Part I of the MERP rules book (otherwise, read Section B-6). This booklet contains:

- A very simple set of role playing rules compatible with the standard MERP rules (Section B-2).
- A pre-created character that uses these rules (Section B-3).
- An initial adventure that can be played alone or with a Gamemaster (Section B-7).
- Another adventure, "The Loons of the Long Fell", for a group of players with a Gamemaster (M-1 to M-8).

Using these components, the following steps are usually the best way to start learning how to role play:

- In order to begin a role playing game, everyone who wants to participate must first understand how to role play. Everyone should read Part I, pages 4-7, of the MERP rules book.
- Next, everyone should get together and decide who is going to be the Gamemaster (GM); everyone else will be the players. The Gamemaster should realize that his or her "role" is that of the creator and referee of the game, and that it will require more time and effort than that required of the players.
- The Gamemaster must read and understand the rules (Section B-2). If the GM is certain that he understands the rules and can explain them, the players can get by without reading the rules.
- Using the pre-created character (Section B-3), the Gamemaster should play the solo adventure provided in Section B-7. This should help the GM understand the process of directing role playing adventures. Guidelines for this process are provided in Section B-4.
- The Gamemaster should then get together with each of the players separately. With the player assuming the role of the pre-created character, the Gamemaster then directs the player through the solo adventure. This serves two purposes: it shows the player how to play the game, and it gives the Gamemaster some practice in directing an adventure.
- At this point the Gamemaster and the players are ready to begin playing and using the standard Middle-earth Role Playing system. Follow the suggestions given in Section 1.1 on page 8 of the MERP rules book.
- The adventure in M-1 to M-8 is designed to allow the Gamemaster to practice running a game using the MERP rules with a group of characters.

NOTE: These steps involve understanding the rules and guidelines which direct a role playing game. The Gamemaster and players should also realize that much of the fun and excitement in role playing comes from the personal interaction between the players as they take on the roles of their characters and bring them to life.

B-2 THE QUESTGAME™ SYSTEM

The rules and guidelines presented in this section are drawn from the QuestGame system used for solo adventure games. These abbreviated rules provide an introduction to the more complicated but similar rules found in the main MERP rules book. These rules are intended to be used with The Adventure provided in Section B-7. At certain points a NOTE provides comments on how certain rules apply to non-solo role playing.

THE ADVENTURE TEXT

The text in Section B-7 describes hazards, situations, and locations that may be encountered during The Adventure. The text is divided into separate "text sections". As you read the text sections, choices will be given as to what actions your character may take.

Each text section is labeled by a three-digit number (e.g., entry "223"). As you read each text section, you will be told which text section to read next. The order in which you read the text sections will depend on the directions in the text, the actions you choose, and whether the actions you attempt succeed or fail.

The text will direct your "movement" through the countryside. It can be very useful for you to keep track of what you encounter and where you go (i.e., you should map and record your path of travel).

NOTE: In The Adventure, the text serves as the "Game-master". It provides descriptions of the places, hazards, and situations that the "Player" encounters. It gives the Player choices to make, and it helps to determine the results of those choices. The text also provides a mechanism for keeping track of details like damage taken, time, and experience points, chores normally handled by the Gamemaster in a non-solo role playing game.

PICKING A NUMBER

Many times during your adventures in this book you will need to pick a number (between 2 and 12) in order to determine what happens.

You can roll two six-sided dice if you have them. If you have the boxed version of MERP, roll the two dice provided. Reroll each die that has a result of 0, 7, 8, or 9, (i.e., both dice must give a number between 1 and 6). Add the two results and that sum is the number which you have picked.

Often you will be instructed to pick a number and add a "bonus". When this happens, treat results of more than 12 as "12" and treat results of less than 2 as "2".

NOTE: Picking random numbers (usually by rolling dice) is a crucial element of role playing; it introduces uncertainty, chance, and excitement to most situations. In MERP, dice are rolled to give results between 1 and 100, an easily understood percentile scale.

CHARACTER BONUSES

In many situations, you are instructed to Pick a number and add your — — — bonus. For The Adventure, these bonuses are given in bold in the "Total Bonus" column on the Character Record for the pre-created character (Section B-3).

NOTE: In a role playing game, a character's "bonuses" reflect how well certain actions are performed. In certain situations, when a character is trying to do something, a random number representing chance will be modified by one of a character's bonuses. This means that the character has a better chance of accomplishing this action. Thus the character's skills and abilities are represented in the rules by the character's "bonuses". Many factors go into determining a character's bonuses: skill, physical and mental attributes, race, equipment, etc. These factors are not discussed here because The Adventure uses a pre-created character. However, MERP has a complete character creation/generation system.

DAMAGE AND HEALING

As you adventure, you will take damage from fights, traps, falls, etc. You must keep track of this damage in terms of a total amount of damage taken (record the total in the damage taken space on your Character Record). Only your damage taken total changes during play; your Endurance does not change.

If your damage taken exceeds your Endurance (see your Character Record), you are unconscious. If this occurs during a fight, you are defeated and must proceed as the text indicates. Otherwise, you remain unconscious until you heal enough so that your damage taken drops below your Endurance. If the text indicates that you wake up after a fight, reduce your damage taken to equal your Endurance.

Each time you read a section of text that does not require you to pick a number or fight, you may reduce your damage taken by 3 for each hour you spend "resting". At night, if you rest and eat a meal (see above), you may reduce your damage taken by 15.

NOTE: Taking damage during an adventure is often a reflection of the success or failure of a particular action. The possibility of taking damage or "dying" creates the danger and thus the excitement inherent in most role playing situations.

EQUIPMENT

Whenever you acquire money and equipment, record them on your Character Record in the spaces provided. Silver pieces are "money" and may be used during your adventures to pay for food, lodging, transport, bribes, etc. The effects of equipment will be indicated in the text.

You may only wear 1 suit of armor, 1 dagger (on belt), 1 cloak, 1 backpack, and 1 belt and pouch.

In addition, you may carry a number of pieces of equipment equal to your Strength stat; this total may include a maximum of 3 weapons. If you lose your backpack, this number is reduced by half (round up), and you lose any excess equipment along with the backpack.

NOTE: As players adventure they can acquire and accumulate money and equipment, which may increase abilities and options available to the player. The limits on equipment, effects of equipment, and costs of equipment are very important factors in a role playing system. Money and equipment also act as some of the primary goals and rewards for the players.

FIGHTING

Fighting consists of a series of "rounds". During each "round", you attack your opponent or you attempt to flee and your opponent attacks you.

If you choose to fight an opponent or the text indicates that you must fight, the combat is resolved in the following fashion:

- 1) You attack your opponent and then he attacks you (see below for how to "attack"). If you are surprised, reverse the order of combat for the rest of the combat.
- 2) Repeat step 1, a round of the fight, until one of the following conditions occur:
 - a) One of you is killed (a "K" result on the Combat Table).
 - b) One of you has more damage taken than Endurance. That combatant is unconscious and is defeated.
 - c) At the beginning of any round of combat, you may elect not to attack for that round. After your opponent makes his attack for that round, you may attempt to Run Away. You must then Pick a Number and add your Running bonus:
 - If 2-7, you are unsuccessful, you are still engaged and must begin another round of the fight. (However, you may attempt to run away again).
 - If 8-12, you are successful, the fight ends and you follow the text instructions.

After a fight, the text will indicate what you are to do.

Process for Resolving An Attack:

NOTE: An attack occurs as indicated above in step 1) under 'Fighting'. The 'Attacker' is the one who is attacking and the one being attacked is the defender.

- 1) Subtract the defender's Defensive Bonus (DB) from the attacker's Melee Offensive Bonus (OB) and pick a number.
- 2) Using the Combat Table (see below), cross-index the number picked (in the vertical row on the left side of the table) and the difference between the OB and the DB (in the horizontal column at the top of the table).
- 3) The result is the amount of damage that the defender takes that round (increase his damage taken by that amount). The special results "U" and "K" end the combat immediately with the defender being knocked out (U, Unconscious) or more rarely, killed (K).

NOTE: Fighting is one of the most common sources of conflict and danger in role playing. In most systems, combatants take turns attacking one another. An attack consists of using a random number (for the element of chance), the attacker's combat abilities, and the defender's combat abilities to determine how much and what kind of damage the defender takes.

TIME

Passage of time will be abbreviated at the beginning of each text section as Time: #, where # is the number of minutes. As you read each text section, add this amount to your time total.

The Adventure assumes that the player is only active during the daytime and that the player rests at night. Nighttime starts when your time total reaches 13 + hours (780 + minutes) and you read a section of text that does not require you to pick a number or fight.

At this point, you must rest: mark down that 1 day has passed and restart your time total to 0. You must also "eat a meal" (mark one meal used on your character record). If you do not have a meal, you may not heal any damage that night and you must increase your damage taken by 5. After all this is done, proceed normally.

NOTE: Time is a good example of one of the factors that the Gamemaster must keep track of in order to accurately present the physical setting of the role playing game to the players.

COMBAT TABLE

Number Picked	Attacker's OB Minus Defender's DB *
	+5	+4	+3	+2	+1	0	-1	-2	-3	-4
3	2	1	1	1	0	0	0	0	0	0
4	4	3	2	2	1	0	0	0	0	0
5	6	5	4	3	2	1	0	0	0	0
6	7	6	5	4	3	2	1	0	0	0
7	8	7	6	5	4	3	2	1	1	0
8	9	8	7	6	5	4	3	2	2	1
9	U	9	8	7	6	5	4	3	2	2
10	U	U	U	8	7	7	6	5	4	3
11	K	K	U	U	U	U	8	7	6	5
12	K	K	K	K	K	K	U	U	U	U

* If OB - DB difference is greater than +5, add the excess to the number picked; if the difference is less than -4, treat it as -4.

Results:

= A number result indicates the amount of damage taken; if the total damage taken exceeds the combatant's endurance point total, the character is unconscious.

U = Unconscious (knocked out), wounded, and out of action; see text for results.

K = Killed.

CASTING SPELLS

Before you start to play The Adventure, choose one of the spells described below. Record this spell on the pre-created Character Record; you "know" that spell and may cast it during play.

If you want to cast the spell, pick a number and add your Magical bonus. If the result is more than 6, the spell has been successfully cast. (Refer to the spell description for the effects.) Otherwise, the spell has no effect.

Each time you successfully cast the spell, your damage taken is increased by the number given in parentheses in the spell description. This reflects the strain of casting spells.

Spell Descriptions

- 1) Balance (2): Increases your General bonus by +2 for one activity to be attempted at the current text section.
- 2) Camouflage (3): For the purposes of one action, this spell increases your Trickery bonus by +2.
- 3) Clairvoyance (5): When given a choice of two or more text sections to read, you may read two of them and then proceed to whichever one you want.
- 4) Healing (0): Reduces the amount of time required to heal 3 points of damage from 60 minutes to 20 minutes. Using this spell and then resting for a "night" heals all damage.
- 5) Luck (5): When you cast this spell just after you have picked a number, you may ignore the number picked and pick a number again.

NOTE: Magic and spells add much of the flavor and detail people expect from fantasy role playing. They provide the element of mystique and interest which so richly flavors the works of J.R.R. Tolkien.

B-3 A PRE-CREATED CHARACTER

This character has already been completely developed (created) according to the character creation rules similar to those used in MERP. You do not need to understand everything on the Character Record, just use the information when told to do so and record information when necessary (damage taken, the spell you choose, equipment you find, etc.). You may photocopy the Character Record so that the Gamemaster and the players may use the character for The Adventure.

B-4 THE GAMEMASTER PLAYS THE ADVENTURE

You, the Gamemaster, should realize that The Adventure (Section B-7) is a learning/testing procedure. Do not hesitate to replay problem areas. You should play the entire Adventure several times trying different options so that you can understand and appreciate the actions and decisions that are made. It is essential that you understand how The Adventure is structured, so that you can direct the players through it as a learning exercise.

Due to the limited nature of a solo role playing game without a Gamemaster, this solo adventure can only give a few of the choices that might be made available to a character in a given situation by a Gamemaster. The Gamemaster who plays this adventure should keep in mind that when he runs an adventure the choices available to the players should be much more flexible.

B-5 THE GAMEMASTER DIRECTS EACH PLAYER THROUGH THE ADVENTURE

As each player plays The Adventure, he (or she) does not read the text sections. Instead, the Gamemaster reads the text sections out loud and presents the choices available to the player. The Gamemaster should feel free to add his own material since that is how a role playing game normally proceeds. This material can be more detailed descriptions (gathered from MERP or made up) or additional dangers or hazards.

Both the GM and players should realize that the initial adventure is a learning/testing procedure. Once again do not hesitate to replay problem areas, or even to replay the entire adventure several times so that everyone can understand and appreciate the actions and decisions that are made.

NOTE: In a more advanced role playing game, the Gamemaster presents the situations to the players, but he (or she) does not present a limited number of choices to the players. Instead, he asks the players what their characters actually do in the context of the situation. It is up to the players to decide what their characters will do (although the Gamemaster may comment on the feasibility of certain actions). Then the Gamemaster (using the rules as a guide) determines the results of these actions/decisions.

B-6 MIDDLE-EARTH ROLE PLAYING

The material presented in the main MERP book is suitable for a game headed by a Gamemaster who is already familiar with role playing or a Gamemaster who readily picks up the concepts involved in role playing. Section 1.1 (page 8) describes how such a Gamemaster should proceed.

Other Gamemasters and players who have played the initial adventure and feel that they understand the procedures involved are ready to begin learning the MERP material. They should reread Part I of the main MERP rulesbook and proceed as outlined in Section 1.1.

The Middle-earth Role Playing (MERP) system provides:

- A description of the concepts involved in role playing (Part I).
- A basic set of role playing rules (Sections 2, 3, 6, and 7).
- Guidelines for the Gamemaster (Sections 4 and 5).
- Several initial adventures (Part III).

B-7 THE ADVENTURE

PROLOGUE (begin reading here)

The time is T.A. 3020. You are a young Beorning Ranger from the wilderness on the west edge of the great forest of Mirkwood, just south of the Old Forest Road. Months before, when you heard that Gondor was being assaulted by the minions of Sauron of Mordor, you gathered together your weapons and equipment and headed south, ignoring the objections raised by your elders. However, by the time you made the long and hazardous trip south to Minas Tirith, the War of the Rings had been decided: the Free People had emerged victorious over the forces of the Dark Lord.

After a brief stay in the great city, you decided to explore some of the lands to the south before heading home. You reasoned that these lands, recently freed from The Shadow, might provide adventure and treasure for those bold enough and clever enough to grasp them.

When you decided to stop at noon on the third day of your journey from Minas Tirith, the only habitation nearby was a small, isolated farm on the edge of the Anduin. A woman and small boy who greeted you seemed very nervous and agitated but also very grateful to have a guest. The woman told you that her husband was still with the Gondorian army but that he should be home any day now. She provided a delicious meal and refused to take any money.

NOTE: This material is what is known as a character's background or pre-history. It provides depth and motivation for the character and helps set the stage for the initial adventures. This information also assists the player in "role playing" his character (i.e., assuming the role of the character). This is especially important in a solo role playing adventure, because there is no Gamemaster. It is even more important when a pre-created character is being used, because the player lacks the benefit of actually creating his character. We now begin the actual adventure.

TEXT FOR THE CIVILIZED AREA

After the meal you sit back and say, "I really appreciate that wonderful meal, and I wish there was some way I could repay you."

Seizing upon your words, she quickly answers, "I was hoping you would be able to help us in a most urgent manner! This morning, just before you arrived, my daughter Tana was working in the fields when two Southrons from the defeated forces of the Dark Lord seized her and carried her off."

Turning to her young son, she says, "Taral saw it all and followed them as they carried her off. He says that they are camped in the old ruined tower overlooking the river, about a mile north of here. He overheard them say that they plan to take her south tonight and sell her into slavery."

"Please help us! I knew when I first saw you that you are our only hope," she cries as she grasps your hand.

- If you decide to help her, turn to 103.
- If you decide not to help her, turn to 102.

101 Time: 15
You decide the woman is just bluffing to save her daughter. As you leave the farm, you hear the woman shouting behind you, "You will die in great pain, and you'll spend your afterlife in even greater pain for not trying to save my daughter."

- If you change your mind and help her, turn to 103.
- Otherwise, Pick a number:
 - If 2-8, turn to 173.
 - If 9-12, turn to 169.

102

Time: 30

You say, "I'm sorry, but this is no concern of mine. I think that I will have to be going."

The young boy pipes up, "But they have treasure with them! I saw gold and jewels and magic swords and lots more! You have to help us and save Tana! Please!"

- If you decide to help the woman and her son, turn to 103.
- If you decide not to help, turn to 106.

103

Time: 30

You say, "I will help you madame. We must hurry!"

The woman sketches a rough map of the area for you (see below). She explains: "The ruined tower is on a bluff overlooking the river; it is partially collapsed and only has a single first floor room. The second floor is in ruins and is completely open to the air." Pointing to the map she says, "There are only three ways to approach the ruined tower. You can go north up the road and then along the path, you can sneak through the woods, or you can go down to the bottom of the bluff and climb up to the tower." Pick a number and add your Perception Bonus:

- If 2-7, turn to 107.
- If 8-12, turn to 104.

Time: 5

You notice the boy is following the conversation and seems to have something to add, but he is too shy to interrupt. When you prompt him, he blurts out: "Father told me once that there is a small, secret entrance at the base of the cliff. He told me to stay away from there because the stonework is very old and dangerous." Unfortunately, further questioning does not yield anymore information. Turn to 107.

NOTE: Making information and clues available to the players makes adventures more interesting and rewards clever play.

Time: 20

You draw your sword and rush at the woman, but she does not offer any resistance. You tell her and her son to stay at the table, and then frantically search the small farmhouse. In a small dish, you find some mushrooms, but nowhere can you find anything that might be an antidote. You threaten the woman and her son, but she laughs and says, "Only my daughter knows where the antidote grows; she's the one with herb knowledge in the family."

- If you decide to help her, turn to 103.
- If you decide she is bluffing and leave, turn to 101.

106

Time: 5

As you rise to go, the woman says in a hard voice, "Sit down, you young fool! Do you think I would take a chance at losing my only hope of saving my daughter? I put mushrooms containing a slow acting poison into the food you just wolfed down. If you don't take the antidote within 8 hours, you will die in great pain. Rescue my daughter, and I will rescue you from the poison."

- If you accept her offer, turn to 103.
- If you ignore her threats and leave, turn to 101.
- If you try to use force against her, turn to 105.

Time: 5

You are at the edge of the farm and you realize that time is crucial. If your time total reaches 240 minutes before you have reached the Southrons, your adventure ends and you are unsuccessful in your quest.

- If you decide to go along the road and approach the tower along the path, turn to 122.
- If you decide to sneak through the woods to the tower, turn to 115.
- If you decide to go along the river to the base of the bluff, turn to 124.

NOTE: This situation involving the woman and her son is representative of two common elements of role playing: beginning the adventure and action in a "civilized area". In a multi-player role playing adventure, this starting phase often consists of the characters meeting and taking on a common quest or goal. When more than one player are involved and each player takes the role of his (or her) character, these situations are very interesting.

You are about to enter a common second phase of a role playing adventure: "activity in the countryside," on the way to the "adventure site" involved in the quest/goal. (In this case, you approach the ruined tower.)

TEXT FOR THE COUNTRYSIDE

108

Time: 20

You run back up the road, scanning the woods to either side as you go. You make it all the way back to the farm before you realize that you will never find the little man. Turn to 107.

109

Time: 5

As you cross the stream, a wolf leaps from the brush and attacks you. You are surprised and must fight the wolf. Its melee OB is 0, its DB is 1, and its Endurance is 20.

- If you defeat the wolf, turn to 134.
- If you are defeated, turn to 172.
- If you run away, turn to 125.

110

Time: 40

You proceed along the edge of the river until you come to the spot where the bluff starts to rise; you can see the tower at the top. Unfortunately the river seems to be higher than normal and the water comes right up to the bottom of the bluff. It is not too deep here but the current is fairly strong. All in all, you think you can wade upstream.

- If you decide to wade upstream to the spot under the tower, turn to 126.
- If you decide to head into the woods towards the tower, turn to 134.

111

Time: 5

You see a small wagon loaded with hay coming towards you from the north. There appears to be a single farmer driving the wagon.

- If you stop and talk, thinking perhaps to enlist his aid, turn to 131.
- If you walk past him without stopping or speaking, turn to 132.
- If you attack him, turn to 127.

112

Time: 5

After proceeding down the road for a few minutes, you realize that you are missing 2 silver pieces and your dagger (mark them off on your Character Record). The little man picked your pocket!!

- If you turn around and go after him, turn to 108.
- If you proceed on, turn to 132.

113

Time: 10

Your foot slips on a submerged rock and you fall into the water. You frantically try to regain your feet. Pick a number and add your General bonus:

- If 2-8, turn to 120.
- If 9-12, turn to 130.

114

Time: 5

As you walk along the road, you see a small man in a brown cloak walking south towards you.

- If you stop and talk, thinking perhaps to enlist his aid, turn to 117.
- If you walk past him without stopping or speaking, turn to 129.
- If you attack him, turn to 121.

115

Time: 30

You move carefully and quietly through the unfamiliar woods. Pick a number and add your General bonus:

- If 2-8, turn to 125.
- If 9-12, turn to 123.

116

Time: 10

The wagon contains only hay, and the horse pulling it refuses to move without its master. You realize, with some embarrassment, that you have probably frightened the poor farmer half out of his wits. You have no choice but to move on. Turn to 132.

Time: 5

You approach the man and explain your mission, asking him for aid. Unfortunately the man seems to be very frail and actually staggers against you at one point, almost falling. However, he promises to spread word of what has happened and then moves along up the road. Pick a number and add your Perception bonus:

- If 2-8, turn to 112.
- If 9-12, turn to 119.

118

Time: 20

You manage to make it to shore, near the farm. You have lost half of your meals, your dagger, and your cloak. Turn to 107.

119

Time: 5

As the little man begins to head away, you realize that you are missing 2 silver pieces and your dagger. The little man picked your pocket!! You shout at him and draw your sword as you start towards him. He lets out a scream, drops three objects on the road, and takes off running into the woods with an amazing burst of speed. You realize that you will never catch him because you are laden with equipment. However, you find your dagger and 2 silver pieces where he dropped them. Turn to 132.

120

Time: 20

You continue to flounder and are quickly swept downstream towards the farm. Pick a number and add your General bonus:

- If 2-5, turn to 171.
- If 6-12, turn to 118.

121 Time: 5
When you draw your sword, the little man lets out a scream and runs off into the woods with an amazing burst of speed. You realize that you will never catch him because of your equipment. Turn to 132.

122 Time: 20
After you leave the farm, you quickly move down the road for about 20 minutes. Pick a number:

- If 2-5, turn to 114.
- If 6-9, turn to 111.
- If 10-12, turn to 132.

123 Time: 5
As you move through the woods, you come upon a small stream with a game trail leading down to it. Pick a number:

- If 2-7, turn to 134.
- If 8-12, turn to 109.

124 Time: 5
You make your way down to the river and then through the woods along the bank. As you move through the woods, you come upon a small stream with a game trail leading down to it. Pick a number:

- If 2-7, turn to 110.
- If 8-12, turn to 128.

NOTE: As a player(s) moves through the countryside, the Gamemaster usually checks (by picking a random number) to see if the player encounters anything unusual, interesting, or dangerous.

125 Time: 30
You are lost, but you keep moving, hoping to find the farm or the tower. Pick a number:

- If 2-6, turn to 123.
- If 7-12, turn to 107.

126 Time: 10
You carefully step into the water and begin wading upstream. Pick a number and add your General bonus:

- If 2-5, turn to 113.
- If 6-12, turn to 133.

127 Time: 5
As you draw your sword and approach the farmer and his wagon, he jumps off and sprints off into the woods.

- If you search the wagon, turn to 116.
- If you move on down the road, turn to 132.

128 Time: 5
As you cross the stream, a wolf leaps from the brush and attacks you. (It must be one of the remnants of the wolves that accompanied Sauron's forces in the War.) You are surprised and must fight the wolf. Its melee OB is 0, its DB is 1, and its Endurance is 20.

- If you defeat the wolf, turn to 110.
- If you are defeated, turn to 172.
- If you run away, turn to 125.

129 Time: 5
As you approach the little man, you notice how frail he looks. He actually staggers and bumps into you as you pass. He apologizes and moves on. Pick a number and add your Perception bonus:

- If 2-7, turn to 112.
- If 8-12, turn to 119.

130 Time: 10
You regain your feet and continue upstream. You lost half of your meals and your cloak. Turn to 133.

131 Time: 5
The farmer says that he can't help you, but he will see if he can find help up the road. Turn to 132.

132 Time: 20
After another 20 minutes on the road, you reach the path that runs east towards the river and the tower. You can barely make out the shape of the tower through the trees.

- If you walk down the path towards the tower, turn to 142.
- If you sneak along through the bushes near the edge of the path, turn to 151.

133 Time: 20
Eventually you make it to the base of the bluff directly under the tower which is over 50 feet above you. You find an indentation in the bluff with a large ledge level enough to walk on. The face of the bluff seems climbable; it is full of lots of good handholds.

- If you search the area, turn to 138.
- If you start to climb the bluff, turn to 156.

134 Time: 20
After a while you spot the tower ahead of you through the trees, and you carefully move towards it. Turn to 166.

NOTE: You have reached your objective, the tower and the area around it. In a role playing adventure this "adventure site" is the location where most of the action takes place. It is usually the place that contains the object of the quest/goal.

TEXT FOR THE ADVENTURE SITE (The Tower)

135 Time: 5
You hear a sharp click inside the rock and know that you have set off a trap. A section of the bluff above the handle breaks loose and buries the section of rock with the handle as you dive away trying to avoid the avalanche. Pick a number and add your General bonus:

- If 2-5, turn to 168.
- If 6-12, turn to 160.

136 Time: 5
You make it all the way to the door of the tower without alerting your foes. The door seems to be unsecured, since it has neither lock nor latch.

- If you draw your weapon and charge into the room, turn to 158.
- If you open the door in order to peer inside, turn to 146.

137 Time: 5
You have defeated the first Southron, but you hear the second one descending from the roof. You rush over to the girl, throw her over your shoulder, and run for the door and safety. Turn to 175.

138 Time: 5
You examine the base of the bluff, which is made of solid granite, but cannot find anything special. Pick a number and add your Perception bonus:

- If 2-7, turn to 153.
- If 8-12, turn to 165.

139 Time: 5
While you were fighting the first Southron, the second one climbed down a rickety ladder from the roof. You must fight him. The Southron has a scimitar and a shield. He has a Melee OB of 2, a DB of 0, and an Endurance of 30. See Section B-2 for the combat rules and table.

- If you defeat him, turn to 176.
- If you are defeated, turn to 170.
- If you successfully run away, turn to 174.

140 Time: 5
You reach the top of the bluff and the tower. The tower has a hole in its six foot thick wall facing the river. You climb up into the hole and look into the tower. Turn to 146.

141 Time: 5
At the top of the staircase you find a small secret door that opens silently. It is set into the back of a fireplace in a dimly lit room on the first floor of the tower. You crouch behind a Southron, reclining in a chair with feet propped on a broken table. He appears to be asleep. On the other side of the room you see a small girl, bound and gagged.

- If you draw your weapon and charge into the room, turn to 152.
- If you silently attack the Southron from behind, turn to 162.
- If you attempt to sneak into the room and rescue the girl without fighting, turn to 155.

142 Time: 10
You boldly walk down the path toward the tower. Pick a number:

- If 2-10, turn to 157.
- If 11-12, turn to 136.

143 Time: 5
You quietly begin to move towards the sleeping Southron. Pick a number and add your Trickery bonus:

- If 2-8, you make a slight noise, turn to 152.
- If 9-12, turn to 162.

144 Time: 10
About half the way up you panic, slip, and fall. Pick a number and add your General bonus:

- If 2-5, turn to 168.
- If 6-12, turn to 160.

145 Time: 5
You do not see any sign of life in the tower.

- If you walk out onto the path and openly approach the tower, turn to 142.
- If you sneak through the bushes towards the door, Turn to 164.

146 Time: 5
As you peer into the dimly lit room, you see a small girl, bound, gagged, and lying on the floor. On the other side of the room a Southron sits in a chair with his feet on a rickety table and his chin on his chest; he appears to be asleep.

- If you draw your weapon and charge into the room, turn to 158.
- If you attempt to sneak up on the Southron and ambush him, turn to 143.
- If you attempt to sneak into the room and rescue the girl without fighting, turn to 155.

147 Time: 5
You detect that the handle has a trap attached to it. You think that the trap may start a rock slide.

- If you pull on the handle, turn to 135.
- If you try to disarm the trap, turn to 167.
- Otherwise, you must climb the bluff, turn to 156.

148 Time: 5
As you burst into the first floor room of the tower, you see a small girl bound, gagged, and lying on the floor. You also see a Southron grinning wickedly and advancing towards you with a drawn scimitar. You must fight him. Turn to 154.

149 Time: 5
You see the Southron leap to his feet. He lets out a yell and draws his weapon. You must fight him. Turn to 154.

150 Time: 5
Your attempt at neutralizing the trap seems to have worked. You pull on the handle and a small door opens in the face of the bluff. You see a spiral staircase leading up inside of the bluff.

- If you climb the staircase, turn to 141.
- Otherwise, you must climb the bluff, turn to 156.

151 Time: 20
You begin to slowly and carefully work your way through the bushes towards the tower. Pick a number and add your Trickery bonus:

- If 2-6, turn to 157.
- If 7-12, turn to 166.

152 Time: 5
The Southron leaps to his feet, letting out a yell and drawing his weapon. You have surprised him; increase your OB by 2 for your first two attacks. You must fight him. Turn to 154.

153 Time: 20
Finding nothing unusual, you begin to climb the bluff. Turn to 156.

154 Time: 5
The Southron has a scimitar and a shield. He normally has a Melee OB of 1, a DB of 1, and an Endurance of 25. See Section B-2 for the combat rules and table.

- If you defeat him with 3 attacks or less, turn to 137.
- If you defeat him but it takes more than 3 attacks, turn to 139.
- If you are defeated, turn to 170.
- If you successfully run away, turn to 174.

155 Time: 5
You quietly begin to move towards the girl. Pick a number and add your Trickery bonus:

- If 2-6, you make a slight noise, turn to 149.
- If 7-12, turn to 159.

156 Time: 5
You begin to climb the bluff, carefully moving from handhold to handhold. Pick a number and add your General bonus:

- If 2-6, turn to 144.
- If 7-12, turn to 140.

157 Time: 5
When you get about 30 feet from the door to the tower, you hear a shout from its top. You look up and see a Southron looking at you and brandishing a scimitar. You can no longer hope to approach unseen.

- If you run away, turn to 174.
- If you rush up to the door prepared to fight, turn to 148.

158 Time: 5
As you burst into the first floor room of the tower, you see a small girl bound and lying on the floor on one side, and a Southron sitting in a chair on the other side. Turn to 152.

159 Time: 5
You reach the girl without disturbing the Southron; she is unconscious. Now comes the hard part; you must pick up the girl, throw her over your shoulder, and sneak out. Pick a number and add your Trickery bonus:

- If 2-8, you make a slight noise; turn to 149.
- If 9-12, turn to 175.

160 Time: 60
You are knocked out, but you wake up after a while. Pick a number and increase your damage taken by twice that amount. Realizing that time is growing short, you begin climbing the bluff. Turn to 156.

161 Time: 5
You see a single Southron on the edge of the top of the tower. He seems to be dozing, leaning against one of the ruined walls. You realize that he is probably the only lookout. Keeping your eye on the him, you sneak through the bushes towards the door to the tower. Pick a number and add your Trickery bonus:

- If 2-5, turn to 157.
- If 6-12, turn to 136.

162 Time: 5
You are in a good position behind the sleeping Southron. You may add both your melee OB and your Trickery bonus to your first two attacks. In addition, your foe's DB is -3 for your first attack. Turn to 154.

163 Time: 5
You detect nothing unusual about the handle.
• If you pull on the handle, turn to 135.
• Otherwise, you must climb the bluff, turn to 156.

164 Time: 5
You realize that waiting will probably not do any good, so you begin sneaking towards the door of the tower. Pick a number and add your Trickery bonus:

- If 2-7, turn to 157.
- If 8-12, turn to 136.

165 Time: 20
In one of the many niches you find what appears to be a handle. Pick a number and add your Perception bonus:

- If 2-7, turn to 163.
- If 8-12, turn to 147.

166 Time: 5
You make it to a point about 50 feet from the tower without being spotted. From there you can see the entire tower; it is exactly as the woman described it. Pick a number and add your Perception bonus:

- If 2-7, turn to 145.
- If 8-12, turn to 161.

167 Time: 5
You carefully take the wire attached to the handle and try to attach it to a piece of your rope that you tie to a nearby rock. You hope that this will keep the wire taut and the trap inactive. Pick a number and add your Trickery bonus:

- If 2-6, turn to 135.
- If 7-12, turn to 150.

168 Time: 5
You are knocked out. When you awaken, it is dark. Your mission is over. You may try again.

169 Time: variable
After spending the afternoon hiking south, you camp for the night. However, you wake up in the middle of the night with incredible pains in your abdomen; the woman was not bluffing. You die after an hour of excruciating pain. This adventure is over for you. You may begin again if you wish.

170 Time: 5
As you fall before the Southron's scimitar, you realize that you have failed and will pay for your failure. Your mission is over. You may try again.

171 Time: 10
You are swept out into the deep water and drown. Your mission is over. You may try again.

172 Time: 5
As you fall, you realize that you have failed. Your mission is over. You may try again.

173 Time: variable
After you spend the afternoon hiking south, you camp for the night. The next morning you wake up refreshed and healthy; the woman was bluffing. You may continue south, but this adventure is over for you. You may begin again if you wish.

174 Time: 5
You sprint to the road and run south for a while; you outdistance any pursuit. However, when you return to the tower, the Southrons have fled. Your mission has failed. You may try again.

175 Time: 5
You make it out of the door and into the woods, you have saved the girl and completed your mission. Congratulations! See the note below. The End.

176 Time: 5
The Southrons lay defeated at your feet. Flush with victory, you free the girl and gather up the Southrons equipment (20 silver pieces, 2 scimitars, 1 shield, a bow and 20 arrows, 15 meals, and two backpacks). You have saved the girl and completed your mission. Congratulations! The End.

NOTE: At the end of an adventure like this, the Gamemaster would normally award Experience Points as a reward for the successful completion of a quest/goal and various actions and feats accomplished (see the MERP rules). The Gamemaster would also handle details like the happy family reunion, the antidote for the poison (if any), the disposition of the prisoners, and any reward offered you.

A BEGINNING MULTI-PLAYER ADVENTURE

M-1 STARTING THE ADVENTURE

The following adventure is designed to help a Gamemaster learn some of the finer points of running a game session for one or more players. Complete and ready to run, it can be set up in a few minutes and played in a few hours. Extensive notes provide the Gamemaster with a commentary laced with tips intended to illuminate key aspects of a good FRP adventure.

Since this adventure is a learning tool, it is more structured than a normal FRP scenario. The players' options are limited to but a few choices, since they are accompanied by detailed instructions to the Gamemaster regarding the handling of play. In this way the Gamemaster can get a grip on dealing with specific situations without having to work too hard. The sample adventure in the MERP rules book is a more typical and less restrictive adventure.

The Six Parts of the Adventure

This adventure, which is entitled The Loons of the Long Fell, contains six parts:

- (1) The Players — which provides a sampling of pre-generated characters, including their history, physical traits, and peculiarities, from which the gamers may choose a player-character (PC) of their choice;
- (2) The Tale — which describes the setting and covers the background and plot;
- (3) The NPCs — a character-by-character description of the prominent non-player characters;
- (4) The Sites — a level-by-level, room-by-room description of each adventure site, complete with numbered diagrams, floorplans, and illustrations;
- (5) The Task — a discussion of how to start the adventure, along with the aids, clues, obstacles, and rewards awaiting the adventurers; and
- (6) The Encounters — which cover typical or probable meetings between the adventurers and the NPCs.

Starting Play

Skim each section of the adventure before speaking with the players. Pay particular attention to (1) the physical nature of the starting point in the setting, (2) the plot outlined in the tale, (3) the principal non-player character (NPC) adversaries, and, most importantly, (4) the task.

Then get together privately with each player. Address the player's desires concerning the character's nature and background. Afterwards, assign the player a pregenerated character drawn from the list given in section M-3. Review the character's history and any physical traits or peculiarities.

At this point, the individual player characters (PCs) are ready for adventure. The Gamemaster should turn to section M-7.1 and reread the material on "Starting the PCs." Gather the players together and begin by describing the setting at the starting point. (Turn to section M-6.1 for a detailed description.) Welcome to Middle-earth.

M-2 THE LOONS OF THE LONG FELL

The Loons of the Long Fell is set along the southeastern edge of the Coldfells of Eriador, beside the Trollshaws and just north of the River Bruinen. This location makes it an ideal introduction to, and companion for, the adventure found in Part III of the MERP rules book. The small area map in section M-6 shows the relationship of the three adventure sites in the region. Still, the Gamemaster should feel free to move the adventure site to another area of Middle-earth if desired.

M-3 THE PLAYERS

The next few pages contain descriptions of six pregenerated characters for the players to use as player characters (PCs). Character record sheets are provided after each description, enabling the Gamemaster to photocopy the page covering a given PC. Each player should have his own character sheet before beginning the adventure.

Since this is an introductory adventure, the skill and stat bonuses on the character sheets are already totaled for the player. In addition, names common to the PC's races are provided for each character, but the players should feel free to make up their own.

M-3.1 PC #1 (MUTFAST STRANGFOOT)

Mutfast Strangfoot is a sober young Hobbit from the Marish in the Shire. Little is known about Mutfast, or “Mut” as he is oft-times called, since he is an exceptionally careful sort of fellow, given to never getting into trouble. In fact, most folk consider him industrious and rather bland.

Quiet, careful, and keen of ear, Mut is fond of listening to gossip and intrigues alike. He never speaks or acts rashly and rarely utters what is on his mind, but he has a bit of larceny in his soul and has lived through many an adventure in his vivid daydreams. It is the glint in his eye that stirs the Marish women. A few of the old folk suspect that Mut is a bit bent, perhaps even a crook, but those in his family know the truth. Mut is the sort of Hobbit that likes to hide from passersby, the type that solves puzzles when no one is looking.

His most distinguishing feature is one common to his small family. Like all of the Strangfoots, he has an unusual left foot which, in Mut’s case, is adorned with curly blond hair. This oddity gave birth to Mut’s nickname: “Whitfoot.”

Mut recently left home and went to Bree in search of his eccentric great-uncle Boffo Strangfoot. Armed with an antique (+5) Dwarfish mace, a fine (+15) Mannish dagger, a sling, a spare dagger, and his father’s (+10) bluish hide shield (weight 5 lbs.), Mut took to the road hoping to join Boffo in the quest to find the ancient Strangfoot home. But Boffo wasn’t in Bree, so Mut headed eastward toward the Last Inn with but one clue to abide by. Old Boffo is supposedly somewhere up in the Coldfells.

M-3.2 PC #2 (WILHAET BREM)

Wilhaet Brem hails from a village near Fornost in Arthedain. The son of a battle-scarred veteran of the wars against the Corsairs, he was brought up in a warrior's household. It was hardly surprising when he announced that he wanted to be a soldier.

Brem's family, however, has long had a feud with the local Lord; so, like his old father Wsirinc Brem, young Brem sought service elsewhere. He took the Great East Road eastward toward the Last Inn, where rumor said recruiters from the South often stayed.

Brem is a jovial lad with a fiery temper. He loves to laugh and savors a good contest. Given to fighting, he makes a contest out of the simplest of disputes.

Brem carries a (+10) yew longbow and his great-grandfather's (+15) magic broadsword, "Wolf-slayer." Inlaid in silver and housed in a blue silk-covered scabbard, it is a noble weapon which slays Wolves and Dogs (on a roll of 01-50) and grows warm when within 10' of any Wolf tracks.

M-3.3 PC #3 (ALF MEP)

Alf Mep is a quick fellow. Born to a shepherd's family near Fennas Drúnin in southern Rhudaur, he learned the value of swiftness while but a child of seven. When his flock was threatened by marauding Hillmen, young Alf ran two miles to warn the townsfolk of the attack. His valor saved over half the Fennas Drúnin's sheep and prevented an assault on the town itself. The lad earned the title "Fast Alf."

Alf tired of life as a shepherd, however, so at the wise old age of nineteen he trudged northward in search of adventure. His goal was the lost treasure of the Low Road Brigands, a hoard ascribed to a possibly-mythical group of renegade Dúnadain.

Alf carries a special heirloom, the (+10) magic "Shepherd's Sword." This 55" two hand sword takes three forms: one, a straight beech staff; the second, a spear-like staff; and third, a glistening golden blade with a black leather hilt. A simple command ("change") results in the sword's immediate transformation according to the wielder's choice, so Alf uses the weapon as his walking staff. Aside from his (+10) dagger and long bow, it is Alf's only weapon. Alf likes to travel light and scoffs at the thought of donning armor or adopting a shield.

M-3.4 PC #4 (NENIEL)

Born in Mithlond, the "Grey Havens," Neniël is a young Sinda Elf. She is a spirited and fair-featured Ranger whose parents traveled from the remote wilds of the Northern Waste only thirty years ago. Her heritage is one of adventure, exploration, and intrigue.

Last Spring, while Neniël was encamped in the Valley of Dwarves about sixty leagues north of her home, she came across a Dwarf named Nari. After a typically awkward encounter by a spring (for Dwarves and Elves are uneasy allies), Neniël warmed to the stout Warrior and talked of her dreams. Nari spoke of tales of Dragon-hoards in the far-off Misty Mountains and the two shared a starlit meal.

Nari's tale fascinated Neniël, for she had always wanted to travel eastward to the lands of her kinsmen. The treasures about which the Dwarf spoke recalled the tales she learned as a child. So, when Nari left later that evening Neniël resolved to seek the place the Warrior called the "Last Inn." Following a brief visit home, Neniël packed a few things and set out along the Great East Road. She arrived at the Last Inn this morning.

Neniël wears blue-grey garb and carries a fine (+15) long bow, a broadsword, and a dagger. Her magic silver ring, a gift from her mother, enables her to cast two extra spells each day (i.e., it is a +2 spell adder). She is well-equipped for travails of the wilderness.

M-3.5 PC #5 (PARIEL)

Pariel is a Dúnadan Mage, the youngest daughter of the Mannish consul to the Elven Kingdom of Lindon. Spoiled yet compassionate, beautiful yet rugged, and wild yet wise beyond her years, she is a formidable lass.

More than a few men courted Pariel, but it was Enach, a Dúnadan Lord from Gondor, who won her heart. He found Pariel's many charms overwhelming and married the youthful Mage when she was but nineteen. It was a glorious match. Unfortunately, their sparkling betrothal lasted less than two weeks. Enach was slain by brigands on the road south of Bree, as the wedding party headed south toward Gondor.

Enach's death overwhelmed his young widow. Rather than return home to the Grey Havens, she brooded at Bree for over a week. Then, when her compatriots were asleep, she lit from her lodgings and rode eastward along the Great East Road in pursuit of the trail of her husband's murderers. A clue connecting the identity of the thieves to the legends of the Low Road Brigands spurred her toward the Last Inn in Rhudaur.

Pariel bears the tools to exact her revenge. Her small, (+10) sapphire-inlaid, magic wand doubles her spell-casting power (i.e., she has x2 PP) and also enables her to cast up to three Shock Bolts a day without expending PPs (see the Light Law spell list on the Base Mage lists). Her magic (+10) dagger can be thrown fifty feet without any (OB) penalty and returns to her hand the following round.

M-3.6 PC #6 (NARI)

Nari is a Dwarf from the Nan-i-Naugrim, the “Valley of Dwarves,” in the eastern Blue Mountains. The eldest son of the renowned Warrior Bari, he was schooled in arts of war from his earliest days. He has always been a tough, pugnacious fighter who rejoices in a good combat.

Nari is also grim and suspicious of the motives of all but his closest kin and family friends. The sole exception was an Elf-maiden named Neniël, who reminded him of the description of the Elf Arien who saved his father many years ago.

Nari left home last year in search of gold and jewels to bolster his family's wealth. The collapse of their mine claimed Nari's brother and left the family with little income. So Nari, being the eldest, took it upon himself to embark on a quest to restore their fortunes. The young Warrior marched off toward the Last Inn near the Misty Mountains, hoping to secure word of a Dragon's treasure.

Nari wears the magic Elven chainmail (which protects him like plate armor) that was given to his father by Arien. In addition, he bears a stout (+10) shield, a superb (+15) war hammer, a hand axe, and a pair of daggers. His green hood cloaks his helm, which bristles with a Dragon-head cowl.

M-4 THE TALE

The Tale provides an overview of the background and setting of the adventure. It is the storyline or plot. Deliberately vague as to time, the Tale intended to be appropriate for a game set in the mid to late Third Age.

GM NOTE: When beginning the adventure and starting the players, the Gamemaster (GM) should read all of sections M-4.1 and M-4.2 and relate the information to the player characters (PCs), describing things from Cigfa's point of view. Leave out those details which are noted as secrets and take care not to divulge the information in section M-4.3, for this part of the story remains unknown.

M-4.1 THE LOW ROAD BRIGANDS

In now-gone times, when the High Men of Arnor made homes of citadels set high in the Fell-land of Rhudaur, Petty-dwarves still roamed the region. They were a scorned race, few in number and altogether lacking friends or allies.

These diminutive and twisted relatives of the sturdy Dwarves hid in the rugged highlands along the northwestern flanks of the Misty Mountains. There, they carved caves and tunnels out of the soft rock and sheltered themselves from their many enemies. The Petty-dwarves were a tortured lot.

Despite their seclusion, the Petty-dwarves eventually disappeared from the Fell-land, leaving few traces of their crafts. Only an occasional cave, mine, or tunnel served to remind their mannish heirs of their age-old presence.

The Coming of Talin Loech

About a century ago an unsavory Hillman from Rhudaur named Talin Loech stumbled across one of the Petty-dwarves' greatest works, the "Low Road." This ancient tunnel was hewn from a natural aqueduct and ran east-northeasterly from the Trollshaws to Coldfells.

Talin resolved to explore this wonder and gathered his henchmen for a sortie into the depths of the highlands. The band of brigands spent weeks tracing the narrow course. Their journey covered over thirty leagues (about 100 miles), beginning at the Old Spring and ending at the Low Lake beneath Long Fell. After they had uncovered most of the secrets of this crude but noble subterranean highway, Talin's men agreed to use the tunnel as a lair from which to strike out at commerce along the main roads of Rhudaur. They made their camp at the Old Spring and set up resting sites and traps along the Low Road, so that they could escape to Low Lake if they were threatened. Once settled, the Low Road Brigands embarked on a series of raids which all but halted trade along the neighboring highways. The ruthless bandits earned a reputation for savagery along with a fortune in gems and coin.

The End of the Low Road Brigands

All the while, the Lords of Rhudaur were unable to find Talin's band, regardless of the number of warriors they sent forth into the wilds. Traces of tracks led the pursuers to the hills near the Old Spring, but all the signs disappeared on the hard rock surface of the Fell-land. Two years of unbridled brigandry passed.

It was then that Arbragol of Tharbad came to Rhudaur. An accomplished Warrior, he had successfully stalked some of Cardolan's most dangerous bandits and had earned a reputation of being a relentless manhunter. He assembled a party at the Last Inn on the Great East Road and conceived a plan to trap the Low Road Brigands.

A week later, Arbragol's warriors ambushed Talin's band about ten miles north of the Last Inn. Only one of the brigands escaped; the rest perished in a hail of arrows, dying with the secret of the Low Road. Talin's treasure was never recovered.

The Last Brigand

Delin Bairg was sole survivor among Talin's men. Separated from his companions, he had eluded Arbragol's trap. His lack of training kept him from keeping pace with the band, but it proved to be his good fortune. Delin rode north into Trollshaws alone and bewildered, in search of refuge.

Unfortunately, Delin never learned the way to the Old Spring, nor did he know of the northern entry to the Low Road. His tenure with Talin had been too short. Delin wandered for weeks without discovering the access back into the tunnel where his companions had stowed their fortune. The sorrow that accompanied the loss of his friends grew deeper with each day of the solitary search. When the biting snows of late autumn swept down from the Coldfells and carpeted the rugged Trollshaws, Delin abandoned his futile quest.

Years later Delin returned to his search, this time with his cousin Manawidan Bairg. The pair documented their journey in a series of poems. They may well have discovered the way back to the Low Road, but most of their secrets perished when they were slain by Trolls.

M-4.2 THE LEGEND OF THE KINE'S HORN

Not long ago, a descendant of Manawidan Bairg — an old woman called Cigfa Bairg — stumbled upon a story about a magic horn. It was a legend concerning a treasure which contained the white Kine's Horn, an instrument of untold value. The enchanted horn's loud or silent call could reputedly reach for many leagues, stirring the hearts of friends and striking fear into the souls of enemies.

What struck Cigfa most, however, was the fact that the horn had been stolen in Rhudaur by bandits resembling Talin's men. Cigfa resolved that the Kine's Horn rested with the treasure hidden at the end of the Low Road. Excited, she read further, looking for a clue as to where the horn lay. The only clue was a poem:

*"Upon a lake, beside a fell,
Away from trees, the birds tell,
On Summer nights, of a well.
At Low Lake, the Horn lay,
Resting calm, until the day,
When the bandit's heir comes to stay."*

Cigfa cursed her crippled legs, for she knew that the words were those of her great uncle Manawidan. Talin's treasure was within reach, but remained beyond her means. So, Cigfa sought agents who might pursue her dream and rescue the fortune she had coveted since childhood. The next day she traveled to the Last Inn on the Great East Road. There, she was sure to find adventurers who might suit her needs.

GM NOTE: Cigfa is aware of the details of the Tale up to this point and, as noted, will relate the story to the PCs. (See Section M-7.2 for more on starting the PCs.) She does not know of the information in the following section (M-4.3).

Cigfa Bairg

M-4.3 THE LAKE AND THE LOST TREASURE

The treasure that Delin sought, and Cigfa now seeks, lies at Low Lake, a virtually underground pool nestled at the base of Long Fell. Low Lake served as the northern terminus of the Low Road and provided Talin's brigands with ample fresh water in times of refuge. There they made their principal home, and there they stored their plunder.

The Fell Stair

Low Lake can only be reached via two routes. The first, the Low Road, enters the cavern that houses the lake from the southwest. A narrow door and stairway connect the tunnel to the cave at the point where the Low Lake spills over a fall and empties into an inaccessible underground stream.

GM NOTE: The southern entrance to the Low Road is at the Old Spring, but the passage has collapsed about a hundred yards in, making this route impassable. This leaves only one effective way to reach Low Lake. (See the map below.)

DESIGN NOTE: Such an event is a convenient design technique used to channel a group to a given place. The collapse narrows the PCs' alternatives without disturbing the flavor of the setting. It is used here because of the limited nature of the adventure.

The second way into the lake's chamber is less circuitous. It is a stair cut into the face of Long Fell. Shrubs and trees conceal this route, for where the sheer cliff of the fell meets the surrounding terrain, a bank of greenery covers what looks like the base. In reality, however, the foot of Long Fell is two hundred feet below the apparent base. The pines and cedars shroud a six-foot wide opening along the cliff, a gash in the earth which serves as the mouth of the chamber which holds Low Lake. The lake itself is tucked along the bottom of Long Fell, inside the cave that hides beneath the cliff. Only two feet wide, the so-called Fell Stair angles steeply through the cleft and winds down to the shore of the lake in the chamber below.

Talin's Treasury

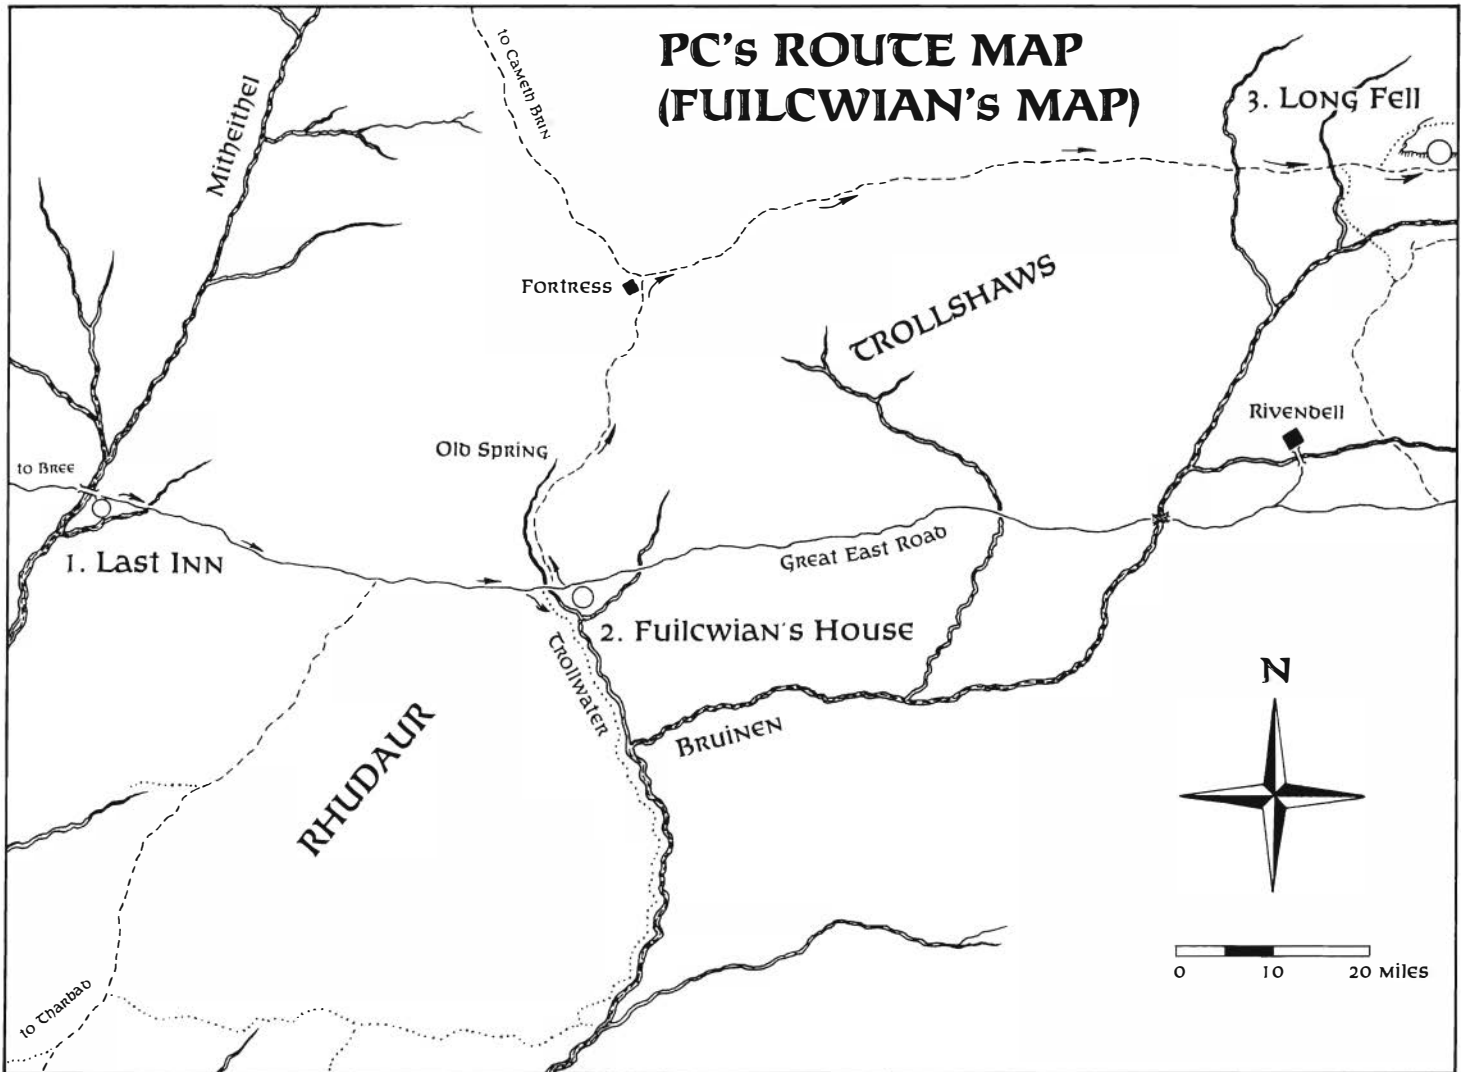

The Low Road Brigands stored their treasure, including the Kine's Horn, in a stone vault built by the Petty-dwarves on an islet in the middle of Low Lake. This two-chamber vault sat only a hundred and fifty feet from the bottom of the Fell Stair, but was protected by the watery moat. Yet this was not the sole defense. Traps guarded the vault's interior, and beside the vault Talin's men also erected a cairn made from the bones of an ancient beast, a giant turtle. The superstitious band felt that the arrangement possessed a magical power which charmed the cool, dark waters of the Low Lake.

The Loons

Indeed, there is a special quality about the lake water. Each Spring loons congregate here, making the pool their home until the late Fall. These nimble, foot-propelled, diving birds love the icy water and make nests out of the floating debris that falls from above. Their nocturnal calls echo through the chamber like the cry of an eerie choir and, at dusk or dawn, the muffled chorus resounds through the forest near Long Fell. It is a beautiful, haunting sound. As Talin would no doubt have it, the loons are the only living guardians of his treasure.

GM NOTE: The reference to "the birds tell" in Manawidan's poem relates to the loons. By following their cry, the PCs will find the cleft along Long Fell and the Fell Stair which leads down to the Low Lake.

DESIGN NOTE: The use of poems and legends enables the GM to present clues in a puzzle-like form that captures some of texture of the setting. PCs have an opportunity to solve mysteries, but are presented with a flavorful challenge.

M-5 THE NPCs

The Trollshaws and Coldfells of Rhudaur are beautiful but unforgiving highlands, colored in an astounding array of cool hues and marked by row upon row of stair-like grey cliffs. Few folk roam these wilds. Only hunters, outcasts, and isolated Hillmen make their homes in the Fell-land.

Aside from the travellers and innkeepers at the Last Inn, three loners compose the primary non-player characters (NPCs) in this adventure. Each is related to a member of the Low Road Brigands and has a vested interest in Talin's treasure. The first is Cigfa Bairg, who is responsible for prompting the party into seeking the cache at Low Lake. Next comes her distant cousin Malm Bairg, a dangerous herder who unwittingly holds a clue to the location of the pool below Long Fell. Finally, there is Taim Loech, Talin's great-grandson. Taim has discovered the treasure, and he guards its whereabouts with a savage zeal.

GM NOTE: Normally, an adventure might involve any number of NPCs, since the PCs have a plethora of options and could encounter virtually any accessible person in the region. In such a case, the GM should document all the folk who might have an impact on the PCs and their adventure. The stronger an NPC, or the more likely it is that the PCs encounter him, the more critical it is that the GM sketch out the NPC's stats and traits. This adventure is more limited in scope, so we have limited the NPCs the party can encounter to three individuals.

The three descriptions that follow incorporate most of the elements a GM needs to outline when conceiving an NPC. Each individual's appearance, level, profession, demeanor, goals, and equipment are all listed.

M-5.1 CIGFA BAIRG

Cigfa Bairg is an old (3rd lvl) Dunnish Bard who was crippled as a child by a fall she incurred while running from a war-party from Angmar. To this day she leans on her gnarled (magic) staff as if it were a lifeline. (It is, after all, a x3 PP multiplier which adds +5 to all her spell attacks/rolls.) Her stoop reinforces her short (5'3") profile. Troubled, bitter, and somewhat mean, she has little love for others. Cigfa shares her disregard of life with virtually all of the Bairg line.

The Bairg blood also colors her appearance. Like the rest of her family, Cigfa has dark red hair, piercing green eyes, and small ears. Her wide, wrinkled face and pointed chin give her a wizened look. It is a disconcerting countenance. Unflattering attire completes the image of a woman who long ago lost any concern for outer beauty.

One thing does fascinate her, however, and that is the Kine's Horn. She (rightly) believes it to be a powerful bardic artifact which will enable her to weave enchantments with magic notes. Her hunger for it will not abate. So, Cigfa seeks a means, any means, to acquire the horn.

Cigfa's plan involves duping a party of young adventurers into braving the wilds of Rhudaur and journeying to Long Fell in the southern Coldfells. Using the clues from her late uncle Manawidan's poem, she believes the party can find Low Lake and claim Talin's treasure. The treasure is her lure, for all she wants is the precious white Kine's Horn. To this end, Cigfa has traveled to the Last Inn in search of candidates for her ploy.

M-5.2 MALM BAIRG

Malm Bairg is Cigfa's remote cousin. A Dunnish herder, he, his brother Laer, and their sons Cles and Ondurs tend a flock of sheep in the ruins of an ancient hillfort that overlooks the Teregenen (S. "Trollwater"), a tributary of the river Bruinen (S. "Loudwater") that flows through the southern Trollshaws. Their otherwise placid routine is punctuated by the nocturnal plundering of their neighbor's herds, raids which have resulted in more than one murder. Malm and his lot are a dangerous group. (In reality, Malm and Laer are both 3rd lvl Dunlending Warriors.)

Unlike Cigfa, Malm does not look like a Bairg. Short (5'2"), blond-haired, and cheery-eyed, he has the guise of a sprite-like hill-spirit. His colorful checked pants and striped jerkins lend him a festive quality which belies the furor that drives his soul.

Malm is the direct descendant of Manawidan Bairg and is the heir to the oral legends associated with Manawidan's quest for Talin's treasure. These vague stories have magnified the herder's already-considerable greed. But Malm has had no clue as to the whereabouts of Low Lake, so he has scoffed at pursuing Manawidan's dream — until now.

Recently Cles Bairg, Malm's son, returned from a long trip to Bree. Cles roomed at the Last Inn on his way home, where he met Cigfa and learned of her proposals. The lad refused the old woman's offer without revealing their blood-ties and, a few nights later, he told his father Malm of her plan to uncover a treasure in the Coldfells. Malm realized that Cigfa had somehow discovered Talin's hoard, so the herder developed a plan to follow her lead. The next day Malm set out for the inn. Once there, he began a watch over Cigfa, intending to shadow any party she might send out to retrieve the treasure that had long ago eluded his ancestor.

GM NOTE: Thus, Malm intends to follow the PCs on their journey to find the Low Lake. Once there, the PCs are no longer necessary to Malm's plot, and the herder will attempt to steal the treasure by any means possible — including killing the PCs. But, like the PCs, Malm is unaware of the presence of Taim Loech (see M-5.3).

Normally, an NPC who tracks the PCs would have to continually make rolls for tracking maneuvers or, if in visual contact, stalking maneuvers. In such a case, whenever Malm came within eye- or earshot of the party, the PCs would get a chance to discover him if they made a successful perception roll. (See 2.32 of the MERP rule book for more on these maneuvers.) For the purposes of this introductory adventure, however, we suggest the GM simply let Malm successfully follow the party.

Never above slaying a rival, Malm carries the weapons necessary to extract the booty from an unwitting foe. His (+15) magic short-sword has an invisible blade which gives Malm an extra bonus (+20 OB or DB) during the first round of any melee. A pair of Elven Boots of Leaping enable him to instantly leap 25 feet in any direction up to two times a day.

M-5.3 TAIM LOECH

Taim Loech stands in the way of the plans of both Cigfa and Malm. The (4th lvl) Dunlending Ranger is the guardian of his great-grandfather's treasure and now resides in a small cave that overlooks the top of the Fell Stair (the best entry to the Low Lake cavern). While he hopes to eventually move the treasure to his home at Pedol Brin in eastern Rhudaur, Taim now bides his time.

Taim stands a full six feet in height and is strong of build. His rugged features, light beard, and long, reddish-brown hair are typical of a Dunnish nobleman, suggesting that Taim and his ancestor Talin Loech sprang from royal roots. The Ranger's practical clothes do little justice to his otherwise imposing figure.

Taim is a cool, almost aloof loner who lost his wife and children to sickness a score of years ago. His sorrow is deep-seated and drives him to regard animals, rather than Men, as his fondest friends. His constant companion is a frightening Wild Boar called Muc, a pugnacious beast who sports finely-worked copper sheathing on his long, sharp tusks. They make fine partners: Taim the hunter, and Muc the gatherer. Muc likes to root out tubers and stalk berry bushes while Taim plays morose tunes on his wooden flute.

Taim's flute is more than a mere musical instrument. It houses strong magic (and serves as a +2 spell adder). When played, all folk within a 25' radius must resist its power (1 RR versus a 2nd lvl Channeling spell) or they will become confused and unable to act (for 1-10 rds). The Ranger is well-protected against ambushes when he is lost in music.

Besides his flute, Taim carries a pair of daggers, a hand axe, and a (+20) yew longbow. Each is a well-crafted heirloom, borne down through many generations. In addition to his spells, they provide the Ranger with a considerable arsenal with which to defend his supposed legacy.

GM NOTE: Taim and his Boar Muc are the PCs' obvious adversaries, while Malm is a less noticeable foe. Malm will no doubt be pleased with the death of Taim and Muc, but he hopes that the two will weaken the PCs' party before they perish. After all, it will make Malm's task much easier.

Muc the Boar has been added to illustrate two factors critical to most good adventures. The first is that familiar animals can be dangerous and exciting adversaries whose very presence makes a setting seem all the more real. After all, they serve as a link to our own world. A simple encounter with a potentially trying animal can be as much fun as a struggle against some hideous creature. We have included Muc so that the GM can employ such an encounter without having to worry about the (mostly random) rendezvous with animals which are inherent in most scenarios.

The second factor is that a combination of an NPC with an animal companion can present a serious obstacle. Most animals rely on well-developed senses (e.g., a Dog's or, in this case, a Boar's sense of smell) which give them certain advantages. Muc, for instance, might smell a PC that neither he or Taim can see. In turn, Taim's eyes and wit make up for many of Muc's shortcomings.

M-5.4 FUILCWIAN

GM NOTE: Unlike Malm and Taim, Fuilcwian might actually aid the PCs. He is no friend of Cigfa, however, and could prove to be a dangerous adversary. The PCs must treat him carefully, for Fuilcwian is an example of a unaligned or "neutral" character whose loyalties are unclear or unpredictable.

Fuilcwian is a grizzly Northman herder (and 4th lvl Scout). Once a loner who hunted and herded in the southern Coldfells, he is now a somewhat prosperous shepherd. He resides with his son, his brother Frecwian, Frecwian's son, and three Dunnish women at Benhuis, a somewhat restored hall in an abandoned Dunlending hillfort (see M-6.2).

Fuilcwian grew up in the same hamlet in northern Rhudaur as Cigfa Bairg and the two played together as children. They were only separated when a party of Angmarim (men from Angmar) attacked the settlement. While Cigfa was injured and lost her parents in the fray, Fuilcwian escaped unscathed, for it later turned out that Fuilcwian's father Batis was the traitor that betrayed the hamlet's trust. Cigfa has never forgiven any of Fuilcwian's family for Batis' misdeeds. On the other hand Fuilcwian and Frecwian hold Cigfa responsible for Batis' recent death. (Batis was hung at Cameth Brin two months ago after being reported to a local Dunadan Ranger.)

Fuilcwian is a typical Eriadoran Northman: rugged, physical, quiet, and proud. His pale blue eyes, fair skin, long blond hair, and healthy beard enhance the image of a tough but noble frontiersman. Standing 6'6" and never without his stout (+15) broadsword, he belies the image of the timid shepherd. Of course, much of Fuilcwian's family herd has been acquired by raiding for, like Malm, Fuilcwian is an accomplished rustler.

Because of his years in the Coldfells, the Northman herder knows much of the Fell-land. he has often camped on the trail near Long Fell and, more than once, has heard the nocturnal cries of the loons on Low Lake. Those were solitary days, brightened by songs and tales spun by passing campfire bards. One such story spoke of a lost pool and, even now, Fuilcwian recalls how he sat staring at the moon, wondering if the loons had found the mere. It was a question he never pursued, since he never knew the legend of the Low Road Bandits or of Talin's Treasure.

This is the greatest irony in the herder's story. Fuilcwian even has a key to the vault that holds Talin's Treasure, a key that Cigfa remembers from their youth (see M-6.2 at #5e). But as greedy as Fuilcwian is, he remains oblivious to the clues he alone holds.

GM NOTE: Should Fuilcwian ever discover the connection between the treasure and the lost lake, he will undoubtedly act to recover the hoard. He will gather the sons and brother and set out, making the PCs' effort nearly insurmountable. So, the PCs must take care to seek him out without revealing their cause or remarking about their affiliation with Cigfa. They neither want to enrage Fuilcwian nor create a new rival for the treasure.

M-6 THE SITES

The Loons of the Long Fell revolves around three specific sites: (1) the Last Inn; (2) Malm's House; and (3) the complex at Low Lake by Long Fell.

DESIGN NOTE: Since this is a self-contained adventure, there is a definable starting point and destination. The sites in between are predictable, since the PCs are permitted relatively little flexibility. In a more normal scenario, the GM may know the PCs' objective, but it may be difficult to predict their route, and therefore the adventure sites along the way. This forces the GM to rough out a variety of places, providing the most probable adventure sites with the most detail. Of course, the GM can also use standardized designs for certain sites, or he can simply "roll with the flow."

The Party's Route

This adventure takes place along a route which runs east and then northeast through central Rhudaur in Eriador. (See the Route Map below.) It begins at the Last Inn along the Great East Road, just east of the Last Bridge which spans the river Mitheithel (S. "Hoaruell"). From there, the PCs journey to Malm Bairg's house, fifty miles east along the Great East Road. After leaving Malm's home, the party turns from the highway and takes the old road northeast through the Trollshaws region. They will take the right fork where the road splits forty miles to the north, avoiding the huge citadel at Teregost.

Long Fell is just north of the trail and lies one hundred miles east of Teregost. It is ten days travel by foot from the Last Inn. The cliff itself overlooks the upper portion of the river Bruinen; Low Lake rests beneath the ground along its southern edge.

M-6.1 THE LAST INN

Rhudaür is a poor and dangerous land. Overrun by the Witch-king of Angmar in 1409 of the Third Age, its rugged and heavily-wooded highlands were all but depopulated long ago. Now, it is a wild territory. Few vestiges of the old Dúnedain Kingdom remain, one of the most notable being the Last Inn by the Last Bridge.

The Last Inn is a relatively modest stone haven which forms the easternmost way-station along the once-busy Great East Road. It is the refuge of travelers, hunters, herders, and adventurers living in, or journeying through, Rhudaür. Without any competition from towns or villages, the inn serves as the focus for local commerce and culture.

A two-story main building with an attached shop and stables comprises the U-shaped inn complex. It surrounds a grassy courtyard, where the well-shaded well sits in a placid, comfortable setting. The main door faces away from this verdant court and looks out on the Great East Road.

Aside from the outbuilding, the first floor of the inn contains accommodations for the innkeeper's family, as well as a kitchen, a tavern, a private room, a public room, and two curtained booths. Two large communal guest halls and four well-heated private rooms compose the upstairs. Thick carpets and tapestries, heavy wood beams, and reddish stone lend the place a warm air.

A half-dozen to a dozen patrons lodge at the Last Inn at any given time. Some are traveling merchants or adventurers, while others are locals: hunters, trappers, herders, and the like. All enjoy the unprying hospitality of the cheery, forthright Grumm family. Together with their two sons (Leddon and Puil) and three daughters (Minna, Bannie, and Gleeffa), Rubb Grumm and his wife Bura run a comfortable and efficient establishment.

GM NOTE: While the inn normally has a varied and rather random collection of lodgers, the mix is set for this scenario. The crippled Bard Cigfa Bairg occupies one private room. Another room is taken by a hunter called Matholuich, a fellow who can help the PC's with any directions or travelling tips they might require. A family of four resides in one of the communal guest halls upstairs. Led by the eldest son Arald, a merchant from the Anduin Valley, they generally keep to themselves. The only other visitor is a herder named Gronu. Gronu has a private room and spends his evenings in the tavern keeping watch on Cigfa. Malm Bairg pays him for this vigil, hoping to discover the old woman's plans with regard to the treasure. (Malm awaits word in his camp nearby.)

The Layout of the Last Inn

- 1. Stables. The stable complex includes nine horse stalls, a grain store, and a small smithy.
- 2. Shops. Here the two Grumm sons handle most of the inn's repair work. The shops include a carpenter's shop, a cobbler's bench, a milling wheel, a leatherworking table, and tool store.
- 3. General storage.
- 4. Kitchen. The large kitchen is suited to preparation of meals for up to thirty people.
- 5. Tavern. This cozy nook is the haunt of locals looking for a bit of gossip and drink. Besides the inn's guests, there are between one and six local folk here every evening until the eve-hour before midnight (11:00 p.m.).
- 6. Public Room. The main door opens into the public room, which is heated by a large stone hearth (that shares the chimney with a counterpart in the kitchen). A bar dominates one wall. Four small tables, two square and two round, permit quiet dining. A larger table seats parties of up to twelve.
- 7. Private Booths. Curtains shield these alcoves from the public room.

8. Downstairs Hallway. This passage connects the public room with the stairwell and an exit to the courtyard. The private room and the innkeeper's quarters open onto the hallway.

9. Stairwell.

10. Upstairs Hallway. This hall opens onto four private guest rooms, two larger common halls, and a balcony.

11. Common Halls. These two large, informal chambers provide lodgings for the less discriminating patrons.

12. Private Guest Rooms. These four rooms accommodate one to four guests. Two have hearths.

GM NOTE: For more on the Last Inn, see the adventure in Part III of the MERP rules book.

M-6.2 FUILCWIAN'S HOUSE

GM NOTE: The PCs may wish to travel from the Last Inn to Long Fell by way of the herder Fuilcwian's house. Fuilcwian was a childhood friend of Cigfa Bairg and, although the Bard and the herder now hate one another, Cigfa knows that Fuilcwian might help the PCs. After all, Fuilcwian once lived in the southern Coldfells, in the area where the Low Road Bandits supposedly lived. Fuilcwian also unwittingly possesses a key (see #6e below) to the vault which holds Talin's Treasures. (See M-5.4 for more regarding Fuilcwian.)

Fuilcwian the Herder resides at Benhuis, a partially restored stone hall set in the center of an abandoned Dunnish hillfort. Two concentric earthen walls surround the upper portions of the terraced hill, the only remnants of what was once a formidable fortress. The Elves called the site Caras na Teregnen, the "(Hill) City by the Trollwater," since it was built upon a steep height beside one of the two largest rivers born in the Trollshaws. Lying only a few miles south of the Great East Road (and only four miles north of Malm Bairg's tower), the town once commanded two great avenues of trade. Today, Men shy away from the grass hill, for it is considered a haunted place.

Fuilcwian and his compatriots are happy to hide behind the mystique that shrouds their home. Few dare to venture close enough to bother them, and those that do are easily fooled or dispatched. Fuilcwian's chief chore is keeping his small herd of sheep and cattle from roaming out of the enclave atop the hillfort. Smoke from the cooking fires is minimized by using the proper mix of dry wood, and a blue dye is added to give it an otherworldly tone.

GM NOTE: Note the family's concern for remaining hidden. A simple clue like smoke from a fire can betray one's presence and location. This applies to adventurers on move, and a party of PCs should take care with every detail of their daily routine. Since this is a starting adventure, the GM might not need to be as vigorous as usual with respect to the PCs' oversights; however, it helps to point out the necessity of remaining aware of the repercussions of every action. Even seemingly innocuous activities can lead to dangerous results. So, if you can, get the PCs to establish a well-conceived daily routine which they use unless otherwise modified.

An average day at Benhuis involves a bit of herding and thievery and ends with a simple feast. The seven residents — Fuilcwian and his son Arcwian, Arcwian's wife Boeda, Fuilcwian's brother Frecwian, Frecwian's son Nels and his wife Coedfa, and a servant girl named Cimra — share a relatively easy life. Fuilcwian or Frecwian take turns tending the sheep and leading the boys on nocturnal raids, while the volatile Boeda oversees the three cows. Coedfa manages the household with the aid of young Cimra.

Every fourth week (except during winter) everyone but Fuilcwian drives the small herd downriver to a secluded glen by the River Bruinen, the old family homesite. There, they fish, picnic, and meet with other close family members. Fuilcwian tired of these affairs long ago, so he remains at Benhuis and guards the belongings of his brood.

GM NOTE: The periodic departure of most of Fuilcwian's group allows the PCs to journey to Benhuis and face only one NPC. Using proper timing, the PCs can meet Fuilcwian while he is alone. This should be no problem, since the start of the adventure corresponds with the monthly gathering of Fuilcwian's kin. In a normal scenario, however, the GM might set the schedule well ahead of time, so that the PCs must investigate the routine at Benhuis (or rely on luck) in order to avoid encountering most or all of the site's seven residents.

The Layout of Fuilcwian's House

1. Main trail. This ancient road connects the Bruinen Valley to the south with the Great East Road and, ultimately, the town of Cameth Brin. It was once a busy trade route, but now it is a seldom-used trail.

2. Teregnen (Trollwater) Ford. The swiftly-moving waters of the stream make crossings treacherous. Even the ford is dangerous. A fall in the rocky stream will result in the victim taking 1-10 hits plus a +25 (Large) attack on the Grappling and Unbalancing Attack Table (AT-6). If the PCs use the ford, it is a hard maneuver on the Moving Maneuver Table (MT-1). Should the PCs cross elsewhere, they must make an extremely hard maneuver. The ford itself is difficult to discern, so the PCs will need to roll a hard (-10) perception roll on the Static Maneuver Table (MT-2) in order to spot the proper crossing point.

3. Fuilcwian's Hill. This commanding height is terraced and occupied by the remains of a Dunnish hillfort. A dry moat surrounds the bottom of the hill. Another moat circles the hill about halfway up the side. A high earthen wall lies in between the moats. At the top of the hill, above the second moat, another earth-wall rises. It served as the defenders' final defense. Both walls were once crowned with wooden palisades.

4. Gate maze. The southward-facing gate is the only entry to the hillfort. Here, the trail switches back and forth up the hillside.

5. Summit common (Fuilcwian's pasture). This oval field covers the hill's summit and now serves as a pasture for Fuilcwian's sheep and cows. It once served as the townsite for the hillfort's Dunlending residents.

6. Benhuis (Fuilcwian's house). This rude stone complex once served as the fine lodging for a Dunlending Chieftain and his retainers. It is only partially restored, but it remains quite comfortable. A description of its chambers follows:

a. Main hall. This 20'x20' chamber is no longer roofed. It once served as an entry hall and greeting area for the Chieftain, but it is now simply a courtyard where the horses are stabled.

b. Great Hall. This 20'x40' chamber is the main dining and entertaining area. The wooden balconies that once encircled the upper walls have rotted away. Two great unlocked oak doors guard the entry. A wolf-shaped door knocker decorates each side of each one. They serve as a means of controlling intruders. Unless either one is pulled, a pair of stones covering the 6'x6' area in front of the door fall away, revealing a 30' pit. The stones are hinged on a counterweighted spring mechanism, so they swing back up to their original position (and reset) after depositing the victim(s) in the pit trap. Victims receive a +30 (Medium) Fall/Crush attack (see Table CST-2). In order to spot the trap, the PC must make a medium (+0) roll on the Static Maneuver Table (MT-2). Disarming the trap is a hard (-10) maneuver.

GM NOTE: PCs must use the door knocker or brave the trap before entering the Great Hall, unless Fuilcwian himself opens the door from within. In order to negotiate the trap, the PCs must first spot the mechanism using a Perception roll or by setting it off. Then, they must either disarm or bridge the trap, assuming they have not figured out that a soft pull on the door knocker will do fine. Note that the trap only goes off when the door moves, so a victim successfully opening the door far enough before falling will permit others to pass unscathed (since the trap resets and the door doesn't need to be moved any more).

c. Kitchen. A pair of crude cooking chimneys dominate the 15'x15' room. The nook in the far corner houses a deep well, which is protected by a rusty wood and bronze door.

d. Privies. Two stone shafts still serve the residents.

e. Fuilcwian's room. Once the Chieftain's Hall, this 15'x15' chamber now houses Fuilcwian Bed and his collection of booty. Fuilcwian has a chest filled with coins (30 gold pieces and 1000 silver pieces) and jewels (ten jewels worth about 10 gold pieces apiece). A pair of boxes lie underneath his great oak bed. One holds an enchanted black iron Ring (a +2 Channeling spell adder), the other a +15 Long Bow. A rusty key lies under the silk that caresses the bow.

FULCWAIN'S HOUSE (BENHUIS)

GM NOTE: Apparently unimportant, this key is actually one of the three keys capable of unlocking the door to the vault that holds Talin's Treasure. (See #7 in M-6.3.) The PCs might remember that, if an item is relatively light, it might be worth taking along. Another key of this type is in the possession of Taim Loech (see M-5.3 and M-6.3).

f. Frecwian's room. Frecwian lives in what was once an armory. The 15'x15' room has walls covered by rich tapestries and is the most comfortable chamber in the house, except for its lack of windows. Frecwian's treasure is stored in a secret 5'x5'x5' nook behind the bed's headboard. It is Very Hard (-20) to perceive (use Table MT-2), and is reached by sliding the bed to the side. It contains a bag containing 25 gold pieces, a bundle holding three gems (each worth 20 gold pieces), and a box which holds a necklace worth 50 gold pieces.

g. Arcwian's room. Arcwian and his wife Boeda occupy this 15'x10' room. They never leave any valuables here, since even Arcwian distrusts Frecwian and Fuilcwian.

h. Nels' room. The 15'x10' chamber is home to Nels and his wife Coedfa. Their recently deceased dog Nydlanga slept in the hollow in the outside wall, guarding the secret entry/escape route. The hollow is Easy (+20) to see from the inside, but Extremely Hard (-30) to spot from the outside (use Perception rolls on Table MT-2).

i. Cimra's room. Here the servant girl normally lives in misery. It was once a roof cellar.

M-6.3 THE LOW LAKE BY LONG FELL

DESIGN NOTE: Low Lake is obviously the PCs' ultimate goal. Combined with Long Fell, the underground mere is a spectacular spot. Its design uses natural features to create a sense of wonder and grandeur, emphasizing that effective fantasy creations are often simply modifications of nature's own gifts. This makes a setting all the "understandable," enabling the players to relate to the place and therefore suspend their disbelief.

Long Fell

The key to finding Low Lake is, of course, Long Fell, a sheer grey escarpment which overlooks the River Bruinen about forty miles northeast of Rivendell. It is an imposing height. What appears to be a three hundred foot cliff, however, is actually even higher, for the Fell rises five hundred feet from its true base by Low Lake. The lower two hundred foot section of the wall reaches into the cavern that lies along its southwestern side and is obscured by the surrounding terrain (see the Long Fell cross-section). Only a shrub-shrouded, six-foot wide opening along the cliff's edge provides a link between the upper and lower portions of the Fell. This crevasse serves as the principal entry into Low Lake Cavern. (For more on the ways into the cavern, see Section M-4.3.) The sound of Loon-calls echoes through the crack each evening, betraying the presence of still, freshwater below. These birds can be heard a mile away.

A trail runs along the base of the Long Fell and crosses southward over the River Bruinen at a nearby ford. Just before this trail cuts south and away from the flank of the Fell, the Fell Stair appears, like a diagonal scar knifing across the cliff face. Most wanderers see the staircase as nothing more than a great crack in the grey granite and give it little notice. It is here, however, that those in search of the Low Lake should leave the road and head toward the spot where the staircase appears to meet the base of the escarpment.

1. The Fell. The cliff is a five hundred foot high granite face rising from the shore of Low Lake and culminating at the top of an outcropping called Fell's Brow.

2. The Fell Stair. Beginning behind Fell's Brow, this two foot wide staircase cuts diagonally across the cliff face. Once it reaches the mouth of Low Lake Cavern, the staircase descends in a series of winding switchbacks. The base of the stairs is on a rocky beach beside the underground pool. It is a hard (-10) maneuver to stay on the stairs under good conditions. When it is stormy or too dark, travel on the steps is extremely hard (-30).

3. Cavern mouth. A six foot wide opening runs for about three hundred feet, along the line where the Long Fell would normally merge with the surrounding landscape. The Fell, of course, descends another two hundred feet below the cavern mouth.

4. Taim Loech's cave. Taim Loech and his Wild Boar Muc (see M-5.3) live in this 16' deep, 8' wide, 8' tall cave. This cave's opening is located just above ground level but it is concealed by a tree which grows out of the side of Long Fell, making it hard (-10) to perceive. Taim's cave overlooks the point where the Fell Stair descends into Low Lake Cavern through the cavern mouth. Since the crevasse which serves as mouth to Low Lake Cavern is only two feet wide where it passes Taim's cave, Taim and Muc can cross the mouth with a short jump (the fall, of course, is only two hundred feet).

GM NOTE: Taim or Muc are on watch 75% of the time on roll of 01-75). Should they be alerted to the PCs' presence they will wait in ambush, attacking when the PCs start down the Fell Stair. (See M-8.2 for more on encounters with Taim.)

Low Lake

Any descent into Low Lake Cavern is treacherous. Steep and only averaging two feet in width, the Fell Stair is a dangerous construct. It should never be taken lightly, but it is the only way down, short of a drop along a rope or a dive through mid air.

The Low Lake is a clear, deep pool shaped like a seven-pointed star. But for the island at its center and a pair of rocky shelves that serve as the lower landings of the stairways that enter the chamber, the lake occupies the whole of the cavern that bears its name. Hundreds of graceful loons tread the water and, at night, turn the chamber into a choral hall.

The cave has a two hundred foot high ceiling and measures about four hundred across at its widest point. Rich deposits of colorful minerals and copper-bearing rock lend it an air of enchantment.

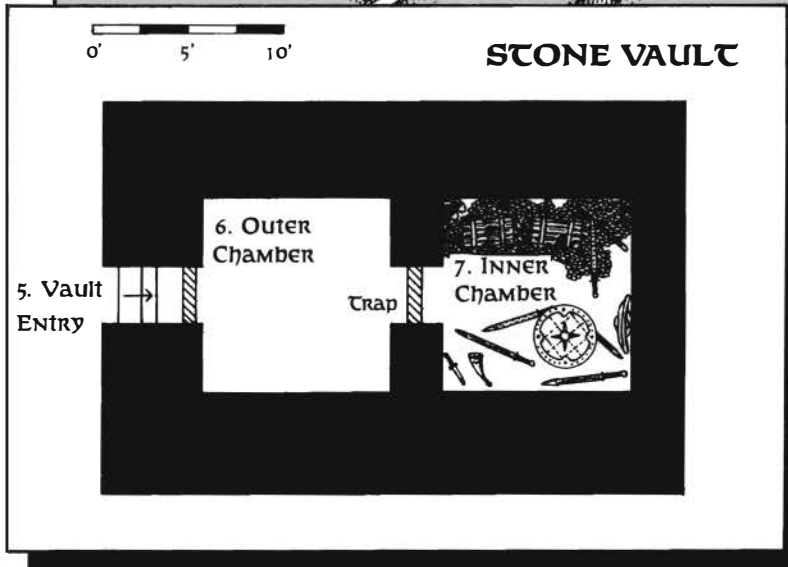

1. The Low Lake. Varying between four feet and six hundred feet deep, the Low Lake is an ancient pool. A great spring and rainfall drained from the Long Fell constantly replenish its reservoir. Its waters are cold and full of minerals and, because of its movement, quite safe to drink.

2. Dwarven trap. Constructed by the Petty-dwarves long ago, this trap guards the base of the Fell Stair. It is very hard (-20) to perceive and hard (-10) to disarm. (Consult Table MT-2 in the MERP rules book.)

Trap — The mechanism uses a steel spring which triggers a group of fourteen spikes. Anyone placing more than 49 lbs of weight on any of the last seven steps of the Fell Stair will set off the trap. The step will recede three inches and a stone wall panel will slide downward, sending the spikes out of the wall. Those victims caught on the stairs receive one to three +70 spear attacks.

The trap-spring resets after being triggered, for the act of setting off the trap opens a water shoot. When the water enters the shoot under pressure, it turns a water-wheel which moves a series of cogs and restores the spring mechanism to a ready position.

DESIGN NOTE: This trap is based on a practical, working mechanism. By constructing and describing the manner in which a trap operates, you give the PCs a feeling of realism and provide them with a puzzle to solve (assuming they make the necessary roll). For instance, in this case the players can set up a rope which bypasses the last seven stairs, or they can try to jam the steps or the wall panel. Such a trial adds a lot of flavor to the game. Remember that the complexity of a trap should reflect the skill of its builders and the gravity of its mission. Traps that guard great treasures are generally the toughest. Also note that traps which are continually ready need to be reset.

3. Submerged walkway. This 50' long, flattened stone ridge serves as the accessway to the islet where stone vault which holds the treasure lies. Since it lies a few inches below the surface of the water, it is hard (-10) to perceive and requires a medium maneuver to cross.

4. Islet. A 30' long, 20' wide, 10' tall stone vault occupies much of the 40' diameter islet. Aside from a cairn made of giant turtle bones, it is the only structure on the islet.

5. Vault entry. The entry to the vault is barred by a steel door. Two stairs descend to the door, an opening which is only 5' high and 3' wide. The door is locked and hard (-10) to open. (Use Table MT-2 in the MERP rules book.) Of course a key obtained from either Fuilcwian or Taim Loech will unlock it. One raises the door using a handle set near the base. A lever connected to the top of the door, but hidden in the wall, connects the door to the trap mechanism in the outer chamber. (See #6 below.) This lever is impossible to remove without boring into the wall. Beyond the door is a circular stone stairway which descends into a 10'x10' room, the Outer Chamber of the vault.

6. Outer Chamber. Rows of holes adorn the walls of this 10'x10' room. Aside from the stairwell entry, the only exit is a steel door set in the opposite wall. This door lifts open and provides access into the Inner Chamber. Although it is not initially locked, the door is trapped.

Trap — The trap is medium (+0) to perceive, but extremely hard (-30) to disarm. (Again, use Table MT-2 in the MERP rules book.) If the door is opened more than 3' without the trap being disarmed, a series of levers set in the wall open a set of doors which permit the waters of the Low Lake to spill through the holes in the walls of the Outer Chamber. Water pressure forces the door to fall, reshut, and lock; and it also closes and locks the door at the vault entry. (See #5.) Victims trapped in the room find that the chamber fills in only 12 rds (2 minutes). If they do not escape soon, they drown. Escape is accomplished by opening either door out of the chamber, both of which are locked and very hard (-20) to open from the inside (Unlocking the door while swimming is a maneuver modified by -100 + character's swimming skill bonus.) As noted above, key obtained from either Fuilcwian or Taim Loech will open the entry door.

7. Inner Chamber. The Inner Chamber is a 10'x10' room with a 10' ceiling. Within it, strewn all over the floor, is Talin's Treasure. It is the legacy of the Low Road Brigands.

Talin's Treasure:

- 1,000 silver pieces, in piles amidst the remains of two decayed chests;
- 50 gold pieces, scattered about;
- one pendant worth 10 gold pieces, in a bag of black silk adorned with a seven-pointed star sewn with silvery thread;
- ten gems, each worth 2 gold pieces;
- six +5 broadswords;
- two +10 shields;
- one magic +5 dagger which returns to hand of user one round after being thrown;
- one quarterstaff, a x3 PP spell multiplier;
- a pair of Boots of Passing (fit any size), which leave no footprints;
- a suit of +10 plate armor;
- a suit of magic +10 chain mail which is +20 versus missile weapon attacks.
- a Helm of Night-sight (fits any size), which enables the wearer to see in moonlight (that is, outside and when the moon is up) as if it was a cloudy day; and
- the Kine's Horn, a magic white ox-horn inlaid with silver. It is a x4 PP (Essence) spell multiplier which gives the wielder a +20 bonus when casting any Bard spells. The horn has two mouthpieces, each keyed to one of the Horn's two powers. Unfortunately, the Horn can be blown only 2 times per day. When blown on the left side, all friends within a 100' radius add +25 to their OB and DB for the next six rounds. When blown through the right mouthpiece, the Horn makes no noise, but it will summon any one person within a ten mile range who the user knows to be present (within the range).

8. The Low Road. This stairway leads up to a door and a passageway exit, the northern terminus of the ancient Low Road. The Low Road runs underground for nearly one hundred miles but is now collapsed at the southern end. (At the GM's discretion, it may be blocked along the way as well.) Those entering the passage are in for a rude surprise.

9. Waterfall. Here, the Low Lake empties into an underground stream. The stream meets the River Bruinen after a southward journey of some two miles.

M-7 THE TASK

The Loons of the Long Fell adventure revolves around one quest: to discover the location of Low Lake and to recover Talin's Treasure — in particular, the Kine's Horn. It is not an easy task, but the PCs will find that few worthwhile accomplishments come easily.

M-7.1 STARTING THE PLAYERS

This adventure begins with the PCs' separate arrivals at the Last Inn. There, they settle in before encountering the mistress of their venture, the Bard Cigfa Bairg. Cigfa will meet with each PC separately in a private booth adjoining the inn's Public Room (see M-6.1 at #7). After speaking with them individually and insuring herself of their relative loyalty to her cause, she will gather them together by the hearth in her private guest room upstairs. She will then offer each 5 gold pieces to solidify their commitment and help equip them for their journey.

The PCs should get to know one another if they have not already met by this time. Cigfa will see to it that there is some cohesion. Her plan calls for duping the party, but she still desires competent and capable pawns. Any divisiveness will doom her strategy.

The First Step: The Trip to Benhuis

Cigfa will call for warm, spiced wine, herb tea, and cakes before outlining the plan over a small feast. She suggests that they seek her enemy Fuilcwian at Benhuis, acquiring the herder's key in the process. (Cigfa also wants some knowledge about Fuilcwian's home and his raiding operation, but she will not tell the PCs for fear that they might realize her great concern about her foe.)

So first, the PCs will travel to Benhuis and see the shepherd Fuilcwian. Their mission will be to learn as much as they can about the lay of the land in the southern Coldfells, deriving what they can about clues to the location of the Low Road and Talin's hold at Low Lake. In addition, by buying or stealing the key without raising suspicions, the PCs will have a significant start. But, they must accomplish this side mission without mentioning Cigfa or upsetting Fuilcwian.

The Second Step: The Journey to Low Lake

From Benhuis, the PCs will head toward the Coldfells. Cigfa will tell them all she can about the tale (see M-4.1 and M-4.2) and give them a copy of the poem and something resembling an accurate map. But beyond that, the Bard will be of little help. It is up to the PCs to discover the specific location of their destination and achieve their goal.

The Third Step: The Return

Cigfa will note that the Low Road's southern end has collapsed and that any return via the underground tunnel will be precarious at best. This is an important warning, for her word is true and, should the PCs ignore it, they might be trapped in the bowels of the ancient hall hewn by the Petty-dwarves. She may care little for the PCs, but she is very concerned about the fate of the Kine's Horn.

M-7.2 AIDS

Aside from the poem and legends, Cigfa's rough regional map serves as the primary aid. (See "Cigfa's Map.") It shows the route eastward to Fuilcwian's residence at Benhuis, as well as the major trails into the Trollshaws and Coldfells to the north.

Fuilcwian can provide more detailed information. If the PCs keep him friendly, he might even draw them a map (see "Fuilcwian's map"), but the party better have a good reason for needing his help — a rationale that does not excite Fuilcwian's own greedy tendencies. For instance, they might be looking for a lost friend, or they might claim that they plan to start a mine.

Obtaining Fuilcwian's key is even trickier. Theft is one possibility, but it must not be detected, lest it alarm the dangerous herder and his kin. Alternatively, the PCs can purchase the key; however, again the party must have a story supporting its plan. Such an excuse might assert that they are looking for key meeting a certain description (e.g., "a rusty key about six inches long which is engraved with a Dwarven symbol"), one which opens a keep door or a mine entry. Showing care not to offer too much or too little, the PCs then might volunteer a few silver pieces for knowledge of such an item, or a gold piece or two for actual possession of the key.

Further aids are few. Most are in the possession of the party's adversaries — Malm and Taim — neither of which will offer aid under any circumstance. Acquisition of these items, such as Taim's key and map, depend on the PCs' ability to vanquish their foes.

M-7.3 OBSTACLES

The obstacles confronting the PCs are tough, but by no means, overwhelming. Since the usually active and dangerous beasts of Rhudaur's Trollshaws and Coldfells are not involved, the primary problems revolve around the terrain, the traps, and two NPCs.

The Terrain

Rhudaur is a rough land, particularly the area north of the Great East Road. Cliffs and rocky hills cover the landscape; forests and fens fill almost every hillside and hollow. Even simple travel plans can unravel in this wild locale.

For purposes of this adventure, it is suggested that moving maneuver rolls only be made when the PCs actively challenge a cliff or stream, such as in the case of the Trollwater Ford near Fuilcwian's house or the Fell Stair out into the Long Fell. These trials provide sufficient excitement for beginning PCs and might even best someone. Additional maneuvers involving terrain are suggested only when the PCs actively tackle a significant obstacle (e.g., they leave the trail in order to scale a spire of rock because "it looks intriguing").

The Traps

Traps may be the roughest foes the PCs face. The door into the Great Hall at Fuilcwian's house (see M-6.2 at #6b) is the first of these deadly mechanisms, but it can be avoided altogether by a party choosing to simply knock on the door.

The traps at the Long Fell (see M-6.3 at #2) and in the vault on the Low Lake (see M-6.3 at #6) are less forgiving. Both can be deadly. If perceived, however, the first trap can be bypassed by avoiding the lower steps of the Fell — a relatively simple operation. The second trap can be overcome with a good disarming roll or, even if it is set off, with one of the vault keys obtained from Fuilcwian or Taim.

The NPCs

PCs generally have less control over NPCs than they do over the terrain or traps. Like the weather, NPCs are capricious. Unlike the weather, which has been omitted as a factor in this beginning scenario, the NPCs present real problems for the party. Malm hopes to shadow them at every turn and attack when they have penetrated the vault and are at their weakest moment. Taim seeks to ambush any intruders. Taim's Boar Muc makes him even more dangerous, particularly on the precarious steps of the Fell Stair.

Then there is Fuilcwian (see M-5.4), the one NPC that the PCs can influence. He and his kin can quickly defeat the party if aroused and readied although, like any NPC, he can be overcome if alone and attacked by a coordinated group. Fuilcwian's strength is such that, even if he is quickly slain, he might significantly weaken the adventuring group. Every challenge undertaken stands a chance of hurting the PCs.

M-7.4 THE REWARDS

Cigfa offers the PCs all of Talin's Treasure (see M-6.3 at #7), save the Kine's Horn. This is a considerable fortune for young adventurers. In addition, the Bard is willing to 5 gold pieces apiece as an advance against expenses. This is quite generous.

Other treasure lies at Benhuis (see M-6.2 at #6e and #6f). By overcoming or robbing Fuilcwian and his brother Frecwian, the PCs can acquire even more booty. Some PCs might even seek to doublecross Cigfa and keep the Kine's Horn, risking retribution at some future date. The question of greed versus risk will dictate the success or failure of the group.

M-8 THE ENCOUNTERS

GM NOTE: In a typical scenario, the GM might roll to determine random encounters, using a chart set up for the particular setting or the MERP Encounter Table (Table ST-10). In such a case, the PCs would make one roll (the "avoidance roll") while GM rolls an "activity roll." By adding appropriate modifiers and comparing the difference between the two results, the GM can determine whether the PCs encounter beasts or NPCs.

Only three encounters affect this adventure and all involve the PCs meeting one of the NPCs. The following notes show how the NPCs might react under certain specific circumstances.

M-8.1 ENCOUNTERS WITH FUILCWIAN

As noted, Fuilcwian the herder is a mercenary sort of fellow. Opportunistic and skilled in the arts of thievery, he is not above mayhem or murder. It is best to meet him when he is alone.

Any encounter with the herder will seem awkward. Fuilcwian always bears his deadly broadsword and will keep it drawn and ready until he is comfortable. Should anyone make an overt move which seems dangerous, Fuilcwian will make an example of the poor sot. Even if no one makes such a move, however, he will remain suspicious of their motives, so care is suggested.

If Fuilcwian survives a fight with the PCs or discovers something missing after they have left, he will seek to exact revenge. This will mean gathering his brother and sons for a hunt or, should they be gone, leaving a note before departing on trail.

M-8.2 ENCOUNTERS WITH MALM

Encounters with Malm will occur in two ways; the PCs will either spot the Dunnish warrior as he stalks them, or Malm will surprise them after they secure Talin's Treasure.

Should Malm be discovered, he will weigh the situation. He might act nonchalant and attempt to "act" his way out of the situation. For instance, Malm might claim that recent lootings near his home led him to watch the party as they travelled through the area, or he might pretend to be a warder who seeks poachers. Malm will only flee if he is sure his ruse has failed, and he will not fight unless cornered.

In the rare case where he must run, Malm might employ his Boots of Leaping to get a head start. He can jump quickly and unpredictably, foiling most pursuers. Unfortunately, he can only use this power twice a day, so the warrior will be judicious about resorting to such a tactic.

Malm also likes to use surprise in a melee. While his composite bow is safer, his invisible short sword often enables him to strike opponents before they even know he is armed. Once he swings the blade, though, it becomes visible, and Malm is careful to make the initial blow count. If Malm can trap a foe and ambush him, he might choose his bow, but generally he prefers his sword.

M-8.3 ENCOUNTERS WITH TAIM

Taim has the luxury of largely controlling his position. Accompanied by his Boar Muc, he can keep watch over the entry to Low Lake Cavern most of the time. His Ranger skills make him a vigilant and formidable foe.

Taim likes to keep hidden until his prey is vulnerable, ideally somewhere on the Fell Stair. This gives him a set target who cannot safely flee. The Ranger knows that escape down the stairs is obstructed by the Dwarven spike-trap, and that flight up the steps might be all but insane. Using Muc to hold the top of the Fell Stair, he employs his fine Long Bow to rain arrows on his unfortunate adversaries.

Since Taim often plays his flute (10% of the time, roll 91-100), methodical PCs might discover his presence. This is particularly true of a party that waits and observes the Long Fell area before attempting to descend into the cavern. By discovering Taim, the PCs have an enormous opportunity to avoid an embarrassing and possibly fatal ambush.

If confronted, Taim will resort to using his hand axe, retreating into his cave or taking the Fell Stair up the cliff. Muc will cover his retreat and, should Taim be injured or killed, the Wild Boar will turn on his master's enemy with a frightening vengeance. Muc will gore anyone he perceives to be a danger to the Ranger.

Remember that Taim knows all about the Low Lake Cavern and the vault. Utilizing his knowledge about the traps and safe routes, as well as his key, he can skillfully outmaneuver all but the cleverest of PCs, thereby providing the party a considerable challenge.

MERP CARDBOARD CHARACTER AND DISPLAY GUIDELINES —

THE CARDBOARD CHARACTERS

The cardboard characters are printed in full color on heavy, coated cardboard. When cut out, folded and placed in the plastic stands, they provide individual figures for the non-player characters (NPC's) and blank figures which can be personalized for each of the player characters. The NPC figures have their professions, hits, levels, armor, and some of the more important bonuses printed on the back. The character's name is printed on the front, and his race/subgroup and home locale are color-coded. This same information may be placed on the blank character figures.

NOTE: Small metal figures called miniatures are also available to represent characters and creatures. Miniatures can be painted and individualized to provide a very useful mechanism for representing participants in a Fantasy Role Playing environment. A fine range of Middle-earth miniatures from Grenadier Models and Citadel Miniatures Limited is available at most hobby and game stores.

If the Gamemaster and players wish to use miniatures (small statues of various creatures and characters) as markers, they can cut out the information on the back of the cardboard characters and tape or paste it to the bottom of the miniatures. Other types of markers such as chess pieces can be used in a similar manner.

KEY FOR INFORMATION ON CARDBOARD CHARACTERS

Equipment —

N = None; SL = Soft Leather; RL = Rigid Leather; CH = Chain; PL = Plate; H = Helm; LG = Leg Greaves; AG = Arm Greaves; G = Both Arm and Leg Greaves; S = Shield; — = No equipment of that type.

Weapon: — Each character is depicted with his primary weapon and armor.

L: — The character's level.

— The character's profession.

H- — The number of hits that the character can take.

M&M- — The character's Movement and Maneuver bonus when wearing his primary armor.

DB- — The character's Defensive Bonus including any spells or equipment normally used. Any bonuses included in the DB (such as a shield) which are not always applicable are listed in parentheses after the DB along with a code (e.g., S = Shield, normally a +25 addition to the DB).

OB- — The character's primary Offensive Bonuses (any bonuses not given are usually -25). Each bonus is given followed by a code for the type of bonus. Any special or magic equipment follows in parentheses and is already included in the bonus. The codes for the various types of bonuses follow.

E = 1-Handed Edged	Th = Thrown
C = 1-Handed Concussion	M = Missile
T = 2-Handed	DS = Directed Spells
P = Pole-arms	BS = Base Spells

The codes for the various weapons are given in Table ST-4 in MERP.

DS (Directed Spells) and BS (Base Spells) bonuses are included if applicable.

PP- — The number of power points that the character has. This is only included if the character is a Mage, a Bard, an Animist, or a Ranger.

THE DISPLAYS

This booklet contains larger versions (called displays) of the 13 layouts for the sample game environment in Part III of the MERP rulesbook, as well as generic countryside displays. Each display has a hexgrid (consisting of hexagons) superimposed to aid in resolving movement, but does not include the information or markings included on the smaller layouts. Thus, the players can move their characters on the displays without learning too much about the specifics described in MERP. The Gamemaster can refer to the descriptions and smaller layouts in order to reveal details to the players as they adventure. For example, the smaller layouts have all of the secret passages and doors marked but the displays do not.

The Gamemaster should only reveal to the players the parts of the displays which they have already discovered. To accomplish this the Gamemaster may either cover the undiscovered parts with sheets of paper or he may cut the displays into separate pieces (usually separate rooms or halls) and bring the various pieces into play as they are entered.

The hexagons (hexes) superimposed on the displays can be used to gauge distances and to resolve movement. Each hex represents a 10' distance (or 10' radius area) on interior displays, and 20' on exterior displays. Distances on the displays are a little more than twice the those on the smaller layouts.

The two pages of countryside displays do not have corresponding layouts in MERP. They are used for camping, encounters or battles that take place in the countryside.

The displays are printed in black and white (and greys), but the Gamemaster may use colored pens to make them more realistic (i.e., blue for the streams, green for the trees and bushes, etc.).
